McGovern Considers 8 Possible Partners

Marijuana Will Stay Illegal

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government came out with its long-awaited policy position on cannabis Monday, but the changes aren't as far-reaching as many expected.

The government position is that marijuana and hashish — the drugs from cannabis — are harmful and their use should not be legal. However, criminal prosecution for use is to be reduced and penalties eased by moving all cannabis offences from the Narcotics Act to the Food and Drugs Act.

The changes were announced at a news conference by Health Minister John Munro, who said Criminal Code amendments, which came into effect this month, will make it easier for courts to avoid sentencing cannabis offenders and can help prevent criminal records.

As well, he announced a $3 million budget increase for the directorate on non-medical drug use for more research and education.

Research studies, including those by the commission on non-medical use of drugs under Dean Gerald Le Dain last May, have shown marijuana may have some beneficial effects but that its use should be viewed with concern because of other, harmful effects and little real knowledge about long-term use.

In June, the 24,000-member Canadian Medical Association went on record against the use of cannabis.

But courts already had stopped sentencing first offenders accused of simple possession to jail terms. Mr. Munro told the news conference that probably only 10 persons across the country were in jail because of a first-time conviction for simple possession.

Although the policy changes involve proposals to move cannabis from the Narcotics Act to the Food and Drugs Act, the minister would give no details on these changes. They still would have to go before Parliament, if it sits again before an election.

The effect of the move from one act to another is designed "to distinguish clearly between cannabis and dangerous narcotics such as heroin," the minister said. The new subsection will propose fines rather than sentences for simple possession of cannabis—but amounts have not been determined.

The minister said penalties for other types of cannabis offences, such as trafficking, importing or cultivation, also would be reduced but remain stiff.

Mr. Munro announced that Ronald Draper, 37, former special projects director in the health department's social advancement and services branch, will be the first non-medical man to be head of the drug abuse program.

Eight in Hijacking Group

Hijackers Reach Africa With Million in Ransom

ALGIERS (AP) — A U.S. airliner, taken over by hijackers who obtained $1 million ransom, landed today in Algiers after a 5,000-mile flight from Boston.

American diplomatic officials said the Delta Airlines DC-8 landed safely at Maison Blanche Airport and no one aboard was hurt during the transatlantic flight.

Algerian security men took the 13 adults and three children aboard the plane into the airport for questioning.

It was expected that the plane and crew would be allowed to return to the United States without delay.

Allan Davis, acting head of the American diplomatic mission in Algiers, was on hand when the airliner arrived.

In a similar case two months ago, an American couple hijacked a Western Airlines Boeing 720 to Algiers after collecting a ransom of $500,000. The Algerian government seized the ransom money and returned it to the United States, but a decision on the two hijackers' request for political asylum in Algeria is still pending.

The FBI said three men from Detroit took over the Delta airliner Monday on a flight from Detroit to Miami. The hijackers, reported armed, were accompanied by two women and three children.

The hijackers let the 87 other passengers get off at Miami and took aboard a similar number, including the $1 million ransom, which had been collected from private banks.

With a crew of eight, the DC-8 flew to Boston, landed fuel and food and took aboard an international navigator. Then it flew to Algiers.

The eight passengers, all from Detroit, who remained on the plane were identified by the FBI in Detroit as Harry Burgess, Jean McNair, Yahari and Ayona McNair, both children; Joyce Tillerson, a child named Tanya Tillerson, Melvin McNair, and Harry Singleton.

One passenger who witnessed the hijacking over Florida described the leader of the gang as a "Negro male, dark, about 30, six-foot plus and weighing over 200 pounds."

The witness, Detroit lawyer Samuel C. Gardner, said the man wore a black mohair suit and carried a Bible.

Gardner said, one gun-wielding hijacker threatened to shoot someone if they did not receive $1 million and safe passage to Algeria, a crew member reported.

However, a passenger, Mrs. Raymond Krulcyes of Holland, Mich., said the hijackers all were very well dressed. They were very polite and didn't bother the other passengers at all."

A Splash of Success

Youngsters on Belleville's west side have the city's most modern swimming pool available to them this summer — thanks to co-operative project involving city recreation authorities and Ontario School for the Deaf. The school has made the pool available for community use throughout the summer and daily high attendance of young swimmers has splashed the venture with success. For details, see Page 3.

Running Mate Eagleton Out

WASHINGTON (AP) — The search for a new Democratic vice-presidential candidate centres on eight men following Senator Thomas Eagleton's precedent-setting withdrawal from the ticket.

Unable to convince presidential candidate George McGovern that the issue of Eagleton's history of a psychiatric patient would go away, the Missourie senator stepped down Monday night and cleared the way for McGovern to look for a new running mate in the November general election.

Senator Frank Church of Idaho, former Democratic national committee chairman Lawrence O'Brien and Senator Edmund Muskie of Maine head most speculators' lists of likely replacements for Eagleton who became the first person in U.S. history to give up a major party's nomination for vice-president.

But Florida Gov. Reubin Askew, R. Sargent Shriver, former democratic Peace Corps, and McGovern's close Senate friends, Abraham Ribicoff of Connecticut and Gaylord Nelson of Wisconsin also are major possibilities.

And in Atlanta, Georgia state representative Julian Bond, a leader in the "Blacks for McGovern" campaign, quoted a high-placed McGovern aide as saying Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter is being considered to replace Eagleton.

Carter called the idea ridiculous.

Ribicoff and Nelson say they are too old to give up relatively secure Senate seats to serve as somebody else's vice-president. Askew has said he is not interested.

McGovern's first choice to fill the vacancy may still be Edward Kennedy. The Massachusetts senator has steadfastly disavowed any interest in running for national office this year.

But, following Eagleton's dramatic withdrawal Monday, McGovern could well go Kennedy and argue that his chances have been damaged by the Eagleton affair and only a Kennedy on the ticket could preserve the Democrats' chances of beating President Nixon in November.

McGovern has promised to make his preference known within a few days and conceivably could do it on a television broadcast he has scheduled tonight. However, McGovern aides say he will "talk about the campaign" and not discuss a replacement for Eagleton.

"Hey, Miss Universe? They gotta be kidding!"

Air Canada Cuts Rates In Country

MONTREAL (CP) — Air Canada today announced a revamping of its domestic fare structure with reductions on long-distance routes and increases on short-haul trips except those covered by a new excursion rate.

Yves Pratte, board chairman of the airline, said the revision would reduce the price of air transportation over long-distance domestic routes by more than 30 per cent, making it possible to fly round-trip Montreal to Vancouver on an excursion fare for as little as $183 compared with the current economy fare of $290.

The new fares have been submitted for approval to the Canadian transport commission and would be effective as of Oct. 1.

By comparison, the new economy return fare on the heavy-traffic Montreal-Toronto route would be $64, an increase of $4 over the present economy fare. However, a new excursion fare, based on the same conditions as the long-haul excursions—except that stays of up to a year are provided for—would provide for round trips between the two cities of $51.

Wife Smuggles Guns to Convict

BOSTON (AP) — Walter Elliott, 30, serving a term at Norfolk prison for murder, killed two prison employees, apparently shot himself through the heart and seriously wounded his wife, Katherine, in a six-hour drama Monday.

Prison officials believe Elliott's wife smuggled handguns into the prison.

In the prison's visiting room Elliott pulled out two pistols and ordered others in the room to lie on the floor. The first shots were fired when one of the guards hesitated.

Elliott and his wife then crossed the prison yard and barricaded themselves in a prison dormitory before 150 state policemen arrived equipped with riot gear and tear gas.

They found Elliott dead, a bullet in his heart. His wife was badly wounded. Officials said she apparently was shot in the head by her husband before he took his own life.

Haiphong Raided First Time

SAIGON (AP) — United States Navy jets attacked a shipyard in Haiphong harbor Monday for the first time in the war and left it in flames, the U.S. command announced today.

The target was the Haiphong Shipyard No. 3 on the southwestern edge of North Vietnam's chief port. Pilots from the carrier Saratoga said they left three large fires in the yard which burned and repairs shallow-draft vessels.

The U.S. said "there were no foreign vessels" in the area that was bombed.

Spokesmen said 27 foreign ships are still in Haiphong's deepwater channels, trapped by the U.S. mine field planted May 9. They said these included 10 Soviet ships, four Chinese, two British, two Cuban, three Polish, four Somali and one East German.

News Briefs

Pike Attacks Dog

SUDBURY, England (Reuter) — A 100-pound Alsatian dog went for a swim in a lake near here and became live bait for a hungry 15-pound fish that grabbed its leg and tried to pull it under. The fish, a pike, was still clinging to the dog's leg when its owner pulled it from the water. The pike finally let go.

Kissinger in Paris

WASHINGTON (Reuter)—Presidential adviser Henry Kissinger held a new round of talks with North Vietnamese officials in Paris today to try to break the deadlock on a settlement of the Vietnam war, the White House announced.

Move Wins Time

TORONTO (CP) — Gerald Le Dain, chairman of the federal commission on the non-medical use of drugs, said Monday the federal government's decision to introduce legislation removing cannabis from the Narcotic Control Act will give Ottawa time to see whether its use is a "passing fad." Mr. Le Dain said he would not bet on any legislation being permanent.

Canada Seeks Charter Rules Relaxation

TORONTO (CP) — Canada would like to relax charter plane flight rules by eliminating club membership requirements for passengers by early next year, says Jack Pickersgill, president of the Canadian Air Transport Commission.

"The only fault I can find is that they've waited too long," Mr. Pickersgill said Monday in a telephone interview from Ottawa in commenting on a British proposal to ease the rules by April 1, 1973.

"We'd like to get rid of the affinity (club membership) rule no later than Jan. 1," he said.

Fruit Supplies Vanish As Ships Can't Unload

With the stoppage by 42,000 longshoremen entering its second week and no settlement in sight, merchants said there may be no bananas in the stores by the end of the week.

Dealers in the Covent Garden market said they expected supplies of apples, oranges, lemons, peaches and plums to run out by Thursday or soon afterward.

It was feared that great amounts of perishables would rot in the harbors. Barges of 600 ships made idle by the strike included 40,000 crates of citrus fruit, mainly oranges, 11,000 tons of grapes, 7,000 tons of bananas and 600 tons of Australian apples.

Prime Minister Edward Heath called his cabinet into session today to consider the timing of a declaration of national emergency. It was not thought to be imminent as essential food supplies were still sufficient. But it was believed that if there was no sign within a week of the strike ending, an emergency would be proclaimed so the army could be used to unload food ships.

IRA Denies It Set Bombs

BELFAST (CP) — The Irish Republican Army denied today that it set the bombs that killed six persons and wounded more than 30 in a village near Londonderry Monday, but it vowed to retaliate for the British Army's occupation of Roman Catholic enclaves.

Officials of the IRA's Provisional Wing charged in Dublin that the three bombs that wrecked the main street of Claudy were planted by British troops to divert attention from their invasion of the long-barricaded "no-go" areas Monday.

Although the guerrillas put up almost no resistance to the invading troops Monday, "our men are still in Derry," IRA leader Barney McFadden told a meeting in Londonderry's Bogside.

"They will stay here and take a greater toll when the time and opportunity arise," McFadden warned. "Everything is going according to plan."

"We think they are leaving the area, and they will see if it is an easy," said Bernadette Devlin, the young Catholic member of the British Parliament from Northern Ireland. "The day will come when those barricades will be built again, stone by stone, brick by brick."

The soldiers began preparing for a long stay in the Catholic ghetto. Temporary quarters were established in hospitals and some unoccupied houses. Construction of new bases was started.

There was great relief in British mainland cities that the province-wide invasion of the no-go areas—involving some 15,000 of the 21,000 troops in Northern Ireland—had passed with only two civilians killed and two injured.

Nearly all the barricades surrounding both Catholic and Protestant no-go areas had been taken down.

The political success of the military manoeuvre greatly depends on the acceptance once more of troops and police in the midst by Catholic families in the enclaves.

Huge Ranch Is Planned In B.C.

FORT ST. JOHN, B.C. (CP) — Lee Dahl, a 37-year-old entrepreneur from Salt Lake City, Utah, may soon be the owner of one of the largest cattle and sheep ranches in North America.

More than two years in the planning, the quarter-million acre ranch in the Peace River country of north-central British Columbia appears to be fast approaching stage whereby it will leave the drawing board and become a reality.

In an interview, Mr. Dahl explained that his Hoof and Horn Organization has "spent two years in feasibility studies on the prospects of raising cattle and sheep in B.C.'s north country, and in getting the $20 million financial backing necessary to purchase more than 200,000 acres of land required to feed 10,000 head.

Man Dies in Stolen Car

STIRLING (Staff) — The body of William Lavern Smith (W.) 11 a m (Lavern Baker), 27, of 294 Station Street, Belleville, was found pinned beneath the rear seat and roof of a car reported stolen last night from Consecon.

He was pronounced dead at the scene, approximately one mile south of Stirling on Highway 14, by Stirling coroner Dr. Peter Briggs.

Shortly before 2 a.m. today, Belleville OPP Constable Gerry Briscoe was patrolling the downtown streets of Stirling, when he observed a car being driven in what he described as an "erratic" manner.

The officer attempted to stop the motorist. He switched on the red flashing roof light of his cruiser, and drove alongside the vehicle, switching on his fender light. Constable Briscoe told The Intelligencer today the cars were travelling at approximately 30 miles an hour.

At this point, he said, the car he was attempting to stop pulled away from him, heading south on Highway 14.

It gained speed to approximately 80 miles an hour.

"I knew he wasn't going to stop so I slowed down and followed him," I hoped he'd slow down, but he got ahead of me approximately a quarter to half a mile."

The officer observed the vehicle round a bend on Baldman's Hill. When the cruiser came around the corner, all Constable Briscoe could see was a cloud of dust. "I could not find the car at first," he said.

Thurlow Township Fire Department responded to the emergency call. Their crews had to cut the doors and roof of the smashed and overturned car to free the body which was pinned between the rear seat and the roof.

The 1966 car owned by Bryden Alexander of 1R3, Consecon, was reported stolen at Consecon, 9:30 p.m. yesterday. Constable Briscoe said when he attempted to stop the vehicle, "I had no idea at all" that it was stolen.

Picton detachment OPP reported theft of both the Alexander vehicle at 9:30 p.m. and an earlier knifepoint theft of car from Consecon. Charles Walt of 236 Main Street, Wellington.

At 8:50 p.m. yesterday, Walt stopped his car to pick up a hitchhiker on Rose Hall, or Highway 33, north of the village of Wellington. When he came to a halt on the village, the man pulled a knife and placed it against the driver's throat, ordering him to stop and change positions.

Instead, Mr. Walt stopped and ran from the car, managing to reach a nearby house where he telephoned provincial police.

The car was abandoned at Consecon, and was also where the Buick was stolen.

Police report Baker has been charged with seven counts of car theft, break and enter in the Belleville-Picton area and was to have appeared in court in the next few weeks.

Two Break-ins In Trenton

TRENTON (Staff) — Thieves made off with about $200 in cash from one Trenton business and ransacked the offices of another in two separate break-ins early today.

Police report a window was broken and a door forced open at Glenn's Marina, 1 Front St. where the money was taken before dawn this morning.

Detective Sergeant Sid Vickers indicates there is nothing into the eastside store did not disarrange or overturn displays of merchandise. There was no mess there," he stated.

He said members of the Trenton police force were checking over the store's inventory to determine if anything other than cash was stolen.

Also this morning vandals broke a window to gain entry into the Trenton Memorial Ltd. at 88 Princess St. where furniture was overturned, drawers pulled out, and paper strewn across the office floor. Nothing is known as to be stolen from the cartage firm.

Couple Injured In 401 Crash

Two Hamilton area residents had to be cut from their badly damaged small car after it left Highway 401 half a mile east of the CNR overhead near the Bay of Quinte Bond plant early this morning.

Peter Tripp, 22, and his wife Carol, 24, both of Stoney Creek, were rushed to Belleville General Hospital suffering multiple injuries.

Mrs. Tripp was transferred to Kingston General Hospital with head injuries and leg and hip lacerations.

Mr. Tripp was admitted to BGH with fractured hip, injuries to his right arm, facial lacerations and possible internal injuries.

Thurlow Township Fire Department volunteers, responding in their new emergency rescue vehicle, were called to cut the couple from their small foreign car. The vehicle, found wrapped around a tree, was bent almost in half.

Belleville OPP Constable Terry Martin investigated.

Toilet Overflow Brings Firemen

An overflowing toilet bowl went beyond a plumbing problem when four fire trucks from the Belleville Fire Department arrived at the scene, manned by 19 fire fighters.

The trucks raced to the downtown Hotel Quinte, overblaring, in response to the alarm received at 4 p.m.

The overflow from a toilet bowl set off automatic alarms up the floor below.

Cuffs Baffle City Police

Handcuffing prisoners is a regular routine precaution for police in certain cases.

Because handcuffs are made to restrain, they are somewhat difficult to get out of. At least, that's what one young Toronto boy found out yesterday.

While playing with an old set of cuffs, obtained in Toronto, he managed to lock his leg to a chair where he sat helpless until police arrived.

Not one key used by city police was effective in opening the small lock. Finally, with the help of OPP Constable Robert Harvey and an old key, the handcuffs were undone.

Just in case the incident was repeated, the old cuffs were turned over for safekeeping to city police.

IN MEMORIAM

[illegible] — In loving memory of a dear father and grandfather, Clifford Ketcheson, who passed away August 1, 1971.
Those years have passed since that day
When time has loved us called away,
And left us here to bear the pain
And live in memory of him again.
Sadly missed by his loving wife, Ethel, daughter, Mrs. Ruth Ketcheson, son-in-law, Bert, grandchildren, Cliff, Jack and Linda.

[illegible] — In loving memory of a dear grandfather, Clifford Ketcheson, who passed away August 1, 1971.
Time has passed since that day
You were called away,
But when we saw you passing,
We could not wish you back,
For we knew
Sadly missed by Terry, Carol and Terrance.

[illegible] — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Clifford Ketcheson, who passed away August 1, 1971.
Sadly missed by wife Beatrice and family.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our sincere thanks to the Bush Funeral Home, Rev. Canon Arthur Sheil, the Belleville Nursing Association and friends for their kindness and sympathy shown to us during our time of bereavement. Also for the floral tributes, cards, telephone calls, etc. Mrs. Howard and those who assisted at the funeral, the pallbearers, the choir from North Trenton who ranked the hymns, the ushers and those who loaned their cars. Also the ladies who served lunch and the ladies who helped remove his body from the home.
Beatrice, Sherol, Marion, Vivian and Ruth.

Charles and Mabel Irvine wish to express our sincere thanks for the care of our son Keith from the Short Term Unit, Belleville General Hospital Doctors and Nurses.

Leonard Velleman
Humanitarian Dies

Administrator of the Ontario Homes for Mentally Retarded Infants Incorporated at Plainfield, and well known throughout the area for his humanitarian rule, Leonard Velleman, of Hill Corbyville, died Monday evening in Belleville General Hospital.

Mr. Velleman had been ill for the past three weeks. He was 81.

Born in Holland, Mr. Velleman and his wife, the former Leonora Boat, emigrated to Canada in 1924 and for many years had resided on a farm representative on conciliation.

Just over 20 years ago, in 1951, Mrs. Velleman, a registered nurse, opened a home for mentally retarded infants at Halloway.

The venture was not a financial success and at Mr. Velleman's urging it was decided to enlarge operations at a new site at Plainfield.

Accordingly, an old hotel was purchased and the assistance of friends and interested volunteers was asked to help renovate the building.

The Vellemans moved their operation to the new site in December, 1952, where Mr. Velleman, then on the verge of retiring, decided to devote his entire energies to his wife's humanitarian work.

No Objection From Committee

The city's recreation area committee has no objection to rezoning of a west side north Front Street lot, to allow construction of a 24-unit apartment building.

The committee yesterday endorsed a city parks board resolution indicating that if the rezoning is granted by the Quinte Planning Board, it would take cash in lieu of the customary five per cent land dedication and that a 6-foot wood population density resulted the usual park policy would apply.

The rezoning application, from Jack DeFaveri and Jack O'Halloran, came before city council some weeks ago but was referred to the Quinte Planning Board and various city committees for comment.

For the first five years the Vellemans' enterprise worked on a shoestring. Then, in 1956 the home became incorporated as organized its own board of governors and broadened its base for potential financing.

In 1959 the infants' home came under the auspices of the Ontario Hospital Services Commission and in 1963 it opened new quarters on the site.

Over the past 15 years, growth has grown from a facility capable of caring for only 15 infants to a modern 73-bed non-active psychiatric hospital supported by grants from the Ontario government, by donations from individual members of the board of governors and by interested individuals and companies.

In March, 1968, Mrs. Velleman retired as superintendent of the Plainfield infants' home but Mr. Velleman continued as the hospital's administrator.

Aside from his wife, Mr. Velleman is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Grace Ince, who operates her own infants home Happy Hallway House in Belleville, and two sons, Jay Velleman of Toronto and Alex Velleman of Oakville.

Funeral arrangements for Mr. Velleman had not been completed this morning.

Filly's Arrival Pleasant Shock

By MARGARET HAYLOCK

PICTON — Prince Edward County's Dr. Doolittle, William Willis recently was confronted with a communications breakdown as he attempted "to talk to the animals."

Well known locally for his patience and understanding with pets, Mr. Willis discovered his pony mare Bonnie had kept a secret this year.

Last week the tiny black Shetland surprised her owner with a foal and contradicted opinion that she was "just a bit overweight."

Mr. Willis, an employee of Picton Animal Hospital, exhibits an unusual rapport with animals of all kinds and has filled his life with pets large and small who were in urgent need of friends.

His fondness for animals is shared by his wife and family and the Willis household includes Angus, a white Scottie, Kista, a Samoyed dog, a Siamese cat, a short haired cat, an appealing stray dog named Marta and three ponies.

Most of the pets arriving at the Willis home are strays urgently requiring adoption. Others are "special" cases who simply need extra time and attention their owners cannot give.

Angus, an inquisitive Scottie plagued by a skin irritation was brought to the animal hospital when his owner was employed. His owner had decided to have the dog destroyed but instead agreed to give it to Bill, who felt it might be cured.

With care the animal's condition rapidly improved and he soon won a place in the Willis household.

The Siamese cat owned by Bill was taken to the animal care centre because its owner planned a move to Ajax and could not take the aristocratic feline.

The cat was placed up for adoption but Bill was unable to find a suitable home for this young pet.

His fondness for animals outweighed his apprehension of his wife's reaction to another stray and he carried the Siamese home.

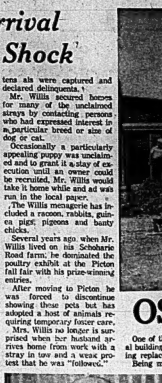
Although his sons Robert, James and Donald have outgrown their backskin pony Champ, it remains a family pet because Mr. Willis refuses to sell it.

In his job with the Picton Animal Hospital, Mr. Willis has operated an unofficial placement service for a number of years.

Until recently the town did not have a dog catcher and strays were taken by police for impoundment at the animal care centre.

A number of cats and kittens als were captured and declared delinquents.

Mr. Willis secured homes for many of the unclaimed strays by contacting persons who had expressed interest in a particular breed or size of dog or cat.



Occasionally a particularly appealing puppy was unclaimed and to grant it a stay of execution until an owner could be recruited, Mr. Willis would take it home while and ad was run in the local paper.

The Willis menagerie has included a racoon, rabbits, guinea pigs, pigeons and bunty chicks.

Several years ago when Mr. Willis lived on his Sehoharie Road farm, he dominated the poultry exhibit at the Picton fall fair with his prize-winning entries.

After moving to Picton he was forced to discontinue showing these pets but has adopted a host of animals requiring temporary foster care.

Mrs. Willis no longer is surprised when her husband arrives home from work with a stray in tow and a weak protest that he was "followed."

William Willis, a Picton man who has operated a drop in centre for stray animals for many years had an unexpected addition to his collection last week. His pony mare Bonnie surprised him with a foal. The four-day-old filly has been named Sherry.

OSD Infirmary Nearly Complete

Being made obsolete by a new structure now nearing completion is the Ontario School for the Deaf infirmary — known to generations of students as the Gibson Hospital.

Built in 1894 it is the second oldest building — the oldest is the superintendent's residence — on the school grounds.

Its replacement is a trim, single-storey building linked onto the OSD's junior school complex. The single floor plan — in contrast to the two-storey design of an earlier era on which the Gibson Hospital was built — permits centralized supervision from a single nursing station.

Its connection to the junior school is deliberate, since the majority of infirmary patients throughout the year are youngsters new with the common childhood illnesses — measles, chickenpox, colds. The location also permits comfortable transfer of young residents in bad weather.

Estimated to cost $235,000, the new infirmary project got under way last winter and is scheduled for completion by the time the OSD begins a new school year Sept. 5.

After that, says school superintendent J. G. Demeza the 78-year-old Gibson building is scheduled for demolition.

Raven Spotted Near Stirling

The common crow is a familiar sight in this part of Ontario for much of the year but how many residents of the Quinte district can say they have seen the crow's big black cousin the raven?

Ravens, the largest of the crow family, measure two feet or more in length and with a wingspread of up to four feet, are common in many parts of Europe and Asia and in the Rocky Mountain area of North America but are seldom seen in this part of Ontario.

But one of the big black birds has turned up in the Stirling area and has been seen on several occasions actually within the village limits.

Murney Hick, of Evans St. in Belleville saw the raven over the weekend perched in the trees near his daughter's home on the Frankford Road.

"He seemed to be quite tame — you could get within 25 or 30 feet of him."

The encyclopedia notes there are two species of ravens in North America, one in the Rocky Mountain regions and another species in the east, which has been largely exterminated.

However, the eastern species — the larger of the two — is still to be found in Labrador and other northern areas.

Like their smaller cousins, they are known to migrate from familiar haunts and the Stirling visitor must be out to see the world.

The big birds live on other birds and small animals but also are claimed to catch rabbits or even small lambs.

McNutt Elected Club Director

Ron McNutt, Belleville businessman and member of the local Y's Mens' Club, has been elected to the office of International Director Elect for the Y's Men.

His new posting was made public at the international convention held in Athens, Ohio, this past week, honoring the 50th year of Y's Men International.

More than 1,400 delegates attended the convention, representing 47 countries around the world.

Mr. McNutt was also presented the Elmer Crowe Award for outstanding achievement in the past year.

Mr. McNutt had been placed in the position of District Governor of QUEST (Quebec and Eastern Ontario).

Through his work and travelling more than 5,000 miles between Belleville and Quebec he was given one of the 18 such Elmer Crowe Awards, presented to governors around the world.

Mr. McNutt was presented his award by the newly elected international president, Heinz Grambia of San Diego, California.

The major item of business for this year's convention was the re-writing of the Y's Men Constitution.

Once taboo, now clubs will be able to open their doors to women.

The new freedom is aimed specifically at the Swedish and German clubs who were most interested in the new legislation.

"The constitution has been up-dated and is now something we can all live with," said Mr. McNutt.

Theme for the convention was Building Bridges to Brotherhood.

Community, OSD Mesh on Pool Use

One of the first stops in Belleville today for provincial legislators touring the use of Ontario school facilities was a fledgling school - community project already splashed with success.

What the legislature's select committee on utilization of educational facilities was scheduled to view was the swimming pool at the Ontario School for the Deaf — totally surrendered to the community for the summer.

The big 75-foot pool is a major feature of the school's J. G. Demeza sports complex opened earlier this year—and centrepiece in a program of OSD-community co-operation.

"Since July 4, the city's recreation department has been operating a program combining instruction and play that has kept the pool resounding with activity from morning to nightfall.

The supervised bustle is the hoped for realization of a deliberately designed venture involving both school and civic authorities before the pool was even ready. Although a daily session is available to the community, when not needed by students, was early agreed to by OSD officials.

The co - operative gesture solved a nagging problem for city recreation authorities: The two Bell Township pools available for public use, operated by the Kinsmen and the YMCA, are on the city's east side; either westside families travelled that much farther or went without such facilities.

Both school and recreation officials agree on the result:

"Our pool has proved to be most popular," comments OSD superintendent Dr. J. G. Demeza, after whom the complex is named, "and we're pleased to have the community using it."

Robin Heggie, recreation department program supervisor says the pool is a "boon" to westside families and draws attendance from "quite an area."

"It's a great thing the public are able to get the use of it over the summer period," he adds.

Statistics seem to support the common reaction.

While attendance recently has been lowered as the summer vacation period peaked, the pool draws youngsters by the score, seven days a week, to its instruction and recreation periods. In one day alone in mid-July, a total of 530 youngsters swimmers turned up during morning, afternoon and evening sessions.

But even before summer began, the pool already had been made available to some local schools and residents from the provincial centre for the retarded at Picton Heights, points out Dr. Demeza.

The city's program includes school facility, the availability of daily sessions of Red Cross-approved swimming instruction for beginners. Lasting a month, the opening July course drew 71 participants, reports Mr. Heggie. Registration for the August course began today.

There also have been some requests for classes from adults. If a "sufficient number" signify eagerness to register, instructions for grownups are a possibility, says the program supervisor.

Co-operation of OSD officials has been a key factor in the project's success, he indicates, and there is "a real good working relationship" between the City department and the school.

Senior Citizen Survey Rapped

The $26,000 senior citizens' study initiated by the Belleville Community Services and conducted early last spring was "a waste of time, effort and money."

That is the feeling of Joseph Cox, member of the Belleville Recreation-Arena Committee who says the survey report indicates that all senior citizens want is to be left alone.

Mr. Cox made the comments at yesterday's meeting of the recreation - arena committee during a brief discussion on the report.

The committee took no action on the report other than to "receive" it.

Mr. Cox said the main concern of most elderly people was one of finances and what they wanted was cheaper bus fares or lower food costs not organized activities.

He said this was borne out by their responses to the survey questionnaire with respect to senior citizen centres.

The survey showed that when asked if they belonged to a senior citizen centre only 292, or 10 per cent answered in the affirmative.

Asked why they did not belong, 2 442, or 83 per cent, indicated they were not interested.

Only one per cent said they would like to be more active in the community, while 80 per cent felt they now had enough association and activity with other people.

PUBLIC ANNOUNCEMENT

BROADCASTING REGULATIONS

Following an announcement on March 10, 1972, and a Public Hearing held in Hull-Ottawa in June, on proposed amendments in the Television Broadcasting Regulations, the Canadian Radio-Television Commission announces that the Regulations concerning credit of 55 per cent for the dubbing of foreign programs as outlined in Section 6(6)(b) of the Regulations is retained. The Commission notes that, on the basis of the presentations of broadcasters and representatives of the dubbing industry, this provision constitutes a meaningful incentive for an industry which is a major employer of Canadian talent and production facilities.

The Commission also announces that it will no longer limit the percentage of programs that may be imported from any single country. The Commission's recently announced co-production guidelines are intended to provide an encouragement to joint programming ventures between Canadian and foreign producers.

A new amended Television Broadcasting Regulations relative to Canadian programmes in television scheduled are a minimum of 60 per cent daily, the program day with an additional requirement that Canadian programmes must achieve at least 50 per cent in any recognized period of the broadcast day in the case of private licensees and 60 per cent in the case of the CBC.

The Commission is optimistic that the private element of the Canadian broadcasting system under the new minimum requirements and the provision of the co-production guidelines will be able to increase the amount of Canadian programmes, to improve its quality and provide added Canadian and international exposure of Canadian creative resources.

The amended provisions for Broadcast Licence Fee Regulations and new Broadcasting Information Returns Regulations are enacted without substantial changes. The Licence Fee Regulations in effect exempt small community-owned television broadcasting stations as well as student carrier current under-takings from a licence fee requirement. The Broadcasting Information Returns Regulations require that stations must file their information returns by November 30 each year, for the period commencing September 1 of the year preceding and ending on August 31 of the year in which the return is filed.

These amendments to Broadcasting Regulations were published in the Canadian Gazette dated July 15, 1972.

Oh woe is me. No university degree.

Now just a minute. You can still get the initials CGA after your name.

You're kidding. You mean I could get a top position with a top salary without a degree?

Sure. There are plenty of bright professional accountants around without them. Almost half the CGAs in Canada started their professional education without university background. And they all have great jobs with industry, commerce and government.

You don't have to. Your job experience is important to your final certification. You do continue to work while you study you know.

I'm sold. What now.

Trading Paradox

There is a curious paradox in the import-export business these days, as it affects motorized vehicles for citizen use on the one hand and for defence purposes on the other.

Here is an example, the British (who for all we know may be exporting as many cars as ever but could be hiding them under a bushel or something, since we see so few of them) are reported to be selling tanks to Canada as well as to Iraq. And with the way things are going on the British labor front the country will need all the trade and funds it can obtain to compensate for the losses from work stoppages.

Japan, on the other hand, is selling so many cars overseas that they are now the dominant export of that country and currently are outselling vehicles from the other major exporters such as Britain and Germany.

We do see advertisements for one British vehicle pointing out its advantages over the competition as to engine size and interior space. Yet it appears to lack one facility which practically all the other imports now offer as standard equipment — rear-window defrosters.

As for the wide range of prestige cars available in Britain few are to be seen here, whether for lack of export effort on the part of the manufacturers or not we are unable to explain.

The Japanese cars are said to be good, but are they so much better than other makes that the latter, relatively speaking, are taking a back seat? Or is it part advertising skill and part the public's fancy with something new that has enabled the Nippon products to corner much of the market around the world?

Time to Stare

Things we would never have noticed were it not for the goings-on at the Bay Bridge.

You are holed up in your car just a short way past the boundaries of Zwick's Island and the sun is shining, the sky is blue and yachts glide serenely on the waters of the bay.

Not much opportunity to absorb such visual pleasures in the ordinary way, but here you are, sitting pretty and wondering what English poet W. H. Davies would have thought of it all.

"What is this life, if full of care," he wrote, "we have no time to stand and stare." Or sit and stare as the situation is on the Bay Bridge.

There is the sound the wind makes when it meshes with leaves and there is this caressing audio in the bush just across the fence and which you scarcely had noticed before.

In the car just ahead a young woman at the wheel jostles with her small son in the front seat beside her. The sun plays upon her blonde hair and the breeze through the open window touches and moves it and then down the ages have written poems on such as that.

Over in Massassaga you notice, for the first time perhaps, that the trees along the Quinte shore are a much darker green than the lighter shade that marks the fields in the background.

We have time also to notice our fellow man — to see as they start on their way, some slowly and philosophically, some with a roar of impatience from motors that had been idling moments before. We shall not be sorry when the bridge operations are finished, but we have gained something too from those enforced waits.

They've Been Warned

One might have thought that with so many warnings of late on the subject of cigaret smoking there would be fewer in evidence who still are hooked by the habit. Instead, it would appear, from casual observation, that there are as many as ever and that the majority, as we have observed before, are women. They are to be found on the streets — in the supermarket, on the street, at the wheel of the car, on the beach.

If it were ever considered unladylike to smoke, the number using them now seems to refute the idea, or rather gives the impression they do not care.

But what about the health hazard? Well it is not so very long ago that doctors in Ottawa were saying that the increased incidence of smoking by women will result in years to come in lung and respiratory problems of one kind or another, including cancer and emphysema.

As Public Continues to Pay Through the Nose
Make-Work Schemes Help Cloak Unemployment Figures

By RICHARD JACKSON
from The Intelligencer's
Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — It is delightfully ironical, grins former Trade and Transport Minister George Hees, that the government itself managed — or mismanaged — to create some of the unemployment it worries about.

And, he suspects, the irony of it does not strike the government as the least bit amusing.

The way George Hees sees it while there may be more than 600,000 unemployed, some of them — perhaps only a few but enough to confound the government — are jobless by choice.

They are those Prime Minister Trudeau recently called, as reported by a national public opinion poll, "the people who prefer to remain on unemployment insurance rather than work."

And while the PM did not exactly praise them for their why-work-when - others - will - support-us way of living, neither did he condemn them.

For not working, if they so wished to live on unemployment insurance, said he, was their right.

There are others who also have taken the no-job or non-job initiative — for initiative they do have to have in discovering how to live on the taxpayers.

There is an element of this non-job way of life built into many of the newer federal "social" programs such as State Secretary Pelletier's Opportunities for Youth.

Some of those "opportunities" are for the enjoying of expense-paid vacations and cost-free travel and other tax-financed summer pleasures.

But these no-work and non-job activities don't show up in the unemployment statistics.

For while the amount of actual work involved in these kinds of federal projects may be minimal, those engaged in them are officially categorized as "employed."

Which, Mr. Hees has suspected, just might be the motive for these inventive make-job schemes — to get them out of Statistics Canada's unemployment calculations.

Difficult, if not impossible, though, to keep those on unemployment insurance from the monthly job accounting by Statistics Can.

The irony of the situation is that it was because of this very unemployment which refused, in spring, to fade, as unemployment usually has in past years, that the Prime Minister came to the brink of a June election and backed off.

The full cost of Manpower Minister Mackasey's wider unemployment insurance coverage taking in some 96 percent of the labor force, with its higher benefits, will not be known until next spring.

And by that time, the election will likely have been held.

Which, for the government, might be just as well since the accounting next February or March is expected to show that $1 billion — yes, billion — or more was paid out in unemployment insurance benefits this year.

So for obvious reasons, the government itself is not doing any forecasting.

But some federal officials, in a position to track the trend and toe the tab, have been guesstimating.

They calculate that close to $300 million of that $1 billion-or-better pay-out will come from employee contributions to the fund — some of these from people who cannot conceive of themselves ever being unemployed.

Mr. Mackasey comforts them with the soothing assurance that they are helping the less fortunately secure and should be happy about it.

Another $400 million or so will come from contributions paid into the fund by employers.

And the balance, between $300 million and $400 million will have to come out of the federal treasury.

Which means that a lot of people will be paying twice for their unemployment insurance, once through their deducted contributions and again through their taxes.

But think, for a moment, about that expected $400 million to come from the treasury coffers and all the other tax-payers.

At that figure it will be four times the amount in the last two years when the treasury pumped $99 million into the fund in 1970 and $111 million in 1971.

The increases — perhaps as much as 400 percent — is enough to scare the government out of its election wits.

And what makes it so frustrating for the government is the realization that it has only itself to blame, for shoe-horning almost every employed Canadian into the scheme, willing or unwilling, and then making it so attractive to a certain segment that, as the Prime Minister laments, "some people prefer it to work."

Bombing of Dikes—Fact or Red Propaganda?

By JOHN HARBRON
Foreign Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Service

Are North Vietnam's flood dikes bombed by the U.S. or not? The U.S. state department says they never have been bombed deliberately, flatly "targeted." UN Secretary General Kurt Waldheim says U.S. massive bombing of North Vietnam has been biting the dikes, between June 6 and 8, after two weeks in Hanoi and showing a strong prejudice in favor of North Vietnamese opinion, categorically says the dikes are being bombed on purpose by the U.S.

Who do we believe in this new crisis of the credibility gap?

First, what are these dikes and why are they vital to North Vietnam's life but not vital to the war? They are flood dikes, built and maintained over the years to control the rampages of the Red River. Without them, much of North Vietnam's rice-producing area would be destroyed, thousands of Vietnamese would be homeless.

They are a huge network, perhaps the largest on earth of their kind, extending about 2,000 miles along the Red River system. In 1971, an unknown and unheard of flood, paralyzed the north, stopped most of the rice production and drowned thousands.

In modern North Vietnam, some of the dikes are also used to carry the new oil pipeline from Communist China into North Vietnam. This has been built because blockades and bombings of North Vietnam's ports have stopped oil shipments by sea.

The North Vietnamese, who have created the largest anti-aircraft display since the Second World War, also use dikes as emplacements for small Russian anti-aircraft guns.

The Pentagon could claim, on purely military grounds, that some dikes under these circumstances have been turned into defences. We can only be sure of Pentagon claims since the famous Gulf of Tonkin incident in 1964 which gave former president Lyndon Johnson his excuse to begin the bombings of North Vietnam.

To this day, that incident is held in doubt. Did Russian-built North Vietnamese torpedo boats attack and hit U.S. destroyers in the Gulf of Tonkin or was the entire incident a fabrication? Years later, no one, literally, knows for sure.

As for Jane Fonda's clear-cut claims, we have had Asian and Communist satellite's phony propaganda stunts before on important visitors. Remember the totally unfounded germ warfare charges during the Korean War of the early 1950's?

Prominent North American and European Communists, who went there on phony visitors allowed into an embalmed North Korea, chargedd the Americans and the Canadians with using or assigned germ warfare bombs. All propaganda.

Has Miss Fonda been duped? It is true, bombs have landed near or on dikes and these are probably the craters which she has been shown in her recent tours south of Hanoi. But again, we must question if Miss Fonda has become the latest of many visitors to Communist Asia who have bought a propaganda line without knowing it?

The charges are serious enough, given the various kinds of wanton destruction which this ghastly Asian war has encouraged. But what is a free press to say? Who can believe it? Everyone claims he has the truth, when in effect everyone is playing with it.

This shameful heresy of Vietnam is as bad as the course of the war itself.

Peking Plays Its Roles

By JOHN HARBRON
Foreign Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Service

So much has been written about peaceful overtures to Communist China this year, we have forgotten Peking has its own economic and military roles abroad.

These current rapprochements between China and the West do not mean China has withdrawn in any way from her external activities.

What are these roles? The one most visible is Peking's global aid and assistance program to the Third World. And the project which has received the greatest publicity is the $500 million railway which Chinese engineering and equipment is building in East Africa to link Tanzania, Kenya and Zambia.

Unlike many similar Soviet technical aid projects in the past, this Chinese one is well advanced. The Communist Chinese appear to be applying the kind of know-how which only they could have learned as they rebuilt and expanded their own roads and railways during the 1950s and 1960s with a shortage of specialized machinery but plenty of manpower.

This kind of railway building is presumably less costly and less of a burden on new African states which are also labor-intensive but cash-shy.

Aside from the big railway goes a good deal of Peking's ideological message spread about through booklets, political speeches and canned radio programs in Swahili, the indigenous language of East African countries.

This indoctrination is the other side of foreign aid, from a non-Communist viewpoint, more guilty of it too, though they do it in more subtle ways than Communist states.

In Southeast Asia, Peking has the fertile soil of local Chinese populations, many of them subject to job and race discrimination, looking to the ideal of the People's Republic of China where such limitations disappeared with the arrival of Communism.

At the same time, the major impediment to Peking's long efforts to establish ideological bridgeheads among these same Chinese communities is that many of them are made up of prosperous merchants and professional people. They are also firmly opposed to Communism and openly support the Nationalist regime of aging Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek on Taiwan.

Communist China's military posture in the world is even murkier in some areas. Where economic aid has gone, so often has Chinese military. Rhodesia, South Africa and Portugal are all fighting black guerrilla movements which they claim are heavily armed with Chinese guns.

And Tanzania, grateful recipient of the big railway has a small, modern fleet of warships, all Communist Chinese-built.

Landlord and Tenant Act Sparks NDP-Liberal Fight

By DON O'HEARN
From The Intelligencer's
Queen's Park Bureau

There was a somewhat unusual confrontation between the NDP and the Liberals in the final stages of the session.

The issue was the changing amendments to the Landlord and Tenant Act. There were some further amendments for tenants in the amendments. But the main controversial one made it easier for landlords to get delinquent tenants into court.

To the amazement it was simply a matter of final guys and bad guys, with landlords the bad guys. In its hands it was a question of class war with rental protection panacea including rent controls advocated for tenants.

On the other hand Liberal backers supported the legislation.

They took the viewpoint that there were small but big, good and bad landlords as well as tenants, and they feared it encouraged the NDP of a biased appeal for votes.

The incident was unusual in that normally such a sharp line of division isn't seen between the two opposition parties in the house.

They take different positions from time to time and normally not to be complete agreement with each other. But it is rare to see them diametrically opposed as they were on this occasion.

This may have been just a passing bout of little significance.

But then it could indicate another change in the political parties, and particularly the Liberals, are getting of a temper to have firmer positions of their own.

As for the legislation complete it is really hard for anyone close to the situation to argue very strongly against the controversial amendments.

Under the revised tenant act of three years ago, landlords pretty well have to get a court order to rid themselves of delinquent or otherwise bad tenants.

And in many cases, particularly in areas where rental courts have been busy, this has been taken many weeks and months.

Particularly with small landlords this has meant hardship.

April Ends Lake Crash Program

BURLINGTON, Ont. (CP) — In an average week, technicians and scientists aboard the Canadian research ship Limnos will rearrange half a million dollars worth of scientific equipment dangling from buoys scattered throughout Lake Ontario.

A single string of meters, which automatically record speed and direction of lake currents for up to three months, can cost as much as $32,000.

The meters, and the Limnos, are part of the most massive attempt ever made to find out exactly how fast and badly the lake is deteriorating.

The ship is one of five plying the lake during the International Field Year for the Great Lakes, a $15-million scientific program involving about 1,000 scientists, engineers, surveyors, technicians and support staff on both shores of Lake Ontario.

The Limnos, constructed in 1968 at a cost of $3 million, is packed with scientific equipment which can measure everything from the lake's temperature to the amount of sunlight striking its surface.

The sophisticated ship carries a crew of 16 and as many as 11 scientific personnel.

It has been assigned to Lake Ontario until next April, when the field year ends, and will sail from the Canada Centre for Inland Waters at Burlington, Ont., almost every week until then.

In mid-July, the ship was assigned to pluck 39 current meters from 15 buoy stations throughout the lake and replace them with new ones.

The meters record speed and direction of the lake's currents. The data, recorded on magnetic tape, must be analyzed and interpreted by scientists before being fed into computers at the inland waters centre.

When the field year ends, that data will be available, with information from about 200 other projects, to scientists from all over the world. Armed with the knowledge they will derive from it, they can suggest cures to the lake's poor health.

The current meters are attached to a buoy submerged 25 feet below the lake's surface so they will not be affected by wind and waves.

The Limnos crew picks up a surface buoy with a crane and hauls in as much as 1,000 feet of line before reaching the meters. When the sensitive meters are brought on deck, technicians check them to see they are operating.

The meters are then packed in coffin-like boxes, sealed and stored on deck until the ship returns to Burlington. They are then sent to an electrical manufacturing company where the magnetic tapes packed with weeks of data are removed and sent back to the centre for analysis.

Taking the meters out of the lake is generally a fairly matter-of-fact procedure, says Captain Ron Young. But once he attempted to pull a string of them out in 50-mile-an-hour winds. "I'll never pull that stunt again," he says.

"We were rolling and pitching and then I got a call from the galley. There was a fire."

Now he will not attempt to pull meters out if winds are over 25 m.p.h. when it is only "uncomfortable."

The Limnos has lost only one meter. Heavy ice had snapped lines attached to it and it dropped to the bottom.

"We don't like to lose them," said Captain Young.

The young captain switched from a merchant line to government service and find "no similarity at all" between the two. He has become interested in the scientific research going on in the lake, although not a scientist himself.

"You take an interest in it as far as you can comprehend it," he says. "But you don't get involved scientifically."

Doug Brooks, operations officer aboard the Limnos, is the liaison man between the captain and the inland waters centre and it is his job to see that the scientific programs go off without a hitch.

Mr. Brooks makes sure there are enough meters to go around and that all are accounted for. He carefully records the times at which the meters are pulled from the water and others installed.

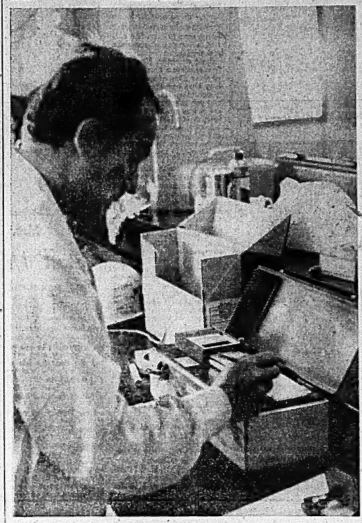
Chief engineer Carroll Kenney used to be a commercial fisherman working in Lake Erie and he has seen the toll pollution can take.

"When you stop to think that everyone for the last hundred years has been throwing everything he could lay his hands on into the lake, it makes you think," the white-haired engineer says.

"You name it, it's in there."

He will tell you stories of dead animals, machines and garbage he has caught in the net of his fishing tug.

And he will tell you that he saw the good fish gradually disappear only to be replaced by "garbage" fish.



First Mate Nathan Keeping sailed aboard ocean freighters for many years before joining the Limnos. "I miss seeing life in the lakes," he says. "In the ocean, you'd see sharks, whales, fish jumping. There's nothing in the lakes."

When the Limnos docks and the crew sits together in the local beer parlors, the talk inevitably turns to pollution. Sailors compare notes about orange clouds of pollution hanging over the skyline of Toronto.

Tales of massive patches of algae are swapped and one young sailor says: "It's a crime, you know, it's going to hurt a lot of people."

The field year program may arm scientists with sufficient knowledge to keep that harm to a minimum.

Checking Out Meters

Technologist Fausto Chicchetto of the Canada Centre for Inland Waters checks water current meters which have been hauled from Lake Ontario. The meters are tested to make sure they have been firing automatically every 10 minutes, recording current speed and direction. About $500,000 worth of scientific equipment is involved in an attempt to find out what can stop the lake's deterioration.

MR. AND MRS. JOHN THOMAS DOLAN

MR. AND MRS. RICHARD ALLAN FARRELL

Dolan – Boyce

Rev. J. Leslie Dean officiated at the recent wedding ceremony in Tabernacle United Church of Joanne Elizabeth Boyce, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert D. Boyce, Belleville and John Thomas Dolan, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Dolan, Belleville. Mr. R. Robertson provided the organ music.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother Douglas Boyce, selected a white gown of organza over taffeta with long sleeves and a ring collar. The empire waist was trimmed with velvet ribbon. A three - tiered shoulder length wedding veil was held in place by organza flowers. She carried a bouquet of red roses and daisies.

Bridesmaids Mrs. Ron Sutch and Miss Susan Dolan, sister of the bridegroom were dressed identically to the maid of honor.

The bridegroom's mother assisted wearing a floor length gown with a lilac moss crepe top and a floral oriental crepe chiffon skirt. Lilac accessories and a yellow orchid corsage enhanced her gown.

Upon their return, the couple will reside in Kemptville.

Mrs. Parry Visits Manor Friends

Staff Member Given Farewell

After 16 years of scolding, coaxing, nursing and loving the residents of Hastings Manor gave Mrs. Ceinwen Parry a farewell party on Friday. This was arranged by the residents previous to her retirement. Shortly after she had left the floor for her afternoon break she was called down stairs to the auditorium where she was greeted by a full house of residents and staff.

Mrs. Vera Kemp acted as master of ceremonies and Mr. Walter Lindenfield led in a singsong with Mrs. Vivian Wilcox at the piano.

An address composed by Edward Hogle, who will soon be celebrating his 90th birthday was read by Mrs. Donna Yates, craft room supervisor. This speech thanked Mrs. Parry for her faithful and loyal service rendered over the past 16 years. She was also credited with helping create the co-operative rapport seen at the manor between residents and the staff.

Mrs. Sadie Kellar and Frank Moore presented her with a gold colored platform rocker from the management and manor staff. Mrs. Georgina Cooney, on behalf of the staff social club gave Mrs. Parry a white and gold table lamp. Mrs. Carole Colclough for the Union CUPE Local 1133 presented her with an appropriately engraved silver tray also.

Mrs. Parry, caught completely off guard, expressed her gratitude for these tokens of love and esteem.

Lunch was served by staff girls. This included a lovely decorated cake, the handiwork of the chef, Phil Poulin.

On Tuesday afternoon when the Hastings Manor Ladies Auxiliary members visited for the afternoon Tuck Shop, Mrs. Dorothy Maclean called Mrs. Parry to the Tea Room to have a cup of tea with them. Mrs. Maude Ray presented Parry, as she is affectionately called, with a sterling silver brooch from the coffee shop attendants.

Shortly after her retirement Mrs. Parry expects to holiday in England, Wales and Germany. On her return, she will make her home with her daughter Mrs. Earl Badgley, Melrose.

Social And Personal

Previous to her recent marriage, Mrs. Richard A. Farrell (nee Lois Freeman) was entertained at a miscellaneous shower hosted by Mrs. J. McComber and co-hosted by Mrs. D. Freeman and Mrs. M. Cassidy. She was also presented with a gift from the staff of Level 2-4 Belleville General Hospital. The bridegroom was presented with a gift and a purse from Electric Control Ltd.

Previous to her recent marriage, Mrs. John Thomas Dolan (nee Susan Elizabeth Boyce) was honored at a miscellaneous shower given by the staff of Prince Albert Elementary School. Another shower was given in the home of Mrs. Ralph Morton with Mrs. Bruce Miller as co-hostess. A kitchen shower was held in the home of Mrs. Ron Sutch, Oshawa.

SUSAN MARIE LAZIER, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Lazier, RR1 Corbyville, graduated from Kingston General Hospital School of Nursing Saturday, July 29. Miss Lazier who received the Medical Nursing Award, is a graduate of Moira Secondary School and she has accepted a position with the Hastings and Prince Edward Counties Health Unit.

ENGAGEMENT NOTICE

Mr. and Mrs. Ivan May of RR1, Frankford are pleased to announce the forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Marilyn Anne to Mr. Richard McIlquham, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. McIlquham, Belleville. The wedding will take place on August 19, 1972 at 2.30 p.m. in Holloway Street United Church, Belleville.

Farrell – Freeman

Holy Name of Mary Church, Marysville was the scene of the recent wedding ceremony of Katherine Lois Freeman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Freeman, Marysville, and Richard Allan Farrell son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Farrell, Belleville. Rev. W. A. Dwyre officiated for the ceremony. Alcolytes serving the wedding mass were Gerard Freeman, brother of the bride and Larry Farrell, brother of the bridegroom. Mrs. Helen Gallaghan provided appropriate wedding music.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor length gown of taffeta overlaid with sheer organdy with an embroidered lace empire bodice with a front lace panel interwoven with satin ribbon. The wedding band collar, sleeves and detachable train of sheer organdy were also trimmed with this lace. A four-tier scalloped veil was secured with a rhinestone crown.

Matron of honor, Mrs. Mary Cassidy, sister of the bride, of Tweed, wore a floor length gown of green floral chiffon over taffeta featuring an empire waist, trimmed with green velvet ribbon. The top, of white muslin with stand up collar and long sleeves, was set off with matching colored buttons. She carried a bouquet of yellow roses, lily of the valley with white lace entwined, and wire matching yellow rosebuds in her hair.

Bridesmaids Mrs. Rose Marie Brown, Montreal, Mrs. Sharon McCumber, Belleville, Miss Jean Freeman, Marysville, sisters of the bride, and Mrs. Donna Freeman, Belleville, sister of the bridegroom, were attired identically to the matron of honor but in floral chiffon over taffeta.

The bridegroom was attended by Duane Freeman, Belleville, brother of the bride, while Jack Shortt and Doug Rowsome of Belleville, Edward Freeman, Oshawa, brother of the bride and Peter Farrell, Bellevile, brother of the bridegroom were ushers.

The bridegroom's mother assisted wearing a floor length crimp knit with short sleeves. White accessories and corsage of yellow roses with matching rosebuds in her hair completed her outfit.

Leaving on a honeymoon trip for Niagara Falls and the United States, the bride donned a coat and dress ensemble of baby blue. White accessories and a corsage of red carnations complemented her ensemble.

Mr. and Mrs. Farrell will reside at 247 Foster Ave., Belleville.

Others Worry About Etiquette

By DORIS CLARK

Canadians are not the only people who worry about etiquette. The following comes from "The Ideal Woman", published in Ghana.

"When at a party somebody admires your lovely 'ntama' (gown), do not say:

"Oh! this cheap cloth! You are laughing at me; actually I wanted to buy silk but because it is hideous.

"Do not in fact describe where you bought it, who made it, etc. Just say it simple 'Thank you', or, 'That's very kind of you, thank you'."

"Sometimes you feel rather confused whether to stand up or remain seated when introductions are made. Well, a young lady should rise when an older woman is presented, but she can remain seated if men are introduced to her.

"Here in Ghana, it is our custom to shake hands when introduced, so extend your hand and don't embarrass the one introduced, should he or she refuse to shake.

"Whenever you enter a room full of people (not a family gathering) it is important that you go round shaking the hands of the person present: not just whisper 'Good Afternoon ' and sit down."

Dear Doris: In your column you mentioned a collection of children's books. Then later you informed us that several readers had written in requesting the available books.

Our Douglas Library in Queen's University has a children's collection which contains some hundreds of volumes from this century and last. We are constantly interested in adding examples of outstanding children's books which young people have read and grown up with.

So our library, too, would make your reader most welcome and in touch with our Chief Librarian, Queen's University, Kingston, Ontario.

Dear Librarian: As you will have read, the books mentioned have already been directed to the first reader writing in for them, and I expect she will make good use of them for her grandsons and granddaughters.

But there may well be other treasures on the bookshelves of homes right across Canada: treasures which have been loved and read to succeeding generations as they pass through the ages and stages of childhood.

Probably we will be hearing from some who would be willing to part with them now, in order that your librarians might share them with to-day's young people. (All such contributions will be gratefully dressed to Mrs. Lin Good, Accessions Librarian, Douglas Library, Queen's University, Kingston, Ontario.)

Dear Doris: I have a lot of questions to ask your column, like: Do you have to be a frank schizophrenic before deciding you just can't live peaceably with anybody?

It is so much easier just to withdraw — Tempted To Clam Up.

Dear Tempted: Resist the temptation; it is a lonely life, and at its extreme is a real psychosis — a mental disturbance which takes experts treatment to cure.

You might say schizophrenia is a mixed-up kid syndrome. May indeed start with an unstable, upset childhood. To solid family life, for example, concerned adult to love and be loved by; or a wrenching pair of parents which keep an offspring's head shirting.

The well-integrated adult maintains a poise enviable to those less stable. Some such adults find their greatest peace and happiness in living alone; and maintaining warm friendships which are quite satisfying, with people they see and talk with from time to time.

The ideal is to have a little of each: time with others, (with at least one close friend) and time alone. Time to think; to develop spiritually. To find out who we are and what we feel.

Women Become Recruits

KITCHENER, Ont. (CP) — There's something different on the reserve forces parade square here where instructors of the Royal Regiment of Canada hold forth. It's women.

Five girls from Kitchener and neighboring Waterloo have been accepted into the six-week summer reserve training program, in a similar story elsewhere in Ontario. Twenty-five of the 45 who took part in Wednesday's women as the eight of 30 trainees at Chatham.

While the parade-square language is the same there is a slight difference there too.

"When the corporal got swearing and at my squad, he added an apology to the ladies," said Heather Martin, 18.

"The women trainees wear the regulation khaki battle-dress green pants and baggy regulation army shirts. But it is hard to find boots small enough for feminine feet.

"There's also been an influx of young ladies into the training program all over Ontario, we were forced to give them the smallest men's regulation boots," said Capt. Bruce McDonald of Kitchener, who is in charge of training.

Capt. McDonald said he has not been required to change the procedures in use in the five years he has supervised the reserve program.

"Our instructions were to treat them as equals," he said.

But, that's not the way fellow recruits look at it.

"I really didn't expect to see any girls at all, but I think it's much better this way," said Dan Hehns. "Since we treat them differently. There's no way we could ever mouth off to them, like we would to other guys."

Joe Steiner agreed: "We treat them with more respect. There probably would be less done without them, because we'd always end up goofing off."

Army pay for the girls, Monday through Friday, is $81 a week. And many prefer it to working elsewhere.

"It sure beats working in a store," said Bev Stumpf of nearby Bridgeport. "We get fantastic hours, with no nights or weekends. We're outdoors most of the time, and we're actually learning something.

"And by the time this is over, will we ever be in good shape."

"I didn't relish the thought of working in a factory," said Debbie McBride, 17, of Waterloo. "I want to be a recreation director, and I just love working outdoors."

All the girls had been seeking summer jobs and had answered an advertisement for students to work in a summer recreation program.

But plans for an anti-pollution clean-up operation under the local militia were cancelled and instead they were asked if they wanted to join the reserve.

The girls, with 20 other applicants, were required to take a physical examination and none of the five chosen knew why they made the grade.

The stipulations are that a recruit must be a student between 17 and 24 and reasons ably physically fit.

"We all have come to the conclusion that they threw all the applications on the floor and randomly tossed darts at them," said Heather. "Actually, I wasn't too surprised that I was chosen. I suppose that you could call it women's intuition."

CANNES, France (AP) — A woman reported her handbag was stolen when she lunched at a beach cafe. It was not a routine purse snatch. The bag contained two rings worth $60,000 and about $5,000 in cash.

WILL RESIGN

KUALA LUMPUR (AP) — Malaysia's first and only woman cabinet minister, Fatimah Hashim, said she would resign at the end of this year because she was unseated as head of the women's wing of the ruling United Malays National Organization.

Ann Landers

'Free Dr. Mudd' Crusade Queried

Dear Ann Landers: Recently you said some nice things about the younger generation—how committed they are, and how concerned. You even used the phrase "better educated than we were at their age." And then you said something about their "idealism and dedication to good causes." I'd like your opinion on the current crusade to "Free Dr. Mudd."

Dr. Mudd is the country physician who, 107 years ago, was sentenced to life imprisonment for setting the broken leg of John Wilkes Booth, the man who shot Abraham Lincoln.

It seems Dr. Mudd's grandson, who lives in Saginaw, Mich., has spent countless hours and thousands of dollars to get his grandfather's reputation cleared up. This "crusade" has been supported by several state and county medical groups but now it wants the president of the United States to sign a statement exonerating the late Dr. Mudd family name. Kids all over the country have taken up this "cause." Bumper stickers are popping up everywhere. There are "Mudd Clubs" on several campuses and mock trials are being held as practice training for street law.

Wouldn't you think this younger generation, of which you seem to have such a high opinion, could do something better with their time?—Establishment Square.

Dear Square: My researchers have delved into this fascinating story and it seems there are 200 descendants of the good country doctor who are unhappy about the way their notorious ancestor was treated. Although he was pardoned by President Andrew Johnson four years after his imprisonment, he was never actually exonerated. It is a matter of record that John Wilkes Booth gave a phony name and wore a false beard and when Dr. Mudd treated the man he had no idea his patient was on the lam.

The following day when news of President Lincoln's assassination became known, Dr. Mudd notified the authorities that he had set a man's leg, and that the man may well have been the person they were looking for. Since all this has been carefully documented it seems grossly unfair that no official exoneration has been made. Dr. Mudd's name is still mud. I say it's high time they gave the innocent victim posthumous vindication. So fight on, kids!

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I just came home from seeing a movie which was extremely well done, very moving, marvelous acting, but full of violence and bloodshed. It left me deeply shaken.

I was disturbed by the reaction of the audience more than I was by the movie. A great many people laughed out loud during the scenes of violence and they also laughed during the sad parts. Why? I say respectfully, it can't.—Puzzled In Kingston

Dear Bisg: Immature people who are unsure of how to react, often laugh. They can't handle deep emotion in the presence of others, so they deprecate their feelings by laughing.

In tense situations it is not uncommon to witness laughter—even at funerals. Comedy and tragedy are often divided by a fine line.

Dear Ann Landers: What can I say to a sister who weighs 170 pounds (she's five feet, four inches), eats like the Russians are in Newark, and says: "My husband likes me this way." I'd like a good down-to-earth answer in the paper.—Betty

Dear Betty: Did she ask you to say something? She didn't ask me, so I'm keeping quiet. You can be sure your sister is unhappy with herself and her remarks are defensive. Be charitable and keep quiet.

Club Activities

STIRLING SENIOR CITIZENS — STIRLING — There were 29 members of the Stirling Senior Citizens in attendance at the 14th annual senior citizens picnic held at Zwick's Island recently. More than 1,500 seniors from various groups in Eastern Ontario were present. The program consisted of musical numbers and miscellaneous items. Mrs. Percy MacMullen contributed two elocution numbers for the Stirling club.

At a recent regular meeting of Stirling Senior Citizens held in the Masonic Temple, there were nine tables of euchre played. Percy MacMullen who was celebrating his 81st birthday that day was honored with a decorated cake by his wife. At the regular club meeting held recently there were 11 tables of euchre played. Three seniors were honored: Reuben Patterson who observed his 81st birthday July 20 and who provided a novel birthday cake with one candle from his wife.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Smith of Ottawa, Mrs. Robert Buchanan, Peterborough and Mrs. Ira David of Stirling provided the refreshments and two birthday cakes. Mrs. Smith's mother, Mrs. H. C. David observed her 85th birthday anniversary on July 29 and Mrs. David's sister, Miss Lennox Williams enjoyed a birthday anniversary on July 23. These two women were guests of honor.

The birthday song was sung for Everett Cooke who recently enjoyed a birthday. The president, Fred Heasman voiced appreciative thanks to all those who provided the delicious refreshments.

Other guests at the party were Mrs. Earl Scrimshaw, Belleville, Miss Debbie David, Stirling and Barbara Buchanan of Peterborough.

Italian Fashions Include Foreign Couturiers

Couturiers showing their fall-winter collections last week in Rome included four Americans, a Russian, a German, a Turk, a Swiss and a Frenchman-nine out of the 22 who paraded their models.

It is not unusual in the world of fashions for non-nationals to try their luck in one of the capitals of haute couture. But in Italy, the foreign invasion has coincided with a decline of the Italian couturiers.

Faced by rising labor costs, the closing of small textile concerns and other repercussions of the country's generally unstable economy, their number has dwindled.

The closure over the last three years of almost 2,000 small mills, suppliers of fabrics, has forced some designers to drop out, perhaps temporarily, or to turn to ready-to-wear fash ions.

Meanwhile, the foreigners, and Americans in particular, find a ready market in the United States where Italian fashions are taken up avidly. Models are bought up and mass produced for low price sale in little shops across the country.

One of the non-Italian couturiers settled in Rome only a year ago. They are Frank Martieri of the U.S., who appears to have heavy financial backing; Bergin Uskeri of Turkey and Patrizio of West Germany. Germans are also enthusiastic buyers of Italian clothes.

Foreign designers apparently have less trouble in obtaining the no longer inexpensive but still highly-prized Italian fabrics. Italian mills are believed to favor some of the non-Italian designers with quicker delivery. They hope sales abroad will step up broader exports for all Italian fabrics.

Mirror of Your Mind

by JOHN CONWELL

Should 'sense' make a girl decide?

IF she is the one who reaches a decision about whether or not to marry the guy, then a girl can listen to her head to help her make up her mind about how she feels in her heart. Too many times when a girl has misgivings about a suitor, she will be talked into a marriage that might make good sense only to the man. The girl herself, however, may grow to wonder if she shouldn't have waited until she was sure she loved him.

Is it best to combine 'pot hates'?

PERHAPS IT IT could be done that way, an individual might be able to rid himself of a good portion of the weight of his venom in one fell swoop. He would have to be careful about what he combines, though. For instance, Stanley Ralph Ross, author of "Dances for Fleas". (Banlam) who admits he hates flying (not the actual flying, but the boarding plane) going to the dentist, says: "My idea of hell would be to have my teeth drilled at 40,000 feet."

Why does a baby play favorites?

HE really doesn't, even though it sometimes seems that way because all Uncle Mike has to do is stretch out his big sinewy arms he comes into the room and his infant nephew will almost leap out of the cuddly warmth of his mother's arms to be fondled by his uncle. It is not that the baby prefers Uncle Mike to Mother— Baby knows where his main love and support come from—it merely be that the infant senses he has made another conquest.

No Russian Spectators Expected for Series

There will be approximately 1,700 Canadian spectators in Moscow—plus an official party, including press, of 500—but a Hockey Canada official said today the traffic will be virtually one-way.

"Apart from their official party, nobody is coming from Russia," Len Knott said. He made the statement while officiating at the symbolic opening of the ticket sales to the Sept. 2-8 part of the series in Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg and Vancouver respectively.

The second half of the tournament will be in Moscow Sept. 22-24-25-28.

A flowered envelope in the name of S. Elliott, 214 l'Esperance Street, St. Lambert, Que., was first out of the barrel, drawn by John Cooper, a 13-year-old Toronto hockey player.

One ticket was drawn from a barrel representing each of the four cities on the Canadian tour, before officials of H. A. Watts, Ltd., ticket organizers, got down to the days-long job of pulling out 30,000 lucky letters from the approximately 300,000 received in the ticket lottery.

Each of the 300,000 letters contains a coupon, published in every English-, French- and Italian-language daily newspaper in Canada. The lucky ones will receive a certificate which may be exchanged for tickets at $25 a pair.

The draw will cover about two-thirds of the capacity of the four arenas. One-third is being held back for Hockey Canada to distribute to the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, the Canadian Intercollegiate Athletic Union, the National Hockey League, directors of Hockey Canada and members of the provincial and federal governments.

John Alexander of Hockey Canada stressed that, "there will be no free-for-every ticket will be paid for."

Garry Poste, a young Toronto coach, drew the first ticket for the Toronto game—and it went to a resident of Hamilton. Fabio Chiapetta of 72 William Street.

Gary Aldcorn, former NHL player and director of programs for Hockey Canada, and formerly from Winnipeg, drew for the Winnipeg game. He came up with a Saskatoon winner—Mr. and Mrs. D. Gaugh of 216 Dalbrooke Crescent.

Dave McDowell, former captain of University of Toronto Varsity Blues, whose club defeated a Russian student team on tour last February, drew the Vancouver game—A. C. Campbell of 1000 West 11th Avenue.

The lottery scheme was initiated by Hockey Canada to guarantee all Canadians an "equal chance of buying tickets for the" long-waited hockey confrontation.

The certificates that go to the lucky applicants are printed on paper similar to that used for currency, a move to foil counterfeiters.

Burwash Back For Title Defence

WINNIPEG (CP) — Peter Burwash, healthier, faster and more relaxed, is back on a Canadian court after a two-month suspension to defend his national tennis title.

Burwash, top ranking Canadian last year after his victory here in the national tournament, today faced Richard Legendre of Montreal in the second round of the men's singles.

The No. 1 seed, Mike Belkin of Montreal, was pitted against Dave Johnston of Vancouver in his first match. All top-seeded players had byes from Monday's opening round that produced two minor upsets.

Tally Savard of Vancouver defeated seventh-seeded Bonita Senn of Toronto 6-3, 1-6, 6-3 in the opening round of the women's singles and young Mike McLaughlin of Toronto knocked off Mike Bolton of Vancouver, the No. 9 ranked Canadian, 7-6, 3-6, 6-4.

The only other seeded players to compete were Louise Brown of Port Credit, Ont., seeded No. 8, and Ingo Weber of Toronto, No. 6, and both recorded easy wins.

Burwash is playing his first tournament in Canada since receiving a 60-day suspension from the Canadian Lawn Tennis Association for leaving the Davis Cup team earlier this year.

But he and Belkin, who blasted one another after Burwash left the team just before it was to begin play against Mexico, ironed out their differences during an hour - long discussion Monday.

Both had basically the same thing to say about the situation: "It is now a closed subject."

With that problem off his mind, Burwash prepared to open defence of his title by saying he would like to meet Belkin in the final.

"However, each of us has a long haul ahead, particularly myself. All five potential rounds are very, very tough."

The 28-year-old Toronto native came to the competitions 15 pounds lighter and a little faster than last year.

He says a no-meat diet he has followed rigidly since taking in a health symposium in Hawaii nearly eight months ago helped with his weight loss and also added health and fleetness.

"I have never felt so healthy. I haven't had so much as a stomach ache or a sore throat since I started the program. I can even see better.

"And I always used to think vegetarians were crazy."

The added speed should help the Canadian champion overcome an elbow operation and a still-faulty serve.

A recent operation to remove bone chips from his right elbow means the arm "won't be back in shape for about six months."

The seven-day competition, which will include the national juniors championship beginning Wednesday, concludes Sunday with finals in all events.

Track Controversy Still Continues

MONTREAL (CP) — The Canadian Olympic Association will meet Friday to discuss the makeup of the controversial track and field team which will represent Canada at the Summer Olympics in Munich this month, COA secretary Dick Pound said Monday.

The Canadian Track and Field Association originally named 47 athletes to the Olympic team, but when CTFA president Harvey Pearce presented the roster to the COA last week, 10 names were missing.

Apparently Pearce made the cuts without consultation and has been criticized by other CTFA officials who feel athletes who met the association's team standards should go to Munich.

Pound explained that Pearce "said of 47 that met the standards and we wanted to know what to do about it. We asked how many really had a chance to do well."

"That night Harvey came back to us with a 37 - name list and we approved it. So in truth the COA hasn't informed anyone from the team."

The matter is to be discussed at a regular COA meeting planned for Friday "and I have no idea how it will work out," Pound said.

He said the CTFA had claimed its standards were tough and would be pleased if 50 athletes made the team. The COA then tentatively planned on 30 for the track team "with the idea that if a few more made it, that would be fine."

"By the time of the trials last week, 47 had made the standard and you know a lot of them will go over there as cannon fodder in the games. There is no way Canada has 47 track and field athletes with a chance to make the semi-finals or finals in their events.

"I don't think the point of the Games is to reward someone who trains hard for four months with a free trip to Munich."

Belleville Bantams Go Sour

How 'Sweet' it wasn't for the Thurlow-Belleville Yardmen bantams in last night's E.O.B.A. contest with Cobourg.

P. Sweet and R. Davy limited Thurlow to only two hits as Cobourg bombed the locals 14-0.

Terry Holgate and Bruce McDonnell struck out eight in taking the loss. Sandy Waterson and Rod Dafoe had the only hits for Thurlow.

Kinsmen Capture 22 Medals

Officially it was the Cobourg Highland Games but it appeared that the Belleville Kinsmen Track and Field Club were running down hill as the locals ran away with 22 medals.

The men's open events brought the Belleville Club four medals as Phil Ancherl captured the gold in the 400 and 800 metres and Jim Thompson took the honors in the 1500 metres and the silver in the 5000 metres.

Steve Montgomery picked up a pair of gold medals in the midget 200 and 400 metres plus a silver in the 100 metres. Dan Gutoskie won the midget high jump with Joe Brooks pulling up third.

The bantam boys relay team of Brooks, Scott Simpson, Doug Ross, and John Parks won the gold. Dave Rutherford placed second in the javenlin 100 and 200 metres.

Teams from Cobourg, Oshawa, Barry's Bay, Peterboro and Toronto were competing.

Girls Softball

The rich were dipping into the Belleville Minor Girls Softball League coffers last night and were coming out a little richer after a trio of junior play-off games.

Clayton's TV hammered Lucas Spur 36-1, Hough's Food blasted Ed Thomas 31-23 and the Herdmen spoiled Quinte Food 20-7.

Many Familiar CFL Names Among Missing When Season Starts

By BRUCE LEVETT
Canadian Press Sports Editor

Mel Profit, Joe Zuger, Ken Lehmann, Silas McKinnie—names which made sports headlines in the past — will be missing from the Canadian Football League rosters this year.

Monday was cut-down day in the CFL, the day when the nine teams had to narrow their 35 imports and 17 non-imports for the 1972 season.

Among the stars who won't be back to read all of them cut Monday, some went earlier—are:

Montreal Alouettes—Joe Blake, poetry-writing defensive end; Merl Code, Wally Highsmith, Bobby-Lee Thompson, Bill Whidden, Wally Balasiuk and Tony Proudfoot, all defensive stalwarts of the past; Gene Coppedge, retired veteran centre; Al Phaneuf, the Canadian divinity student who became an outstanding defensive halfback, has returned to missionary work; Pierre Delsarditis has retired from his offensive tackle spot to go into business; Linebacker Mark Koncsos was dealt to Hamilton Tiger-Cats for Canadian Glen Weir.

Ottawa Rough Riders—Dennis Duncan, who went to Ottawa after being suspended by Montreal on the eve of Grey Cup 1970 for disciplinary reasons, tried to move to the national Football League but was told their new rule which prohibits the move without a one-year waiting period.

Ken Lehmann, perennial all-star middle linebacker and former lineman of the year, was cut on the final day. With him went defensive tackle Marshall Shirk and defensive back Bartley Allen; offensive guard Dave Braggins, offensive end Dave Pivic and punter-flanker DeLeeuw. Others cut included Al Dresser, Geoff Hamlin, Tom Kruyer, Dick Lolotai, Herb Marshall, Dave Schultz, and Alan Thomson. Jim Plankoski and Al Marcelo were placed on the injured list.

Toronto Argonauts—Tight end Mel Profit, another all-star although now sparingly in the last two years, couldn't find room at tight end. Ironically, Bob Hamilton—the Canadian earmarked as a possible replacement—is also out. Injuries felled defensive end Ed Harrington, also running back Dave Cranmer, both gone at least for this year, and old age caught up with leader-captain Danny Nykiluk who bowed out of his offensive tackle position. Gone also are linebacker Larry Rennie and running back Mary Kendricks. John Carlos, U.S. Olympic medalist who spent last year with a wide receiver with Montreal, was cut and picked up by Toronto, was cut again.

Hamilton Tiger-Cats—Bob Steiner, defensive tackle who came right out of the steel mills, is gone; so is Zuger, who, his quarterbacking days finished, tried to make it in the

SILAS McKINNIE

FNFL as his considerable punting ability and ran into the same rule that stopped Duncan.

Saskatchewan Roughriders—End Silas McKinnie, traded to Hamilton in the off-season, went instead to St. Louis Cardinals of the NFL. Ken Frith, defensive end, who broke his neck and missed all last season, got well and signed with Baltimore Colts only to run into more health problems there. The only two new faces in the Saskatchewan lineup this season are defensive back Tom Campana from Ohio State and Canadian centre John Reid as the Roughies struggle to replace the retired great centre Ted Urness.

Calgary Stampeders—The Grey Cup champions cut Jim Silliye, who held the CFL record for the number of pass runbacks in one season—123 set in 1970 when he came within 40 yards of breaking the distance record also, Bill Van Burkleo, punter and emergency quarterback, was cut Monday; so was halfback Ray Langcaster from Antigonish, N.S., and linebacker-end Brad Macell from Montreal and offensive tackle Dennis Kemp from Tulsa, Okla., and wide receiver John Henderson.

Edmonton Eskimos—Gone via the retirement route are quarterback Larry Lawrence and veteran running back Jim (Long Gone) Thomas. Fred Dunn, a possible with Alcoa tendon problems, was cut, as was veteran tight end Henry King. Split end Volley Murphy, who joined the Esks last year, is out, along with running back Roy Bell from Oklahoma, from whom great things had been expected. Tom Wilkinson, a quarterback cut first by Toronto then by British Columbia Lions, made safely past cut-day with the Esks. Greg Pipes, defensive tackle, is on the 30-day injury list and import linebacker Therman Cooch and Canadian offensive lineman Dave Hubert are out.

Winnipeg Blue Bombers—Paul Bride, a five-year Canadian defensive back, was cut along with imports Ted Cottrell and Billy Don Burnett.

British Columbia Lions—Surprise cut was quarterback Don Bunce, hero of the 1972 Rose Bowl game, but the guessing is he'll be back on a five-day tryout which could inject him back into the roster. Lions are also without Lach Heron, a Canadian split end with five years' experience.

Devolin Motors Gum Up The Big Red Machine

All good things must come to an end and Devolin Motors finally met an end to Rollins Construction's good thing.

It was a long time in coming but Rollins finally had their first Commercial Softball League game of the season last night, 3-2 to a hot Devolin Motors nine. In the second half of the Alemite doubleheader Howard and Roberts hung on to second spot in the standings with a 7-2 drubbing of the Globe Hotel.

Ron Maracle was the major as the Devolin hurler limited the usually power ridden Construcktionmen lineup to only three hits. The big right-hander fanned six and walked two in staking the win.

Doug Olsen's single, Rick Rosebush's double and a pair of errors allowed the winners to push the two winning runs across in the fourth inning. Tom McDonald's third-inning home run had tied the score after Rollins had taken the lead on Dale Duval's RBI double.

Ted Waite started for the league-leaders but lasted only three innings, before giving way to Ken Demille. Waite gave up all three runs on four hits. Demille fired no-hit ball over the final four frames.

Duval and Ralph Plaine had doubles and Carl Boomhower a single for the losers' only hits.

Howard and Roberts didn't have an extra base hit in their 7-2 win over Globe last night but they had enough singles to leave little doubt as to their victory.

The winners picked up four runs in the second inning, two in the fifth and one in the seventh to beep their four point bulge over Devolin intact. John Campbell and Dwight Rathwell had three singles apiece for H and R with Rusty Garvie, Pat Asselstine and Larry Potter adding a single each.

Bob Swan kept the Hotelmen off balance firing a 1-hitter and striking out 11 killings. He did not walk a batter.

Bill Harrison failed to keep up with his Player of the Week performance last week in taking the loss for the Globe. Harrison picked up the Labatt's award for his nine-teen innings of work and two victories over Devolin and the Juniors, but couldn't stifle the Printers last night.

Plane's Pitchers Use Heads

Two heads were better than one in Belleville Minor Baseball action last night as Philip Van Luntteren and Brian Crookright combined to pitch a no-hitter.

The pair split the record game in a 14-0 tadpole win by Plane's Concrete over Bob's Sports. They struck out 15 batters and issued five walks. Mike McEachern and Paul Walsh pitched for the losers.

Van Luntteren led Plane's at the plate with a double and three singles while Crookright and Darren Vane contributed a double and two singles each.

In another Monday night tadpole encounter it was Coleson Esso stopping Cablevision 10-7. Chris Clayton and David Martensen hurled the win striking out 14 and walking ten while Steve Thompson was tagged with the loss.

David Coughlin led the winners with three singles followed by Murray Lapierette, John Gibson and David Martcliffes with two each. Alan Maizawa homered for Cablevue with Bill Mays adding a single for the only other hit.

Softball Powers Win

The Kinsmen Hawks and Gib Waite Motors finished one-two in the tyke division of the Belleville Minor Softball League and both began assorted drives to meet each other in the finals by piecing up impressive opening round playoff victories.

The pennant winning Kinsmen cleaned the Malcolm Brothers 8-2 behind three hit pitching of Sean Monaghan. Monaghan, Steve Hannah and Dale Perry had doubles and Bruce Shugg three singles for the winners.

Gib Waite had just an easy time of it hammering Clayton Lucas Spur 16-2. Doug Healey fired a three-hitter and homered ten for the Motormen. Pete Wood pulled a homer and Lee Smith two singles.

In the third tyke contest of the night United Realty nipped the A and W 12-11. Richard Haskin, Bruce Wright, and Rusty Downey homered for the victors with Brian Bog his smashing a circuit blast in defeat.

Broadloom Girls Can't Best BYBF

Any Belleville Broadloom plans to pull the rug from under the high flying BYBF girls were quickly dashed as the pennant leaders mulled down another Belleville and District Ladies Softball League victim, 24-6.

Sue Morton picked up the win allowing 16 hits and striking out 10. She pounded a homer in her own behalf and Linda Emery with four singles. Donna Preston with three singles and Sheila Smith with a double and two singles.

Marianne Sills gave up 24 hits for the loss on the Broadloom mound. She punched a triple and two singles in a losing cause.

Sign of the Times

Tom MacDonald gave Rollins' construction an omen of things to come with this second inning home run to deep left field, Tom's solo blast tied the score at 1-1 and one inning later his Devolin Motors teammates scored twice more for a 3-1 victory. It marked Rollins' first loss in 20 Commercial Softball League starts this season.

UIC Stays in Industrial Race

If U.I.C. doesn't win the division B pennant in Industrial Softball League it won't be from lack of trying. The Commissionmen became the third team in the league to earn 16 victories by pasting Foley's 9-4.

Their win moved U.I.C. to within one point of Mead Johnson and one point up on the C.N. in the tight division B race. Pete Hamilton hurled the win allowing nine hits and fanning three. Tom Stinson had four singles, Joe Clarke a trio of safeties and Clint Halladay a home run as the victors built up a 9-0 lead before giving up four runs in the final two frames.

Gary Maher took the loss for Foley's with Joe Doxtator's homer and Bob Wannamaker's two singles providing most of the hitting support.

The pitchers took over in another Industrial game when AOCO and the Utilities fought to a 1-1 tie.

Grant Collet blazed a three hitter for the division C leading AOCO squad striking out seven and not walking a batter. His pitching prowess was stymied by counterpart Wilson Bulpit for the Utilities as the big righthander struck out four in fashioning a six-hitter.

The Independents moved another step into contention in division C by defeating Canadian Tire 10-6.

Doug Campbell had four hits for the winners and Rod Green three, Wally Hall and Campbell combined for the win.

Esks Tackle Limping Lions

EDMONTON (CP) — Can a big Eskimo beat a limping Lion?

That's a question that will be answered tonight when British Columbia Lions face Edmonton Eskimos in Clarke Stadium to open the Western Football Conference regular season.

The Lions, weakened by injury, will go up against a reinforced Edmonton offensive line in the contest. The kickoff is at 8 p.m. MDT.

The Eskimo offensive unit has been a problem spot for several seasons, but coach Ray Jauch is confident things are shaping up.

"You're damn right," he said. "I'm happier with our offensive line. We've got some size there now."

For instance, there is guard Larry Watson, who picked up some tricks of the trade in brief stints with Toronto Argonauts and Hamilton Tiger-Cats. He's 6-4 and 265 pounds.

"Turner and Olson also have size," said Jilech, who picked up some tricks of the trade in brief stints with Toronto Argonauts and Hamilton Tiger-Cats. He's 6-4 and 265 pounds.

"Turner and Olson also have size," said Jilech, who no doubt would relish a repeat of the Eskimos 34-0 romp over the Lions in a pre-season clash in Vancouver.

EAGLE KEYS

Last year the Eskimos opened the WFC campaign with five straight losses.

Jauch can toss a couple of former Lions at B.C., including centre Bob Howes and quarterback Tom Wilkinson, who played a major part in that pre-season thumping.

He said Howes, 6-4 and 245 pounds, will be given "every chance" to start.

The Eskimos will have rookie Tyrone Walls at tight end, a position he took away from veteran Henry King. Walls can also play the offensive backfield and in the opinion of line coach Babe Cecchia is "a superior blocker."

Lions coach Eagle Keys has a batch of injured players, including defensive tackle Garrett Hunsperger, defensive back Dave Easley and receiver Mike Leveille.

"If we get anybody else hurt," Keys growled, "we might just as well quit right there and start getting ready for the next one ... unless we're winning."

A B.C. victory isn't out of the question. They still possess running power in fullback Leo Lenzo and the pass threat of Jim Young, and managed to win three of four exhibition outings.

Their Mistake

TORONTO (CP) — Pancho Contreras 3rd son of the former Davis Cup player, made a 5,306-mile round trip to the Ontario Open Junior tennis tournament—and lost because of a misunderstanding.

Contreras was beaten 7-6, 6-3 by Herb Stanway of Montreal in the first round of the under-16 division.

"The Mexican tennis officials told us he was ranked in the top four in his country in the under-16 division," said tournament supervisor Alma Dimock.

"We didn't realize until he arrived that he was only 13 and should have entered the under-14 division.

There were few upsets in the play which will keep 180 young stars busy for the next week.

Ken Thomas of Detroit defeated Dave Dimmer of Martinsgrove, Ont., 0-6, 6-4, 6-1 in an under-play. Marc Cecere of Buffalo, N.Y., beat Andre Cantin of Quebec City, 6-3, 6-0 in the under-18 division.

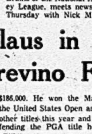
Nicklaus in Unfamiliar Role As Trevino Favored for PGA



BIRMINGHAM, Mich. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus placed himself in the unfamiliar but relatively comfortable position of merely doing while praising Lee Trevino stood ready, willing and able to take the role of favorite in the PGA national championship.

Nicklaus, easily the dominant figure in the game this year, continued to insist "I'm going in as an underdog," when he made a late arrival at the Oakland Hills Country Club course Monday afternoon.

He is coming off minor surgery on a badly infected right index finger—the tip of the finger still is swathed in two layers of bandages—that forced him to withdraw from last week's national team championship at Ligonier, Pa.

It also forced the Golden bear lengthy, meticulous practice and preparation for any national championship.

Nicklaus is the season's leading money winner with some $186,000. He won the Masters, the United States Open and two other titles this year and is defending the PGA title he won some 18 months ago.

JACK NICKLAUS

Now, in the last of the year's four major championships and Trevino, who beat Nicklaus by a stroke in the British Open is ready to take over his standard role as favorite.

NEW YORK (AP) — Jack Nicklaus who missed the Professional Golfers Association national team championship over the weekend, still held the lead Monday in PGA tournament player division money winnings.

Nicklaus, saying he would be a definite starter for the PGA championship beginning Thursday at Birmingham, Mich., following surgery last week for an infected finger, is the leader in earnings this year with $186,651.

Lee Trevino and Jerry Heard, whose teams failed to make the cut in the team championship, are second and third, respectively, in earnings with $129,147 and $118,191.

Fifth Bruin to Defect

Sanderson in WHA

BOSTON (AP) — Derek Sanderson, the rugged, mop-haired centre for the National Hockey League champion Boston Bruins, has found a new home —and a bigger pay cheque.

Sanderson and Philadelphia Blazers of the new World Hockey Association "reached an agreement" late Monday night on a $2.6-million, five-year contract, which his lawyer Bob Woolf says "will make Sanderson the highest paid athlete in America."

Woolf said early today that no contract actually had been signed, but that Sanderson and Blazers' president Jim Cooper had reached a "verbal agreement."

A source in Philadelphia said the signing would take place in Philadelphia, probably Wednesday. Sanderson could not be reached.

With the signing, Sanderson will be the fifth Bruin to jump to the WHA this summer. Goalie Gerry Cheevers signed last week with Cleveland Crusaders, Jacky Green signed with New England Whalers and John (Pie) McKenzie and Ron Plumb have signed with the Blazers.

Sanderson, 28, a five-year veteran with the NHL, is a superior penalty killer and a scoring threat on the breakaway.

Woolf, who said he has negotiated more than 400 contracts for athletes — "but this is the biggest" — said he and Sanderson met last Friday with Bruins' owners Weston Adams senior and junior.

"They understood the situation," Woolf said. "They knew we weren't trying to upset their financial situation ... We didn't ask them the bid against the Blazers."

Woolf said the Blazers were so persistant in getting Derek they even asked me and Mc-

DEREK SANDERSON

Kenzie to go to Europe where Derek was recently to talk to him."

Sanderson has "ambivelant feelings about leaving," Woolf said, "but he's going with the blessings of Weston Adams senior because he understands the situation."

The Bruins were reported to have offered Sanderson a $600,000 contract.

When the Blazers' offer was made public some days ago, Sanderson remarked: "No matter how you look at it, this skinny kid from Niagara Falls who never got out of the ninth grade isn't going to do too badly."

THE WEALTHY IMMIGRANT

The early American folklore that the streets of the New World were paved with gold has turned out to be true for many immigrants who moved to this continent from Europe.

Immigrants over the last 60 years were for the most part impoverished workers and farmers who faced a hopeless future in the country of their birth where land and the real estate wealth of the country was owned by a few wealthy families.

We take the right to own one's own home for granted, but to the bulk of the Old World's poor it was and is an often impossible dream.

It is any wonder new immigrants to our shores save large portions of their incomes to invest in real estate? Foremost is their own home, after which they often go on to purchase investment properties that eventually provide income.

A seasoned Realtor is an expert in investment opportunities in his area. He is aware of rising values, zoning changes and tax shifts to avoid.

Most experienced Realtors have their own case histories of investment-minded citizens they have helped on the road to financial security. If you are not now, you could be one of these case histories.

Pinder Switches

CLEVELAND (AP) -- Cleveland Crusaders of the new World Hockey Association, announced Monday the signing of Gerry Pinder, who played last season with California Golden Seals of the National Hockey League.

Terms of the contract were not disclosed.

Pinder, 23-year-old forward, led the Seals in scoring last season with 32 goals and 28 assists and was the 11th leading point-maker in the NHL Western Division.

Pinder played his first two years with Chicago Black Hawks, totalling 32 goals and 38 assists.

Porter Makes Amends As Cats Skin Roughies

HAMILTON (CP) — Hamilton Tiger-Cats had Lewis Porter to thank for the last-minute field goal that gave them a victory in their Canadian Football League opener Monday night.

They also had Porter to thank for the situation that made the victory necessary for their 20-17 decision over Saskatchewan Roughriders.

Porter, an effective flanker with the Ticats last season, made a rags-to-riches debut as a defensive back. He was victimized twice as Saskatchewan quarterback Ron Lancaster threw touchdown passes to Bob Pearce.

After Pearce streaked by him on a 65-yard pass-and-run play to tie the score at 17-17, Porter made amends.

He took the kickoff on his goal line and ran it back 82 yards to plant the Ticats deep in Saskatchewan territory. Two plays later, with 37 seconds left, rookie Ian Sunter kicked the game-breaking field goal from the 38-yard line.

Hamilton quarterback Wally Gabler ran around the end from the two-yard line for one touchdown and tossed a six yard pass to veteran Tommy Joe Coffey for another. Sunter completed the Ticat scoring with another field goal and two converts.

The Tiger-Cats were never behind as Gabler's touchdown staked them to a 10-3 lead at the half. Pearce's 14-yard reception made it 10-10 at the end of the third quarter and the teams traded touchdowns before Sunter's winning three-pointer.

Porter, who had not played defence as a professional, lost his job as flanker to Garney Henley, who caught three of the 14 passes Gabler completed in 25 tries. Dave Buchanan was Hamilton's most effective ball carrier with 81 yards in 21 rushes.

Lancaster completed 12 of his 25 passes, seven of them to Pearce for 167 yards, but the Ticats stifled the Riders' ground attack, holding fullback George Reed to 38 yards on seven carries.

Errors hurt both clubs. Hamilton lost three fumbles, one of which set up Abendschan's field goal late in the first quarter. Lancaster gave up three interceptions, two of them by Al Brenner, who led the CFL with nine last season.

What the Stars Say

By JEANE DIXON

Wednesday, Aug. 2

Aries (March 21-April 19): Abide with the certainty of matters you have checked out for yourself. Recent promises, speculation run into cross-currents and are tested.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): It may take several times, but you can win with reasonable explanations, sticking to the point. All things mechanical and electrical need careful use.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Popping in on people who don't expect you is the last thing to do. You may find some project hasn't been well planned.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Be tolerant, your plans need resilience. Material progress is sometimes an indicator for lack of ways of measuring factors.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 23): Make good on your responsibilities. Working conditions are subject to temporary changes. Differences arising now tend to be lasting.

Virgo (Aug. 22 - Sept. 22): There's little to be gained by explaining the past, reward for a good image. It is unlikely that you can find what you want.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Invitations deserve a prompt response. Your opinion may change with surprising ease information. Take care of your appearance.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): You have a greater range of choice than most people. Make adjustments around their limitations and proceed at full energy.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Nothing comes simply for you let the nonsense. Concentrate on doing a few selected projects well. Originality is possible.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): You can't always have every detail settled your way. Adjustment are likely. See what you can do to avoid tension.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Take time for reflection in the midst of today's chores. Travel tends to delays and confusion. Horse life includes endless discussions.

To Your Good Health

Child Can Hiccup Before It's Born

By G. C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is it possible for a child to be born hiccups? A friend claims that, when she was carrying her first child, she felt it move and it seemed as though the baby was having hiccups.

When the baby was born the doctor was surprised that the baby was crying. As a rule, as you know, the baby does not cry until the doctor spanks it.—L.

Your friend may have been right, because infants can have hiccups immediately after birth, and it is known to happen in the uterus before birth.

I can't agree, however, that a baby doesn't cry until spanked. Many of them start breathing normally without any help. That's the purpose of a spanking to give a mild shock that starts the baby breathing. Probably many doctors give that mild spank routinely, but in fact it isn't always necessary. Still, no harm done, either.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I was told by my family doctor that I have a prostate condition, and he suggested that I consult a urologist. Before I do, I would like to learn more about this condition. Is there any treatment except surgery? I have no pain, but urine pressure is lower at times.—R.J.

Opening lead—nine of clubs.

Some problems that occur during the play can be solved with absolute confidence in the outcome. But there are others where you simply aren't sure of your ground and the best you can do is to take the course of action that is more likely to be right than wrong. Here's such a case.

Presume you're East, defending against four spades, and partner leads the nine of clubs. Dummy plays the king, but, if you're a thoughtful player, you don't automatically win with the ace.

Instead, you take a moderate amount of time to survey the hand as a whole, and, more particularly, your play at this point. You don't want to be stamped into taking the ace and then start to think the hand over, for that would be doing things in exactly the wrong order.

First, you try to judge the significance of the club lead. You know the nine is not a fourth best lead, nor can it be the top card of a sequence, since the eight is in your hand. It could be the start of a worthless three-card suit, but it is far more likely to represent a singleton or a doubleton.

If the nine is a singleton, it is obviously right to take the ace and return the suit. But if it is a doubleton, the proper defense must be to let dummy win the trick with the king, at the same time signaling with the eight to show the ace.

There is no good reason to assume that declarer has five clubs rather than four; on the contrary, he is far more likely to have only four clubs. You therefore permit dummy to win the trick with the king, and sooner or later partner gets a club ruff to put the hand down once.

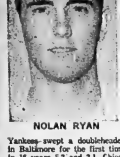
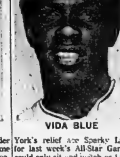
Ryan Baffles Own Baseman



BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Nolan Ryan's fastball baffled the opposition's hitters and his own first baseman Monday night.



The fireballing right-hander once struck out 21 batters in a minor league game but lost 3-1 on two steals of home.

Lightning struck again Monday when Oris stole home with an unearned run in the fourth inning after Ryan's wild pickoff throw to give Kansas City Royals a 1-0 victory over California Angels although the Royals didn't get a hit until Steve Hovley's first-pitch single in the eighth.

Elsewhere in the American League, Oakland's Vida Blue retired the first 17 Texas batters and hurled the Athletics to a two-hit 2-0 triumph over the Rangers, Detroit Tigers' Mickey Lolich became the majors' first 18-game winner by turning back Boston Red Sox 5-2, New York's Yankees swept a doubleheader in Baltimore for the first time in 16 years 5-2 and 2-1, Chicago's Dick Allen became only the second modern player to hit two inside-the-park home runs in one game as the White Sox whipped Minnesota Twins 8-1 and Cleveland Indians swept Milwaukee Brewers 6-5 and 10-9 on straight day 3-2 in 10 innings and 2-1.

NOLAN RYAN

VIDA BLUE

Ryan allowed only Hovley's single and struck out 7 before leaving for a pinch hitter in the eighth. But he issued one of his six walks to Amos Otis leading off the fourth, and then threw wildly past first—one of three throwing errors he committed during the game—allowing Otis to race to third.

Otis stayed put as Ed Kirkpatrick struck out and Lou Piniella bounced back to Ryan. But then he surprised everybody by stealing home as Johnny Mayberry watched a 3-2 pitch sail low for ball four.

"What can I say?" Ryan sighed. "It beat myself. It's my toughest loss in the majors 3-1 the first time I've been bad on pickoff throws since I can't remember when. The 3-2 pickoff to Mayberry was the only time I didn't look over at Otis and make him stop."

"I was trying to go the whole time I was over there," Otis said. "But I couldn't get it in gear. When he went 3-2 I got a jump and I went. I was hollering all the time to Mayberry, 'Don't swing, don't swing.'"

Almost overlooked in the excitement was the three-hit pitching of Kansas City's Roger Nelson. Ironically, in his last outing Nelson blanked Chicago on four hits and broke up a no-hit bid by San Bahnsen with a two-out single in the eighth inning.

Oakland's Blue, striving to regain the 1971 form that earned him the Al's Most Valuable Player and Cy Young Awards, put his no-hitter when Texas pitcher Rich Hand beat out a bunt with two out in the sixth.

Blue also scored Oakland's first run, racing home all the way from second base in the third inning when left fielder Ted Ford caught Joe Rudi's fly ball and trotted toward the dugout thinking the inning was over.

Detroit's Lolich didn't have everything Blue had—"I was struggling all night," he said—but managed to down the Red Sox despite yielding seven hits, including Carl Yastrzemski's second homer of the season, and walking five. Aurelio Rodriguez and Bill Freehan scored two-run homers for the Tigers.

Baltimore skipper Earl Weaver, who bypassed New York's relief ace Sparky Lyle for last week's All-Star Game, could only sit and watch as Lyle spun two scoreless innings in each game, saving the second for Fritz Peterson and the nightcap for Jon Gardner, his 20th and 21st rescue jobs.

The Yankees rallied to win both games, scoring five runs in the seventh inning of the opener on five scratch hits, two errors, a walk, a fielder's choice and one solid single and capturing the nightcap on Bobby Murcer's two-out, two-run single in the eighth.

Chicago's Allen matched the record of two inside-the-park homers in a game set in 1932 by New York's Ben Chapman. His first, with two males aboard in the first inning against Minnesota's Bert Blyleven, should have been a single but centre fielder Bobby Darwin fell and the ball rolled to the warning track. In the fifth, with one man on, Allen and Darwin missed a bungled back-hand attempt as the ball rolled to the fence.

Cleveland's Jack Brohamer led off the 10th inning with a home run to win the first game for the Indians and they took the nightcap on a bases loaded throwing error by Milwaukee pitcher Gary Ryerson in the ninth inning.

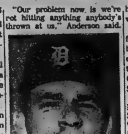
Reds Still Don't Feel at Home



BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Cincinnati Reds are a feared baseball team everywhere but in their own Riverfront Stadium.

The leaders of the National League West Division have a 57-37 record but only 22 of those victories have come in Cincinnati.

It was the same sad story in Cincinnati Monday night. San Francisco Giants, trailing the Reds by 15 games, beat Cincinnati 7-2. The Reds didn't even score until the ninth inning.

"I have no idea why we can't win at home," Reds' Manager Sparky Anderson said. "I think basically we should be a better club at home than on the road. This stadium is built for a team like ours."

Gaels in Gear

OSHAWA, Ont. (CP) — Oshawa Green Gaels scored a 15-12 overtime win over Brampton Excelsiors to take a 3-1 lead in their Ontario Lacrosse Association Junior A quarter-final Monday night.

The teams were tied 3-3 after the first period but Bramalea led 10-6 going into the third when Oshawa went ahead.

Bramalea's Gomez Connor forced the game into overtime when he scored with 4* seconds remaining in regulation time.

Joe Greentree scored two goals, including the winner, to pace Oshawa. Pat Fallon, Larry Shrigley and Terry Lloyd each score a further two. Snipers went to Terry Hayland, Doug Bannon, Murray Cawker, Tom Wreggitt, Al Drew, Stan Cockerton and Jeff Rorabeck.

Gomez Connor scored four times for Bramalea and Terry Mastine had three. George Naka scored a pair and assists went to, Joe Madeira, John Haviland and Chuck Williams.

"Our problem now is we're not hitting anything anybody's thrown at us," Anderson said.

The Giants scored twice in the first. Bobby Bonds hit his 11th homer in the third and Carrillo's slapped a two-run double in the fourth. Ed Goodson and Chris Speier drove in the final San Francisco runs.

Elsewhere in the National League the Astros edged San Diego Padres 3-2, Chicago Cubs blanked St. Louis Cardinals 4-0, Pittsburgh Pirates beat Philadelphia Phillies 2-0, Atlanta Braves trimmed Los Angeles Dodgers 4-3 and New York Mets topped Montreal Expos 4-2.

Houston's John Edwards walked with the bases loaded in the ninth to decide the game with San Diego, which had played three straight extra-inning games.

Ferguson Jenkins got his 16th victory with his shutout of St. Louis. He also drove in two Chicago runs with a single.

Pittsburgh began its game with Philadelphia with a double and three singles for two runs driven in by Dave Cash and Willie Stargell. Bob Moose, 7-6, was the winner with a six-hitter.

Oscar Brown hit a two-run triple past the Dodgers' Frank Robinson as Atlanta came from behind for a victory. The triple capped a four-run seventh inning. Denny McLain raised his record to 2-1 as he allowed five hits before being lifted for a pinch hitter in the seventh inning. Bill Buckner homered for the Braves in the third.

Duffy Dyer hit a two-run homer in the eighth to break a tie for a New York victory. Tommie Agee and Dave Schneck each got a run batted in in the fifth and seventh but Montreal tied the game in the seventh on a bases-loaded sacrifice fly and an infield error.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — Prices in most major sectors of the Toronto stock market moved higher for the third consecutive session in light mid-morning trading today.

The industrial index was up .28 to 205.03 and golds .34 to 224.6. Base metals were down .35 to 92.13 and western oils .20 to 232.80.

Volume by 11 a.m. was 497,000 shares, up from 448,000 at the same time Monday.

Advances held a moderate margin over declines, 128 to 93, with 171 issues unchanged.

Banking, communication, industrial mining and trust and loan issues posted moderate gains while food processing, oil refining and merchandising stocks turned lower.

Negotiated agreements signed in April, May and June this year called for increases averaging 7.3 per cent a year in all industries except construction, compared with 9.4 per cent in settlements reached in January, February and March.

Police Demand Bond Before Find Released

TORONTO (CP) — "They lows the money to be given to keep telling us honesty pays, but what will other people think now?" said Al Dickinson, father of one of the two men who found $7,500 in discarded peanut butter jars three months ago.

Paul Dickinson, 24, and Clare Robinson, 19, were told Monday they will have to post a $7,500 bond for a year before they get the money.

The Ontario Police Act allows the money to be given to the finders after 90 days if no one claims it. The men expected to receive it last Friday when the time was up.

But Monday the York Regional Police Commission ruled they must post bond for a year and be identified as the men who turned in the money.

Inspector Wally Harkness of the York regional police said the force must be "properly covered in case a claim is made later."

Home Ownership Said Inherently Inflationary

OTTAWA (CP) — A study group hired by the government recommended a guaranteed annual income to help the poor pay for shelter, but the idea was later rejected when the government introduced its new housing policy in June.

The proposal was contained in a report submitted to Central Mortgage and Housing Corp. in April, but not released until Monday.

The report also opposed a plan to help low-income families buy their own homes with low interest loans — a plan contained in the legislation introduced in the Commons June 12. The legislation is still before the House.

It said home ownership is inherently inflationary because owners seek to increase the value of their properties.

Wage Increases Reduced

OTTAWA (CP) — Wage and salary increases agreed to in new labor - management contracts signed this spring were sharply lower than the big increases agreed to last winter, the labor department reported Thursday.

Meat Prices Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new government report shows that farm prices exempt from price controls continue to dig deeper into United States consumer pocketbooks, particularly at supermarket meat counters.

Hydro Bargaining Talks Resuming

TORONTO (CP) — Bargaining is expected to revolve around three basic issues as negotiations resume today between Ontario Hydro and representatives of 12,000 workers who have been holding rotating strikes since June 26.

A spokesman for Local 1000, Canadian Union of Public Employees, said Monday that differences over Hydro's demand for an amended work week, fix of unequal pay increases and job security must be resolved before any chance of a settlement exists in the dispute.

"These items are crucial," said the spokesman. "Until these are out of the way, there's no chance of a settlement."

A spokesman for Ontario Hydro agreed Monday that the three issues were vital to a settlement and said that the company would be prepared to discuss them.

"Obviously since the union has said these are the key issues, we'll be ready to discuss them," he said. "But they certainly aren't the only things standing in the way of a settlement. There are still hundreds of items unresolved, some of them minor but many of them as important in our view as the other three."

The amended work week would require tradesmen to work any five days of the week for an eight-hour period between 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. rather than the Monday to Friday 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. week now standard.

The union has also objected to the company's offer of wage increases of from four per cent to eight per cent for various work categories in each year of a two-year agreement.

The last union wage proposal made public was for an 11 per cent pay hike in all categories in a one-year contract. Bill Vocer, president of Local 1000, has admitted the union "significantly scaled down" this proposal in a last-minute effort to reach agreement before talks broke off June 30.

The union has refused to release the terms of the last-minute offer, stating only that it was rejected by management.

The issue of job security was raised by the union because of a study of Ontario Hydro being conducted by an Ontario government group. The union fears layoffs and job transfers will result from the study and wants a new contract to spell out what security Hydro employees can expect.

Because of the diversity of job categories, ranging from office clerks to helicopter pilots, both parties in the dispute have been reluctant to release figures on average wage rates in the previous two-year contract which expired March 31.

However, a Hydro spokesman said Monday that the lowest starting rate for a CUPE employee at present is $100.81 a week for an office junior.

Announce New Healing Substance... Shrinks Piles, Checks Itch

Exclusive healing substance proven to shrink hemorrhoids... and repair damaged tissue.

A renowned research institute has found a unique healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids painlessly. It relieves itching and discomfort in minutes and speeds up healing of the injured, inflamed tissues.

One hemorrhoidal case history after another reported "very striking improvement." Pain was promptly and gently relieved . . . actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

Among these case histories were a variety of hemorrhoidal conditions. Relief even occurred in cases of long standing, and most important of all, results were so thorough that this improvement was maintained over a period of many months.

This was accomplished with a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) which quickly helps heal injured cells and stimulates growth of new tissue. Bio-Dyne is offered in ointment and suppository form called Preparation H.

In addition to actually shrinking hemorrhoids, Preparation H lubricates and makes elimination less painful. It helps prevent infection which is a principal cause of hemorrhoids.

Just ask your druggist for Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment (with a special applicator).

Riot Act Is Read Again But Ste. Therese Quiet

STE. THERESE, Que. (CP) — A tense calm prevailed in this community, 15 miles north of Montreal, today as mourners prepared for the funeral of Andre Vassard, 18, shot by a local policeman Friday.

Mayor Rene Robert read the Riot Act Monday for the second consecutive night, forbidding the public assembly of more than three people, following a weekend of violence.

About 50 youths gathered on a street corner Monday and then congregated again a few blocks away after police dispersed them.

But the streets were calm compared with Sunday, the second consecutive night that bands of youths pelted the local police station and broke store windows to protest the death of Andre Vassard.

Thirty persons were arrested Sunday but only three were arrested on minor charges Monday as police barricaded the area around city hall. None were arrested for contravening the Riot Act.

"I hope the population will co-operate and that we will have peace for the funeral," Mayor Robert said.

Revelation Is Promised

FAIRFIELD, Calif. (Reuter) — The lawyer for accused mass-murderer Juan Corona said Monday he knows who really killed the 25 farm laborers 14 months ago, and he will reveal the killer's name when Corona's trial begins Sept. 5.

Corona, a 36-year-old farm labor contractor, was accused in June, 1971, of murdering 25 men whose mutilated bullet-riddled bodies were dug from shallow individual graves in a peach orchard near Yuba City, Calif.

Policeman Shot

DETROIT (AP) — A Detroit policeman, shot while making a routine stolen property investigation Monday afternoon, died several hours later in hospital.

Patrolman Gilbert Stocker, 30, was shot in the head when he and Patrolman George Astor, 28, knocked on the door of a west-side apartment. Police said the killer "fired a volley of shots" at the two patrolmen through the closed door after Stocker and Astor identified themselves and asked to be let in.

Help Refused

TORONTO (CP) — A York regional police constable has been formally reprimanded for refusing to help an Aurora couple take their injured six-year-old daughter to hospital two weeks ago.

Police Chief Bruce Crawford told the police commission Monday the police department sent a basket of flowers to Laurie Finn and that he visited her parents to apologize for the incident.

Strike Averted

TORONTO (CP) — A civic strike was averted in the borough of York Monday when Local 10, Canadian Union of Public Employees, voted to accept a 16.5-per-cent wage increase over two years.

A similar pay increase was accepted Friday by 750 members of CUPE Local 111 in the borough of East York. East York council ratified that settlement Monday night.

Benson in Oslo

Benson arrived Sunday for a four-day visit.

Chief Fired

Mr. Brett, 30, had earlier tendered his resignation to council effective Aug. 31. He said he had removed his wife and children to "safety," claiming that his life and the lives of his family had been threatened in telephone calls during the week-end.

The council resolution terminated Mr. Brett's services at 8:30 p.m. Monday, a month earlier than set out in his letter of resignation "because of the fact that false information was submitted on his application.

The resolution said the false information came to light after the town asked the Ontario Police Commission to investigate Mr. Brett's background.

Strike Begins

TORONTO (CP) — About 1,200 bricklayers at several construction sites in Metropolitan Toronto and other Ontario centres went on strike Monday, crippling numerous construction projects.

The strikers are members of the Bricklayers, Masons Independent Union of Canada. It and the Laborers International Union are not affiliated with the American Federation of Labor Unions.

Coho in Erie

ERIEAU, Ont. (CP) — Frisky coho salmon trees too American side of Lake Erie are jumping and biting near the sand banks of this community about 15 miles southeast of Chatham.

The big silver fish, native to the Pacific Ocean, are hating all kinds of artificial lures, mostly those with a silver finish.

"Who said Lake Erie is dead? If anything, it is too much alive."

More Seek Aid

MONTREAL (CP) — Arthur Laing, veterans' affairs minister, said Monday the federal government will expand its standing committee on veterans affairs to cope with a flood of petitions for increases in service pensions.

The number of committee members will be raised from 20 to 34 and for the first time the committee will seat a woman. Mr. Laing told 600 delegates at the 31st biennial convension of Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans.

Beat Suspect

TORONTO (CP) — A Toronto man pleaded guilty Monday to assaulting a man he said he thought was a murderer.

Terry Ghetti, 26, who lived in a rooming house in which an elderly woman was raped and beaten to death June 26, told the court he was "kind of excited."

"I kept thinking I'd be questioned day after day about the murder."

Police testified they questioned Ghetti and other roomers in the house where Lillian Dunsmore, 77, was killed.

Later, Ghetti was at a downtown tavern when he saw a man he thought was the murderer. He beat the man breaking his right leg in three places and fracturing his cheek.

Police said later investigations showed the man could not have been involved in Mrs. Dunsmore's death.

Set 2,500 Fires

NEW YORK (AP) — A 23-year-old woman, arrested in connection with two Sunday night fires, told police Monday she had set fires in Brooklyn's Negro Brownsville slum area — perhaps as many as 2,500 — for the last 11 years because they took her "mind off my troubles." Police said the suspect, Priscilla Haynes, was a heroin addict enrolled in a methadone maintenance program. Most of the fires were in vacant buildings.

Party Is Over

EDMONTON (CP) — The Western Canada party, formed 1½ years ago to give the west a loud voice in federal politics, has folded "in its present form," former leader Lloyd Bartlett said Monday night.

Mr. Bartlett, from Edmonton, and Robert Stevenson of Wilkie, Sask., who had been executive vice-president, formally announced their resignations from the executive and the party.

Stanfield Busy

He had scrambled eggs and ham at a breakfast of party faithful in Allison, Ont., enjoyed a salad lunch with more party members in Orangeville, Ont., and had a beef barbecue with about 500 Progressive Conservatives in Ontario Premier William Davis's home town of Brampton.

Court to Get New Quarters

By IAN ROBERTSON
Staff Reporter

Subject to final confirmation on terms of a lease, provincial court in Belleville will have a new home . . . located in a former Dominion Stores shop on Victoria Avenue.

Maurice H. Rollins, local building contractor and owner of the boarded-up store, this morning confirmed negotiations between his office and the province were almost complete.

"I would think we'd know finally within one month at the most," he said.

Last night, his representatives met with provincial officials from Toronto, who are required to give final approval to selections of such a site. "Subject to final confirmation of the lease, that's where they're going to go," Mr. Rollins said today.

A growing backlog of cases being heard in Belleville provincial courts, plus inadequate conditions in the main courtroom located above city police headquarters on Bridge Street East, forced court officials to search for new accommodation.

Hastings County administrator Carl Bateman says that under provincial legislation, the county provides facilities such as court rooms, judges' chambers, law library, sheriff's office, and crown attorneys' offices at a cost of 51 per square foot.

At present most provincial court cases are heard above the police station. However, due to inadequate cooling systems, court is held in the county building during the summer.

This facility also affords little waiting room space, and almost no soundproofing. Also, access to washrooms is not readily available.

Mr. Bateman said the county was contacted about providing additional space in the courthouse, but this was deemed impossible.

The small courtroom on the second floor of the county building, which doubles as a provincial court during the summer, and for special sessions at other times, is restricted in its seating capacity, serving only a limited number of people.

The job of selecting a new site fell to a triumvirate consisting of Provincial Court Judges J. L. Clemmens and R. C. Jackson and Hastings County Crown Attorney John Pringle.

After eliminating several tenders for building sites, they chose the former food store on Victoria Avenue. This building was apparently selected and preliminary blueprints prepared by Rollins Construction, because of its central location, proximity to downtown parking, and overall space and structural advantages.

Kissinger Returns From Paris

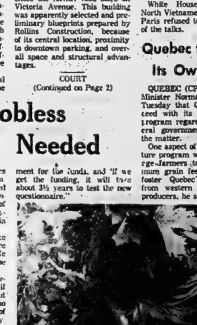
A White House spokesman said President Nixon's assistant for national security affairs returned Tuesday night from the secret talks with Hanoi politburo member Le Duc Tho and Xuan Thuy, head of North Vietnam's Paris delegation.



Kissinger, who has made 14 previous trips to the French capital for private talks, will give the president a detailed account today at the White House.

Quebec to Follow Its Own Plans

QUEBEC (CP) — Agriculture Minister Normand Toupin said Tuesday that Quebec will proceed with its new agriculture program regardless of the federal government's position on the matter.

One aspect of the new agriculture program will be to encourage farmers to develop maximum grain feed production to foster Quebec's independence from western Canadian grain producers, he said.

Lynch Holds Talks

BELFAST (CP)—Guerrilla gunfire and bombs shattered a sullen calm in Northern Ireland today amid reports that Prime Minister Jack Lynch of the Republic of Ireland has launched a new peace move.

Lynch and senior ministers of the Irish Republic government met in secret midnight talks with four members of Ulster's Social Democratic and Labor Party, main opposition party in Northern Ireland.

The SDLP leaders flew to Dublin from Ulster in an Irish Army helicopter for the 90-minute talks which ended early today.

A joint statement afterward said the Ulster situation and a fresh political initiative for a truce in the three years of strife had been discussed.

Lynch, who is pledged to fight for the reunification of Republican Army, is reported anxious to have the Northern opposition politicians take part in talks with British's Ulster administrator, William Whitelaw.

A flurry of bombing and gunfire erupted in Northern Ireland Tuesday night, but a British army spokesman described it as "a lot of noise with, luckily, not much effect."

The troops said they hit one of two gunmen firing at them in the Roman Catholic Old Park district of Belfast, and other snipers fought a running battle in the Catholic Unity Flats area.

An explosion damaged a bottling plant in Londonderry. Five men blew up a garage at Kilrea-colpy after raiding the neighboring post office for its petty cash. A 150-pound mine blew up two army scout cars near the border village of Rosslea.

There was speculation that the gunmen of the Irish Republican Army were edging back into the fray after lying low when the British army invaded the barricaded Catholic districts of Londonderry and Belfast on Monday.

The army said it found 500 pounds of gelignite packed into a 40-gallon drum on the edge of the Creggan, one of the IRA strongholds in Londonderry which the troops opened on. An army spokesman said the explosive would have demolished everything within 50 yards had it been set off.

The fresh violence followed a rare day of peace throughout the province as British troops tightened their grip on the former IRA strongholds.

The army said that since Monday's huge operation involving 15,000 troops it had made one of its largest finds of guns and arms in the three-year Northern Ireland emergency.

More than 200 homes had been searched in Catholic and Protestant districts. Arms found included an anti-tank gun, 22 rifles, six shotguns, five pistols, 3,800 rounds of ammunition and more than 1,000 rounds of explosives.

Raids on Protestant homes yielded two machine-guns, a rifle and several hundred rounds of ammunition.

Generals Foods Strike Ends At Cobourg

COBOURG, Ont. (CP) — The strike by more than 750 members of Local P-1230 of the Canadian Food and Allied Workers Union at the General Foods Ltd. plant here ended Tuesday by approval of a new contract.

The three-year agreement will also cover workers at the General Foods plant in LaSalle, Que., who were in begin contract negotiations next spring. The Cobourg strike began June 21.

The settlement provides for an increase of 45 an hour over three years. The current pay rates range between $3.50 and $4.35 an hour.

Muskie Seen Likely Choice To Replace Sen. Eagleton

WASHINGTON (CP) — Presidential candidate George McGovern worked quietly and deliberately today in search of a new vice-presidential running mate, with Senator Edmund Muskie of Maine reported to be at the top of the list.

McGovern, determined to avoid any controversy such as that which forced him to drop Senator Thomas Eagleton from the Democratic ticket, was making his deliberations in an atmosphere far different from the feverish excitement of the Democratic national convention in Miami Beach last month.

He was reported to have spoken to a number of possible vice-presidential nominees, but the name of Muskie, vice-presidential candidate in the 1968 election, was said to be foremost.

Muskie is generally acceptable to all elements of the party, and is well known. A Roman Catholic, he would provide balance for McGovern, a Mid-western Methodist.

Senator Frank Church of Idaho, a Protestant, seemed to throw cold water on speculation he might receive the nod. He recommended McGovern find someone who would add more vitality to the ticket.

Ransom Return Sought

ALGIERS (AP) — U.S. officials were hopeful today the Algerian government would return the $1 million paid to the hijackers of a Delta Airlines jetliner. The DC-8 and its crew spent Tuesday night in Barcelona, Spain, on their way back to the United States, and the Algerian government was holding the hijackers and the money.

Allan Davis, acting head of the U.S. diplomatic mission in Algiers, said Algerian officials have not yet replied to a request for return of the money but added: "We are encouraged by what has happened in the past."

Two months ago, the Algerian government seized and returned $500,000 collected in the hijacking of a U.S. airliner. Since then it has indicated it dislikes the idea it is running a hijackers' haven.

In New York, Bernice Jones of the Black Panthers said the Panthers' delegation in Algiers had telephoned that the Algerian government had decided to return the ransom money to the United States and was considering also returning the three men and two women who took over the plane on a flight from Detroit to Miami Monday. The hijackers also had three children with them.

Miss Jones said the hijackers were connected with the Black Liberation Army and the Black Panthers in Algiers were putting pressure on the Algerian government to give them asylum.

The Black Liberation Army is described by New York police as a loose organization of black urban terrorists not formally connected with the Panthers.

The state department asked the Algerian government to return the ransom and either prosecute the hijackers or return them. The request was made via the Guinea embassy, since Washington and Algiers have no formal diplomatic relations.

Monsoon Rains Ease On Luzon

MANILA (AP) — Torrential monsoon rains which inundated a 210-mile-long area of Luzon Island eased off slightly today, but flood waters still were reported rising in some areas.

Relief and rescue efforts were hampered for the third day by poor visibility limiting the flying hours of military helicopters.

The national disaster co-ordinating center reported at least 118 towns and hundreds of villages flooded in the worst natural disaster in Philippines history. The unofficial death toll stood at 326 in 26 days.

Although the water was receding in the Manila area, the city remained badly crippled by flooding and the severe damage to roads and streets. Most operators of the jeepneys and buses that make up the public transportation system kept their vehicles garaged.

Schools and many shops and offices remained closed. Food prices were climbing, with shortages of sugar, rice, vegetables and salt reported. The Manila Bulletin reported that prices had risen 37 per cent since July.

Sewage Still Dumped

ST. IGNACE, Mich. (AP) — Michigan's been barred for at least a month from enforcing its controversial law requiring sewage holding tanks of Great Lakes ships. Judge Edward Fenton refused Tuesday in circuit court to grant a state request that a suit against the law by the Great Lakes Carriers Association be dismissed. The judge extended a temporary injunction, which expired Monday, for one month.

Better Jobless Statistics Needed

OTTAWA (CP) — Statistics Canada is hoping the government will give it additional funds to undertake a more sophisticated monthly survey of employment and unemployment, Chief Statistician Sylvia Ostry said today.

The intention is to produce monthly reports showing more detail about the kind of people who are unemployed and the causes of unemployment.

She emphasized in an interview that the new surveys—if they are undertaken in about 2½ years—would make no change in the present system of presenting over-all unemployment figures.

It would not attempt to obscure high levels of unemployment or present a rosier picture of the employment situation than actually prevails, she said.

Dr. Ostry said planning on a new, more comprehensive survey questionnaire started about two years ago. It would be easier for enumerators to handle and would produce a wider range of statistics about employment and unemployment.

The current labor force survey cost Statistics Canada about $2 million a year. If the more elaborate surveys are undertaken, they'll cost about $3 million a year.

Dr. Ostry said the statistics bureau has asked the government for the funds, and "if we get the funding, it will take about 2½ years to test the new questionnaire."

Six Arrested At Hospital

TORONTO (CP) — Six persons were arrested Tuesday near an entrance to Toronto Western Hospital.

The arrests followed a disturbance which occurred about 4 p.m. when a truck arrived at the receiving area and the driver attempted to unload it.

A picket was reported to have approached the driver. When two policemen took the picket to a cruiser other men became involved.

Free Gold Price Climbs Over $70

LONDON (AP) — A fresh wave of speculative buying sent the price of free gold to new peaks in Europe's bullion markets today.

Dealers said demand for gold was fairly heavy almost everywhere and the short supply available sent the price climbing.

The jump was particularly marked in Zurich because all Swiss markets were closed Tuesday because of a holiday. The price soared by $1.75 to $70.25 an ounce from the Monday level. The official rate, set by the United States, is $38.

In London, Europe's other big bullion market, gold opened at $70.75 an ounce but was brought back at the fixing to $70. Tuesday's closing level. But shortly after, the price moved back to $70.50.

Gold rocketed to a record $72.92 on the Milan market. The previous record was Tuesday when the metal closed at $70.82.

Money Determines Use of Schools

By LENNY WILLIAMSON
Staff Reporter

Ontario's Select Committee on the Utilization of Educational Facilities came to town last night to feel out local opinion on public use of schools.

The 11 committee members got the message loud and clear — there's nothing wrong with community use of schools in these parts except lack of money.

As committee chairman Dr. Charles McIlveen, PC member for Oshawa said, "Some form of extra-ordinary grant must be provided by the province — every area has proved that."

Almost every board of education in the province encourages after hours use of its schools by community recreational, cultural and educational groups, he said, but Belleville's record is the second best he has seen so far. Topping this city is Oshawa, with a long history of co-operation and co-ordination of educational and community organizations.

The committee heard 12 presentations during the 2½ hour meeting in Centennial Secondary School. This was one of the most successful summer meetings yet, said Dr. McIlveen, in terms of the number present (about 70) and the interest shown.

Chairman of Prince Edward county board of education James Ploneer summed up, in a brief oral presentation, the contentions of area boards of education.

"Boards face growing problems with increased maintenance costs and lack of community use of schools," he told the committee. "What are the priorities? Education of young sters, night school, or recreational use of schools?"

"This county (Prince Edward) will have to consider restrictions, much as the board wishes to encourage community groups," he said.

The future of night school he called "foggy," because of overlapping of programs offered by Loyalist College in area night schools. Differences in the salary schedule for night school teachers employed by Loyalist and those employed by the board he termed "considerable", with Loyalist paying up to twice as much as the board.

The situation has already caused dissatisfaction among teachers and may destroy the initiative of local people to start programs needed by the community.

Mr. Ploneer charged the province with the responsibility of clarifying the situation between community colleges and local boards of education and said closer co-ordination between the two groups, above the local level, is needed.

Mr. Ploneer was the only speaker to mention year-round use of schools for a regular academic program. The 12-month school year, he believed, is being used, would increase educational costs.

"Air conditioning would have to be installed," he said.

Later, the committee chairman, Dr. McIlveen, commented that the 12-month school year might never come to municipalities outside large metropolitan centres.

"Students like it," he said, "Those who go to school in the summer find it easier to get jobs when the majority are going to school in January. But it would involve a change in the North American pattern of life. People want to spend their summer holidays together as a family."

Joan Guthrie, vice-chairman of the Belleville Recreation Committee, told the gathering that the recreation committee has no shortage of facilities since the schools had been opened up by the Hastings county board.

But the recreation committee is "awfully hard up" for funds, especially for instructors' salaries.

"Recreation people have a feeling parents are not available to people we have dealt with in the past," she said.

When it was suggested by a select committee member that the grants existed that the recreation commission is not using, Mrs. Guthrie interrupted him to point out the grants in question.

Bruce Medd, retired high school teacher and a trustee with the Lennox and Addington board of education, noted a bonus from community school use. When schools are used for after-hours recreational activities vandalism decreases, he said.

Mrs. Anneita Brown, president and principal of Ontario Business College, presented a detailed brief charging the province with duplicating services already supplied by commercial business colleges. She singled out community colleges, who she said, provide business and commerce courses at a cost those offered by commercial colleges and at greater cost to taxpayer and student.

In rebuttal, Paul King, dean of faculty at Loyalist, said his college had received students wanting "total immersion" courses to OBC and pointed out of Loyalist's one-year commercial courses is now being considered.

Later, the Select Committee's chairman said that in view of Mrs. Brown's charges of duplication of services, her brief would be carefully considered by his committee.

Canteen Again Hit By Thieves

TWEED (Special) — The refreshment canteen at Tweed's Memorial Park has been the target for petty thieves on two occasions in the past week.

Last week thieves entered the canteen and made off with an undetermined amount of merchandise.

And again Monday night the rear door of the building was smashed and a variety of candy bars and potato chips were taken.

The concession is operated by Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Lessard who also operate a restaurant in the village.

Police Chief W. G. Carroll is investigating the break-ins and is also looking for an auto which sometime last night sideswiped the Highway 37 bridge over the Moira River causing about $200 damage to the structure.

Foodstore as Court . . . Corner as Office Building

Victoria and Pinnacle Office Building Set

A new four-or five-storey office building which will cost approximately $750,000, is to be constructed at the corner of Victoria and Pinnacle Streets, contractor Maurice H. Rollins confirmed today.

The site, which until March of this year housed a former Ontario Hydro maintenance building and a boarded up frame dwelling-and one-time Bank of Upper Canada office will provide approximately 30,000 square feet of office space.

Mr. Rollins said there is such a need for downtown office space, that he has confirmation of enough tenants to fill 1½ floors of the new building before the first brick is laid.

Preliminary sketches have been prepared and a building permit will be obtained in the near future. He expects construction to begin sometime in October or November this year.

The first floor of the unit will house commercial business, the remainder will be constructed as office space.

Asked to describe the esthetic appearance being considered, the local building contractor replied it would be "complimentary to the Bell Telephone building across the corner."

Mr. Rollins is the major shareholder in the company which also includes lawyers Ronald Cass and William Argue.

Court

While there are alternate plans drawn up, the basic sketch which has found the most favor with the three court officials, calls for a courtroom with a seating capacity of 150, quarters for both judges, (Judge Jackson, when he resumes work after a recent illness, sits in north Hastings courtrooms, plus Trenton courts), witness rooms, administration offices, lawyers' chambers, a law library, a small prisoners' cell in the basement, a large waiting area and adequate washroom facilities.

The street level consists of a 15-foot high shell, which Mr. Rollins says will be divided by partitions. He says this portion would cost approximately $60,000.

The three court officials had been talking about construction of a half storey above the former store, but the contractor said he expects an entire second level will be built. This second level will cost approximately $125,000.

Because the provincial courtrooms above police headquarters is rented by the province, officials believe the new site will be a rental arrangement as well.

Crown Attorney John Pringle favors the possible use of the Rollins building. "I've always maintained the justice station is no place for a courtroom," he said.

He explained when the choice was made, the plans had to be forwarded to the provincial board of management, to the policies and priorities department of the requirements, and the department examines the site, reporting back to the court.

Mr. Pringle said in 1971, there were 8,836 cases heard in provincial court in Belleville. "This is an increase of 1.29 per cent," he said, adding there has been a steady increase of between one and two per cent each year."

Broken down, these statistics stand at 854 criminal cases, 4,108 Highway Traffic Act offences, 914 liquor cases, 1,800 municipal by-law cases, 777 federal prosecutions, plus other offences.

While courts designated Hastings North, heard by Judge Jackson, have experienced a 17.37 per cent increase, their 1971 workload stood at only 4,185 cases.

Not only is Mr. Pringle pleased with the choice . . . "it's centrally located for the public and the profession, has adequate parking and has everything going for it." . . . but contractor Rollins has confirmed he will completely air condition the building.

Principals Favor 12-month School

Will schools of the future operate 12 months a year, with fall programs going summer and winter?

Elementary and high school principals believe they will by 1980 to be exact.

The principals, all attending courses sponsored by the ministry of education at York, Queen's and Western Universities, subported the move in an opinion poll. About two-thirds of those polled approved running their schools all year on a semester basis.

The principals also predicted they would be given a lump sum budget to spend in any way they see fit for staff, supplies and maintenance of their individual schools.

Organizers of the opinion poll said it was used to stimulate interest in the trends and innovations week of the principals' course.

Running schools all year around, with three semesters each year, has been handled about in educational circles for some years. The usual scheme is to require students' attendance at two semesters a year. Under this scheme a student could elect to take his holidays in the winter and attend school in the summer.

Parents and ratepayers, when polled on the subject, have usually favored continuation of the present school year pattern.

No one at Hastings county board of education's administrative offices was available for comment today.

Meanwhile, the provincial government's select committee on use of schools is holding a public meeting tonight at Centennial Secondary School. The committee was invited to Belleville because this city is regarded as having one of the best programs in the province for community use of schools.

E. J. Neville, superintendent of separate schools for Prince Edward and Hastings counties, said today that a student can complete high school a year earlier under the 12-month school year.

But, he added, this is no particular advantage today, with few jobs available for graduating students.

"Our whole economy is built around the summer holiday," he added.

Province Bans Jugs

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario has banned single-use milk jugs and there are indications other new forms of packaging will be closely scrutinized by government before industries are permitted to use them.

A spokesman for James Auld, environment minister, said Monday, "I would check very closely with us if I were in the industry and considering any new form of packaging that will add to waste management problems."

Contribution Recognized

Guy B. Hughes, Tweed Village representative on the Moira River Conservation Authority, presented a pen and pencil set to Mrs. Clarence Graham, last Monday, in recognition of her late husband's contribution to the Authority during the 16 years he served as a member of the board of directors. The base of the desk set is made from marble taken from the Actinlite area quarry on the property once owned by Mr. Graham, and later owned by the Moira River Conservation Authority. While making the presentation, Mr. Hughes recalled the countless hours of volunteer work the late Mr. Graham had done to further the interests of the village of Tweed, the county of Hastings and the authority. Mrs. Graham thanked the authority and all who were associated with the presentation of the gift.

Newsmakers

James Promoted

A founding member and past president of the Belleville branch of the St. John Ambulance Association, William James, has been promoted to the rank of Officer Brother in the Order of St. John. Mr. James is a holder of an instructor's certificate and is a judge in provincial competitions. He was awarded admission to the Order as a Serving Brother in 1964. Mr. James is the local manager of Ontario Housing Corporation.

If you haven't already received it, in the next few days you'll be getting your new Postal Code in the mail. It's not very exciting to look at. But it is very necessary. And it's really not as complicated as it looks.

After two years of studying the systems of most of the countries of the world, here's how we developed Postal Codes for Canada.

To uncomplicate your Postal Code, you will be receiving a Postal Code Package. It contains your code, instructions on how to use it, a handy address book, special Postal Code stickers for your envelopes, and postage paid address cards that you should send to your friends. If you don't have enough, you can get as many as you need at your nearest Post Office. Because, after all, your Code doesn't move your mail unless your friends use it.

And if you haven't received your Code by July 31st, please call your local Post Office. We will mail it to you immediately. It is possible however, that you are not in the EASTERN ONTARIO POSTAL DISTRICT, in which case your area may not have been coded yet.

K5 Canada was first divided into 18 large areas, each identified by a letter.

K2: By adding a number, we narrow that area down — for example, a city.

K2P: By adding another letter, we delineate a specific section of that city.

K2P 0P4: And by adding three more characters that section of the city is further narrowed to one side of a street between intersections.

Codes can also represent an office building with 10 or more deliveries, — or a company that receives large volumes of mail. A apartment building with over 30 units, even, in few densely populated areas, a code that represent the whole block.

Get the habit.

Not to Mention The B and B Commission's $9 Million

Getting the Message to the Public Can Be Costly

By FARMER TISSINGTON
From The Intelligencer's
Ottawa Bureau

When the federal government institutes a new program or policy, or makes substantial changes in an old one, it usually feels under an obligation to inform the public. Frequently the method used is the distribution of pamphlets or booklets telling Canadians the details of the new policies.

That this can often be an expensive procedure is demonstrated in connection with the new taxation system which came into effect with the 1972 taxation year. The taxation branch of the department of national revenue has so far prepared and distributed 11 tax reform pamphlets. Two of these were mailed to 8.2 million taxpayers, while the others were sent out on a selective basis according to the subject.

The cost of printing was $770,803. Another $70,000 was paid for inserting and $720,000 for mailing — a hefty total of more than $1.5 million.

Reform, it seems, does not come cheaply.

Even the smaller and more selective programs of other departments cost money. Dissemination of information on the prairie grain stabilization plan, together with an information package on the over-all Prairie grains policy cost the agricultural department over $133,000.

And speaking of government spending, the final figures on that most expensive of royal commissions, the one in bilingualism and biculturalism, now are in. Total cost of the commission was $9,049,386. Of this, $308,600 was paid to the three chairmen of the commission, one having died before the work was finished, and another $4,456,553 was paid in salaries to persons working for the commission.

As you will recall, Canada's auditor general, Maxwell Henderson, and the present government have not been exactly buddy-buddy in the past two or three years. While the Conservatives have generally supported Mr. Henderson, the Liberals are frequently critical.

A back-bench Liberal, Joe Guay, is once again apparently is less than enamoured of Mr. Henderson and he placed a question on the Commons order paper asking how many days Mr. Henderson was away from Canada in 1970 and 1971. The purpose, seemingly, to demonstrate that the auditor general is not always on the job in his Ottawa office.

The answer he received was that Mr. Henderson was out of the country for 106 days in 1970 and for 54 days in 1971. He did not ask for, and was not told the reasons for the absences. However, I learned that Mr. Henderson has been appointed to five three-year terms as a member of the board of auditors of the United Nations and is currently the chairman of that board which also includes auditors from Colombia and Pakistan. In addition, he has served since 1956 as external auditor of the International Civil Aviation Organization, one of the specialized agencies of the United Nations.

So it seems safe to conclude that Mr. Henderson's absences from Canada are largely accounted for each year by his trips in New York to connections with the UN work. These assignments, incidentally, are understood at the request of the agencies concerned and travel and salary costs are recovered in all chances.

The Import Scene

Ever consider the extent to which we are dependent on goods from overseas? Not all of them are necessities of course, but they do illustrate the fact that in some instances at least there is no comparable product from plants at home.

There is that German car which we drive, our Japanese camera, some wearing apparel such as shirts from various parts of the Orient, the shoe brush we almost bought from Italy (one lost at home turned up), sunglasses from France, rubber (or substitute) gardening boots from Formosa and of course that natty Swiss watch purchased in what was then Port Arthur in 1937. At least one of the two straps purchased for it since came from Germany. All these items, like the watch, were purchased in Canada.

Let's see, what else is there? There was the rubber beach ball found in a picnic area on Highway 33 between Adolphustown and Bath — it was made in Czechoslovakia and came in handy for the two-year-old who currently is also using pajamas from Romania. And on the distaff side there are those pretty Spanish earrings and there might be one pair of shoes at least from Italy.

Another we somehow neglected to mention — the material for the frame of our spectacles, we seem to recall the optometrist saying, came from Australia.

So it goes . . . come along Canada we do buy from about the world. There are opportunities you know to vastly broaden the range of goods which could be manufactured here.

"Sorry, we're not allowed to sell war toys. But we're having a special on guns in our sports department!"

Eagleton Drops Out

After a great deal of double-talk the Democratic party in the United States has settled the Eagleton affair in the only way possible — the Senator from Missouri just had to go. The only question left was how him would handle the public relations problem. With party presidential candidate Senator George McGovern who has handled the situation with tact and compassion.

Senator Eagleton will remain in the campaign as one of McGovern's team of speakers, so that something has been saved from the ashes as far as he is concerned. We would hope that the public will show him to let the Eagleton problems drop, although knowing-how perverse people can be, there is no guarantee of this.

As it is, in this so-called enlightened age, of which psychiatry is a principal by-product, one would think little would have been made of such revelations. Yet it is easy to see how confidence in Senator Eagleton has been undermined. Enlightenment in this is still the way in which job application forms contain the question, "have you ever consulted a psychiatrist?" A candidate for vice-president of the United States is seeking one of the toughest political jobs around and a history of psychiatric treatment is not a good foundation for such a battle.

Presidential aspirants with a history of nervous exhaustion from overwork or whatever should now make a mental note, that instead of seeing their psychiatrist they simply take the nature cure —drop everything and go to Acapulco or Tahiti or some such away-from-it-all paradise.

Informal Touch

Hastings County Dairy Princess Susan Ray of Roslin and Belleville Rotarians an amusing story the other day in the course of an informative survey of 4-H programs and activities.

It concerned a young woman from Tennessee, one of the visitors to an international 4-H gathering in Ottawa and she was excited at the prospect of meeting The Governor-General and Mrs. Michener. She had been told that the wife of the Queen's representative was "Your Excellency" but when the time came she forgot everything and just said, "Well Howdy."

The Governor-General replied in a similar informal manner, and "that girl just loved him," said Miss Ray.

No Rose Garden

Belleville is doing such a good job with its parks that an occasional blemish might be excusable if representing nothing more than an oversight. We are thinking of the open space just down from this office which, for a time before it became a car park, was a pleasant little parkette. It is true there are still three concrete bowls filled with plants, but they have a tired appearance and it is clear that no one had promised us a rose garden. What really drew our attention in recent days were the weeds. Once they are gone, rose garden or not, the area will look a lot better.

MPP's - Legislative Clout Is Increased

By DON O'HEARN
Queen's Park Bureau

One likely result from the confederation study of the legislature currently under way is that individual members of the house will be given more opportunity to introduce legislation.

At present their capacity is to date very limited.

Private members can introduce bills. But these are rarely debated for an hour on Monday afternoons, as called by the house leader, and then they are talked out without coming to a vote.

It is not without reason.

The argument for having the participation of private members so limited is that our system is founded on responsible government and that if private members have the opportunity to introduce legislation and thereby perhaps force the government into action, then the system can be weakened.

Experience has shown, however, that there is another side to this argument: that is the back bench, the person which has been before the government for a decade but on which it has done very little.

Some startling statistics were brought out. Earlier... have been ruptured at 168 decibels. A jet plane on a runway can create 150 decibels.

This particular decibe probably didn't have much impact on the government (it was little publicized). But if the bill had gone to a vote it would have at least forced some members to thought.

And it would not be unlikely for the commission to recognize this and propose more force for private members.

Everyone knows the story about the dear little old lady and her Cadillac car over the few decades:

In her home, surrounded by cats of every shape, size, and temperament, she lavishes attention and love on her charges.

Also in this filing drawer of jokes is the other little old, not-so-dear woman who tells her vicious rat of a poodle like one of the family.

"It needs a little baby hungry!"

Will we hear from him?

The subject of dogs, cats and kids has become a topic of discussion since recent reports of a youngster dying from hydrophobia.

Algeria Has Shaken Off Ties with Colonial Past

BY JOHN HARRON
Foreign Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Service

Algeria could have been a French Rhodesia in Africa, if the former French population of that former colony, the "colons," had won the civil war in the late 1950s.

Like the British white population of Rhodesia who are mainly African-born, the former Algerian colons, who once numbered about 700,000 were African-born but of French stock. They were still the minority in a population of mainly 12 million Arabs, but they held much of the commercial and political power.

They supported all the French efforts to hold on to France's first and largest North African colony, clamored hard for "Algerie Francaise" (French Algeria), demanded more French paratroopers to fight the growing Algerian National Liberation Movement.

The struggle was intensely bitter; cruelties, torture and political murders became part of everyday life in Algiers. But the "colons" and France were bound to lose. The wheel of political change were against them.

So in the end was General Charles de Gaulle who made peace with the Algerian NLF and co-operated in the referendum which led to Algerian independence in 1961.

The once paramount "colons" are mainly gone, transported en masse many years ago to Metropolitan France, and Algerian presidents, former president Houari Boumedienne and the impressive Colonel Houari Boumedienne, have coped with the problems of modernization in basically agrarian nation. Massive educational programs, the orientation of government and culture from French to Arabic have been ruthless but the agreements made by socialist Arab anti-Israel, but has flourished through its happy arrangements with British, Italian, Japanese and even French technical know-how.

Herpes - A Trifling Disease

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

Paul Hellyer's switch to the Tory party is healthy for Trinity Riding. Being Vice-president of the Trinity Liberal Association, I attended the June 1971 executive meeting when Hellyer announced leaving the Liberals and starting Action Canada. He invited the executive to go with him. I refused to support him, and said that Canada has too many political parties. There is no place for a centre party when the left of the Liberal party is closest to his political views, he should, in all good conscience, join it. Over a year later, he has done so.

Action Canada, set up as a political party, but was used by Hellyer. A party of persons of ex sides alone is treated at best with distrust and has slight success. Even his own friends, but if he takes some support with him, his prospect is to improve. Many, innocently, thinking that they were joining a new and independent group, now find that they have been recruited for delivery to the Conservative party.

The political climate in Trinity will now improve. Instead of running as a small "c" conservative independent, Hellyer has found a natural home as an official Tory. Trinity should now have a clear choice between a Liberal, a Tory and an NDP.

U.S. Emphasis

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

I'm writing concerning the recent U.S. Democratic Convention.

I don't see why Canadian citizens living in Canada should be forced to take in the American political campaign and election on Canadian TV networks. I think Canadians in the time of election down there would be enough on the national news or in the newspaper.

As a Canadian citizen which I am proud to be, I object to this on our TV stations. We either have to watch it or turn the TV off, which to my mind is not giving us the freedom of choice.

I can understand the outcome of the election is of interest to us all but I think the news media would give us all the necessary information on it.

Uniform Changes

Watertown (N.Y.) Times

The traditional Boy Scout uniforms will undergo changes effective September 1.

Instead of the old - time campaign hats or the wedge-shaped army-private-type hats, scouts can wear a cap or visor or a visor field cap. After complaining they did not like the old, homemade-style pants and the long trousers which became baggy, new canvas pants which are more streamlined. Missing, too, will be the fringe sewn on the pockets and the pocket flaps, which they detested.

The two traditional green-and-khaki shirts remain standard equipment, but a new casual shirt is being added.

Merit badges for scouts and cub scouts will retain their current uniforms, den mothers will have a wide choice of attire, from the traditional dress-and-tunic pantsuits to A-line shirts and Bermuda shorts.

Yes, yes. While scouting organizations will continue as "Boy Scouts of America", the Boy Scouts will be known as just "Scouts". Seems the scouts can't like the word "boy".

He Stands on Guard

Parliament Hill's top tourist attraction in the summer is the daily changing of the guard ceremony, staged by militia units of the Governor-General's Foot Guards of Ottawa and the Canadian Grenadier Guards of Montreal. Personnel for the detachment is recruited from universities and high schools across the country. Above, Guardsman G. E. Boulton of Belleville stands inspection for Sergeant Edward Bailey left. The summer job lasts until September 4.

Lack of Facilities May Cut Playground Use

Lack of washroom facilities at many of the city's playgrounds could result in fewer supervised playgrounds being operated in Belleville next year.

This was intimated at a meeting of the city recreation arena committee Monday following receipt of complaints about the lack of washroom facilities at many sports fields and playgrounds.

The matter was referred for consideration at next year's budget discussions, but Alderman Robin Jeffrey as chairman of the committee intimated the end result could be fewer supervised playgrounds in 1973.

The suggestion was that supervisors might be placed only at playgrounds where there are washroom facilities.

In a report on the lack of washroom facilities, recreation director Lorne S. Williams admitted that complaints about the lack of washroom facilities and access to drinking water at playgrounds had been received in the past and again were being received this year.

In the past two years, through the co-operation of the Hastings County Board of Education and the Ontario School for the Deaf, access to 11 schools is now granted, while this year the Park Dale Community Centre is also being used.

Playgrounds with no washroom or accessible water for drinking on the property are Alemite, Bayview Heights, Haig Road Parkette, South George Street, Wellington Crescent, West Park Village and CNRA.

Ann Landers

Can Fathers Nurse Children?

Dear Ann Landers: Regarding the letter from the student who wrote to ask about the possibility of a father nursing his children in case of emergency or extreme crisis, your author-Dr. Dr. Rothery Jamieson, a Chicago physician, said: "No way—unless the father hold the bottle."

"I am enclosing an article from the Bulletin of the New York Academy of Medicine that refutes your consultant's statement. It reads, in part: "It is not a very uncommon circumstance to find both among human-kind and animals, males whose breasts contain milk. . . Among the lower orders of people in Russia, milk in the breasts of men is much more frequent than among the more southern nations; and the Russians have never been deemed a weak or effeminate."—Mrs. J. S. (Medical Librarian, Evansville, Indiana)

Dear Mrs. S.: Thank you for sending on the material from the New York Academy of Medicine. I am now in receipt of two dozen reprints. I checked with my medical consultants in Boston, New York and Washington and they all support Dr. Jamieson of Chicago who made the initial statement. I am told that the literature you sent is not scientific documentation. A true male does not have the ability to breast-feed a child. In the rare instances where male lactation was reported, the male was probably a hermaphrodite—which means a person with both male and female physical characteristics.

Dear Ann Landers: Whenever I bring a friend to the house my mother or my sister immediately monopolizes the conversation, rattling on and on about the family history, our distinguished ancestors, bright things the grandchildren say, etc. I could just die!

My friends are bored to death, but they wish to be polite so they feign interest. Changing the subject does not help. Mom and sis are incredibly skilful at getting back to the tiresome old topics. Suggest something, please.—Lincoln Embarrassment

Dear Lin: You do not say how old you are or why your mother and sister are provided with an opportunity to bore your guests for what sounds like long periods of time.

Of course you must introduce your visitors to your family, but surely you are smart enough not to set yourself up for an entire evening of punishment. If you are entertaining at home, ask your mother and sister in advance if they would please give you and your visitor some privacy after ten minutes. If they are unwilling, take your guest to a coffee shop or for a long walk.

Dear Ann Landers: I was interested in the remark that you never put your pretty things out of your daughter's reach when she was a child. You said you taught her not to touch them and that she never broke anything. Then you said she taught her children to be the same way.

You didn't explain how you did it—but I'll bet you used the same approach as my mother. She would show me a pretty figurine, for example, and say, "This belonged to your grandmother, Isn't it lovely? Please be careful with it because it will be yours someday." She would put my hand on it so I could feel how smooth and lovely it was and then she would hold it up to the light and she treated it with such respect I understood that it was precious.

Your column is so sensible that when I read it I am reminded of my own mother who was very much like you. Thanks for the memories.—Miss Fross Iowa

Dear Iowa: And thank you for a heart-warming letter.

Woman Repairs Phones

EDMONTON (CP) — "Women's lib means nothing to me," says Alberta's only woman who climbs telephone poles to instal and repair telecommunications equipment.

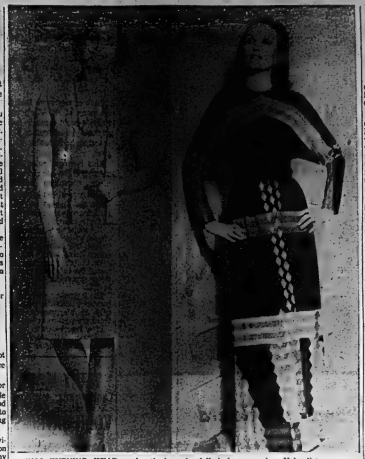
Marilyn Lastiwka, 19, rather than resort indignantly to co-workers' and customers' surprised reactions and teasing when they find an attractive, slender, blonde installing telephones, says: "It's human nature to react that way, so it doesn't bother me."

During her six weeks with Edmonton Telephones as a journeyman line and station installer, Marilyn has climbed poles to a height of 25 feet.

"I wanted to do something different after high school and the three - year telecommunications course at Northern Alberta Institute of Technology sounded interesting.

"NAIT accepted me in the course without question or comment because I had senior matriculation with the mathematics and physics requirements you need to enter the course."

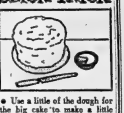
She says her co-workers and the 25 members of her graduating course were encouraging to her job ambitions once they got over the unfamiliar experience of having a female colleague.



"It was difficult at first for me to adjust to having all-male classmates and co-workers and they probably had to adjust to me. But I feel we all get along very well."

Ray Goss, Marilyn's supervisor at city-owned Edmonton Telephones, said the company accepted Marilyn for employment on her qualifications alone and would accept other suitably-qualified female applicants.

"Where many people in her situation might have failed, Marilyn has succeeded because of her personality and temperament," he said.



Before being hired by Edmonton Telephones, Marilyn said she applied to Alberta Government Telephones, Canadian National Telecommunications and Calgary Power, where she was told working conditions were unsuitable for a woman.

"If I had been unable to find a job I liked without much trouble, I would have become more militant about being turned down as a qualified female applicant.

Spain Has New Fashions

MADRID (AP) — Spanish couture, widely considered to be in trouble, has been left with only one hero for fall: Pertagaz.

Probably the most widely recognized of Spanish designers, Pertagaz put together a fall-winter collection at Madrid's weekend showcase that was classic, casual and wearable. It was the only bright moment for Spanish fashion, sandwiched between the Rome and Paris showings.

Pertagaz's sports separates fit easily, featuring Shetland pullovers and cardigans. Although he showed numerous pants, usually wide-legged with a series of waistband pleats, skirts played a big part in the collection. A dusky olive green, appropriate for a Spanish designer, and a range of browns were the most effective colors.

Very large shoulder bags, imaginative thick-soled shoes and the layered look in tops remained Pertagaz favorites.

He showed a number of short black evening dresses, very bare and pretty, reflecting the move back to short dresses for night. His long dresses, especially a series of pale light-weight crepes with a flowing, Grecian look, brought applause from his audience, the largest for the fall collection.

Elio Berhanyer stayed with his severe, architectured silhouette for day and night, bare long dresses, with the ubiquitous orgazna flowers, for evening. Berhanyer, in a surprisingly short collection, was the only Spanish house this season to show no pants.

Mirror of Your Mind

by JOHN CONWELL

Is it safe to say 'No' to a child?

"YES. If the parents have a legitimate reason to deny the child his wish—especially if they say "No" for the sake of the youngster's health and safety. They shouldn't just toss him, though. If the parents related the first denying a child a toy, say, he might have lost all desire for it by the time his mother and father are ready to give in to him. Then they believe their child is reasonable. Meanwhile, he resents his parents' playing games with him.

Does a wife control TV viewing?

YES—except for Monday night football, Saturday and Sunday sports, baseball games, the World Series, Super Bowl etc. In other words, when sports are on the tube, a wife usually decides in favor of her husband's desires. On the other occasions, a wife pretty much has her say as is what they will watch. The only trouble is that the "other occasions" come so few and far between that a wife figures the only solution is to get a second TV.

Must friends have the same ideals?

NOT necessarily. Look at how many close friends have opposing political views; and there are scores of friends on different sides of the law. Then too individuals are drawn together because of common bonds, though, they find better ties to them if they want to remain friends. Once their goals differ, then the two will feel cut adrift, and rarely will any other common bonds be strong enough to hold the friendship together.

Panic Causes Drowning

TORONTO (CP) — A large percentage of the people who drown every year have fallen off something stationary, a wharf, a river bank, a cliff.

A. W. Thiessen of the Canadian Red Cross Society says the statistic helps confirm the belief that the major single contributing factor in many drownings is panic.

It also underscores the importance of following safety rules all the time when you're near water, he says.

Mr. Thiessen is national director of water safety for the Red Cross.

Even when children appear to be in a safe spot, they should be supervised.

They should have life jackets on and know how they feel in the water.

Children who are old enough should have some training.

"At this time of year, it's speaking after the fact, but the number one preventive is some water skill and knowledge. If being near the water is a regular part of the family's living pattern, during the winter the parents should find some place where basic water skills can be taught to the children."

Mr. Thiessen says Red Cross formal instruction is restricted to children six and over on the grounds that younger children may learn the mechanics of swimming, but will not absorb the why's and hows of water activities.

"Before that, any age from infant on, there must be an adult in a one-to-one situation. There is no doubt that training can take place, but it should be a leisured experience with a trusted adult. We don't subscribe to shock approaches."

Mr. Thiessen says the Red Cross has revised its approach to teaching.

"We now begin with the three principles basic to being able to perform in water. We establish the principles of buoyancy, you know your body will hold you up, propulsion, you know how to push yourself forward, and the body position, you know streamlining is the most efficient position.

"Then you have the kids go in the water and try and you work with what they do instead of going the old rote way of teaching swimming strokes on land.

"Experienced teachers have always done these things, worked with what they have. The whole educational field is moving in this direction of challenging the youngsters, then encouraging them to learn."

TIP FOR PICNICS

When going on a picnic, frozen sandwiches and frozen tins of fruit juice help keep temperatures low if food must be kept a few hours before eating.

Successful Living

Cyclists Should Observe Road Rules

By DORIS CLARK

I drove along a side street yesterday and as I turned a corner encountered three bicycles riding abreast and talking up the middle and both sides of the road. I had to slam on brakes and the bicycles had to swerve dangerously to avoid a collision.

All the three young lads did was laugh. I expect they were frightened, but they didn't show it.

Bicycles are good sport. Besides doing a lot to relieve the family car they are giving our young people exercise which helps to keep them strong and healthy — as well as happy.

But with the privilege of a bicycle goes the obligation to observe the rules of the road and thus preserve, not only one's own life and health, but that of the other fellow.

I practically had a heart-attack right on the spot — then where would "Successful Living" be?

Dear Doris: Nineteen years ago my father married my mother, and two years later he had a nervous breakdown. The doctor told my mother that he would never be able to face up to responsibilities and she would have to carry the load.

And that is the story of our lives. He has gone bankrupt; is always dreaming up some money - making scheme that goes sour; spends his salary on things like bowling, and golf, and top quality equipment at that. Has no thought of the bills which always bang over us and which my mother keeps struggling to pay.

He has changed so much. Mother has made up her mind to take us and leave. She has made an appointment with our family agency because she wants to know how to go about it. I am all for her going, yet I worry about my father, because I still love him. What can I do? — Split In Half.

Dear Split: So often children are torn both ways; naturally you feel loyalty in both parents no matter how they have behaved. But this is an unfair burden for you. At 17, to carry. Separation is a serious step, and there is no easy solution.

Be reassured, though, that you are not responsible for your parents, heartless as this may sound. You are a loving daughter, but you should not jeopardize your own life and future. Encourage the counselling, and don't expect a sudden miracle.

(Doris has studied human behaviour and can shed light on your dilemma. Write to her enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

Family Reunion

KETCHESON CLAN

The 15th annual Ketcheson reunion was held at Tweed Memorial Park, Sunday, July 29 with a smaller attendance than usual.

Following the picnic dinner, the president, Grant Ketcheson of Madoc presided and asked for a moment's silence in remembrance of those who have passed away since the last picnic, namely: Miss Nettie Ketcheson, Belleville; Mrs. B. Hagerman, Stirling; Fred Radford, Belleville and Mrs. Clifford Ketcheson, Honolulu, Hawaii.

Various prizes were awarded as follows: the oldest lady, Mrs. Boyce, Camrilton; the oldest man, John B. Hagerman, Stirling; the most recent married couple, Mr. and Mrs. Don Farrell, Roslin; the man driving the farthest, Murray Deniker; Toronto and the couple married the longest, Mr. and Mrs. Murray Denike, Toronto.

During the business, Hudson Ketcheson of Frankford, was elected as president and Owen Ketcheson of Roslin as vice-president.

While the older people recalled past experiences by visiting, races and swimming were enjoyed by the younger members.

Women's Institutes

REDNERSVILLE W.I.

REDNERSVILLE — The July meeting for the Rednersville W.I. was in the form of a picnic held at Wellington Park. A large group of members and their husbands attended the pot luck meal which included a variety of foods in plentiful supply.

After the meal, a short business meeting was held. A letter from the W.I.'s sponsored boy in Hong Kong was read. This interesting note explained his current school studies.

Mrs. P. Moran had arranged a tour of a local mushroom plant and following the picnic the group moved to the plant.

Mr. Don Richards, plant manager, first described the operation thoroughly and then gave a tour which included seeing the huge piles of compost. The group was informed what ingredients were used and the process of making this compost. The different stages of mushroom growth were also shown and the method of picking described. The mushrooms are kept at 34 or 35 degrees until shipped in refrigerator trucks. The rigid rules of cleanliness for the workers was described which included washing the floors daily with chlorinated water.

The group was given samples of the large mushrooms which are too large for soup.

Mrs. P. Moran thanked Mr. Richards for the very interesting tour.

Fischer and Spassky Draw Dull Contest

Strike Over

TORONTO (CP) — Members of Local 598 of the Laborers International Union will return to work Friday if the terms of a settlement negotiated Tuesday are ratified.

The workers went on strike 10 days ago at construction projects around the city after they turned down an offer of 70-cents-an-hour increase in wages and an additional five cents vacation pay in a one-year agreement.

The union's provincial council also agreed Tuesday to terms to end a strike in Kingston. This settlement would raise workers' earnings in pay and fringe benefits to $6.30 an hour.

Body Recovered

HUNTSVILLE, Ont. (CP) — The body of Gregory May, 16, of Toronto, was recovered Tuesday in Vernon Lake near here.

The youth and a companion, Roy Mellon of Hamilton, were in a boat which was in collision with another craft Monday.

Mr. Mellon was rescued and is reported in serious condition in hospital.

Strike Averted

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Company and union negotiators reached agreement on a working conditions dispute Monday, narrowly averting a midnight strike of 4,700 workers at the Ford Motor Co. stamping plant.

Reach Coast

Labor Short

TILLSONBURG, Ont. (CP) — Possible frost and a shortage of labor are two of the biggest headaches facing Ontario tobacco growers as they approach this year's harvest of about 88,000 acres.

A target of 200 million pounds has been set.

Export Record

VANCOUVER (CP) — Grain exports through British Columbia ports for the year ended July 31 were a record 394,022,768 bushels, the Vancouver Grain Exchange reported Tuesday.

Previous record was 237,790,865, for the crop year 1970-71.

Many Visitors

OTTAWA (CP) — Despite economic upsets in Europe and North America, the tourist industry seems by leaps last year and shows signs of another big increase this year, says the Organization for Economic Co-Operation and Development.

The 23-member Paris-based organization, representing the industrial nations of the Western world, reports an overall gain of 17 per cent in international tourist receipts last year. The gain in the European countries alone was 21 per cent.

With a win counting one point and a draw half a point, Fischer, as the challenger, needs 12½ to take the title while Spassky must score 12 to retain it.

Sailboat Safe

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP) — Syracuse-area family, missing since last Saturday on a 26-foot sailboat on Lake Ontario, tied up at a dock in nearby Wilson Tuesday evening after learning they were being searched for.

They immediately called the coast guard across the lake at Oswego, near their starting point 10 days ago, the coast guard said.

Storm Hits

ST. CATHARINES, Ont. (CP) — A wind-whipped rainstorm tore through downtown St. Catharines Tuesday, downing trees and hydro lines and flooding numerous basements.

Change Plan

TORONTO (CP) — The Globe and Mail says in a front page story that Ontario has abandoned plans to set up a "mini-embassy" in Washington and instead will establish a one-man office in the Canadian embassy.

In a Washington story, the paper says Premier William Davis and External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp have agreed in principle to set up the one-man office after Ottawa expressed fears that a separate Ontario office could set a precedent for other provinces, particularly Quebec, to conduct their own diplomatic relations with foreign countries.

Pickersgill Quits As Transport Boss

While he has been transport commission president since 1967, Mr. Pickersgill is better known for his years at the centre of countless political battles as a long-time Liberal cabinet minister.

The peppery president of the transport commission, who was 67 in June, is retiring at his own request three years before the expiry of his term of office.

Associates say he plans to begin work on a book about his 20 years in Ottawa as a top federal cabinet minister and public servant. Prime Minister Trudeau is expected to name a successor in three weeks to the post Mr. Pickersgill created himself.

He was transport minister in 1967 when he piloted the National Transportation Act through the Commons. The Act set up the Canadian transport commission and Mr. Pickersgill was named to head the new regulatory body.

It is generally agreed that former premier Joseph Smallwood of Newfoundland was responsible for convincing Mr. Pickersgill to enter the cabinet and federal politics in 1953.

Mr. Pickersgill had a quiet beginning as state secretary but plunged into a series of rows as immigration minister in the dying years of the St. Laurent administration. A resident of Victoria that no immigrant was as good as a Canadian baby sparked strong protests from new Canadians.

The defeat of the St. Laurent government ended many political careers but Mr. Pickersgill found great enjoyment in his role as a caustic, roguish opposition critic.

When the Liberals returned to power in 1963, Mr. Pickersgill returned to the cabinet as state secretary and government House leader. A year later he moved to the transport portfolio.

All Evidence Heard At Kamloops Inquest

KAMLOOPS, B.C. (CP) — The coroner's jury investigating the death of Chilcotin Indian Fred Quilt was expected to begin considering a verdict today.

The jury heard summations Tuesday from four lawyers involved in the case and was to receive final instructions today from provincial court judge D. McNeil of Quesnel.

Mr. Quilt, 35, died in Williams Lake Nov. 30 and a coroner's jury there ruled in January that his death was unnatural and accidental. However, a second inquest was later ordered by the B.C. Supreme Court.

During the second inquest here, Mr. Quilt's wife Christine and sister-in-law Agnes told the jury they saw an RCMP officer "jump up and down" on Quilt in a Nov. 28 incident on Highway 20, east of Alexis Creek.

RCMP constables Daryl Bakewell and Peter Eskins denied this in their testimony, saying they found Quilt and three other members of his family "extremely intoxicated" in a pickup truck that was blocking the highway and took them to the nearby Anahim reserve. Constable Eskins said Mr. Quilt had apparently passed out behind the wheel of his truck and Constable Bakewell said Mr. Quilt fell to the ground twice while being removed from the truck and placed in a police vehicle. Mr. Quilt's truck was later found burning.

In Tuesday's summations, Harry Rankin, representing Mr. Quilt's estate, said Mrs. Quilt's actions immediately following the alleged incident were consistent with her allegations and were the actions of "a responsible person worried to death about the condition of her husband."

Gunnar Engerman, representing the federal justice department, said 17 points in Mrs. Quilt's testimony, including her denial that anyone in the truck had been drinking vanilla extract, were contradicted by other witnesses. "If somebody has been wrong on 17 things, are they right on the things that matter?"

Stanfield Promises Wage, Price Controls

He told teen-agers at an Opportunities for Youth project in Georgetown and summer students at a high school here that his party does not favor the legalization of marijuana or hashish and he questioned why it took a Liberal government and Health Minister John Munro so long to come out with recommendations that marijuana users not be fined and not have criminal records.

The Opposition leader said the Conservatives would reduce personal income taxes to stimulate the economy, and said "the best way to get people off welfare is to increase employment possibilities."

Mr. Stanfield said his top priority in Canada is still to increase employment and told the high school students, as he told a breakfast meeting of party workers Tuesday, that he would institute wage and price controls to fight inflation, rather than inhibit the economy.

He emphasized, however, that wage and price control would only be a temporary measure.

If elected, Mr. Stanfield said, the Conservatives would reduce personal income taxes to stimulate the economy, and said "the best way to get people off welfare is to increase employment possibilities."

OUT OF OLD NOVA SCOTIA KITCHENS—Marie Nightingale —

This is a cookbook of a people who are incredibly proud of their heritage. It has taken a person with the time, talent and ambition of Marie Nightingale to tell in detail the fascinating origins of the conditions that existed among the early settlers. The cooking of Nova Scotia is as unique as any in the world. Its traditional dishes are as delicious as any cooking in the pure English or the pure French tradition.

THE WORLD OF P. G. WODEHOUSE — Herbert Warren Wind

Mr. Wind, a writer for the New Yorker and a long - time admirer of the novelist's works, brings two worlds vividly to life — the world of the prolific 90-yearold author's fictional creations Bertie Wooster and Jeeves, his perfect gentleman's gentleman, and the fascinating eventful world of the creator—with its style, and understandin. He has included in his book 30 some odd photographs, drawings, and manuscript pages of Wodehouse's current novel in progress. Many of the captions are written charmingly in Wodehouse's own handwriting.

PORTRAIT OF SUSSEX — Cecile Woodford

Sussex has always been regarded as a "show" county; its name conjures up a special picture, whether of the Downs in the sun or fishing boats pulled up on shingle beaches. One thinks of the villages tucked into valleys, of bustling Brighton with its ornamented Pavilio, or Wirchesies, Amberwort on its hilltop. Portrait of Sussex presents the county in all its beauty and fascination as it was and as it is.

MY HEART LIES SOUTH — Elizabeth Borton de Trevino

This book was originally published over 30 years ago, but remains as light-hearted and poignant as it was then. In Mexico, any exchange of pleasantries leads either to the altar or to bullets. But Elizabeth Borton did not realize this when, on a newspaper assignment, she danced the entire evening with the charming Luis Trevino. This is the story of Elizabeth's marriage, with all the fireworks that explode when two cultures meet.

OUTDOORSMAN'S FIX-IT BOOK — Monte Burch

An experienced outdoorsman and workshop pro tells in clear easy language, using step-by-step directions and many photographs, everything the outdoorsman needs to know about the uptkeep, and the repair and storage of every sort of outdoor equipment. It covers every kind of gear imaginable: fishing tackle, guns, boats, snowmobiles, trailers, vans, saws and much much more.

HONOR THY FATHER — Gay Talese

Called by several names, but never Mafia by its members, the Mafia is of ancient origin in Sicily. In the United States it became organized along modern lines in the 1920s. In this fascinating book, packed with brilliant reporting and intimate details, and written in the style of a novel, Gay Talese portrays the secret society as members — and behave lived it in the six years he travelled with the Dirksen's and who have so dominated the American scene.

CHAMPION CATS OF THE WORLD — Catherine Ing and Grace Ford

The cat is perhaps one of the commonest and the most mysterious of all domestic animals. It is at once the most deeply loved, and certainly the most deeply disliked of pets. This is a book for all cat lovers to treasure. It is a marvellous source of reference with superb photographs of the finest examples of the champion breeds.

Questions and Answers On Highway Travel

Ontario Motor League Eastern Ontario Club

QUESTION: We are shortly to vacation in the Cape Cod area, and will be staying in Provincetown. Never having been there, we would like to know a little about it, also any information on Martha's Vineyard and Nantucket Island.

Because of its isolated position, Provincetown always has depended upon the sea for its livelihood. This important fishing town, once a whaling port, is today home of one of the best known art colonies in the country. The Cape Cod School of Art is here. Art exhibits may be seen at the Provincetown Art Association, 460 Commercial St., from mid-June to September 1. Monday through Saturday 10 to 6 and 8 to 11, Sunday 2 to 6; admission 25 cents. The Provincetown playhouse, in its tiny theatre off Bonnell Street, produces seven plays from July through Labor Day. The Symphony Orchestra gives concerts during the summer.

Miles of splendid beaches line both harbor and ocean sides of the peninsula, with bathhouse and parking facilities (fee $1) at Provincetown Beach. Along the "back Shore" from Peaked Hill Bars to Race Point, surf casters find striped bass from late May to mid-October. Dunes tours are available daily 8:30 to dusk; check locally for prices and location. Charter boats are available here.

Pilgrim Memorial Monument and Provincetown Historical Museum are located on Town Hill, the museum contains Pilgrim relics, other historical material and an Arctic display by explorer Donald B. MacMillan. The monument is a 252 foot granite shaft commemorating the landing of the Pilgrims.

Nantucket Island: Thirty miles off the mainland, this popular area is reached by air or boat. Daily boat service is maintained between Woods Hole, Martha's Vineyard and Nantucket; daily service in summer is also available to Hyannis on Cape Cod. During the summer there is a round-trip air service five times daily from both New York and Boston. Good hard-surfaced roads on the island connect the village of Nantucket with the smaller but increasingly popular resorts of Siasconset, Wauwinet, Quidnet, Madaket, Surfside and others.

The history of the island dates from 1659, when Tom, as Macy, a Puritan farmer living on the mainland was heavily fined for giving shelter to four Quakers during a terrific storm. Incensed, he announced his intention to take up abode among savages where religious zeal had not yet discovered a crime in hospitality. He bought Nantucket Island for 30 pounds and two beaver hats and established its first settlement. Fishing was important from earliest days and Nantucket developed into one of the greatest whaling ports in the world. Much of Nantucket's charm is associated with its cobblestoned main street and its handsome old houses, built during the prosperous whaling days.

The island has a famous artists' colony; art exhibits are held in the Kenneth Taylor Gallery. In July and August, outside plays and concerts are presented. Recreational facilities include excellent beaches and two golf courses. Sailing, tennis, bicycling and fishing, particularly for bass and bluefish, are very popular.

An island about 6 miles from Woods Hole, Martha's Vineyard is the site of several towns which have been popular as summer resorts. The leading ones are Vineyard Haven, Oak Bluffs and Edgartown. Vineyard Haven, the shopping centre of the island, Oak Bluffs, Menemsha and Edgartown have fine harbors, Gay Head is noted for its vari-colored cliffs.

Oldest settlement of the island, Edgartown, was an important seafaring town in the days of whaling; many charming old houses still line the narrow streets. There are excellent beaches, safe yacht anchorage in the three large harbors, golf, fishing and other sports. Fish, clams and lobsters are plentiful. The State Lobster Hatchery in Oak Bluffs may be visited daily from 9 to noon and 1 to 4.

Ferries operate daily between Woods Hole, Martha's Vineyard and Nantucket. Daily service is also available in summer from Oak Bluffs to Falmouth and Hyannis on the southern shore of Cape Cod.

Dukes County Historical Society Museum, School and Cooke Streets, Edgartown, houses historical documents, ship models, photographs and other articles of interest. Built by a ship's carpenter in 1763, the house is a fine example of colonial architecture with handsome panelling, Jacobean staircase and seven open fireplaces.

The Thomas Cooke house on Cooke Street contains exhibits of contemporary Americana, including whaling and island living.

Mayhew Memorial, between West Tisbury and Edgartown, was erected by Indians nearly 200 years ago in memory of Rev. Thomas Mayhew, Jr., the first missionary to the Indians.

Puerto Rican Fights New Extradition Move

OTTAWA (CP) — A young Puerto Rican revolutionary who has become a rallying symbol of the Independence movement in his Caribbean island home, is to appear before the Federal Court of Canada today to fight a second U.S. extradition attempt.

Humberto Pagan Hernandez is charged in San Juan with the gun murder of the commander of the police riot squad during a violent battle in March, 1971, on the campus of the University of Puerto Rico. Three men were killed—two police officers and one student cadet of the U.S. Reserve Officer Training Corps. Sixty-two others were wounded in a long fire fight between police and ROTC cadets on one side, and "independistas" on the other.

The U.S. is asking the federal court to overturn a lower court decision last June in which Judge A. E. Hoorweil ruled that there was no credible evidence that would allow Canada to hand Pagan over for trial in the U.S. possession.

Police testimony said the 21-year-old student was charged five days after the bloody battle on the basis of an anonymous telephone tip and the alleged eye-witness identification of a police lieutenant. The judge's decision supports Pagan's contention that he was framed.

The U.S. has had jurisdiction over the former Spanish territory since a military occupation in 1898. Later, it was formally ceded to the U.S. as a prize from the Spanish-American war.

Eastern Airlines Tests Detector

NEW YORK (AP) — Eastern Airlines began Tuesday a week-long test of an anti-hijacker system combining a flurosccpe, a television camera and monitor.

In demonstrating the system at LaGuardia Airport, Eastern placed a suitcase between the Flurescope and the TV camera. X-ray beams outlined the objects inside the case.

Clearly visible were a gun, a tape recorder with wires that could have indicated the presence of a bomb, razor and blades, camera, pins and other solid objects. Two shirts showed up dimly in outline. The penetration power of the beam from the flurescope was sufficient to show the level of shaving cream in an aerosol can.

Police Beating Related

STE. THERESE, Que. (CP) — A Montreal newspaper says police held and beat a 19-year-old youth Tuesday 100 feet from the local police station and then took him to the station where the beating continued.

James Duff of The Gazette, in an eyewitness report from this troubled community 15 miles north of Montreal, said a Ste. Therese police cruiser arrived in front of a hotel where the reporter was talking to several youths.

In a front-page story, the reporter said the police officers told the group to move along but the youth did not seem to hear the command.

Five policemen, four from a nearby Quebec Provincial Police car, attacked the youth in front of the reporter, the story says.

"Two took turns beating him in the stomach while the Ste. Therese constable got his head in a hammerlock. They carried him to the cruiser and threw him into the back seat . . .

Duff said inside the station "a reception committee of two Ste. Therese constables slammed him into the wall and a third constable, approximately 6 ft 2 inches and 200 pounds, addressed him with a few kidney punches. . . ."

'Chicken' Players Watched

MISSISSAUGA, Ont. (CP) — Mississauga police said Tuesday they plan a crackdown against youngsters playing "chicken" with trains roaring across a trestle at 60 miles an hour.

The police spokesman was commenting on a story in The Star which said youngsters stand in the centre of the 500-foot long bridge in this community just outside the northwestern limits of Toronto and dive 25 feet into a reservoir just before the train passes by.

The Star says that dozens of youngsters have escaped death by inches attempting to be the last to jump out of the way.

The police spokesman said periodic observations would be made of the trestle by uniformed personnel who would warn youngsters they face trespassing charges if they continue to play on the bridge.

Inspector S. C. Barth, head of Canadian National Railways' security force for the Toronto area, said that on July 24 a special officer picked up 14 juveniles playing "chicken" on the bridge. They were taken home and their parents warned.

Tourists Shunning Ireland

DUBLIN (AP) — Northern Ireland's bombings and shootings have shattered the tourist industry in the Irish republic to the south, and there is no glimmer of hope for the foreseeable future.

Hotels throughout the Emerald Isle are virtually empty as foreign visitors generally pass Ireland by.

Many hotels keep a skeleton staff, on to cater to the chance guest. In remote regions several will have to close Aug. 31, once the peak of the season.

"The tourist season this year is just a non-event," one hotel operator complained. "We can blame it entirely on the northern trouble. Many people abroad just don't realize that the republic is peaceful."

The Irish tourist board estimated that perhaps one million visitors have been lost. It said there are 31 per cent fewer visitors from Britain this year, and 18 per cent less over all.

Several big sports events scheduled for Dublin were cancelled after a mob burned the British embassy last February.

The magazine Irish Hotelier and Caterer reports that escorted tours to Ireland have dropped by as much as 50 per cent this year.

Last year Aer Lingus, the national airline, had an operating loss of nearly $5 million after 12 years of profits. Chairman Patrick Lynch predicted another loss this year.

One bright spot in the gloom is that Irish vacationers now can have reasonably-priced holidays in their country's best resorts. And the bargains are being snapped up by thousands of Irish living in Britain who know that the violence is confined to the north.

Bob's Suffer Different Lacrosse Fate

Play-off pressure was non-existent for the winners last night's Belleville Minor Lacrosse playdowns and the losers will have to come up with some clutch performance to remedy the situation.

The Dairy Queen Sprites were scoring at will in an 11-0 whipping of Bobs Sport. Jamie Robertson had four goals for the winners with Joe Belanger picking up three. Robert Kanary two and Jamie Forster and David Lavinetz one each.

Bob's bantam counterparts turned the tables though, with an 11-2 unplugging of Bud Gill Appliances. Jeff Belanger picked up three goals for the victory with Paul Thompson and Tom Sharland adding two each, and Wally Inwood, Glen Andrews, Dale Grier and Dave McBride one apiece. Glen Edwards and Steve Wilson replied for Bud Gills.

In another bantam play-off contest Towers penny'd scoring as often but still walked away with a 7-1 win over the RCAF. Sterling Wilson had the hat trick for Towers with Rob Prewer netting two and Mike Thompson and Ken Bailey one each. Mike Johnson answered with the Flyers only goal.

Intelligencer Sports

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 2, 1972

Down But Not Out

Jamie Robertson is heading down for the count but not before he got his pass away. Jamie was the star for his Dairy Queen novice lacrosse team scoring four times in an 11-0 romp over Bob's Sport. B. Haggerty is giving Jamie the nudge from behind in this the opening game of the Belleville Minor Lacrosse play-offs.

Post Office Turns Industrial Tables

The Post Office did their part to stamp out inequality in the Industrial Softball League Tuesday night.

While Mead Johnson and CNR continued their winning ways, the Postics prevented a sweep by the top clubs, dumping the "A" division co-leaders from the Intelligencer 13-8. Meads had finished their schedule with a 14-0 pasting of the Independents while CNR topped the Morch Hitmen 7-3.

Norm Lockhart was rolling eights for the Post Office, turning in an eight-hitter with eight strikeouts and the same number of walks. Dave Feeney gave up 14 hits for the losers.

Bill Pearce paced the winners with a homer and two singles, while Lockhart added three safeties and two each coming from John Boland, Gord "Soup" Campbell and George Johnson. Hon Post homered and doubled for the loss while Pat Brown added two singles.

Meads benefitted from the seven-hit, shutout pitching of Ken Osbourne to roll over the Independents. The right-hander struck out two batters and issued the same number of walks to record the win.

Ray Finkle topped the winners at the plate with a five-for-five performance that included a homer and triple. Tim O'Connell had a homer and single for the winners with two hits going to Cliff Hinsman. Osbourne and Wayne Storms, Paul Trumpour had a double and triple and losing pitcher Doug Campbell two singles for the Independents.

The win by Meads was their fourth consecutive shutout and their 11th victory in as many games.

CNR stayed within two points of their "B" division rivals with their 7-3 win over Morch's. Brian Plumbe pitched the Trainmen to the victory with an eight-hitter. He walked one batter and set down three on strikes. Don Fobert and Paul Sharpe allowed eight safeties for the losers.

At the plate it was Jim Plumbe with a homer and single for CNR while Brian Plumbe and Vaughn Cunningham had singles. Bob Boyle laced a single, double and triple for the Mariners followed by Mike Rollins with two singles.

Fredericks Pots Eight

It was the Gary Fredericks hour in the opening round of the Belleville Minor Soccer Bantam Cup series as the supreme Fence star forward netted eight goals in his teams 13-0 romp over Fitzgibbon Construction.

Paul D'Anna picked up the hat trick for the winners who built up a 10-0 half time lead. Nick Wilkinson and Randy Cox tallied the other two Supreme goals.

Soule No-Hits Napanee

The Mead Johnson squirts had the first taste of OASA playdown action Tuesday night and they made sure they would be back for seconds.

Mead's hurler Tim Soule faced only 22 batters in fashioning a 13-0 no-hit victory over Napanee in the first game of the sone four-playoffs.

Soule struck out 18 and did not walk a man in blanking Napanee, who fell to the Belleville crew in last year's second round action.

Darrell Coltman smashed a single, double and triple for Meads who scored seven times in the first inning and never looked back. John Henry, Andy Rosait and Bob Hedge angled for the winners and Scule added a double to his own cause.

The second game in this best of three series gets underway Thursday night at Napanee with a 6:30 starting time.

Western Tire Lays On Lumber

The Western Tire peewees put the wood to a little more use than their Richard Ellis counterparts in a Belleville Minor Softball play-off contest last night stapling the Printers 15-10.

A Smith punched a homer and three singles to lead the winners while K. Campbell had a home run and S. McCann a triple and single.

Ray Gee and Brian Sparrow had a double and single each in a losing effort.

Thurlow Peewees Fall Hard

The bigger they were the harder they fell in a Belleville Minor Baseball peewee game Tuesday night when the Planes Concrete tykes upset Foster's Thurlow peewees 22-14.

Doug Vader and Dave Blakely had a double and two singles each and Stan Jung a triple and single for the tyke winners. John Card and Blakely shared the pitching chores for the victors.

In a pair of strictly tyke contests the Kinsmen messed up Hastings Caretaking 11-3 and Allambra 189 cavorted over Sidney Inn 27-9.

Bruce McBrian paced the Kinsmen win with a home run while Kevin Jones and Jeff Hayward combined for the pitching win.

Larry Hanlon and Mark Pearson blazed a five hitter for Allambra and totalled ten of the winners 16 hits. Hanlon smashed a homer, a triple, single and two doubles and Pearson connected for a double and four singles.

One Hit Too Many

Bayview Orchard's Don Bonter must be wondering what he has to do right to win the Prince Edward North Shore Softball League after firing a one-hitter last night and losing 3-0 to cellar dweller Consecon.

Bonter struck out seven, did not walk a batter and gave up only one hit to Dale McConkey but still lost when Consecon came up with three runs in the sixth inning.

Art Kellar won the game with a three hitter, fanning four and walking one. He allowed hits to Harry Cole, George Daniels and Jim Bell but hung on for the victory.

Tigers Get Out of Rain But Not Soon Enough

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Detroit Tigers finally got to come in out of the rain Tuesday night after umpire Frank Umont put a damper on their stalling tactics.

After a 51-minute rain delay in the middle of the third inning with Milwaukee Brewers leading 2-0, the teams resumed play. The rain resumed, too, in the fourth inning as the Tigers fell farther behind en route to a six-inning 9-6 setback.

The rain started in the top of the fifth with Mike Ferraro on first base and one out and the contest five outs away from being an official game. Relief pitcher Jim Hiller threw to first on several times with Ferraro standing on the bag.

Manager Del Crandall relied to Ferraro to take a big lead and the Tigers promptly picked him off as he made no attempt to avoid the tag.

Detroit manager Billy Martin then pulled his anything - you-can-do-I-can-do-better trick and brought Fred Scherman in to pitch.

Ellie Rodriguez lifted a pop fly into short right field and it dropped untouched as second baseman Dick McAuliffe and right fielder Jim Northrup stood and looked at each other.

Rodriguez ambled casually toward second, just asking to be tagged out, as the ball was relayed to shortstop Eddie Brinkman, who held the ball for a minute and Rodriguez had no recourse but to step on second base with a gift double.

That earned him the second filled Scherman's spikes with mud and he slowly started to clean them. That's when Umonth went into action.

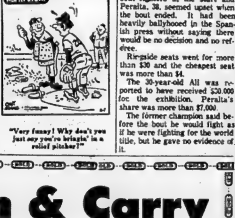
With Rodriguez falling on everyone's heads, he called Martin and Crandall out and told them he'd recommend a $1,000 fine to American League President Joe Cronin if any more foolishness took place.

Mike Lockwood then filed out, to end the inning and the Tigers were retired in order in their half, making it an official game.

One inning later, the game was over.

The Tigers managed only one hit off Lockwood, Mickey Stanley's leadoff double in the sixth. Milwaukee drove rookie Bill Slayback from the mound in the first inning, scoring two runs on four hits. The Brewers scored four times in the fourth on Joe Lahoud's two-run homer and a two-run single by Dave May.

Despite the defeat, the Tigers remained 2½ games ahead of Baltimore in the American League. Ease when Cleveland's Gaylord Perry blanked the Orioles 2-0 on two singles. Elsewhere, New York Yankees battered Boston Red Sox 10-4, California Athletics shut out Kansas City Royals 4-0 and Minnesota Twins blanked Texas Rangers 3-0. California and Chicago were rained out.



Cleveland's Perry tied Detroit's Mickey Lolich as the only pitchers in the majors with 18 victories and got all the offense he needed when Buddy Bell smacked a two-run homer off Baltimore's Dave McNally in the second inning.

New York's Mel Stottlemyre and Boston's Sonny Siebert battled through five scoreless innings before Roy White singled in the Yankees' first run and then stole home for a 2-0 lead. They added five more in the seventh, and Bobby Murcer crashed a three-run homer in the eighth.

Stottlemyre blanked the Red Sox until the ninth, when they erupted for four runs on six hits before Fred Beene came on to get the final out.

Oakland's Ken Holtzman stopped Kansas City on three hits for his 14th triumph. The Athletics scored in the third on Sal Bando's two-run single off Paul Splittorff and Reggie Jackson hammered a two-run 425-foot homer in the 14th, his 21st.

Minnesota's Dick Woodson hurled a three - hitter against Texas for his first major league shutout. Danny Thompson socked a two-run triple for the Twins in the third inning and Bobby Darwin walloped his 14th homer in the fourth.

Belkin Breezes

WINNIPEG (CP) — Mike Belkin, Canada's top international tennis competitor who has been fighting a recurring back ailment is attempting to regain the Canadian national tennis championship.

The 26-year-old Montreal native, who won the singles title in 1970 but bypassed the event last year, breezed to victory Tuesday in his first match of the championship, beating Dave Johnston of Vancouver 6-0, 6-1.

Belkin said five seeded men and women singles players lost Tuesday, but at least one defending champion Peter Burwash, had to fight for his win.

Burwash, seeded No. 2, finally managed to subdue Richard Legendre of Quebec City 6-3, 4-6, 6-4 but not until the 18-year-old Quebecer threatened to produce the first major upset.

Belkin said part of the reason for his easy victory was Johnston's lack of confidence.

"The game is all confidence. Sure you have got to have the shots, but you've got to believe in yourself, I played a bit out there today who has got good shots. But he was scared to death before he went on the court."

Belkin has never been known to suffer from a lack of confidence but he has run into other problems in recent years.

"My weakness in the past few years has been my desire. If I can get on the court twice after a week, healthy and strong, I know I can still do it. . . .

"I just don't have that desire week after week. That's why I don't play that much anymore. I hate going out and playing lousy because I know I can play well."

Belkin has also been suffering from a bad back.

"I've had the bad back for about three years now. They don't know what caused it but it's one of those things that keep coming on."

Legendre, a student at Florida State University on a tennis scholarship, had the 26 year-old international veteran on the ropes, leading 2-0 in the decisive third set. But Legendre changed his style of play and chose to play baseline volleys and wait out the match. Decision Burwash exploited for victory.

"I wasn't worried when I was down in that final set," Burwash said afterwards, "I thrive on being behind."

Ali's Dance Unpopular

BARCELOMA, Spain (AP) — Former heavyweight boxing champion Muhammad Ali and Argentina's Gregorio (Goyo) Peralta danced around each other Tuesday night in a listless, no-decision exhibition in Barcelona's bull ring.

There were no knockdowns, no hard blows and no referees and neither man was marked at the end of the eight two-minute rounds.

All fought the entire fight using only his left hand in offence.

Peralta, an aging stylist who was once the champion of South America, attempted several times to make a boxing match of the show but Ali refused to stay still long enough to mix it.

The crowd of 10,000 booed both fighters at the start and Peralta, 38, seemed upset when the bout ended. It had been heavily ballyhooed in the Spanish press without saying there would be no decision and no referee.

Ringside seats went for more than $30 and the cheapest seat was more than $4.

The 30-year-old Ali was reported to have received $20,000 for the exhibition. Peralta's share was more than $7,000.

The former champion said before the bout he would fight as if he were fighting for the world title, but he gave no evidence of it.

Colbert's Magic Act Nets Five Home Runs

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Nate Colbert performed a magic act in Atlanta Stadium but when it was all over, not even he believed it.

Colbert blasted his way into the record books Tuesday night with a slingshot baseball bat that hurled five home runs into the stands and drove in a record 13 runs during San Diego Padres' sweep of a double-header against the Braves.

The five homers in the 9-0 and 11-7 Padres victories tied the mark of Stan Musial of St. Louis in 1954. The 13 RBI eclipsed the major-league record of 11 shared by Cleveland's Earl Averill in 1930, Pittsburgh's Jim Tabor in 1939 and Baltimore's Boog Powell in 1966, and the National League standard of 10 by Ezzo Slaughter of St. Louis in 1947.

He also broke the NL record of 12 RBI in two straight games by Jim Bottomley of St. Louis in 1924, and Musial's mark of 18 total bases in a doubleheader.

"You know, I was there when Stan hit five in old Busch Stadium," said Colbert, who was born in St. Louis. "Hitting five in one day is unreal. I don't remember the exact date, but I know it was a Sunday."

The 26-year-old first baseman said: "I'm still so excited; I can't believe what happened. It became true and it's just unreal to believe it. I'm the luckiest guy in baseball. I'm married to a girl who thinks I'm a baseball player. I'm just a guy who plays baseball. I'm not a baseball player. I'm just a guy who plays baseball. I'm not a baseball player. I'm just a guy who plays baseball. I'm not

Hull Still Barred From Russian Series

TORONTO (CP) — The directors of Hockey Canada must stick to their decision to bar any players who have signed with the World Hockey Association from playing for Team Canada against Russia in September, Alan Eagleson said Tuesday.

Eagleson, who represents the National Hockey League Players' Association on the Hockey Canada steering committee, said in an interview that the exhibition series with this country and the Soviet Union might blow up if the agreement with the NHL is not honored.

"As pleasant as it would be, we do not want Bobby Hull, J. C. Tremblay or Gerry Cheevers at the cost of the series and this will happen if we renege on our agreement," he said.

Hockey Canada steering committee meets today at noon to decide final formalities of Team Canada and the full board of Hockey Canada directors will consider the committee session.

"We are caught in a bind," Eagleson said. "If we break the agreement with the NHL we'll lose a lot more than just part of the whole series of games."

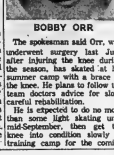
First four games will be played in Canada, with the remaining four to be played in the Soviet Union.

"Here in Canada we can put our country before players but we must remember the majority of players selected by Team Canada coach Harry Sinden are from the National Hockey League.

"It is not realistic," Eagleson said.

"We must consider the problem of all the players," he said. "Take the New York situation. There are five Rangers on Team Canada—Brad Park, Vic Hadfield, Jean Ratelle, Rod Gilbert and Rod Seiling. All are most anxious to play against Russia, but they must respect their association with their employers. We cannot afford to lose these five, and others, at the risk of breaking an agreement for a few."

Earlier Tuesday in an interview in Saskatoon, Douglas Fisher, chairman of Hockey Canada, said all angles were being checked on the eligibility of Bull and other former National Hockey League players to participate in the Canada-Russia series.



Asked whether he was still negotiating to get Hull on the Canadian team, Fisher said: "We're doing our best. I can't say any more than that."

BOBBY HULL

Orr Won't Play For Team Canada

BOSTON (AP) — Star defenseman Bobby Orr will not play for Team Canada in this falls Canada-Russia eight game hockey series, despite a satisfactory report on his injured knee, a Boston Bruins spokesman said Tuesday.

BOBBY ORR

The spokesman said Orr, who underwent surgery last June after injuring the knee during the season, has skated at his summer camp with a brace on the knee. He plans to follow the team doctors advice for slow, careful rehabilitation.

He is expected to do no more than some light skating until mid-September, then get the knee into condition slowly at training camp for the coming season with the Stanley Cup champions of the National Hockey League.

The club quoted Orr as saying, "I have skated lightly a couple of times wearing shorts for protection at my camp. The brace doesn't feel cumbersome and I will continue to wear it."

Dr. Carter Rowe, who performed the third operation on Orr's knee at Massachusetts General Hospital said after Tuesday's examination that recovery was "proceeding very well.

"Bobby is right on schedule. The doctor said. "He should be all set for the season but there's no way he'll be able to play in an eight-game series between Canada and Russia.

Namath Signs For Undisclosed Amount

HEMPSTEAD, N.Y. (AP) — Flamboyant Joe Namath, after signing a two-year contract Tuesday with New York Jets, refused to discuss terms of the agreement, but sources claimed the package was worth $500,000, making him the highest paid quarterback in pro football.

"No figures will be given", Namath told a news conference at the National Football League team's training camp. "I don't think that's necessary."

Namath had insisted recently that he should be paid more than any other quarterback because, "I can play better than anyone else." Asked if the new contract had fulfilled his wish, Namath replied, "I don't know. I've never seen anybody else's contract."

Flanked by Jets coach general manager Weeb Ewbank and team president Phil Iselin, Namath said he "will continue to play as long as I am able to contribute to the team. Even if injured, I'd have another operation and then come back."

Eskimos Stumble Upon Winning CFL Formula

EDMONTON (CP) — Edmonton Eskimos stumbled on a new way to win a football game Tuesday night, but it's doubtful they'll put it in their Western Conference playbook.

The idea is to run the opposition's game plan with your own fumbles, something the Eskimos did seven times as they opened the regular WFC season with a 34-22 victory over British Columbia Lions.

"Hell, how can you stick to a game plan when you're faced with nine fumbles," coach Eagle Keys said after his Lions blew a half-dozen chances to overcome a 30-point lead the Eskimos had piled up in the first half by taking advantage of a couple of B.C. bobbles.

"It was a game of fumbles," Keys said, the difference being that the Eskimos made the most of the ones they recovered while the Lions missed the boat too often.

"We moved the ball well in the second half but couldn't do anything with all those fumbles," Keys said.

"I've got a lot to discuss with both the offence and defence," he said.

Three Eskimos who probably will escape censure are Ron Forwick, George McGowan and Tyrone Walls.

Forwick, a veteran Canadian, intercepted a pass and ran 45 yards for the touchdown that wrapped up the Edmonton triumph with 16 seconds left to play.

Split end McGowan caught two touchdown passes and Walls picked up a fumble and ran 40 yards into the B.C. end zone for six points.

Quarterback Bruce Lemmerman scored the other Edmonton touchdown, but took some of the polish off his performance by dropping the ball twice. Dave Cutler collected the other Eskimo points withfour converts.

Halfback Gene Fowler was another Eskimo standout, rushing for 107 yards, but he also earned a mild rebuke from 19,844 fans for two fumbles. His running mate, Sam Scarber, also dropped the ball twice.

Keys said: "They got the jump on us when (Jim) Evenson fumbled on the game's opening play. But we got ours back when Sam Scarber grounded the ball early in the second half."

When you're down 19 points at the half, you've got to play catch-up football. We moved the ball well in the second half, but couldn't do anything with all those fumbles late in the fourth quarter. Hell, it was a game of fumbles."

The Lions outpaced the Eskimos 384-256 on offence, with Young doing most of the work. He caught eight passes for 158 yards.

The frustrated Lions passed for 271 yards, with Moorhead completing 17 of 30 attempts and rushed for 144 in collecting 24 first downs. But Edmonton defender Rock Perdoni hurt them by catching Moorhead for losses on three key plays.

"This fight is for $1,000.00. And nobody has two pennies for the weigh-in."

Vadnais In Bruins Fold

BOSTON (AP) — Defenceman Carol Vadnais signed a multi-year contract with Boston Bruins, National Hockey League Stanley Cup champions, general manager Milt Schmidt announced Tuesday. Vadnais joined the Bruins last February in a trade with the California Golden Seals for defencemen Rick Smith and Bob Stewart and right winger Reg Leach. Terms of the new contract were not disclosed.

COMMON DENOMINATOR

What have some people in Mississaugua, Belleville, Oshawa, Bedford, N.Y., Detroit, Montreal and St. Catharines in common? Shawnee. They have built cottage homes in this unique 1,200 acre wilderness vacationland in the Highlands of Hastings, 75 miles northeast of Metropolitan Toronto. These happy people include a doctor, lawyer, builder, retailer, business and insurance executives, professor and nurse, among many, many others. Why Shawano? Because Shawanee offers so much more than run-of-the-mill vacation areas. For example: four lakes for excellent swimming, boating and fishing. Enchanting shoreline. Majestic woodlands. Beautiful unspoiled views. A marina and grading post and first-class access road. Big lakeshore lots $4,900.00 with $490.00 down. A great selection of cottage lots, too, in uncommonly different at Shawano. Get your free colored brochure from Bowes & Cocks Ltd. Realtor, 175 North Front St., Belleville or call: 968-4571.

San Diego Acquires Talent and Troubles In Pair of NFL Trades

IRVINE, Calif. (AP) — San Diego Chargers have acquired two of pro football's most talented and troublesome players—running back Duane Thomas and linebacker Tim Rossovich.

Dallas Cowboys gave up Monday night the controversial Thomas, who missed this week's practice at Thousand Oaks, Calif., for wide receiver Billy Parks and running back Mike Montgomery.

"We had reached the point where we had to do something," said Cowboy coach Tom Landry.

Harland Svare, head coach of the Chargers, said he will wait a while for the 25-year-old Thomas to report.

Thomas could not be reached for comment.

For Rossovich, the Chargers relinquished their No. 1 National Football League choice of 1973 to Philadelphia Eagles. The 6-foot, 245-pounder, a five-year National Football League veteran, sought a big salary jump and failed to show up at the Eagles' training camp.

A spokesman for the Chargers quoted Rossovich as saying he was "delighted to join the San Diego club."

In other deals, the Chargers sent fullback Jeff Queen to Oakland for a third-round draft pick in 1973, and the Cowboys dealt wide receiver Chester Richardson to the Raiders for an undisclosed draft choice.

Thomas, the NFL's top rookie on offense two years ago, gained 765 yards in 175 carries as the Cowboys won their first Super Bowl championship last season.

Thomas demanded a new contract last year and refused to report to camp. He was traded to New England Patriots but was returned to Dallas.

SAN DIEGO (AP) — No matter what happens to San Diego Chargers, no one will ever accuse Harland Svare of being afraid to make trades.

What remains to be seen now is how effective the San Diego head coach is in blending the talent he has acquired into a team that can challenge traditional powerhouses Oakland and Kansas City in the American Football Conference West.

Svare's four trades in the last two days brought to 15 the number of swaps he has made since taking over the Charger coaching reins with four games to go last season.

The players who have recently donned Charger uniforms have significantly bolstered San Diego's defence, which last year was third worst in the NFL in terms of yardage given up.

And the offence, which last season relied heavily on the fine passing arm of quarterback John Hadl, now boasts a legitimate rushing threat with the addition of Duane Thomas and Cid Edwards to a backfield which already features Mike Garrett.

At defensive end Svare has brought in veterans David (Deacon) Jones and Lionel Aldridge, while drafting rookie Pete Lenkich of Stanford. At defensive tackle he has added George Webb, Dave Costa and Greg Wojcik. At linebacker he's acquired Ed Philpott. He also has picked up Tim Rossovich, who can play any of these positions.

The 41-year-old coach must get the controversial Thomas to play and he must deal with the eccentric Rossovich. He may have problems with Garrett if the former Heisman Trophy winner finds himself on the bench.

His comments on trading for Thomas probably sum up his whole approach to the season.

"Sometimes you've got to roll the dice," Svare said. "You don't always win. There's an old saying, 'If you can't stand the heat, get out of the kitchen.' I like the heat. I like the pressure. It's why I came back to coaching."

ARE MEN REALLY MEN ANYMORE?

Should men win the bread single-handed? Should they repress their inner feelings, and always take the initiative in sexual encounters? Many women want answers and we are taking a different view. In the August issue of Reader's Digest, read how men are discovering a new kind of freedom and perhaps even a new source of masculine strength. Get the facts on "The New Masculinity". Stamps Ooze Experience In Season Opener

CALGARY (CP) — Although Calgary Stampeders ooze experience, new players will fill a couple of tough positions for the team's season opener tonight against Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

Punting for the Stampeders will be 22-year-old Dan Moulton from the University of Calgary and receiving punts will be rookie Bill Hogan from Waterloo Lutheran.

Hogan can also fill in as wide receiver and Moulton is a second-stringer in the defensive backfield.

The two, along with offensive guard Max Hobor and wide receiver Gary Kerr, were the only newcomers to make the Western Football Conference squad this year.

Coach Jim Duncan said the additions bring versatility and add power to the offensive line —one of the team's chronic weak spots.

But instead of Calgary falling, it would be the strengths of other teams—particularly Winnipeg—that would make difficult the Stampeder's defence of the Grey Cup, Duncan said.

"Winnipeg probably has the most potent offence of any team right now," said Duncan. "They're going to score points."

The Blue Bombers' scoring power comes largely from quarterback Don Jonas who Duncan described "as the main cog in the wheel" for Winnipeg's offence.

Jonas is an excellent passer and the best in the league "for releasing the ball quickly," Duncan said.

Winnipeg will be a strong contender, Duncan predicted, and "we could be chasing them rather than they chasing us."

JERRY KEELING

"I might have a tendency to go with Lindsey."

Lindsey's play in pre-season games was impressive, Duncan said, and the second-year quarterback is one of the best backups in the league.

Winnipeg has a relatively healthy club for their first game of the season and a couple of new faces.

Grady Cavness has squeezed five-year veteran Paul Brule out of the safety spot and Jim Dukes has been acquired from British Columbia Lions to take over at defensive end.

Coach Jim Spavital said the changes give Winnipeg an effective blitz and more speed in the defensive backfield.

Mark Howe Joins Brother in Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Hockey Association Junior Marlboros have acquired Mark Howe in a deal with London Knights that will reunite him with his brother, the Ontario Hockey League great with Detroit Red Wings, now joins his 18-year-old brother Marty, a defenceman who played with the Marlboros last season.

Marlboros gave up three players in a trade with the Knights for Mark—defenceman Larry Goodenough, who played with Toronto last year, and forwards Dennis Maruk and Gord Gaudoo, who were with the Marlboro Junior B farm team of the Marlboros.

Marlboros and London had originally negotiated a deal in which the Toronto team was to give up forwards Langdon and Bruce Bourdreau. But London owner Howard Darwin thought his team should be compensated beyond two players.

"Bill Long was a fair man to deal with," said Frank Boucha, the new general manager for Marlboros after two years as coach.

London claimed Mark from Detroit Junior Wings in the Southern Ontario Hockey Association in the OHA draft in June but Gordie Howe said his wife insisted that Mark wouldn't move to the OHA unless he could join his brother Marty.

Mark led the SOHA in scoring during the 1970-71 season. He missed the first three months of the 1971-72 season due to knee surgery before joining the United States team in the Winter Olympics in Japan this year.

Lakers In Trouble

TORONTO (CP) — Peterborough, one of the strongholds of lacrosse in Ontario for years, will probably be without a senior lacrosse team next year, according to Donald Bye, president of Peterborough Lakers.

Bye, in Toronto for a National Lacrosse League game between Lakers and Toronto Shooting Stars, said poor attendance at Lakers' home games so far this year likely will force the team to move to Ottawa for the 1973 season.

"I can't understand it," Bye said. "Peterborough has been a hot bed of lacrosse for years, but this year when the National Lacrosse League has been more evenly contested than senior lacrosse ever has, fan support in Peterborough has dropped considerably."

Lakers are in second place in the four-team eastern division of the NLL with a record of 13 wins, 10 losses and one tie.

"We beat Windsor Warlocks by one goal three times at home this season and last week played a very exciting 17-17 tie with Toronto," said Bye.

"But there have been very few fans to see these games." Bye said attendance for several games has been under 1,000 and his largest crowds have been around 1,600 for one game against league-leading Brantford and for one against Vancouver of the western division.

"Unless fans support picks up in the playoffs this team will probably play out of Ottawa next season," he said.

He said he has had a firm offer from someone in Ottawa to buy the Peterborough franchise, but refused to say whether he would sell to an Ottawa person or continue to run the team himself if it moves.

Record Entry For Henley Regatta

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — A record number of entries have signed for the 90th Royal Canadian Henley Regatta which gets under way here Thursday and Claude Saunders thinks it's "just fantastic."

Saunders, regatta chairman, made the comment Tuesday while announcing entries for the 105 races to be rowed during the four-day event.

"Each year we think its going to level off, he said, "but the interest just keeps on growing.

Heats will be held Thursday through Saturday from noon until dark with Sundays 17 semi-finals beginning at 2 p.m.

Also, for the first time in regatta history, there will be three women's events.

The St. Catharines Rowing Club, regatta champions for the past 11 Henleys, has entered the largest crew of the 56 clubs from Canada and the United States, with 48 members.

The event assumes additional importance this year as a proving ground for Olympic rowing team candidates.

What the Stars Say

By JEANE DIXON

Thursday, August 3

Aries (March 21-April 19): Financial pressures ease off, but it's still no time for wild speculations. Appreciate your minor blessings; life is not simple.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Rely on your personal knowledge and, where it does not extend, wait until you have checked out details before making final decisions.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Comment is plentiful from all sides, some of it uncomfortable, but all partly justified by what you've been letting people think.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Morning arrangements are susceptible to upset, but hours spread out smoothly as you persist, hold your tongue and temper.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): New projects collide with older ventures not yet finished. Communication of precise information is your most difficult problem.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Annoyance over interference with your plans gets you deeper into inconvenience. Nobody comes to bat for you—it's your own effort.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Decide what is most valuable to you and concentrate on saving and improving it. Side issues have to wait or resolve themselves.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): A friend has something to say and won't rest until you permit a complete statement. Listen, learn, and reform!

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Taking help graciously runs against your pride, but is something you must learn to do. You're more trustful than fingers now.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): A change of opinion baffles you. Stimulus for the change is something you can see but don't recognize or evaluate.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Half-baked schemes are the order of the day, your own included. Economies should not lead you to skimp anything important.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Feelings shape your deeds. You must stand by friends and family. Major improvements may well be within reach.

To Your Good Health

Continued Strain Brings Heart Pain

By G. C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: There are some things about angina pectoris spasms that I don't understand.

When I am indoors I almost never have these spasms unless I am exerting myself to a very high degree. But when I take a walk on a cold, damp, raw and especially windy day, the first 10 or 15 minutes are all right. But then I feel the pain and have to resort to nitroglycerine tablets. How do you explain it? Will warm or completely hot weather minimize the effects? Is a change to a warmer climate advisable? Do allergies to dampness and bronchitis aggravate the problem?

Would vitamin E help stimulate blood circulation, or any other means to dilate the cardiac arteries?—E. J.

A good deal of your question can be answered by making clear what these angina pectoris spasms are. They are spasms, or cramps, in the heart muscle.

When the heart muscle is overworked, these spasms can occur—the term itself, angina pectoris, means chest pain of that type. The heart muscle spasms are a good deal similar to the cramps that can occur in some other muscle, say in the leg, if it is subjected to too much continued strain.

Let's start with the basic thought that there has been some damage to your heart. The muscle may have been damaged by a heart attack, or there may have been damages to one or more of the heart valves, so the heart has to work harder to pump the same amount of blood.

In a word, your heart can manage pretty well so long as it is not required to do too much work. But when it is required to work harder, and pump more blood, the angina cramps start.

When you are indoors, you don't experience the pain unless you exert yourself "to a very high degree." Understandable, isn't it?

But when you are walking outdoors on a raw, windy day, 15 minutes can cause the pain.

Why? Because on a raw day you walk against stealthy, That's exercise. That's "work." With a wind, you may be walking into the wind, which takes added effort. Or you may fight the wind as it at your back. It still takes more energy.

Finally, the temperature itself has an effect. Just keeping your body warm uses up energy, and that means more work for your heart.

Add these factors together, and you have the reason for those angina pains.

Need you move to a milder climate? You could. But it wouldn't consider it necessary. There are angina patients who experience pain from the fair less exertion than you do—even from walking a block or so to a parking lot.

In your case, if you know you are going to be walking for a distance that brings on pain, taking a nitroglycerine tablet in advance will help.

Yes, allergies to cold or dampness and bronchitis add to the total physical burden, so they can do their unwelcome part.

Vitamin E? Some claim it helps. You can try it if you wish. At least it won't hurt you.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is there any harm in storing foods such as tomatoes or salad dressing containing vinegar in stainless steel bowls?—Mrs. F. J.

No.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Does fever always accompany pneumonia or pleurisy?—D. F. S.

Usually—along with cough and chest pain.

Opening lead — five of spades.

When Sylvia first joined the club, which was soon after she started to play the game, the first reaction of the members was that the Admissions Committee had made an absolutely dreadful error in accepting her application.

It was not that Sylvia played so badly — we had all seen lots of players who, despite years of experience, simply had not caught on to the game — it was rather that the errors Sylvia committed were of a kind that no one in their wildest imagination had ever encountered before.

But as time wore on — and some of Sylvia's mistakes somehow unclassifiably reacted in her favor — the membership grew more tolerant of her exotic approach to the game, and, in fact, her extraordinary facility for doing the wrong thing at the right time eventually came to be accepted as a legitimate part of her makeup.

One of Sylvia's earliest triumphs occurred on this hand where she was West and led a spade against three notrump. Declarer won with the jack and realized that he had to develop the heart suit in order to make the contract. South realized, furthermore, that his best chance by far was to rely not on a heart finesse but rather to play for Sylvia to have specifically the K-x or K-x-x of hearts. In that case, leading the ace and another heart was likely to render the defense absolutely helpless.

Accordingly, he led the ace of hearts at trick ten, planning to continue with a heart. Undoubtedly South would have made the notrump had he been playing against anyone else, but when Sylvia accidentally played the king instead of the six on the ace, he suddenly found — to his great discomfiture — that there was now no way of attacking the contract!

So, in her own inimitable way, Sylvia triumphed again.

Eastern Premiers Study Oil Rights

HALIFAX (CP) — Premiers from Canada's five easternmost provinces meet in closed session today in an attempt to iron out a "political settlement" acceptable to the federal government on the question of who owns rights to offshore minerals.

The question appeared to reach a stage of urgency recently with threats that the matter might have to be settled in the courts.

The premiers—Frank Moores of Newfoundland, Gerald Regan of Nova Scotia, Richard Hatfield of New Brunswick, Alex Campbell of Prince Edward Island and Robert Bourassa of Quebec—plan to conduct day-long talks. It will be a prelude to meetings Thursday and Friday with premiers from the other provinces.

The question of offshore mineral rights could come up for discussion when the other Canadian premiers arrive for talks.

It will be the first time Premier Bourassa has joined his Atlantic counterparts for discussion on offshore mineral rights. He was not scheduled to arrive here until later in the day. Vice-Premier Gerald Levesque was representing the Quebec government until his arrival.

Ownership of mineral rights has taken on importance in the last year, at least for Nova Scotia, with the discovery of natural gas and oil on Sable Island, 175 miles east of here.

At a meeting of Atlantic premiers and Mr. Levesque in June, it was decided to reject a federal government offer of a 50-50 split of mineral royalties between Ottawa and the provinces.

Instead, the premiers said they would assert ownership of offshore mineral rights, but would be prepared to discuss with Ottawa "delegation of certain aspects of administering the resources."

Premier Moores said last week his province claims full ownership and jurisdiction of the resources on the continental shelf.

His statement came in wake of a disclosure by Premier Regan that he had received a letter from Prime Minister Trudeau. The letter, the premier said, stated that the federal government still felt that the rights belonged to Ottawa.

In the past, Mr. Trudeau and other federal officials have said that unless a political settlement is forthcoming, the matter could be referred to the Supreme Court of Canada.

Premier Regan said in an interview Tuesday he believed the federal position was much more "flexible" than most people think.

"I can see reason for optimism for a political settlement," he said. Ottawa had made "no hard and fast" offer since its 50-50 proposal.

Premiers Regan and Moores held informal talks Tuesday night at Province House, site of the annual premiers' meeting. Neither would comment on the discussion. Premiers Hatfield and Campbell were scheduled to arrive early today.

Wallace's Assailant Described as Sane

UPPER MARLBORO, Md. (AP)— The prosecution rested its case against Arthur Bremer Tuesday with testimony from an experienced criminal psychiatrist that while Bremer was "mixed up," he was legally sane when Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace and three other persons were wounded May 15 at a Laurel, Md., shopping centre.

"I formed an opinion that he was suffering from a mental disorder, that he was a schizoid personality with some paranoid and psychopathic features," said Dr. Jonas Rappeport, a chief psychiatrist for Baltimore's courts.

"I believe this disorder did not impair his ability to appreciate the criminality of his act or to conform his act to the law."

Psychiatric testimony from prosecution witnesses painted a picture of Bremer, 21, as a lonely, distrustful, fearful person afraid to relate to others and a young man who accented his life considered killing a large group of people in Milwaukee and then committing suicide.

OTTAWA (CP) — In the first case of its kind, the federal government is trying to prosecute a group of employees for walking off their jobs after being deemed essential to public safety and security.

Hearings before the public service staff relations board have been proceeding for several months on the case of about 140 electronic technicians who joined other members of their union in a February strike. The walkout coincided with the strike by national air controllers.

The technicians, who operate radar, radio, and beacons at airports across Canada, are designated by the government as employees essential to public safety and therefore barred from striking.

The treasury board is asking the staff relations board for consent to prosecute. If it is granted, the case will proceed through local courts.

A decision on whether the government can proceed against the technicians is expected soon, perhaps this week.

Russia Has Big-power Navy

This is the second of three articles assessing the comparative military strength of the United States, the Soviet Union and their respective allies in Western Europe.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviet Navy, which has outbuilt the United States Navy at a rate of 2 to 1 in recent years, is reported on the verge of a new surge in warship construction.

This is a trend that senior U.S. admirals say is running against the United States in the struggle for naval supremacy, which parallels Soviet advantages in ground forces and missile numbers.

The missile race is continuing, despite the new agreement to limit strategic arms. The emphasis will shift to decreased numbers of warheads and improved methods of delivery. On the ground, the U.S. has conceded the Soviets a wide lead in combat forces by cutting the U.S. Army to its smallest size in a generation.

Admiral Elmo R. Zumwalt Jr., U.S. Navy chief, warns that "unless we continue a dedicated and determined naval modernization program, expanding Soviet naval capabilities could, in the not too distant future, put the Soviet Union in a position to disrupt our use of the sea."

Critics dispute such grim forecasts, accusing the navy of trying to scare Congress and the country into accepting bigger navy budgets.

The U.S. Navy's concern has had some support from the outside.

Raymond V. B. Blackman, editor of the authoritative British publication, Jane's Fighting Ships, wrote last July that "the situation for the U.S. Navy is serious."

"By any standards, the Soviet fleet now represents the superior navy of a superpower," Blackman said.

Latest U.S. Navy estimates show Russia is operating 350 major surface warships and submarines while the U.S. has 378 in its active fleet.

Both navies have been retiring older ships but the Russians are credited with building 30 new vessels since 1967, while the U.S. was constructing 42.

The U.S. Navy has an obsolescence problem. Its ships average 16 years of age while the Soviet average is nine years. Older ships are generally are slower, their armament and other equipment less sophisticated.

During the last five years, the Russians have sent to sea about 10 new classes of major surface combat ships and submarines. And the pace of Soviet naval modernization appears to be accelerating.

While the Russians were floating 10 advanced types of fighting ships, the U.S. Navy was starting seven new classes of submarine, destroyer, frigate, carrier, and amphibious warfare vessels. But not even the first ships of several of these new classes are ready for sea.

Cost increases, almost vertical in some cases, have hardened even hawkish senators and congressmen against the navy's pleas for more shipbuilding money.

Faced with a balking Congress, the navy has put its designers to work on a variety of ship innovations featuring relative simplicity and speed-for-lower cost.

These include a "sea control ship" which would carry vertical and short takeoff airplanes and price out at around $100 million, and a $45-million patrol frigate which would help replace lame ones. Also planned for the future navy are hydrofoils mounting anti-ship guided missiles.

The U.S. Navy woke to the potential of anti-ship missiles only after the 1967 sinking of an Israeli destroyer by a Soviet-made Styx missile fired by Egyptians.

Most of Russia's surface warships and many of its submarines bristle with anti-ship missiles of five new types.

So far, the U.S. Navy has only a temporary expedient ready to install until the Harpoon missile is ready, perhaps in about three years.

The Soviet and U.S. navies traditionally have differed in their composition because of their differing geography and naval strategy.

The United States has built its naval striking power around aircraft carriers and has sought nuclear propulsion for surface ships so they can operate for longer periods in far-distant areas of the globe.

The Russians, on the other hand, long have stressed attack submarines and surface warships armed with ship-killing missiles.

But in recent years the Russians have widened their navy missions to a virtually world scale, this has led to construction of the first Soviet aircraft carrier, relatively small but suitable for vertical takeoff and landing planes.

Still unfinished, this carrier is expected to join the Soviet fleet within a few years.

U.S. Navy leaders also report that the Soviets are showing strong interest in building surface warships with nuclear engines, another policy shift arising from the Russian navy's longer reach.

In addition to new families of missile-armed destroyers, cruisers and submarines, the Russians have doubled their naval infantry and amphibious shipping and tripled their merchant tonnage which now includes nearly 400 vessels suited for military sealift, say U.S. Navy analysts.

Most importantly, the Russians have broken out of geographical bottlenecks which once gave the United States a big advantage. The Russian fleet no longer is tied to bone ports in the Baltic, Black and Japanese seas.

The Russians achieved this breakout principally by acquiring rights to use ports and airfields in friendly countries in the Middle East, the Indian Ocean area and on the west coast of Africa.

The Soviet navy still suffers from a number of weaknesses. In the U.S. view, it lacks air cover in operating far from its homeland, and it has not yet acquired the ability to resupply the fleet on the open ocean.

Two Killed At Kingston

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — Two Canadian armed forces personnel were killed Tuesday in a single-car accident on a stretch of Highway 3 east of here that has claimed the lives of three others in the last nine days.

Laurence John Gracie, 18, and Gregory Samuel Oswald, 18, both of Canadian Forces Base Kingston, died in a Kingston hospital shortly after the accident which occurred at 12:20 a.m.

Mr. Gracie was formerly of Halifax and Mr. Oswald was formerly of Flinman, Man.

The car Mr. Gracie was driving went out of control and hit a hydro pole, splitting in two. The accident occurred near the CFB Kingston.

Two men were killed July 24 and a third last Thursday on the same 17-mile stretch of road between Kingston and Gananoque.

Hay Help Organized Here

The Hastings county agricultural office at Stirling is acting as an information centre to help Eastern Ontario farmers find hay supplies for their feed-short cattle.

Abnormally heavy rainfall in the province's eight most easterly counties has ruined most of this year's hay crop and has resulted in only about one-tenth of the usual corn acreage being planted.

The result is that farmers are worried a bout feed supplies and reports are that hay prices in the area have already doubled.

The Stirling information centre operation is part of a province-wide task force set up to assist Eastern Ontario farmers locate feed supplies.

Wayne Martin, associate county agricultural representative said his office lists the names of local farmers who might have hay to sell and each day forwards the names to the office at Winchester. Hay-short farmers in that area list their requirements with the Winchester office.

County agricultural offices are not involved in the sale of the hay nor is any price suggested. The actual sale transactions are directly between the farmers themselves.

Regional Alliances Confront Ottawa

'What to Do? What to Do?'

Mrs. Merlyne Musson puzzles over how to return unexpected $800 windfall yesterday. But Unemployment Insurance Commission officials soon solved the dilemma. The cheques, UIC payments to nine other recipients, were mistakenly mailed the Belleville housewife through a mechanical error and later were sent special delivery to right addresses. Senate Votes to Deny Fund for Vietnam War

WASHINGTON (Reuter) — For the first time in its history of growing resistance to the Vietnam war, the U.S. Senate has voted to cut off funds for future military involvement in Indochina.

In a series of votes Wednesday night, Senate doves maintained a razor-thin majority to deliver a major slap against the Nixon administration's Vietnam policies despite intensive lobbying by its supporters.

The legislation cuts off funds for future American involvement in Vietnam, Cambodia and Laos four months after it becomes law. The only conditions are that Hanoi releases American prisoners of war and accounts for U.S. servicemen missing in action.

The measure was attached as an amendment to an important $20.5 billion defence department weapons procurement bill which the administration regards as vital for major new defence systems. The amended bill finally was passed 95 to 2.

The fund-cutting legislation is likely to be blocked in the conference committee of the Senate and the House of Representatives which works out a final version of the bill.

However, a continuing battle over the anti-war legislation could seriously delay the bills final passage.

The Senate has previously passed Vietnam troop withdrawal measures but they were "sense of the Senate" declarations that did not bind President Nixon to any action. Wednesday night's measure invoked Congress's power of the purse for the first time.

Vice-President Spiro Agnew presided during Wednesday night's series of eight crucial roll calls, ready to cast a deciding vote for the administration, but the doves managed to win a key vote by 49 to 47.

Administration lobbyists fought for an alternative measure expressing support for Nixon's May 8 proposal to Hanoi that offered to withdraw troops within four months provided Hanoi releases U.S. prisoners and a ceasefire is established. That amendment was initially approved but then wiped out by the subsequent land-cutting measure.

The final anti-war measure was sponsored by Senators Edward Brooke (Rep. Mass.) and Alan Cranston (Dem. Calif.).

Man Blames Bruises On Police

STE. THERESE, Que. (CP) — A man sporting a livid bruise on his chin Wednesday confirmed a story by a Montreal news reporter that he had suffered a beating Tuesday at the hands of Quebec Provincial Police and local police after he failed to hear shouts from a passing cruiser.

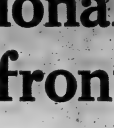
Clement Poudrier said in an interview he was the person identified by Jim Duff of the Gazette as Rene Jean who suffered a beating by policemen.

He said Rene Jean was a nickname, and he confirmed details of the reporter's account.

Poudrier said Ste. Therese and Quebec Provincial Police constables threw him into a police car and drove him to a station.

"They hit me on the way, but then they really beat me up. I didn't try to resist, I couldn't say anything."

He said the beating stopped when a QPP officer intervened.



Citizens of Ste. Therese 12 miles north of Montreal, lived under the Riot Act for two days following a weekend of violence sparked by the fatal shooting Friday of Andre Vassard, 16, by a local policeman.

Fodder Grows Scarce

'...over bean sick?'

LONDON (Reuter) — The British government has proclaimed a state of emergency in the country as of midnight tonight because of the growing dock crisis.

The declaration gives the government powers which it might not use at once. But Parliament goes into recess next week and its approval is necessary before the state of emergency becomes official.

The government's decision to seek emergency powers came after Agriculture Minister Jim Prior received reports from British farmers about the critical shortage of animal feeding stuff.

Political sources said the government's majority in the House of Commons should assure approval for the state of emergency.

It will be the fourth state of emergency since Prime Minister Edward Heath's government came into power slightly more than two years ago.

The emergency powers enable the administration to bring in troops to unload more than 500 freighters tied up in British ports.

The announcement came just before the sailing of the banana boat Northern Lights to dump its cargo of 1,450 tons of rotting bananas in mid-Atlantic.

Piling up stocks of some foods, mainly imported fruit and vegetables and frozen meat from Argentina were short, the main threat appeared to be to farm animals, poultry and pigs especially.

Stocks of animal foodstuffs are running very low and we're very worried," a spokesman for the Ireland Farmers Union told reporters.

'Free Board For Motorists If Car Fails

LAKE GENEVA, Wis. (AP) — American Motors Corp. has a new idea to attract customers: free room and board if their car is disabled more than 100 miles from home.

Under the plan, a motorist whose 1972 car is kept in a garage overnight for repairs under terms of the warranty would be reimbursed up to $150 for food and lodging.

'Last-chance' Parley Opens at Halifax

HALIFAX (CP) — With the provinces uniting regionally, if not nationally, the annual conference of premiers appeared to be taking on new dimensions today as they gathered for what Quebec Premier Robert Bourassa termed the "last chance."

There appeared to be little doubt Ottawa would feel a heavier swell from this seaside conference as the premiers went behind closed doors to hammer out their positions. There was talk of "new unity," "commonfront" and, of course, Premier Bourassa's "last-chance conference."

There had already been wide-ranging agreements reached by the three Prairie premiers at last week's Prairie Economic Council; Premier Bourassa and Ontario's William Davis had a handshake over the question of taxing powers, and then Wednesday the five eastern premiers reaffirmed their position on offshore mineral rights.

"There must be more of this regional co-operation," said Newfoundland Premier Frank Moores. "Provinces acting together can make a far stronger case than each province going its own way."

Should this co-operation carry through the two-day, closed-door conference, the federal government could face common fronts on many prickly points.

The agenda prepared by Nova Scotia Premier Gerald Regan permits the premiers to dig their trenches on a wide variety of fronts.

And while the premiers themselves were saying little, it was obvious that most eyes were being kept on the Quebec premier, who has been under heavy cabinet pressure to produce results in his constant negotiations with Ottawa. Most pre-conference reports from Quebec City said he would be seeking the support of his fellow premiers, hoping to wrest more from the federal government.

And in using the term "last chance," he said this was the last chance for those Quebecers that a federal system of government could work.

Against this backdrop, the other premiers will be asked to lend support to some of Quebec's demands, including those relating to social security legislation, fiscal transfers, federal spending powers and education.

Under the nine-point agenda, all of these subjects can be raised.

Other provinces, and groups of provinces, have their requests, too.

The three Prairie provinces have formed a united front against soaring health-care costs, and they are demanding from Ottawa the formula for the next winner-takes-all program as Saskatchewan Premier Allan Blakeney suggests that the federal government contribute 75 per cent of labor costs, thus freeing municipalities from kicking in a share.

But despite the increased emphasis on regional agreements, Premier Blakeney said before he came here that there would be no "western caucus." He said that while provinces have common views on some subjects, they have differing views on others.

News Briefs

Chase Deplored

TORONTO (CP) — The general manager of the Ontario Safety League, Fred Ellis, said Wednesday night that Anne Lang, 23, who chased a careless motorist at speeds up to 75 miles an hour to get his licence number, was herself "a threat to public safety." Mrs. Lang was praised earlier Wednesday by Provincial Judge Carl Walsberg. Mr. Ellis, however, questioned the practice of chasing careless drivers. "I would certainly not like to see this become a general practice. We'd have a dangerous situation if everyone took the law into their own hands."

Charter Trouble

TORONTO (CP) — Three hundred Canadian tourists stranded in Britain may get home this weekend says Gerard Quesnel of the Travel Organizers Association of Toronto. However, Bruno Gonthier of the Ontario Overseas Services says that of the 3,000 North Americans affected by the problem, "in excess of 1,000 persons are Canadians." He said British authorities are still insisting that they be members of a charter club for six months to get alternative flights.

Battle in Quang Tri

SAIGON (AP) — More than 2,000 South Vietnamese marines assaulted the western half of Quang Tri City today, but they ran into house-to-house fighting and heavy North Vietnamese artillery fire.

New Alarm Systems

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — The big three United States automakers Wednesday introduced new alarm systems that will set lights blinking and horns blowing if a thief tries to break into a car.

American Is Chosen Calgary Police Chief

CALGARY (CP) — An American police chief was booed and heckled in city council chambers Wednesday night as controversy raged over his appointment to a Canadian post.

Outside city hall, about a dozen picketers protested the chief's appointment, including one with a sign reading "Yankee go home." Inside, the aldermen were split 5-5 over a motion welcoming the chief.

The controversy was over selection of Charles R. Gain, police chief in Oakland, Calif., to be Calgary's new police chief, effective Sept. 4.

Ald. Peter Petrasuk filed written notice of motion that at the next council meeting on Tuesday, he will move that the Alberta government be asked to make it impossible for an "alien" to be named police chief.

Another alderman, Adrian Berry, said he will move that the members of the police commission that appointed Chief Gain be removed.

Ald. Petrasuk said immigrants are welcome in Canada "but they don't start at the top."

Premiers Optimistic

HALIFAX (CP) — Canada's premiers began their 13th annual conference today, all smiling, all apparently optimistic, and some predicting a successful outcome.

"Something worthwhile will come out of this," said Newfoundland Premier Frank Moores, as he dashed into Nova Scotia's legislative chamber for his first such meeting.

He was followed by another new member of the club, Premier Peter Lougheed of Alberta, who was confident that there would be overall support his concern about rising health costs.

"As a new participant at these meetings, I won't make any predictions in advance. But I feel that other provinces will share our great concern about health costs," Mr. Lougheed said.

"However, I am not going to talk about concrete results yet because this would only raise false expectations."

Political Manoeuvring Brisk During Lull in Ulster War

BELFAST (CP) — Intensive political manoeuvring was under way today as British and Irish leaders sought to take advantage of a lull in guerrilla activity brought by the military takeover of Irish Republican Army strongholds in Northern Ireland.

The British provincial administration was in contact with the Republic of Ireland government and opposition elements in Northern Ireland as well as the former governing Ulster Unionist party in an effort to get talks for a settlement under way.

The politicians worked against a fast-moving clock. Security sources believed a renewed IRA offensive was imminent and there were signs that relations between Roman Catholics and Protestants were rapidly deteriorating on the streets.

More sectarian clashes such as the one Wednesday when Protestant workers tangled with Catholics could quickly destroy a favorable negotiating climate created by the turning of IRA "no-go" strongholds in Belfast and Londonderry.

A sniper shot in Catholic territory slightly wounded two Protestant workers at the Sirocco engineering works in East Belfast Wednesday. Immediately, all 2,000 men at the plant marched out in protest and converged on a Catholic area.

After the incident the militant Protestant Ulster Defence Association said it would deploy masked members, some armed with clubs, to protect the workers.

British administrator William Whitelaw invited members of the opposition Social Democratic and Labor Party—Ulster's main opposition group—to see him Monday for "an exchange of views." The SDLP has not officially met with the British since it walked out of the Northern Ireland Parliament more than a year ago.

Whitelaw talked Wednesday with Rev. Ian Paisley, Ulster member of the British Parliament, and members of the Unionist party whose regime the British government suspended.

But the Unionists appeared adamant that they be given back the reins of power in Northern Ireland. It was not a good omen for all-party discussions.

People Planners To Present Cases

Representatives of four city task forces will meet with Quinte Planning Board tonight to present briefs prepared following several public meetings held during June and July.

At a meeting of Belleville's subordinate planning advisory committee in May, endorsement was given to the proposal to consult the public in developing preparation of the city's official plan and accompanying zoning bylaws.

The city was divided into four areas, each having its own task force. At the beginning of the first sessions, planners from the Quinte Planning Board, occasionally accompanied by representatives of the consulting firm of Totten, Sims, Hubicki, Associates Ltd., who were retained to draft the plan, were to be presented to the public.

Planners explained the goals and objectives of the plan and the role public participation would play in its production.

The participants were asked to comment on future housing, schools, traffic, newsprint, industrial and commercial needs. These suggestions were turned over to planners and consultants.

The Ontario Municipal Board requires participation by the public before final approval is given to any such official plan. It was felt the task force suggestion would be a solution.

Quinte Planning Board director Bert Kenny expects the chairmen of each task force to present the individual reports tonight, both in written form and in verbal explanation.

Theoretically what the board will do is receive these things and refer them to the consultant for his use in preparation of the official plan," Mr. Kenny said.

Three of the task forces have prepared reports, while the fourth, which covers the Parkdale-Hillcrest area, has a draft report and recommended land use map.

The consultant firm was hired in December of 1971 under a 13-month contract. At the time, firm representative Roger Truemner said March of 1973 was the earliest date for tabling of the completed plan.

Old Hand Takes Over

Joe White, centre, gave up 40 years in the meat business this week with the sale of White's Meat Market to former employee Leonard Shanoff, right. Staying with the new proprietor will be long-time employee Peter Holley, left.

Joe Hanging Up Cleaver

Forty years in the meat marketing business is slowly winding to a close for Joe White, of White's Meat Market on McAnnany Street.

Mr. White sold his store this week to a former employee, Leonard Shanoff, but he'll be around for a while yet. Ill-health following a heart attack this winter has forced Mr. White to curtail his activities, but he'll work part-time for the new owner during the busy weekend hours.

The White family's involvement in the meat business in Belleville began in 1932, when Mr. White's father came from Toronto to buy the Willard Reid business, located where The Intelligencer parking lot now stands.

Mr. White and his brother Stanley, who died four years ago, worked with their father in the business. In 1945 they took over.

Mr. White has been the meat business change over the last 40 years from a strictly local operation to one involving large national packing companies.

Until the late 1950s, the butchers owned their own slaughter house in Ensemore. They bought animals from local farmers, killed and dressed them themselves.

"In those days, the farmer had only the butcher standing between him and the consumer," says Mr. White.

It involved, he admits, more time and more work.

Departments of health and the government placed more and more restrictions on small slaughter houses and they were gradually abandoned, White's among them.

"Now everything comes from the packers," says Mr. White.

Over the years Mr White also has seen two standard items dropped from his stock — fresh killed lamb and veal.

"We used to sell lots of it; now its untouchable," he says.

Because of its high price, Mr. White hasn't handled fresh veal for two years, and he now carries only frozen New Zealand lamb.

Although the business has changed hands, he says the familiar faces will greet customers at White's. The new owner is retaining the old name and the same staff.

Mr. Shanoff was educated in Belleville at St. Michael's Academy and BCI. From school he went to work for White's in 1955, and left in 1968 to work for the Ontario department of correction service. The son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Shanoff of Belleville, he is married and has two sons and a daughter.

Long time employees Peter Holley and Bill Stewart will remain with the store.

"Service will continue as in the past," says Mr. White.

Fatal Accident Rainswept Mystery

An accident on Highway 37 Wednesday afternoon killed one person, sent another to Kingston General Hospital in critical condition and left the Belleville detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police puzzled as to how the accident could have happened.

Dead is Albert William Bunson, 58, of Renfrew. He was a former councillor of that community.

His wife, Era Elizabeth Bunson, 58, riding in the same car, was first taken to Belleville General Hospital and then rushed to Kingston General Hospital.

She is listed there in critical condition with "severe" head injuries, fractures of the pelvis and the toes.

The accident scene, clustered with debris from the vehicles — the Buick car being virtually dismantled as a result of the impact — was discussed investigating officers from the OPP could give no details on how the accident could have happened.

"There were no witnesses and everything was torn all to bloody hell," said Cpl. George Cole. Crews worked for nearly three hours to clear the area.

The corporal did say, "It was a head-on or almost head-on collision but we don't even know which way the cars were going.

"It will probably take a day or two to establish that."

The rain, "which may or may not have been a contributing factor in the incident," was heavy and obscured tire tracks in the area, making it impossible to determine the paths of the two vehicles.

After being treated for his injuries, the driver of the truck was questioned by police. He reported he was or said he was travelling south on the roadway.

"We are hoping that the lady (Mrs. Bunson) can shed some light on the incident, if and when she can talk to us," said Cpl. Cole.

Investigation continues.

Lightfoot Wins Widening Contract

TRENTON (Staff) — An announcement was made this morning by Mayor Duncan MacDonald that the town of Trenton has been awarded the low tender from Lightfoot Construction of Belleville for the widening and widening of Dundas Street East.

Five tenders were received for the project in mid - July and the high bid was from the project but council declined to award the tender before receiving it in writing from Messrs Damas and Smith of Toronto for approval.

A report from the engineers was received through the mail by municipal officials today, indicating that their investigation of the bids rests firm their belief that Lightfoot Construction, as low tenderer, should be awarded the contract in the amount of $333,388.

It had been expected council would meet in special session last night to draw up a contract with Lightfoot. However, the engineers said approval was made by an informal telephone poll of councillors during the evening.

The contract does not need to be presented to the Ontario Municipal Board since the project is being financed on a four lanes was one of several public works projects included in the 1972 capital works budget, already approved by the board.

With provincial cost sharing the project will cost the municipalities the share of the expense to be borne by Trenton taxpayers is $185,000 over five debt charges.

Mayor MacDonald said, "This is the first clerk-computer-letter will notify Lightfoot of Trenton for approval."

Arena PA System Loud and Clear

Announcements over the public address system at the Belleville Memorial Arena should come through loud and clear as a result of recent renovations to the system.

New wiring and 10 additional speakers have been installed and the recreation committee chairman Alderman Robin Jeffrey assures there has been a vast improvement in sound reproduction in the arena's interior.

The new system was in use for last Friday night's wrestling show and committee members on Monday were invited to check for themselves.

Eight Children Orphaned

MAYNOOTH — The parents of eight children were instantly killed and a five-year-old son injured when their car collided with a tractor-trailer outside this north Hastings County village, 15 miles north of Bancroft yesterday.

Killed were Charles Maschin, 34, of Seagram, Ont., and his wife, Colleen 38. Their son Christopher was taken to Toronto Sick Children's Hospital with head injuries.

Police said the couple was believed driving to Bancroft after their seven other children, ranging in age from about four to 12 years, had decided to stay with relatives here.

The mishap occurred on a curve in rainy weather on the southern outskirts of Maynooth minutes after the Maschkes, visiting relatives were polled on vacation, had set out apparently for Bancroft. Their car collided with the trailer of the transport, empty at the time and bound for Cunningham's Lumber in Pembroke.

Intell Van Stolen, Damaged

At 2:30 a.m. today, Trudeau Motors BP gas station on Station Street was broken into and three sets of keys taken.

An intelligence delivery van parked in the lot was taken and proceeded east on Ashley Street. It was found on the curb, sideswiping a tree and a light standard at the LCBO outlet.

At 2:50 a.m., city police Constables Robert Hall, Jim Jones and Robert Thompson observed the van proceeding north on Front Street. Noting fresh damage, they followed it to Bridge Street, now missing their red stop light.

The truck accelerated to speeds of between 40 and 50 miles an hour, police report, but it went through the red light at Church Street. It again increased speed to between 60 and 70 miles an hour, mounting a curb past Charles Street on Bridge, continued along the grass and sidewalk, sideswiping a tree and finally came to a stop after hitting a steel and wood fence.

The driver ran from the scene, but was caught after a brief foot chase by Constable Thompson.

Stewart Wayne Thompson, 17, of 4 West Street, has been charged with break and enter, theft over $200, and dangerous driving.

Damage to the newspaper van was estimated at $150, property damage has not been evaluated.

Camps Filling

Holidayers seeking provincial park campsites for the civic holiday weekend will be out of luck in two locations. Both Black Lake and Sandbanks provincial parks were full at 8 a.m. Tuesday.

Lake St. Peter and four sites left, Outlet 25 and Black Lake 60.

Boy's Body Recovered

MAZINAW LAKE (Staff) — The body of a Belleville youth who went camping with friends in Bon Echo Park Friday, was recovered from Mazinaw Lake at 10.30 a.m. Wednesday, by a Bon Echo beach patrol guard.

Gaston Bruno Bourreaue 17 of 196 Harg Road, Belleville, was reported missing Tuesday a spokesman for his family said today. He was pronounced dead by Coroner Dr. H. G. Dr. of Verona, after beach patrol guard John Hurnel found the body in shallow water, approximately 15 to 20 feet from shore.

Son of Mrs. and the late Henry Letourneau, he is also survived by brothers and sisters Andrew, Nicole, Jack, Gaston, Michael and Daniel.

Funeral arrangements are being handled by Thomas Funeral Home, Belleville. Date and time of services were not known at press time.

King Sol Picks Spot

The former Simpsons-Sears building on Front Street will be the site of a branch of King Sol discount store.

The D. J. Whalen Real Estate company announced today that the building's owner Ernest Zucco of Scarborough, sold it to May-Tween Investments Limited of Toronto, owners of the Fing Sol chain.

King Sol stores in Belleville was currently located on the corner of Victoria Avenue and Front Street in the building burned down in the spring.

A spokesman for the Whalen company said the King Sol operation in Belleville would be greatly expanded with the acquisition of the former Simpsons-Sears building, and the present store could open for business in about two months.

Trial Date Set

PICTON (Staff) — Lake Ontario Cement Ltd. will go to court Sept. 15 to defend its sand hacking operation at the Sandbanks against a charge of impairing the environment.

At a hearing in Picton provincial court yesterday Judge J. L. Counsell set the Sept. 15 trial date for the company on charges laid by the environmental activist Toronto holidayer Mrs. Agda Sawyer.

A mischief charge laid against front-end loader operator Ronald Norton was withdrawn.

Mrs. Rayner, who has spent her holidays at a private resort near the Sandbanks for several years, said the charges against the company early on this month. She is represented by the Environmental Law Association in her action.

One's Relationship to All Is PSI Concern

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

MADOC — The calmness of the Canadian Shield countryside hereabouts has long supplied an annual, if temporary, refreshing pause for holiday-ing tourists.

This year serenity on a lasting basis is the ambition of a new group of visitors.

They are the students of the PSI Centre, five miles east of here off Highway 7, where the placid landscape is only a backdrop to a project aimed at helping participants achieve personal — and perpetual — tranquility.

It's a serious business — a matter of metaphysics and mind expansion, mental development through psychic studies that includes extra-sensory perception.

And ESP it is claimed by its widening circle of practitioners, can lead to contact with what commonly are called ghosts.

Not that there is anything so intentionally dramatic about the centre's studies.

"We don't levitate tables or anything like that," laughs Norma Hunt, the centre's young director. "What we try to achieve is a personal development in things that bring enhanced meaning into life."

Basically, the centre's proposition is that there is more to being an individual than just intellect. Spiritual and emotional demands also need attention.

The result is "you can be an intellectual genius and an emotional baby. Therefore, your intellect actually works against you.

"So everywhere you see where people are trying to find this balance between intellect and emotional needs."

What the centre strives for is such a balance in the individual's makeup through heightened mental awareness which helps place issues in an objective, universal context.

While the ideal is simply stated, its accomplishment calls for teaching a method to test blend of relative religious, scientific and philosophic concepts — including ESP — aimed at stimulating personal sensitivity.

And while the centre may be the first of its kind in Canada its studies follow a pattern already well developed.

The project is the offspring of an Ottawa organization which has been teaching such concepts for years — The Bertonian Metaphysical Society, named after its founder, Dr. Winifred Barton.

From small beginnings in the 1960s, the society branched out from an Ottawa basement to gather adherents across Canada and the United States and now has a federal charter as a cultural and charitable organization.

It now has a membership of perhaps more than 3,000, Miss Hunt estimates.

"It's been a long climb convincing people that we are serious and that we are valid," she adds.

The society is no mere esoteric band but actively ties its concepts to broader social problems, she indicates. Underlining this has been its presentation to government groups of briefs on such issues as crime and poverty.

School authorities in the Peterborough area also elected interest in the society's approach and have queried the possibility of instituting courses which would help develop emotional as well as intellectual understanding among higher-grade students, she says.

Some Bellevillians and residents of the area already have had contact with the Bertonian theories. Last winter small night study groups were organized in both centres by Miss Hunt after she was sent to the area to prepare the PSI Centre for its first summer courses, on property once owned by the Madoc Art Centre.

It's a stream-and-woodland setting ideal for such a project — an almost pastoral landscape in which an integral exercise of the course — meditation — can be easily practised by the 150 or about 40 of whom have registered for the summer from various Canadian centres and some in the U.S.

As Miss Hunt puts it: "We try to rid people . . . of the things that keep you from being a happy person — fear, insecurity, inferiority - superiority complexes, which make you constantly having to justify or rationalize all your actions." But "people have to do it on their own. It's an individual responsibility.

"The people who come here are really searching. Many of them have been through different experiences and become disillusioned. And we're looking for the 'seeking' person who really wants answers — who doesn't want to live in a world of illusion."

Response to the contemplative teachings of the society may be articulated differently by its students, but common themes are evoked. Objectivity is heightened, issues are placed in a broader perspective beyond the self, established values questioned.

John Poape, 27, of Ottawa: "It solves many problems and gives you an insight into things objectively. Then there are fringe benefits — like a feeling of being regenerated."

Peggy Heber, Ottawa housewife and fancy school nurse: "It gives you fantastic energy and appreciation of the world in general. What was grey before — living in a maze of things that seemed meaningless — all of a sudden is bright as sunshine and has meaning."

John Poape joined the society after he became interested in psychic phenomena, could discover only "scientific explanations" on the subject, became frightened of such things as death.

He found answers began to evolve in the group's ESP teachings. His own sensory aids began to expand to the point where now, he claims, he can sometimes see what commonly are called ghosts.

But such contact, even with developed extra-sensory perception, "doesn't frighten all that readily".

But, with his understanding of such processes placed in proper perspective, he now sees them as an evolvement of life.

"I have no fear of death. It used to scare me before. My mind wouldn't accept anything like that. Now? What's there to be afraid of? I believe death is an evolved state."

Mrs. Heber, mother of one with a husband also interested in metaphysics, originally came to the PSI Centre for two weeks and has stayed on for other courses.

Before, she describes her daily life as "living in a selfish world" much centred on herself with various resulting problems, including anxiety.

Now: "By coming here and discovering there was something more important in this world than I to worry about, life has been a fantastic benefit."

Like her companions, meditation is a key exercise for Mrs. Heber. It broadens perspectives, is personally regenerative, and without it she may not have "appreciation of things other than myself."

"It sounds awfully selfish way of putting it. But if I'm going to do something, I'm looking for what I can take. When I meditate, I find it's a case of what can I give and do for others."

With broadened appreciation and perspectives, she is "much happier in every aspect of my life. I can go back to the world of responsibility and do the things I used to do and enjoy them for the sheer joy of doing . . ."

But individual reactions apparently are linked to a broader, even universal perspective.

Miss Hunt explains the centre's teachings deeply involve the humanities and "how you yourself can bring about a change to help the whole earth. We've got to break the barriers of nationality and see the earth as a planet in danger of being destroyed through ignorance — bring about a more balanced way of life through understanding nature."

And it all begins with bringing peace within each person, understands their basic nature."

"If you're conditioned to be a dog, you're going to bark all your life."

Moira Program Commended

Eleven organizations presented briefs to the provincial Select Committee on the Utilization of Education Facilities last night, but it took the 13th and last speaker to put the focus back where it began — on people.

George Przybylowski, provincial co-ordinator for Ontario's Youth in Action drew the only round of applause from talk-weary listeners as he wound up the presentations last night at Centennial Secondary School.

As the Select Committee's chairman said later, "He brought out the human values of this program."

As a preliminary, Mr. Przybylowski told his listeners that the provincial government is spending $650,000 this summer for 220 projects that give assistance through responsible existing agencies.

The perfect example of community use of schools is the extremely worthwhile program at Moira Secondary School," he said. "It is an incredible thing to see so much involvement on the part of instructors making $15.53 a week."

Moira's summer program of athletics, arts and crafts is funded by $1,400 from Youth in Action.

When it comes to community use of schools, said Mr. Przybylowski, boards don't use their autonomous powers. School principals have more power than boards of education.

"Incredible as it may sound some boards of education invite community groups to use their schools, then forget to inform the principal and the custodians about what is going on.

"The relationship of people using the schools and the custodian is important — he regards the school as his second home."

In his tours of inspection across the province, duplication of programs has been the biggest problem, Mr. Przybylowski indicated.

"This is what happens when you get into the regional concept," he told the committee.

"Regional recreational authorities are missing out on some of the best in community. They will not know the basic, grass roots problems."

There be different with Mayor J. Russell Scott of Belleville, who earlier has appeared as the only mayor to make a presentation before the Select Committee.

Dr. Scott said recreation should be prerogative of the upper authority in regional government, not the municipalities. He based his remarks on Belleville's situation. The city spends about $200,000 a year on parks, arenas, and recreation, but one-third of the people using the available facilities come from outside the city, he said.

Mr. Przybylowski commended the Moira program because it is entirely student-run and responsive to the needs of the community. "We can't go into schools in some parts of the province without hiring a full-time adult supervisor, usually a teacher," he said.

Mr. Przybylowski said the province should assist school boards that open their buildings for after-hours use.

"If the ministry of education wishes boards to promote community use of schools, the boards are justified in asking for more finances to pay overhead costs of custodians and maintenance," he said.

He offered a method of funding. The province should agree to pay for a given number of hours of community use of schools each year, he said.

"From there, boards would have to sit down with recreation department and other interested bodies and plan for the best use of the schools," he concluded.

Community Recreation

Westside . . . eastside, Belleville is a hive of activity these summer days, thanks to programs in the schools and to government assistance.

Take the program being run by the students at Moira. Here the younger kids from elementary school have an opportunity (for a small registration fee) to learn a musical instrument, cook, sew, take part in plays, how to use a camera and other skills.

The music program has resulted in establishment of a 17-piece orchestra of youngsters, most of whom had no prior training in this sphere.

Organized games and instruction in gymnastics and football are other activities of this well-rounded program. Senior students and adults are not forgotten either, the gym being open to them in the evening.

Government assistance comes in the form of a $1,900 grant from Youth in Action, a division of the Ontario department of community and social services, and there have been donations from local community groups as well.

Next year construction work at Moira means the program will have to go elsewhere and Centennial has been mentioned as a possible location.

Another highly successful program described in our news pages of late is the new pool at OSD's J. G. Demara sports complex which has been described as a boon to westside families drawing participants from a wide area. The activity there is run by the City Recreation Department and includes instructional and recreational swimming. If a sufficient number indicate interest, there is the possibility also of adult swimming classes. A prime factor in the success of this enterprise is the co-operation of OSD and its principal Dr. J. G. Demara, after whom the sports complex is named.

An initiative of a different kind, one with a real personal touch, is Myles Tillotson's efforts on behalf of neighborhood kids at West Park Village where he lives. It is not so long ago that we had been wondering about recreation facilities in growing suburbs such as this, but here we have Mr. Tillotson (who is head of the federal immigration services in Belleville) organizing playing fields and other recreational activities for the young people of this area.

Kids need the personal interest that we see in this citizen's initiative. Community programs go only so far and involve only a fraction of our young people. What is being done on a community basis is commendable but the more programs that can be introduced the better. We also need more playing fields, lotsons, as well as more young people, and programs helping other young people. And we will need them all the more as the community grows.

Decisions

Columnist Art Buchwald suggests in his best tongue-in-cheek manner that President Nixon may soon save to make one of his most difficult decisions — whether or not to put in a phone call to American chess grand master Bobby Fischer in the event of him winning the series against Russia's Boris Spassky.

Buchwald offers a possible dialogue between the two, with Fischer at his abrasive best, the President suitably awed and ending by according to Fischer's request to send the Presidential jet to pick him up in Iceland and fly him to Washington for a hero's (or as Buchwald calls him, "antihero's) welcome and reception at The White House.

But the final twist to Buchwald's piece has Nixon calling up the national security chief and asking him to arrange for the jet to be hijacked to Cuba.

Fischer may be rather a nark, but he has the courage of his convictions. And come to think of it, why should he tolerate television cameras in the dog box and then, once the crowding around the chess board filling the place with tobacco smoke? Most of us are masters of compromise, if not masters of chess, and willing to take the line of least resistance. But not Bobby Fischer. He is his own man.

The President of course could get round the problem by simply sending a telegram of congratulations!

But for How Long?

P.M. Defuses Welfare Minister's 'Soak Middle Class' Policy

By RICHARD JACKSON
from The Intelligencer's
Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — When Welfare Minister John Munro made his "soak it to the middle-income group" speech in Quebec City, he scared the election win out of the cabinet table.

His theme was that if a good and generous government was to continue its pursuit of the ideal of the social welfare state, somebody would have to pay.

And as former Finance Minister Edgar Benson had had in ramming through tax reform, soaking it to middle income earners, the government had to extract the money from those who had it, the great majority group of workers in the $5,000 to $12,000 bracket.

These people, in that so-called middle-income span, pay just about 50 percent of the country's total income tax bill.

Having said it once, frightening the cabinet, John Munro said it again, this time in his home territory of Hamilton, where in an almost hysterical speech he hoarsely shouted a confirmation that indeed the middle-income people, like it or not, would be carrying the load.

The cabinet at that point, says Cape Breton Conservative MP Bob Muir, from what he was told by parliamentary friends on the government side of the House, could have choked John Munro.

But by publicly rebuke him, as Prime Minister Trudeau previously had done in forcing him to apologize to Parliament for his misleading statements on the government's drug-abuse policies, could have been dangerous to cabinet unity.

John Munro could have resigned — as Manpower Minister Mackasey so often is so threatened to, but never does — and the Prime Minister could not safely contemplate a third member following Paul Hellyer and Eric Kierans out of the Cabinet.

So according to the static Robert Muir picks up from Liberal MPs, the cabinet disciplined John Munro by not pushing — thereby effectively pigeon-holing — his Family Allowances legislation that, would have, as he twice has threatened, sock it to the middle-income people.

But that has not been enough. Bob Muir hears, and felt short of plotting government on troubled middle-income waters.

What, then, to do?

Parade the Prime Minister, of course, with a public statement that far from being further punished with higher taxes, the middle-income group for a change would be coming in for some rewards.

"Mr. Prime Minister," he was informed in the prelude to the setup question, "there are suggestions in the country of widespread opposition to any further increases in personal income tax. How will this manifest itself in the coming election campaign and to what extent will it inhibit the kind of things you want to do in social security, regional development and in restructuring the economy?"

Replied, in part, the Prime Minister:

"The federal government will have to manage its resources carefully, not to waste money in any areas, choose priorities, and we will do this hopefully without increasing taxes.

"Old age pensions, income security, regional expansion and unemployment insurance were very well dealt with in recent years. There was a lot of funds allocated to them. It meant we had to cut funds in other areas and re-order our priorities.

"We will do that in the future (when) there will probably be less strong need to deal with those things now we have inclosed the guaranteed income supplement for old people, for pensions.

"There will be less need to bring in new programs in those fields, and we will hopefully turn more of our attention to creating growth and ensuring that the middle-income groups get their share of the economy's progress."

It was the first kind word the middle income people had heard since Prime Minister Trudeau took power four years ago and let the cabinet institute the leftward-swinging reformers who wish to "redistribute" as they call it, national income — have their heads.

But the Tory boys' be is not fooled and neither are those Liberal parliamentarians who have been unhappy with the way these activists, John Munro, Bryce Mackasey and a small hard core of socialists so often have dominated cabinet policy.

"So now it is butter-up time for the middle-income group where the big vote is," says Bob Muir. "It's after the election? If they win, then back to the old tax and tax, spend and spend, it is to the middle-income people operation again."

Soviet Navy's Growing Power

By JOHN D. HARBRON
Foreign Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Service

The navy which can snap its fingers at all the maritime nations is not the United States Navy and no longer Britain's Royal Navy, but the Soviet Navy.

This is the judgment, not only of the editor of the world-famous Jane's All the World's Fighting Ships, but of every major naval analyst.

Since the Korean War, constant building and modernization programs are about to make the Soviet Navy, in submarines and other kinds of naval craft, the world's largest fleet.

The Soviet Navy already has a very ominous submarine predominance over the U.S. Navy. According to Jane's these are 56 nuclear-powered submarines of all conventional units in the Soviet fleet in comparison to 98 nuclear subs in the U.S. Navy and only 35 conventional submarines.

The U.S. Navy leads considerably in aircraft carriers and appropriations for a $1 billion nuclear-powered carrier are about to be approved by Congress. The Soviet Union is not a major builder of carriers. But her two helicopter carriers are built on a design developed from Western experience with the use of this kind of tactical warship.

The Russians, as we surmise, had watched the amphibious operations of Britain and France at Suez in 1956, and the United States in the 1958 Lebanon landings and came to the conclusion, a carrier to assist inshore troop landings was more useful to them than big deep-sea carriers.

The Soviet Navy also has a clear superiority in coastal patrol boats, minesweepers and small destroyers. A sizable number of these have been seen by Western navies because they have been assigned to the navies of the Communist countries which have used them in combat.

These countries include North Korea, North Vietnam and the Egyptian Navy. A few years ago, a radar-equipped naval missile of a kind not then developed in the West, sank an Israeli destroyer without any prior warning. The missile was launched from a Soviet-built Egyptian patrol boat, of which there might be many hundred at sea under the Soviet naval flag.

Soviet naval bigness, therefore, is not just a matter of growth for the sake of growing, but shrewd naval planning to meet existing and future naval commitments as Russian naval strategists see them.

The Soviet heavy, guided missile cruisers have no parallel afloat. They could, if such a terrifying possibility ever came about, fire deadly missiles on pinpoint targets against Israeli cities, from a position 300 miles away in the Mediterranean Sea.

The nuclear missiles of a single American or Russian nuclear-powered submarine is the greatest concentrated nuclear firepower on earth. Advanced American and Soviet seaborne nuclear missiles can travel 1,500 miles and hit a pinpointed target.

Before 1980, the world's greatest navy will be guided by a naval high command in Moscow, not Washington. Soviet Admiral of the Fleet Sergei Gorshkov, the chief architect of modern Soviet seapower, has said no enemy ship is safe from the Soviet Navy.

In 1916—after being convicted of treason for plotting to win Irish independence by revolution, Casement had been a British consular agent and was knighted in 1911. But before retiring, when moving to Ireland, Casement published anti-British pamphlets, tried to form a rebel brigade and solicited United States and German support. He was landed, at Tralee, by German submarine to take part in the Easter Rising, but was captured at once.

1858—The United States Navy nuclear submarine Nautilus made the first undersea crossing of the North Pole.

1914—Germany delivered an ultimatum to Belgium and declared war on France; German troops entered Belgium which rejected the ultimatum.

1947—A telegraph service from Quebec to Montreal, Toronto and Buffalo was inaugurated.

Dr. and Mrs. Gaille and Mrs. Gaille, of Toronto, were guests at the home of the latter's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Stewart W. Lough.

Mrs. Maurice Lipton and daughters, Susan and Jane, have arrived from Gimli and are visiting at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur E. May, Cherry Gardens.

Messrs. Tom Conklin and Larry Black are guests at St. Michael's College, where attending the Ontario Tennis Tournament in Toronto.

Mrs. Catherine Hendrikse, a leading opera singer in Holland, and a teacher of music in Amsterdam has been appointed Teacher of Voice at Albert College for the coming term. She was announced by principal, Rev. A. E. Mackenzie. Mrs. Hendrikse came to Canada about 3½ months ago, and settled in Belleville with her husband who is employed by the Northern Electric Co.

Council Decision

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

It is now two weeks since City Council voted not to proceed with a judicial inquiry in connection with the Mayor's alleged conflict of interest.

Not only did the Mayor cast the deciding vote against the proposed inquiry, but he has not issued any statement whatsoever. Whether or not this is an indication of a guilt feeling on his part is, of course, for us to say. However, his course of action will only dispel the suspicions and innuendos that are circulating throughout Belleville.

In essence, Alderman Soulter's motion, Mrs. Jeffrey called for a clearing of the air. That the majority of the aldermen did not go along did not resolve the issue. Should they decide to run again for office, they had better have satisfactory answers when they face the electors.

Certainly, the Mayor should have been the first one to welcome the inquiry. Why were the others in the majority afraid to do so?

We join William C. Hockley and Aleene Corrigan in not keeping quiet. Let us raise our voices to a crescendo that will make the Mayor and his cronies hear. At the same time, let us give the other members of aldermen cause for second thoughts.

A PLAIN CITIZEN

Kingston Has Mall

Kingston Whig - Standard

Early public reaction to the cartwright Projection's mall on Princess Street — now in its second week — appears to be favorable, though not overly positive. This is encouraging to everyone in Kingston who would like to see the mall become an annual summer attraction. What is more encouraging, however, will depend primarily on the reaction of the merchants directly to the plot project.

Many shopowners, managers and owners caution that it is a little too early to evaluate whether Project 72 is a success or not. Nevertheless, merchants and city officials are watching the experiment closely and their early reactions are both interesting and encouraging.

Protection of Minority

OMB's J.A. Kennedy And The Democratic Process

By DON O'HEARN
From The Intelligencer's
Queen's Park Bureau

J. A. (Al) Kennedy, chairman of the Ontario Municipal Board has been mentioned here many times in the past — always with praise.

Now in what will perhaps be one of the last mentions, for the chairman is retiring in October, it is a pleasure to pay what is the highest compliment of all and say that Mr. Kennedy has shown the finest appreciation of our political system of anyone encountered here in more than 25 years of reporting politics.

The chairman, the first witness called, was asked by Liberal Philip Givens, former mayor of Toronto, whether he wasn't "usurping" the authority of elected representatives when he over-ruled council decisions after objections by ratepayers?

The chairman replied:

"The objective of democracy is justice, and any system whose object is justice must have built in a mechanism to protect the minorities."

When Givens, rather indignantly, put forward the standard argument that councils are elected and therefore accountable for their actions, Mr. Kennedy said:

"This is an oversimplification assuming almost to sloganeering."

Incredible as it may seem, this is the only occasion I can recall in my time here when there has been such a statement by anyone in authority as close to it as to just what democracy is all about.

The gist of it, of course, is protection of minority rights.

This is the great right from which it has developed and it is the main principle which distinguishes it from totalitarianism.

But practically everybody, including those in the highest who should know better, glibly accept democracy as "majority rule" and let it go at that.

And majority "rule," of course, is only a mechanic of the system.

It is a necessary mechanic. Essential to the whole democratic action. Without it the system would grind to a halt. But we believe that it is democracy itself is primary ignorance.

This was a welcome statement by Mr. Kennedy. Hopefully it might help to make members of this committee thinking about what the duties of these few start thinking the habit just might spread.

Hopefully, too, though he is retiring from the OMB, Mr. Kennedy won't be lost to us. As an older statesman he might make as valuable a contribution as J. C. McRuer has.

Three Prospects For Point Anne

POINT ANNE — In the eyes of its residents, this little community east of Belleville faces extinction, with the current phasing-out of its single company, Canada Cement LaFarge Ltd.

In the eyes of Belleville industrial commissioner Fred Bemis, Point Anne could possibly bloom into an even larger industrial complex, offering far more jobs than the cement company ever did.

With the cement plant as the only industry in the otherwise rural town, Point Anne could become a ghost town within the next few years unless a replacement is found soon.

Now, nearly 200 people are employed by the company.

The company recently issued a notice to occupants of company homes in the community to vacate their houses by September, 1973.

Mr. Bemis said, "there are three prospects, interested in the Point Anne site that have made preliminary checks on the location."

Manager of the companies could not be disclosed but it was released that each would be hiring from 1,000 to 3,000 employees, provided they choose to locate here.

Any of the prospects would have staffs larger than any other company in the area.

Canadian National Railways and Northern Electric, Belleville's giants, each employ 1,000 people.

Companies moving into Point Anne would utilize area people for staff, offering retraining where necessary, said Mr. Bemis.

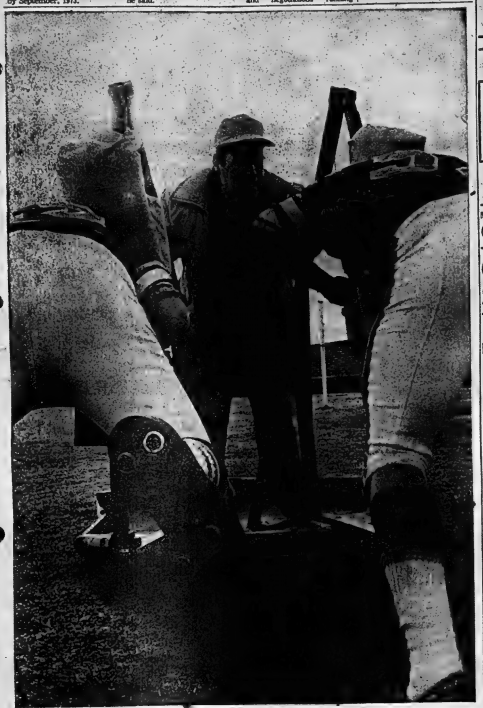
"We have entered preliminary discussions, and everything is being done to continue the productivity of the area," he said.

Before a plant can make a decision on the site, studies in engineering and marketing must be conducted, then the long process of directors, meetings, and negotiations must follow before steps can be taken.

"One company is suggesting 1974," said Mr. Bemis.

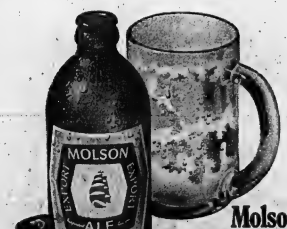
"In all probability it will be a heavy industry that will move into the area, that can use the large amount of space said Mr. Bemis.

"Among the phrases for the site are good water access, rail siding and access to highways.



"It is quite possible that all three industries could move by meaning possible employment figures well into the thousands," he said.

The development of the property relies on the smooth phase-out of the cement plant and negotiations running smoothly between Canada Cement LaFarge Ltd. and prospective buyers.



"Things do not look all that bleak for the area," said Mr. Bemis. "People are already looking at the site with the demise of the Point Anne cement plant on the horizon.

The Belleville Industrial Commission would be very remiss if they did not do everything they could to usher prospective buyers to the Point Anne door step, he said.

Could Cost City

Province Changes Policy on Grants

The city of Belleville could be out approximately $7,500 in expected provincial grants as the result of a change in the Community Centres Act.

The grants expected by the city would have gone to assist in development costs at the Hillcrest Athletic Field and the Centennial Athletic Field, both of which have been set up by city council as community centres.

However, word from the community centres division of the department of community and social services is that it has been directed by the government to pay grants only to municipalities having populations of 25,000 or less.

The 25,000 population ceiling would rule out Belleville receiving further grants under the Municipal Centres Act and could also cut off the balance of grant which might be due on the D. L. Sherry Centre on Pinnacle Street.

In past years the city has received community centre grants for the Ben Bleecker building, for the Dick Ellis Rink and for the Park Dale Community Centre.

The amount of grant received under the Municipal Centres Act is 25 per cent of the cost of the project up to a ceiling of $50,000.

In March of this year, City Treasurer W. J. Morrell, on the direction of city council, wrote the department making application for the grant inward expenditures made on the two local athletic field projects.

The reply received late in July was that the projects were not eligible for grants under the Act as government direction was that they be paid only to municipalities of 25,000 and under.

The July letter was the first city officials knew of the change in government policy. However, the stand taken locally is that this money was spent on the two athletic fields in the expectation that grants would be received. City Treasurer Morrell has written the department asking for clarification on the new basis of grant eligibility.

The new government policy on community centres grant payment was brought up at this week's meeting of the recreation - parks committee which recommended city council take some action with the view of having the former grant policy reinstated.

ANAF News

Warriors relax and take it easy this week as there is very little going on. Next week, however will make up for it.

On Wednesday, Aug. 9, the big Quinte Exhibition will officially open in the evening, and this year a Warrior's Day will be initiated. With marching personnel and two bands from CFB Trenton and all district veterans invited to parade, it should make a brave showing. The Unit Pipe Band and Color party will also attend. Buses will be at the Market Square to transport the veterans to the East Hill playgrounds where the parade will form up and will also be at the exhibition grounds to return them downtown. The 2 CFB Trenton will take the salute on the grandstand.

Thurs. Aug. 10 is more important to the members as the first general meeting after the summer recess will be held. There will be a good sized number of new members to be initiated with refreshments and a social hour after the meeting. Turn out and give the new comrades a hearty welcome.

The O'Keefe Golf Tournament will be held at the Barcovan course on Sat. Aug. 12 during the day with many valuable prizes. In the evening the J. C. Lundberg Testimonial dinner dance will be held in the Tartan Lounge, where Comrade Jack and his charming wife Bernice will be honored guests. Jack will be presented with a beautiful plaque commemorating his 18 dedicated years of service as Dominion President. Tickets at $5 per couple are on sale at the bar and limited to 50 tickets. Better get them early as many members will be eager to honor the Duke of Edinburgh Unit's most distinguished member.

President H. G. Ford is hoping for a good turnout for the parade and the general meeting and asks all those who can do so to wear medals, berets and blazers on the parade.

The Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment is having a Trooping of the Color at Peterborough Sunday, Aug. 13. Major Carl Huble is training two platoons of color guards. One of the young soldiers from A Coy., the other one is of veterans of World War II who served with or were attached to the regiment. Training nights will be held at the Armory on Aug. 2, 9 and 10. Anyone who would be interested in taking part is asked to contact the major at the Armory.

That venerable old Boer War and World War I veteran, Cde S. Howes, is now at the Wordcock Nursing Home. Other comrades in hospital are G. Wallace, room 214, KGH; T. Hay, room 728; T. Brawley, room 220 BGH and A. Morris room 8 Queen's S. C. Unit.

NOTICE OF INTEREST TO SENIOR CITIZENS

The Belleville Utilities Commission is aware that many senior citizens on fixed incomes find it difficult to avoid the penalty for late payment of their utilities account when the account's due date is prior to the date on which their Old Age Security Pension Cheque arrives.

In an attempt to reduce this hardship and in its continuing endeavour to be of service to its customers the Belleville Utilities Commission is pleased to introduce a budget billing system under which a customer who is a senior citizen, may pay his utility account on an Equal Monthly Payment Plan. The payment will be due on the first day of each month.

The Equal Monthly Payment Plan is available to any customer in possession of a "Senior Citizen's Identification Card" on application to our office. "Senior Citizen's Identification Cards" may be obtained from the City Clerk's office in the City Hall.

If you have any questions concerning the plan or any other phase of our operation, please do not hesitate to inquire at our office or telephone 962-3431.

The Equal Monthly Payment Plan will be available commencing September 1, 1972 and Senior Citizens wishing to take advantage of it are asked to apply at our office, 277 Front Street.

Solandt Demands Controls

TORONTO (CP) — Canada must have programs to restrict foreign investment and control and should be doing more to encourage science in industry, a prominent Canadian scientist said Wednesday.

Dr. Omond Solandt, who recently retired as chairman of the Science Council of Canada, was speaking to the Ontario government's select committee on economic and cultural nationalism.

He said measures to inhibit foreign control must be taken but "I would be very unhappy if we followed a course which excluded foreign investment."

It was possible to devise rules for the entry of foreign countries and foreign capital which would be acceptable to them, said Dr. Solandt, now heading an investigation of Hydro for the Ontario government.

The scientist said that among other things, extensive foreign ownership inhibited growth of scientific research and technology because the parent companies tended to look on their Canadian firms as a branch-plant operation.

He mentioned there were 10 or 11 companies in Canada which make steam irons and toasters in a market of 700,000 because the companies were foreign-owned and diversified in other products.

If there were one or two Canadian companies instead of 10 or 11 foreign-owned subsidiaries, the market for the Canadian companies would be substantial and they might even be able to go into the exporting business themselves, he said.

Trade Talk Progress Negligible

WASHINGTON (CP) — Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz acknowledged Wednesday that the United States has made little progress in trade negotiations with its two main trading partners—Canada and Japan.

Making his first comments on Canada-U.S. trade since he met a week ago with Canadian Trade Minister Jean-Luc Pepin, Shultz told a news conference: "We were not able to agree on anything at all with respect to the auto pact."

The auto agreement, which allows Canada to ship duty-free cars and parts into the U.S. from Canadian satellite plants of U.S. companies, has been an issue in the trade talks.

Charter Plan Changes Sought

OTTAWA (CP) — Government officials from the United States, Canada, Britain and several European countries will meet here next week to hammer out details of a new air charter plan.

The new policy would replace the controversial affinity charter rule which has been a headache for air transport regulatory authorities on both sides of the Atlantic.

Extradition Bid by U.S. Rejected

OTTAWA (CP) — The failure Wednesday of a second U.S. attempt to extradite Humberto Pagan Hernandez now means the fate of the young Puerto Rican rests with Immigration Minister Bryce Mackasey.

The dismissal of a U.S. appeal by the Federal Court of Canada ends that country's legal attempts to bring Pagan to its Carribean territory where he is charged with murder. The 21-year-old student is accused of killing the commander of a San Juan riot squad during a bloody battle in March, 1971, between police and supporters of Puerto Rican independence.

The only remaining hold on Pagan is a deportation order issued last fall after he fled to Canada under a false name.

Under the Immigration Act, he must be deported to the country whence he came unless the minister interferes in the process, permitting Pagan to accept an invitation to Cuba.

MR. AND MRS. BRIAN DRUMM

Drumm — McMurter

Rev. H. M. Davis officiated at the recent wedding ceremony in Bridge Street United Church of Pauline Marie McMurter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Gannon, Trenton, and foster daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. McKnight of Belleville, and Brian James Drumm, son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Drumm, Belleville. Alec Gordon rendered organ music.

The bride, given in marriage by her foster father, Mr. R. J. McKnight, selected a floor length peau de soie gown with an empire waist and embroidered flowers on the hem and sleeves. A shoulder train fell from a shoulder length Juliet veil. She carried a bouquet of yellow baby roses and baby's breath.

Maid of honor, Miss Cheryl Leween wore a floor length orange and yellow flowered voile dress with short puffed sleeves and a ribboned bodice. She carried a nosegay of baby mums tinted to match her dress and she wore matching flowers in her hair.

Bridesmaids, Miss Janice Locke, Miss Ann McMurter, sister of the bride, and Miss Vicki Drumm, sister of the bridegroom were gowns in the same design as the maid of honor except in blue and green.

Norman Brownlie was best man. Ushers were Ted Drumm brother of the bride groom, Tom Williams, cousin of the bridegroom and David Henry brother of the bride.

For the reception held at Parkdale Community Centre, the bride's mother received guests wearing a floor-length pink crepe dress with long sleeves and a wedding ring collar with a jewelled spot opening. Her dress was complemented by a corsage of mums tinted to match the dress. The bride's foster mother wore a floor length sleeveless blue and mauve flowered dress on a white background. A large white mohair hat trimmed with similar colors of the dress and a corsage of white mums tinted to match the dress completed her outfit.

Host Jr. Farmers

Mr. and Mrs. Grant Norton were host and hostess to a large number of former Junior Farmers at their home on Sunday. Long tables were set under trees and those who couldn't attend the dinner arrived for the afternoon and supper. Games were played and much renewing of acquaintances were enjoyed.

Beans Used For Meat Alternate

Ontario white pea beans are ideal for use as a meat alternate, since they are a good source of protein, three of the B vitamins, calcium and iron. Combined with some meat, fish, eggs or dairy products, beans complete protein at a budget.

But best of all, beans are easy on the cook! A can of beans dressed up with wieners, sausages or leftover ham garnished with grated Canadian cheddar, or chopped apple makes a quick - to - fix dish that's sure to satisfy even the heartiest appetite. Or for an all - Canadian treat, add ¼ cup pure maple syrup to each 8oz. tin of browned beans. You'll want to experiment with your own additions too, to discover your family's favorite way with white beans.

Home-baked beans too, can easily become an integral part of every cook's repertoire, instead of an infrequent occasion. Using the quick-soak method, you can start baked beans at noon, and serve them for supper!

LOOKS OVERRATED

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C. (CP)—"If a girl wants to be come a good model, she must have self-discipline, a good personality, determination and a desire to learn," says Ramona Beauchamp, a 23-year-old former secretary who started her own modelling agency a year ago. Miss Beauchamp, who now has 34 models registered with her agency says "appearance helps, but it is overrated in modelling."

JUDITH EILEEN CHAPLIN

SPRINGBROOK W.I.

Springbrook W.I. held their annual picnic Wednesday July 26 at Crowe river. The hostess Mrs. William Barlow and her husband entertained 17 members, two visitors and two young girls Jane McKeown and Sharon McInroy, at their summer cottage.

During the witness of the ground, the smorgasborg type picnic dinner was served inside the cottage.

After the dinner, one of the visitors Mrs. Grenville Meikle John gave a short talk on the work of the Red Cross in Marmora Township and surrounding districts.

The birthday song was sung to Sharon McInroy on the occasion of her ninth birthday.

A short time of business followed with Mrs. George Williams presiding.

Most of the members spent the rest of the afternoon playing progressive euchre.

Mrs. Clayton Burkitt won the prize for the mans highest score, and Mrs. Fred McKeown for the ladies highest score.

After all this exertion tea and lunch was served.

On stopover in Belleville to Georgian Bay, a dinner for immediate relatives was held at Sun Valley Motor Inn for Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Claus (nee Linda Ann Nix)

LOYAL TO GARDENERS

LONDON (AP) — The 79-year-old widow sold her home for $238,000 — and bought it back a month later for $223,500 because "I heard the six gardeners might have to go." Dorothy Pierson said her gardeners "worked tremendously hard to make the grounds beautiful and I would not like them to lose their jobs through any action of mine."

Honey Outlasts Sugar

Baked goods made with honey stay moist and fresh longer than those made with sugar. Homemade ice creams, frozen desserts, and candies are smoother and creamier. But for the best results use recipes specially developed for honey, advise food specialists at the Ontario Food Council, Ontario Department of Agriculture and Food. If honey is substituted for sugar on an equal basis, changes in color, texture, flavor and volume do occur.

Honey's traditional use is in baked goods, desserts, and spreads for toast or waffles. Peanut butter and honey cookies, honey brownies, and honey chews are lunch-box favorites. For special occasions, honey fruit is a sweet creamy frozen dessert. Add a small amount of lemon juice, and honey becomes an ideal sauce for ice cream, fresh fruit or cereal.

It is just as versatile in the main course. Spicy Island-Style Chicken with honey and pineapple or Honey - Wine Chicken are company fare.

For these and other recipes using honey, write the Information Branch, Ontario Department of Agriculture and Food, Parliament Buildings, Toronto.

ENERGY VALUE

The energy value of one pound of peanuts equals that of four pounds of beef steak, 21 pounds of cheese, 10 quarts of milk or 23 eggs.

MR. AND MRS. GORDON SCHERMERHORN

Schermerhorn — Clapp

Previous to her recent marriage, Mrs. Gordon Schermerhorn (nee Karen Joy Clapp) was honored at a community shower held in the lower auditorium of Westminster United Church and at a shower given by Mrs. D. Thompson, Mrs. C. Vandervelde, Mrs. J. Cole, Mrs. E. Evans and Mrs. J. Loshaw. A kitchen shower was held in the home of Mrs. W. Heath, RR2, Stirling. A miscellaneous shower was given by women of the congregation of the "Pentecostal Evangel Temple." Nassaweo. The staff of Parkdale Public School made a presentation and a rehearsal tea was given by the bridegroom's parents Mr. and Mrs. Morley Schermerhorn in the home of the bride's parents.

Rev. J. F. Sumner officiated at the July 22 wedding ceremony in Westminster United Church of Kerry Jo Claus, daughter of Mr. and Mrs Clifford Claus, RR1, Foxboro and Gordon Frederick Schermerhorn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Morley Schermerhorn, RR1, Selby. Mrs. Cameron Sine provided organ music to the accompaniment of Miss Sharon Dudgeon as soloist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father wore a white floor length gown of delustred satin trimmed with alencon lace around the neck and cuffs. A French chantilly lace veil formed the train. She carried a bouquet of white carnations and yellow rosebuds with a background of baby's breath.

Matron of honor, Mrs. William Hirds, was attired in an apple-green floor length gown of delustred satin. A narrow train of yellow and white daisies highlighted the dress.

Bridesmaids, Miss Wilma and Miss Wanda Clapp, sisters of the bride were dressed identically to the matron of honor. All three carried baskets of yellow and white daisies interspersed with baby's breath with trailing green and white ribbons.

Best man was Gary Jackson of Selby. Wayne Woods of Roblin and Wayne Clapp, brother of the bride, were the ushers. Erick Hoosiere, nephew of the bride assisted by carrying the veil.

The bridegroom's mother assisted wearing a street length pink dress with three quarter length lace sleeves, and white accessories. Her outfit was complemented by a corsage similar to the one worn by the bride's mother.

Upon their return, the couple will reside at RR1, Selby.

Handwriting Analyzed

VANCOUVER (CP) — Psychologists now affirm what teachers of handwriting have been saying for years—that the left-handed child has greater difficulty learning than his right-handed counterpart.

"Nearly all left-handed children should be trained to write with their right hands," Eileen Richardson told a meeting of 50 of the world's master penmen at the University of British Columbia Monday.

Mrs. Richardson is a trustee of the Ottawa board of education. She is here to address the 22nd annual convention of International Association of Master Penmen and Teachers of Handwriting.

She said psychologists in Canada and France have recently concluded that the left-handed child is at a disadvantage in school.

"There is a relationship between left-handedness and lisping, stuttering and dyslexia," she said.

"Dyslexic children cannot read correctly even though there is no brain damage or organic malfunction," Mrs. Richardson said.

First Visit Home After 47 Years

Sunday, July 30 was a special day for Mrs. Nellie Hagerman (nee Serridge) as she departed by air from Toronto to Liverpool, England for a six-week visit. After 47 years away this was her first visit home. Mrs. Hagerman was greeted by her family at Liverpool airport and her little great-niece also presented her with a bouquet of flowers.

Residing here in her husband Vere, RR1, Stirling and her two daughters Mrs. Douglas Frost, RR4, Stirling, Mrs. Scotty Thomson, Rossmore, and six grandchildren.

Fashion News from Paris

PARIS (AP) — Andre Courreges, the man who designed "second skin" for women, used to like his body stockings in heavy ribbed wool. Now they are sheer.

His collection for fall and winter, shown today, was pure Courreges. This means vinyl and fake fur, visors and chunky boots, and the Courreges colors —orange, white, navy, and yellow.

The look this season is wearable. Slightly flaring dresses have short sleeves and high waistlines.

Courreges is proud of his new square armhole, which fits into the coat "like a purple piece."

Skirts, sometimes soaring to three inches above the knee, are A-line and slit up the front, in grey flannel or wool, they go with ribbed T-shirts and overthe-knee socks sticking out of vinyl boots. The "in" color for these is pink.

Women who otherwise might soon be hard put to find a pair of couture pants will be reassured to know they can count on Courreges. This season, his are wider, straighter and cuffed.

With them comes a short, tight ankle jacket in vinyl, with mink balls. The orange pants have a white mink windbreaker. The pink ones have a black.

For dressed-up occasions, Courreges would have you wear floppy crepe pants, a vinyl jacket, open of course, and ball gowns flattering with pink satin bows.

Otherwise, Courreges is still in his junior prom prom period, with full skirts in feathers and paper roses, frills and ruffles and bare midriffs.

Day Care Services Expanded

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government launched an expanded day care services program Tuesday with the creation of a national information centre and the appointment of a special consultant for the enlarged program.

The government will spend $4 million on the program during the current fiscal year and double this amount next year.

The information centre, to be located in Ottawa, will be designed to stimulate research on day care services for children and to promote development of standards in the day care field.

Howard Clifford, a former day care program director in Edmonton, has been appointed a consultant in community services in connection with the expanded program. He will be responsible for developing the information centre.

The new program is the direct result of a recent Canada Assistance Plan amendment, approved by Parliament earlier this year.

It gives the government authority to share the costs of day care centre materials, equipment and other items with the provinces. Previously, it was restricted to sharing the costs of staff.

AVOID GOLD

When buying a carpet avoid gold as a solid color, because gold cut pile shows foot tracks litter, dust and fuzz and requires much more care.

Successful Living

Psychology Aids Motherhood

By DORIS CLARK

Tribute of the week: Jean' was overheard saying to her mother:

"Mother, that course in post graduate sociology was wonderful. And it has given me good ideas in it that as I thought back on our own family life I decided you had a real knack their book or taken the course yourself."

When Jean's mother, Mardie, told me this we talked about what our McGill studies — when we were taking a bachelor of arts course together — meant to us in the years that followed.

We found much knowledge had escaped us—but saw that university studies had given us a new way of thinking about things, some idea of how much there was to be learned; and had challenged us to do some thinking on our own.

Psychology, sociology, had made us look at our fellow humans with some wonder and excitement about what made them tick, and with some desire to learn more.

Mardie has raised a large family. As they passed through childhood she revealed her role of homemaking and mother — as well as wife to a well-loved physician.

The results are superb. Note Jean's comment

Dear Doris: It was a terrible shock when my husband left us all a few months ago to live with a girl just a few years older than his own daughter, who is 19.

The children (I also have a boy 15) are seemingly just as disappointed in him as I am, and are completely loyal and loving to me.

My question now is, should I be allowed to go scot free when it comes to paying for their education? My girl has two years yet to go to university, and the boy has not even started.

At the same time, my husband failed in his previous business and is at the moment struggling to build a new one.

I don't think he has any money — to speak of; but then when it comes to that, neither have I, once I use up all my salary to barely meet our living expenses. — Deserted.

Dear Deserted: And he has paid nothing at all for your support since he left? Legal action is indicated, whether you work toward a separation or divorce.

With regard to meeting college expenses, it is doubtful that this could be claimed. In most provinces, once a child becomes 16 parents are not obligated to continue support.

CAROL FRANCES BOOTH
daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Booth of Belleville graduated from Kingston General Hospital on July 29 1972. Miss Booth who is a graduate of Moira Secondary School has accepted a position on the staff of Kingston General Hospital.

But there have been instances of such awards. In a recent case the judge's response to the suit was that while the law terminated obligations to support at age 16, modern requirements make education important in the rearing of children.

The man in this case was wealthy and he was instructed to make regular payments to the wife on behalf of the children.

Confidential to Let Down Twice: Why keep on being a doormat to the men in your life? Many a woman has broken away to make her way on her own; and has begun to enjoy life for the first time.

Give thought to how you would manage, how you would budget, how you might be able to use your own special talents for income. When you go to the city where your oldest son is, get his suggestions. He is the one who appreciates your efforts.

Your kind of problem is an old story to our social working experts; I'd suggest an early appointment with one of them right in your own town.

Mirror of Your Mind

by JOHN CONWELL

Do only wives 'act emotionally'?

NO; husbands do, too, but not as successfully as wives can. That doesn't mean that a wife can more easily get her own way if she goes into one of her "emotional" storms than her husband could if he went into one of his. A wife gets more mileage out of acting emotionally because she is not afraid to express how she feels. Then, even if she doesn't gain her point she at least relieves her tensions.

Is it best to live 'for the moment'?

SOMETIMES; and other times it is best to live with an eye to the future and a glance back on the past. Nobody says a person has to live exclusively one way or the other. If an individual has "had it up to here" with constantly curbing his behavior and gearing his outlook to take care of the needs of the future, it will be a refreshing change of pace to put aside all other thoughts and devote himself to experiencing the present moment.

Would tots walk faster without help?

PERHAPS not faster, but toddlers may step off with greater assurance if they were left to learn to walk by themselves. A mother, torn between wanting her tot to walk and dreading the prospect of chasing after him all day, may communicate her turmoil to her child. In turn, the toddler, torn between trying to please his mother and yet wanting to walk, may suffer pangs of indecision even before he is steady on his feet.

Ann Landers

Unwatched Kids Raise Mom's Ire

Dear Ann Landers: I took my children to the park for a little fun and I came home sick. There were three darling children there, eight, five and two years of age. No one seemed to own the set. As the sun began to set I asked the eight-year-old boy where his Mommy was. "Oh, she's home," he replied. "But she told us to play nice and come home when it gets dark."

I told him I thought he should take his sister and go right then because the two-year-old was wet and shaking in the cool breeze—no sweater. He reluctantly agreed. As they started to cross the street I yelled at him to take hold of his little sister's hand. She was running ahead, straight into the traffic. Luckily, the cars stopped and the children got across all right.

I went home shortly after that, found the family in the phone book and called the mother. When I told her I was concerned about her children she said, "on, really?" I asked her if she had ever read about child molesters. She replied, "I don't believe in bringing up children with fear."

Ann, I'm only an ignorant woman, so of course she won't pay any attention to me, but for heaven's sake, please print my letter for that mother and for other mothers who take such terrible chances with their most previous possessions—Disgusted in Grand Rapids

Dear Disgusted: Your letter should make that mother see herself as a woman with an appalling lack of common sense. Thanks for putting it so well.

Dear Ann Landers: Although I've been around, I'm not sure I know the difference between a closet queen, a fish tank queen, a fair princess or a butch runner. My husband is a candidate for at least one of the above, maybe all four, and I'd like to express my feelings on this subject.

We've been married for several years and I love him very much. Why should I stop loving him now? He is good to me. Our sex life is not great, but I don't care much for sex so it doesn't matter. I feel he is entitled to his private world, if he wants it. I am happy and don't want to change my life. I'd be miserable without him. I know this is not a perfect setup but it's good enough for me. Do you think I'm a dingbat?—Content in Akron

Dear Ak: What I think is not important. Better to be a contented dingbat than well-adjusted and miserable.

Dear Ann Landers: What are we coming to when a big airline runs a full-page ad for people that for $152 they can be somebody else for a weekend?

My mother used to tell me, "be yourself." She emphasized solid virtues, the wisdom of being a real person—just what you are, nothing more and nothing less. I've tried to raise my three children with that same philosophy. And now I see it's much more desirable to "be somebody else—laugh and dance barefoot with corny strangers and fall into the pool."

Have we gone mad? What about it?—Nobody Else

Dear N. E.: One of the central problems of our time is that too many people do not like themselves and they deplore the mundane, monotonous quality of their lives. These unfulfilled people respond to an ad that offers them an opportunity to be somebody else, even if only for a weekend at a cost of $152. Sad, of course, because on Monday morning, they are—the same miserable, inadequate, lonely selves, with the same unresolved problems and nagging insecurities they left on Friday.

CENTRE OPENS

EDMONTON (CP)— French day care centre has been started in Edmonton and will run two days a week on a year-around basis. Eventually, organizers hope to operate five days a week. Initially, English-speaking children will not be accepted. The centre has received donations from some churches and the French-Canadian Association of Alberta.

New Attempt Is Made To Save Hull Building

HULL, Que. (CP) — Another court action has been filed in an attempt to restrain a local community group from demolishing a $12 million apartment project.

But Ronald Belec, lawyer for the group, promised Wednesday that demolition of the Daiken apartment buildings will proceed late this week or early next week.

Mrs. Joyal-Brossard, a 38-year-old lawyer in Mr. Belec's firm, won a judgment from the Supreme Court last December which ordered destruction of the uncompleted apartment buildings on Hull's St. Francois Street. The site was to be returned to its original state.

Daiken Enterprises Inc. of Montreal, the builders, and the city of Hull have refused to pay for destruction of the apartment complex.

Mrs. Joyal-Brossard and the Tache Gardens Property Owners Association have undertaken to tear the buildings down. Mrs. Joyal-Brossard has said a bill for the demolition job will be sent to Daiken and the company will be sued if it refuses to pay.

In order to pay the demolition contractor, Lou Lewkuion of Hull, the Tache Gardens group has launched a public campaign for $125,000. It has collected only a portion of this but Mr. Belec has said Mr. Lewkuion is guaranteed payment.

The court injunction sought by Mr. Fortin calls on the Tache Gardens group to cease destruction of the buildings until it has demonstrated it has enough money to complete the job.

Mr. Fortin, a resident of St. Francois Street, says in the court action that partial destruction of the buildings would lower his property value and cause a health problem by attracting rats.

The request for the injunction will be heard Friday and Mr. Belec said the contempt of court petition will be filed at the same time. He said those opposing demolition are impeding a Supreme Court order.

August Takes New Tactics

By ARNIE HAKALA
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The fish caught in June is usually not there in August and a ministry of natural resources official says only the smart fisherman finds where they have gone.

"It's really a shame that people catch fewer fish at this time of year," said George Warner, field supervisor for the fish and wildlife branch in Kenora.

"All you have to do is think a bit."

Warner said he has noticed a decline in angler's success and pointed out that fishermen should concentrate on early-morning and late-evening angling.

"Take for instance pickerel. You have to work harder and the only way to really do that is to drift fish."

He said he has seen many anglers that take a certain area of lake and drift. If they get nothing on their first try they move over about 50 yards and try again.

"The fish can be anywhere in an underwater channel. Once you hit something like pickerel you know there will be more. But don't bet they'll be in the same place as you caught them in the spring. Mind you, there's just as many fish in any given lake."

The ministry, in reports to The Canadian Press, reports generally poor fishing.

Reports for 17 of the ministry's 21 districts:

SOUTH

Lake Simcoe—Bass—good in middle, east shore and north end of Lake Simcoe as well as Lake Couchiching and Sparrow Lake. Pike fair on east side of Lake Simcoe and Lake St. John. Pickerel fair in middle of Lake Simcoe and excellent in Sparrow Lake. Muskellenge good in Lake Couchiching and fair in Gloucester Pool.

EAST

Lindsay—Most species good but it depended on persistency. Minnows and worms proved the best baits.

Tweed—Pickerel improving in most waters and several cases in the Peterborough were producing good catches of bass, especially while trolling at the evening.

Lake Erie—Bass and perch good in lower Lake Huron. Pickerel and perch good near Fawn Island at St. Clair River and all species fair in Lake St. Clair, Cobo hitting well at seven. Lake Erie points with silver artificial baits the best lures. Smallmouth bass good near Long Point Bay. Muskie good in upper Niagara River.

Filly Flies At Frontenac

Phillaurie and Chris Storms were living up to their advance billings at Wednesday night's Frontenac Downs harness fixture remaining in the winning spotlight.

Phillaurie flashed to / his seventh win of the year last night and set a new track record of 2:02.3 in winning the feature ninth event. Chris Storms, last year's leading percentage winner at the Kingston oval, drove Phillaurie to the win.

A pair of longshot victories highlighted the rest of the racing card for the 1,251 fans in attendance when Barbara Patrick returned $40.40 in winning the fourth and Ma Mic paid $36.80 by taking the fifth. Laced driver Al Vance rushed Skippy Rush to a sixth race victory. Allison Scott and Wilson Richard ran one-two in the tenth race to pay $70.60 for the exacta.

Other race winners were Fireman Hanover in the first, Glory Patch took the second, Phaskie Della the third, Zorro Grattan the seventh and Bonded Stock the eighth.

The bettors wagered $34,814 over the ten race card. Racing resumes Sunday afternoon with the $3,000 Molson Stake Race the main feature.

Rating Doesn't Bother Belkin

"It's the international level that counts," the 26-year old Montreal native said between matches at the Canadian national tennis championships.

Belkin gave up his No. 1 ranking in Canada last year to pursue more of the money tournaments in the United States and even bypassed the Canadian national tournament, won by Peter Burwash of Toronto who also assumed the top-ranking in the country.

Now living in Miami, Belkin has been returning to Canada to compete in the Davis Cup since he was 19 and this year was named playing captain.

But it remains one of his few connections with the Canadian tennis scene.

"I grew up in the States. I played all my junior tennis there. I went through the whole system in the States. The junior Davis Cup program, all the way up."

When it comes to systems of developing players, there is just no comparison between the two countries.

"The U.S. system is so far more developed."

Belkin, 1970 Canadian closed singles champion, said the Canadian system is improving at the tournament level, but is still failing where the players need help the most—the 13- and 14- and 15-year-old level.

Asked about the possibility of conducting clinics across the country, Belkin had harsh words for the Canadian Lawn Tennis Association.

"This is what I can't figure out. I've got so much time on my hands, you'd think the CLTA would come to me and say, 'Look, travel around the country, promote the game.' But nothing.

"I'm not going to beg and say, 'Look . . . I do want to help the game.' But why should I have to go first? If they don't want to do it, I'm not going to force myself on them."

"I would like to take the best juniors, about 18 years old, and make a junior Davis Cup team and work on them right up to the Davis Cup level."

All Good Men Asked to Support Team Canada -- All But Four

TORONTO (CP) — Douglas Fisher, chairman of the board of directors of Hockey Canada, leaned forward to test his microphone and intoned: "Now is the time for all good men to come to the aid of their country."

With four exceptions.

The good men coming to the aid of their country in the eight-game series against Russia next month will not include Bobby Hull, J. C. Tremblay, Gerry Cheevers or Derek Sanderson.

The four, all of whom have left National Hockey League clubs to join the New World Hockey Association, were finally ruled ineligible Wednesday at a day-long meeting of the Hockey Canada board which voted to uphold the original agreement under which the team was formed last April.

That included a clause stipulating that all members of the team must sign NHL contracts before reporting to Team Canada's training camp Aug. 13.

Hull, Tremblay, Cheevers and Sanderson all were on the list of 35 invited by coach Harry Sinden to join the team. But Hull has left Chicago Black Hawks for Winnipeg Jets of the WHA; Tremblay has quit Montreal Canadiens to sign with Quebec Nordiques and Cheevers and Sanderson have forsaken Boston Bruins in favor of Cleveland Crusaders and Philadelphia Blazers.

NHL president Clarence Campbell told a news conference after the Hockey Canada meeting that legal considerations made it impossible for the league to agree to inclusion of WHA players on the team.

Some 40 or 50 NHL players had signed with WHA clubs and the NHL contended that its reserve clause still bound them to their former employers. The league had been advised by counsel that its legal position would be jeopardized if players from both organizations were allowed to play for Team Canada.

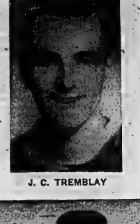
"In these circumstances, for us to modify the agreement is impossible," said Campbell, who is not a member of the Hockey Canada board but represents owner Bill Wirtz of the Black Hawks on its five-member steering committee.

Fisher said the board voted nine to two, with two abstentions, to accept the steering committee's recommendation upholding the original agreement.

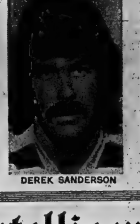
Several members of the board, composed of government, hockey and business representatives, said they went along with the decision reluctantly.

Joe Krycka, president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, said the CAHA feels the team should be open to Canadian citizens regardless of league affiliation but is "prepared to live with the decision."

Lou Lefaive, government representative on the steering committee, said the government, which originally urged that the agreement be re-examined, said "when we saw it was not possible to make any amendments, the government had no choice but to back Hockey Canada.



"We would have like to see a different arrangement, but we haven't got a different arrangement."



Rev. David Bauer of Vancouver and Toronto lawyer John Wintermeyer were the two board members voting against the agreement. Sobey businessman Roian Lacroix and Maurice Reginald of the Canadian Intercolle giate Athletic Union abstained.

Alan Eagleson, president of the NHL Players' Association and a member of the steering committee, said an exhibition game against the Czech national team in Prague has been added to Team Canada's schedule.

The team plays Russia in Montreal Sept. 2, in Toronto Sept. 4, in Winnipeg Sept. 6 and in Vancouver Sept. 8. There will be exhibition games against the Swedish national team in Stockholm Sept. 15 and 17, the remainder of the Russian series in Moscow Sept. 22, 24, 26, 28 and the Czech game Sept. 30.

Palmer Still Fans Choice

The favorite when the Professional Golfers Association tournament gets under way today won't be the Golden Bear or Super Mex or Buffalo Bill. It won't be Dave Hill, Charles Coody, Frank Beard or any of the tested veterans on the PGA tour. Nor will it be talented newcomer Hike Miller or Lanny Wadkins.

The favorite in the PGA championship will be a sloped-shouldered figure from Latrobe, Pennsylvania who has not won a major championship in over six years. The sandy hairline's retreat is being matched by a gain at the bell loops, but to millions of golf followers Arnold Palmer is still "the King".

Of course he will be favored in sentiment only, not cold cash. Even the most fanatical member of Arnie's Army has to concede that Jack Nicklaus, sore hands and all, is the finest golfer in the world and that Lee Trevino is a solid second. Palmer, who along with Nicklaus and Gary Player once formed the Big Three of golf, has slipped back into the ranks of a score of other top players.

Why then, the almost fanatical dedication to this one particular man among the dozens of outstanding golfers on the PGA tour?

It's probably due to the fact that Arnold Palmer is Superhacker, with the unusual aspect of talent.

How can the average 90's shooter who gets the shakes at 10 cents a hole feel even the slightest association with Jack Nicklaus? A scratch golfer perhaps would have some idea of the concentration and artistry that goes into one of big Jack's rounds, but you could watch one of his most brilliant recovery shots and perhaps not even realize that it was out of the ordinary.

Trevino is another easy man to admire, but tough to really associate with. Your Sunday golfer is generally found white-knuckled and red-faced attempting to strangle some public course with the agony and grim dedication of Jack the Ripper.

Then along comes Super Mex, joking, talking to the gallery and even looking as though he enjoys the dam' game.

During a practice round after his first U.S. championship Trevino was blasting seven irons at a club driving range. "Beautiful," one woman in the gallery kept exclaiming. "just beautiful."

Hailing in mid-swing he turned to the crowd and quipped, "Lady, I'm the U.S. Open champion. what the hell do you expect — ground balls?"

Lee seems more like the fast-talking hustler you would expect to find in pool rooms rather than on the fifth tee. He just doesn't see golf like a religion, the way God meant it to be.

After blowing his drive on a par four hole where the green is guarded by a pond, your average golfer reaches for his net - so - trusty three wood and attempts to drive the green. After all, he reasons, I've hit three woods that far before. What he doesn't realize, of course, is that he doesn't consistently hit three woods that far.

Professional golfers play the percentages. As Frank Beard, in his book "Pro" explains, "If there's a shot that I can only make three out of 10 times that will win a tournament for me, I'll play for second place money and keep from falling back into maybe fourth or fifth. People say I'm not a gambler, but that's just what I am, and like any good gambler I play the odds."

Then there's Super Hacker, climbing out of the rough with impossible recoveries, canning 40-foot putts at crucial points and initiating the word "charge" into golfing language. A millionaire several times over, Palmer could care less about tournament winnings he wants titles and in this he (or broke philosophy that has made him the darling of average hackers throughout North America).

Nothing pointed out Arnie's "human" qualities more than a PGA championship several years back. Trailing the leaders by only one stroke in the late stages of the last round he hooked his drive into the rough behind a huge tree. As the cameras zoomed in on his seemingly hopeless position, Palmer pulled out his four-wood and hooked the ball 220 yards, around the tree to within eight feet of the cup.

Tugging his trousers in the familiar Palmer trademark, he marched to the green and promptly missed the eight - footer to drop out of contention. Even in this plight the gallery could empathize. How many times have you pulled off that seemingly impossible shot only to blow an easy putt (or two)?

Golf ball manufacturers will be among those hoping fervently for a win by Arnie in this year's PGA. Should he tame the 7,045 yard Oakland Hills course for his first win since in that tournament, the bugles would sound charge in the ears of thousands of Palmer fans.

The following week we'll be out on the course challenging those water hazards, disdaining the easy for the impossible and ramming those 10-footers towards the hole with audibility. Considering our odds for success, imagine how the sale of golf balls would boom.

Culkin at Home in Kingston

By RANDY DERRY
Sports Staff

Junior Baseball may be dead in Belleville but at least one Belleville baseball player is alive and hitting.

With the demise of Junior baseball in Belleville, Barry Culkin went elsewhere to continue his hardball aspirations and the Kingston Lions Club Juniors are glad he did.

The graduate of the Belleville Minor Baseball system Barry is batting .371 in his lead-off position, second best in the E.O.B.A. leading Lions stone crew, his three triples are tops for the club and his ten runs batted in also earn him a second place ribbon.

"This is a good hitting team," states the 19-year-old Quinte Secondary School graduate. "Hitting is probably our strong point. The infield works pretty well together but I guess our pitching is a little weak."

The weaknesses haven't been glaring ones for the Kingston club however (sadistic losing an 18-6 won-lost record against opposition from Oshawa, Whitby, Newcastle, Kendal, Port Hope, Keane and Little Britain.

Barry, who pet rols right field for the juniors, is the only out of town player on the squad and makes the games anyway he can including his well-worn thumb. "For the home games if Dad doesn't drive me I usually hitch-hike. I haven't missed a game yet. The away games are always west of here so they just pick me up along the highway as they go by."

Barry has fit into the scheme of things in Kingston and hasn't been left out by his non-city residence. They're a bunch of good guys. I knew most of them from minor ball when I played against them so I don't feel strange or out of place when I'm there."

The way Barry is batting his team mates are sure not to exclude him from any team activities especially as the season enters its closing stages, with only a pair of doubleheaders remaining.

Kingston will be a familiar sight for Barry who will be attending Queens this fall and also is looking forward to returning to the Lions Club Juniors next year.

Right at Home

Kingston is a long way from home for Barry Culkin but luckily for the Limestone City's Lions Club Juniors he feels right at home at the plate. Barry sports a .371 batting average in his lead-off batting spot for the EOBA league pennant leaders. The Belleville product has been one of the mainstays in the Lions development of an 18-6 won-lost record.

Parsons Pace Quinte Soccer

Belleville Parsons were a bit slow off the start in a Bay of Quinte Soccer League contest Wednesday night but finished strong at the wire to sweep past Whitley's Travellers 3-1.

The win moved Parsons into sole possession of first place and kept their undefeated record intact. Peter Hillier gave the Cleaners the win firing two second half goals to break a 1-1 deadlock. Henry Oosterveld had opened the scoring for Whitley's but Mark Midas scored before the half time whistle for the defending league champions.

Final Statement

Alan Eagleson, (left), head of the National Hockey League players' association Lou Lefaive, head of Sport Canada and Clarence Campbell, (right), president of the NHL, tell reporters at a news conference in Toronto Wednesday that they have decided not to allow players who "defected" to the World Hockey Association to play for Team Canada in the September series against Russia. The announcement followed a day-long meeting of the board of directors of Hockey Canada.

Sanderson Top Paid Athlete

PHILADELPHIA (A P) — Derek Sanderson, who once fought his way into a crowd of Philadelphia hockey fans, should be in better spirits when he meets a room-ful crowd today in the city's PAK Plaza. He will have just signed a $2.6 million contract with Philadelphia Blazers of the World Hockey Association.

Philadelphia has never been a big money town for athletes, but Sanderson's lawyer, Bob Woolf, has said the Blazers' seven-figure deal will make him the highest paid sports figure in America.

"There was no way to turn this contract down," says Sanderson, who jumped to the WHA club after five years with Boston Bruins of the National Hockey League.

"The contract is as big as a book. It's for five years, but the Blazers can expect to keep me 15 years if they win all the legal battles," he continued. "Once I settle in Philadelphia, I expect to play out my career there."

Sanderson, always popular with the Boston hockey fanatics, but never loved on the road, once got himself into a brawl with some Philadelphia Flyers fans. That was back in December of 1970, when he became angered by the heckling of a Spectrum crowd.

Sanderson, a high school dropout, said the Bruins raised their offer from $600,000 to "one million dollar area" when he met with board chairman Weston Adams last Friday. But the club still weren't close to what the Blazers put in front of me."

The contract includes legal fees, Sanderson said, because the Bruins "told me they were going to sue me. I can't blame them because they have to try to protect their interests."

Sanderson, who has become one of hockey's most-publicized players despite spending five years on the Boston bench right behind Phil Esposito and Fred Stanfield, the top two scorers.

He did so with his pugnacious, baiting demeanor. In the 1970 playoffs with New York Rangers he helped touch off a fight that set a NHL record for penalty minutes in a period.

Off the ice, Sanderson enjoyed a colorful life that included partnership with Joe Namath and Ken Harrelson in a Bachelors III pub.

Sanderson's departure is only one of a series that has rocked the NHL champion Bruins since coach Bep Guidolin resigned to join the WHA formed this spring. Right wing John MacKenzie has become the Blazers' player - coach, goalie Gerry Cheevers has joined Cleveland Crusaders and defenseman Ted Green has jumped to New England Whalers.

Raimey Returns to Offence For Meeting with Montreal

TORONTO (CP) — Two years ago, despite a recurrent knee injury, Dave Raimey gained 1068 yards rushing for Toronto Argonauts.

The arrival of Leon McQuay last season converted Raimey into a defensive back and the 32-year-old veteran appeared content to end his Canadian football League career preventing touchdowns instead of scoring them.

Raimey, one of the most exciting runners in the CFL in the late 1960s, may get a chance to relive the past tonight.

As the Argonauts prepared for their season opener against Montreal Alouettes, it was McQuay who had the bad knee and coach Leo Cahill listed both men on his offensive squad. McQuay, last year's Eastern Conference rushing leader, had been little active in Toronto's four pre-season games.

Raimey expressed doubts that he would be able to signal his way down field as easily as he did for Winnipeg Blue Bombers when he gained more than 1,000 yards a season in 1965 and 1966. "But I'm willing to try for her," he said. "Being away affects your timing, the instinctive things where you make your own breaks."

Montreal coach Sam Etcheverry, who saw Raimey in action with Winnipeg, remembers he defeated the Alouettes 34-15 in an exhibition game a week ago. "He looked good. He write him off."

"It seems a waste of talent having someone like that on defence," he said.

Montreal Etcheverry said he expected the Argos to rely heavily on a passing attack until McQuay is healthy.

That may have been a smoke-screen. Starting quarterback Joe Theismann was No. 3 in rushing last season and had-be a prime passing target for Theismann along with flanker Hugh Allen and tight end Tony Moro.

Jim Chasey, Montreal's probable starting quarterback will be working with Moses Denson and Bruce Van Ness from last year's backfield and split end Terry Evanshen, top passcatcher in the conference in 1971. Peter Dalla Riva is back at tight end after missing most of last season with an injury.

On defence, the Argonauts will probably have to do without Jim Corrigall, their formidable tackle, who was injured in

Ottawa Wins Roughrider Battle

OTTAWA (CP) — Ottawa Rough Riders opened their Canadian Football League season on a delightful note for 21,662 fans Wednesday night, beating Saskatchewan Roughriders 22-7.

But, even allowing for a drenching curtain of rain that hung over Lansdowne Park, the game lacked much of the sparkle usually associated with meetings between the two teams.

While Ottawa scored in all four quarters, their game generally turned on Saskatchewan miscues while the western Riders were threatening only twice in the game, scoring once and being held on three downs inside the Ottawa five-yard line late in the fourth quarter.

Saskatchewan coach Dave Skrein laid the blame to a tough early schedule that had his team open the season with two games in 48 hours—they lost 20-17 to the Tiger-Cats in Hamilton, Monday.

"All players been rested," he said after, "it might have been a completely different story."

He also was concerned about the loss of star end Noble Bailey with a knee injury early in the game.

"It might be a cartilage," Skrein said. "He could be gone for the season."

In Hamilton Saskatchewan lost defensive halfs Ted Dushinski and, Gig Perez with knee injuries and sent them home before coming to Ottawa.

Their only touchdown came from veteran fullback George Reed with a one-yard drives into the end zone midway through the second quarter which gave Roughriders a short-lived 7-5 lead in the game. Jack Abendschan kicked the convert.

Sidelined quarterback Gerry Organ had given Ottawa a 5-0 first-quarter lead on two singles—missed field goals—and a 22-yard field goal.

On the series after Reed scored, Ottawa quarterback Rick Cassata hit flanker Billy Cooper with an eight-yard scoring pass before carrying the ball right yards to score himself early in the third quarter.

Organ rounded out a 10-point night converting both touchdowns and adding a 22-yard field goal at the start of the fourth quarter.

Through it all Ottawa managed only 270 yards of offence encumbered with 221 for Saskatchewan and picked up 14 first downs compared with 15 for the visitors.

End Rhome Nixon took four Cassata passes for 93 yards, Cassata was rood on 13 of 28 attempts for 183 yards and Billy Ot-'s ground game with 91 yards on six carries.

Receiver Ron Wike Wyche completed 15 of 32 pass attempts for 209 yards—Wyche completed only one of seven for five yards—with flanker Ernie Ford favorite receiver at 88 yards on five catches.

Reed led the Saskatchewan ground attack with 64 yards on 13 carries and took five passes for 28 more.

Both teams now have a week off, Saskatchewan meeting Toronto Argonauts in Taylor Field Aug. 17 and Ottawa travel to Montreal to play the Alouettes the next day.

Robinson Leads Calgary to Win

CALGARY (CP) — Calgary's Larry Robinson scored Wednesday why he is the all-time scoring leader of the Western Football Conference by gaining 18 points to lead his Stampeders to a 31-7 victory over Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

LARRY ROBINSON

The versatile offensive leader back opened the scoring by intercepting a pass by Winnipeg quarterback Don Jonas and running 37 yards for a touchdown.

Robinson kicked the convert and went on to boot three singles, two field goals and convert the remaining two touchdowns.

Interceptions also led to Calgary's other major scores.

Middle linebacker Wayne Harris came within two yards of scoring his first touchdown in 11 years of professional football when he intercepted a Jonas pass deep in Winnipeg territory. Calgary was called for clipping, but fullback Hugh McKinnis plowed 17 yards for the score.

The final Stampeder touchdown was set up by Frank Andrunak's interception on the Winnipeg 11. Rookie end Gary Kerr scored on a pass from back-up quarterback Jim Lindsey.

The only other point scored by the Stampeders came off a 12 yard punt by rookie Don Moulton into the Winnipeg end zone which Bomber Pete Robins conceded for a single.

Moulton set the scene for that point by catching his own punt after it sailed a meagre 11 yards into the wind.

Winnipeg's lone touchdown came on its only major drive of the game. It began when Jonas pitched the ball to Jim Thorpe on a reverse. Thorpe threw to Bob LaRose, who streaked down the sideline for a 40-yard gain. Two quick passes to Paul Markle and Thorpe were followed by the scoring toss to Mack Herron.

The win before 22,385 fans gave the Stampeders a first place tie with Edmonton Eskimos. Winnipeg and British Columbia Lions follow with a loss each and Saskatchewan Roughriders are winless in two starts.

Although the Bombers lost on the scoreboard, the statistics gave them an edge in total yards gained. Winnipeg racked up 338 yards to Edmonton's 237.

Jonas completed 17 'A' 33 passes for 217 yards. His work horses on the ground were Ed Williams, who gained 80 yards, and Herron, who added 36. Both carried 13 times.

McKinnis supplied the Stampeders with almost half their total yards, carrying 19 times for 168 yards. The Stampeders managed only 170 yards in the air.

The hard-charging Calgary defence forced three Winnipeg fumbles. The defence held the Bombers to a stingy 121 yards rushing.

Robinson Leads Scoring

Placekicker Larry Robinson accumulated 18 points to take over the lead in the Western Football Conference individual scoring race as his Calgary Stampeders trounced Winnipeg Blue Bombers 31-7 Wednesday.

Robinson scored his most impressive total with a touchdown, two field goals, three converts and three singles.

TORONTO (CP) — Bobby Orr still wants to play for Team Canada against the Russians in his lawyer said Wednesday, although Boston Bruins would prefer him to stay home.

Reports from Boston that the famous defenseman would definitely miss the eight-game series against Russia in September, from next month "just aren't true," said Alan Eagleson on behalf of his client.

"Bobby wants to play. Boston Bruins don't want him to play but Bobby will have the deciding factor's advice."

Eagleson added that he will have Orr examined by other doctors if he feels the Bruins' club physician is attempting to keep him out of Team Canada's lineup because of recent knee surgery.

"If Bobby misses the first game, he will see how he feels for the second. If he misses the second game, maybe he'll be in the third. I'll have a daily medical report. I'd like to see him get into at least one game."

However, Eagleson emphasized that Orr would play only if he was physically sound.

"I certainly don't want him to risk hurting that knee."

TORONTO (CP) — Birmingham City of the English First Division defeated Toronto Metros 3-2 in a non-league soccer game Wednesday night before 1,968 fans.

Birmingham goals, two by Trevor Francis and one by Bob Hatton, came in the first half.

Ian McHattie and Walter Mulrooney replied for Metros in the second half.

TORONTO (CP) — Team Canada, made up of stars of the National Hockey League, are to be limited to seven games overseas—in addition to four in Canada—during international competition in September.

Alan Eagleson, head of the NHL Players' Association, said in a news conference Wednesday night:

"We'll be playing two games in Stockholm Sept. 18 and 17; we'll play in Russia Sept. 22-24-26-28 and on the 30th of September we'll play in Czechoslovakia."

The Canadian dates are Sept. 4-6-8 in Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg and Vancouver respectively.

Privately, the Team Canada schedule called only for the four Canadian and Russian dates.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Left hander Woodie Fryman, in his fifth season as a pitcher with the National League's Philadelphia Phillies, was sold to Detroit Tigers for "a price slightly above the waiver price of $25,000," the Phillies announced Wednesday. Fryman has a 53-53 record in 23 games with the Phils, cellar-dwellers in the NHL East.

No Change In Track Decision

MONTREAL (CP) — Dick Pound, secretary of the Canadian Olympic association, said Wednesday the COA has decided to stand by its decision to send 27 track and field athletes to the Summer Olympics in Munich, rather than the 47 athletes who met the Olympic qualifying standards.

Pound said in a statement the decision to send a 27 member team was made after consultation with Harvey Pearce, president of the Canadian Track and Field Association.

The full 47 names were presented by the CPTA to the Summer Games committee meeting here on July 27, Pound said, at which time the COA indicated it was prepared to approve a team of that size "on the basis that performances achieved and performances expected in Munich did not indicate there were that many track and field athletes in Canada of Olympic calibre."

"After considerable discussion, the suggested team of 27 was approved by the COA as being more realistic than the original 47 selected by the CTFA selection committee.

The COA and the CTFA met about a year ago to fix standards for track and field events.

"It was estimated at that time that a team of approximately 30 would result from using such standards and on that basis they were accepted by the COA," Pound said.

The inadequacy of the standards became evident, he said, at last month's Olympic trials in Toronto when 47 athletes were named to the team by the CTFA after they and other athletes surpassed the standards.

Oarsmen Qualify

MILAN, Italy (CP) — A four without coxswain from Canada won entry Wednesday into the semi-finals of the world junior rowing championships by taking its qualifying heat. It was the only non-European entry to win its heat.

Murray Hein of Shawnigan Lake, B.C., finished second in his heat in single sculls, and gets another chance in today's repechages.

An eight from Ridley College, St. Catharines, lost to the powerful Soviet Union crew in its heat, but tries again in the repechages. The other eights which won heats were from Britain and East Germany, the fastest time being East Germany's 4:37.52.

The Russians and Germans dominated the qualifying heats. West German entries reached Friday's semi-finals in coxed fours, coxless pairs, coxless fours and double sculls event. East Germany and the Soviet Union have semi-finalists in eights, single scull, coxed fours and coxless pairs.

The Canadian coxless four entry beat Czechoslovakia, France, Poland, Denmark and Britain in winning its heat, and was timed in 58.81 seconds.

Hein was timed in :34.5 in finishing second to a Dutchman in his single sculls heat.

The coxed eight from Ridley College was timed in 4:31.82.

Cedeno Feeds Average On Cincinnati Pitching

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Cesar Cedeno who continues to feed on National League pitching, had a feast at home plate Wednesday night.

"I wasn't thinking about hitting for the cycle, I was just trying to get a hit," said Cedeno after drilling a single, double, triple and home run to lead Houston Astros past Cincinnati Reds, 10-1.

Cedeno had a double in the first inning, a two-run homer in the third, an RBI single in the fifth and a run-scoring triple in the eighth and fattened his league-leading batting average to .333.

In the other National League games, St. Louis Cardinals beat Pittsburgh Pirates 10-5 in a 6½ inning, rain-shortened affair; Philadelphia Phillies trimmed New York Mets 5-3; San Diego Padres beat Atlanta Braves 5-3; the Angeles Dodgers turned back San Francisco Giants 13-11 and Chicago Cubs downed Montreal Expos 5-4 in a game cut short after six innings by rain.

The contest was the scheduled opener of a twinight doubleheader.

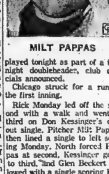
With Cedeno blasting his 15th homer of the year, the Astros came up with three runs in the third off Cincinnati ace Gary Nolan to give Don Wilson a comfortable working margin. The big Houston right-hander pitched a six-hitter.

Bernie Carbo's three-run homer capped a 10-hit, nine-run rally in the fourth inning as St. Louis beat Pittsburgh. Bob Gibson, not pitching one of his better games, picked up his 12th victory in 18 decisions.

The Mets had a chance to cut a game off the Pirates' 6½ game lead in the East Division but blew it when ace Tom Seaver lost a 3-2 lead going into the ninth against Philadelphia.

A single by Larry Bowa and a run-scoring double by Tommy Hutton tied the game for the Phillies and gave the visitors a win it on Deron Johnson's pinch-hit, two-run homer.

Fred Norman pitched a seven-hitter and Garry Jestadt drove in four runs with a homer and a double to lead San Diego over Atlanta.



Bill Russell crashed a two-out homer off reliever Jim Barr in the ninth inning to lead Los Angeles over San Francisco. Willie Davis knocked in five runs for the Dodgers with a home run and two singles.

A. C. Martin's bouncer with the bases loaded produced the winning run in the fifth inning as the Cubs beat the Expos.

Cubs Edge Expos

MONTREAL (CP) — Chicago Cubs erupted for three second-inning runs in three hits and one Montreal error and then held on to defeat the Expos 5-4 before rain ended the first game of a twinight doubleheader after the sixth inning Wednesday night.

The second game will be played tonight as part of a twinnight doubleheader, club officials announced.

MILT PAPPAS

Chicago struck for a run in the first inning.

Rick Monday led off the second with a walk and went to third on Don Kessinger's one-out single. Pitcher Milt Pappas then lined a single to left scoring Monday. North forced Pappas at second, Kessinger going to third, but Glen Beckert followed with a single scoring Kessinger.

Billy Williams followed with a weak grounder to Ron Hunt but the Expos' second baseman let the ball go through his legs for an error and North scored.

Chicago added another run in the fifth before Montreal got to Pappas who had pitched four perfect innings.

Pappas evened his record to 9-7, allowing only three hits, walking one and striking out two in 5 2-3 innings pitched. Mike Torrez, victim of early wildness and three Expos errors, was tagged with the loss, his sixth in 18 decisions.

Top-Seeded Tennis Pros Advance

CHESTNUT HILL, Mass. (AP) — The annual United States pro tennis championship at the Longwood Cricket Club moved into its fourth day with the entire day's program devoted to doubles.

Wednesday night, unseeded Rod Laver of Australia overwhelmed Ismail el Shafei of Egypt 6-3, 6-2 and ninth-seeded Arthur Ashe picked up after a loss in the first set to overcome his former U.S. Davis Cup team-mate Charlie Pasarell 1-6, 6-2, 6-2.

Bobby Lutz, 24, who knocked off John Newcombe in a third-set tie-breaker on Tuesday, won another tie-breaker Wednesday, but to do it, he had to fight off four match points against Brian Fairlie of New Zealand to win 8-6, 6-4, 7-6.

In other matches, Tony Roche of Australia had a comparatively easy time in a 6-3, 6-3 victory over Haroon Rahim of Pakistan and third-seeded Marty Riessen of Chicago eliminated rookie Derek Schroder 6-4, 6-2.

"That's the first good slider he's shown since he came to pitch for our team!"

London Defenceman Fined

OTTAWA (CP) — London Knights, defenceman David Hutchison was fined $500 Wednesday by Provincial Judge Livius Sherwood, who said the penalty should be seen more as a deterrent against others getting into violent hockey brawls than against Hutchison himself.

Hutchison, 20, was charged with assault causing bodily harm after punching Ottawa 67s player Ray Antilla in a post-game fight at the Civic Centre last March 31.

The crime was a product of the system rather than personal evil or wickedness in Hutchison, the judge said.

In reviewing the case, Judge Sherwood said the playoff game, won by Ottawa, was described as "chippy" with a good deal of rough play and several bad calls by referees. Tension built and a fight broke out as both teams started to leave the ice.

Hutchison, who recently signed a contract with the World Hockey Association, joined the fray, wrestling with Wayne Merrick of Ottawa. And then headed toward centre ice where Antilla was hitting London player John Raynak.

Films provided by spectators as evidence at the trial last month showed Hutchison knocking off Antilla's helmet with one punch and laying him flat on the ice with a second.

In his testimony, Hutchison said his first hit was intended to stop Antilla's attack on Raynak.

Judge Sherwood said the blows to Antilla, already on his knees, were deliberate and totally unjustifiable and "far exceeded anything that could be justified as a defence of Raynak."

But, he said, a criminal record would be a heavy burden for Hutchison, who seemed to have been more surprised than anyone when he realized what he had done.

Rain Doesn't Bother Brewers in Detroit

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rain or shine, Milwaukee Brewers are enjoying life in Detroit.

The tail-enders in the American League East Division humiliated the first-place Tigers Tuesday night, pounding out 16 hits in a 9-0 rout before a downpour mercifully halted proceedings after six innings.

On Wednesday, having skipped pre-game batting practice, the suddenly fearsome Brewers collected 18 hits and thrashed the Tigers 13-1. Starter Jim Lonborg, 10-5, even contributed a couple of singles to a seven-run Milwaukee rally in the third inning.

"It's not that often I get a chance to wave so many runners around third base," said Jackie Moore, Brewers' coach.

In other American League games, Chicago White Sox beat California Angels 10-9, Texas Rangers topped Minnesota Twins 4-1 and Oakland Athletics blanked Kansas City Royals 5-0.

New York downed Boston 5-1 in the first game of a day-night doubleheader. The Red Sox took the second game 7-4.

Baltimore blanked Cleveland 7-0 in a twilight opener, then the Indians downed the Orioles 6-3 in the nightcap.

Jim Palmer pitched a four-hitter for his 14th victory and Boog Powell, Bobby Grich and Johnny Oates hit homers for Baltimore, 14-4, .777.

Baltimore in the first game and Cleveland. In the second, Chris Chambliss blasted a three-run homer and Roy Foster hit a two-run shot for the Indians.

Catfish Hunter pitched a five-hitter for Oakland. It extended the Athletics' shutout string to 39 innings. Joe Rudi collected three hits, including his 12th homer.

Bobby Mercer hit a three-run homer for the Yankees and Steve Kline won his 11th in the Boston day game. In the night-cap, Ben Oglivie hit a two-run double in the four-run third inning for Boston. Danny Cater also drove in two Red Sox runs while John Ellis blasted a three-run homer for the Yankees.

Pitcher Terry Forster's two out, two-run single in the seventh scored the decisive runs for the White Sox.

A two-base throwing error by Minnesota pitcher Ray Corbin paved the way for three Texas runs. Corbin's errant throw to first scored two runs and allowed another runner to reach third. Ted Ford hit his ninth home run for the Rangers.

U.S. Leads in Multiple Targetable Warheads

This is the last of three articles assessing the comparative military strength of the United States, the Soviet Union and their allies in Western Europe.

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nuclear weapons race is far from over, despite the recent United States-Soviet Union strategic arms limitation agreement.

That pact does put a lid on the number of strategic offensive missile launchers and anti-missile defences on both sides.

But it does not restrict the number of hydrogen warheads that may be carried by offensive missiles. Nor does it ban development of improved offensive weapons.

While this race continues, the U.S. has conceded the Soviets wide lead in ground combat forces by cutting the U.S. Army to its smallest size in a generation. Further, the Soviets have been outbuilding the U.S. Navy by a margin of two to one and are reported on the verge of an even greater naval effort.

When the arms limitation pact was completed, Henry A. Kissinger, President Nixon's national security adviser, acknowledged that "technological change . . . is one of the great driving forces of the arms race at this particular point."

Kissinger has indicated that U.S. negotiators will try during the next phase of U.S.-Soviet talks to settle this and other unresolved issues of nuclear arms control.

It took about 2½ years for U.S. and Soviet diplomats to come to terms on a treaty to restrict anti-missile defences and, as a parallel first-step agreement is limit numbers of land-based intercontinental ballistic missiles and submarine-launched ballistic missiles.

With that precedent, it is reasonable to expect years of wrangling before the U.S. and the U.S.S.R. can reach accord on ceilings for multiple warheads, bombers and shorter-range missiles—if ever do agree.

Meanwhile, U.S. defence officials are certain the Russians will work hard to overcome a strong U.S. lead in deploying multiple independently targetable warheads—MIRVs.

MIRVs are warheads launched in clusters aboard a single missile. They separate to hit targets up to several hundreds of miles apart.

Since the arms limitation agreements were signed in May, U.S. reconnaissance satellites have detected a new series of Soviet research and development tests of MIRV-type devices.

Analysis showed the Russians are making progress toward perfecting MIRV guidance technology and all-important accuracy which have eluded them in the past.

But it should take the Russians several more years before they can have a significant number of combat-ready MIRVs on their missiles.

The U.S.-Soviet agreement assures the Russians of a 2,359-to-1,710 lead in ICBMs and submarine-launched ballistic missiles.

Early mastery of MIRV technology is largely responsible for giving the United States a 5,700-to-2,500 margin in strategic nuclear warheads.

U.S. missile forces are well along in conversion to multiple warheads. The airforce has replaced about 200 single-warhead Minuteman missiles with triple-warheaded Minuteman III missiles. Another 350 replacements are to come.

That will result in a force of 550 Minuteman III and 450 Minuteman II missiles, plus 54 older liquid-fuel Titan missiles. All have a range of about 6,000 miles.

At the same time, the U.S. Navy has converted 12 Polaris submarines to launch Poseidon missiles, each carrying 10 warheads. Eight more subs are in various stages of conversion, with 11 others due to be remodelled.

When all conversions are completed, the navy will have 31 submarines armed with Poseidon and 10 subs with the older Polaris A-3 missile which mounts three warheads each.

The difference between the A-3 and the Poseidon multiples is that the A-3 warheads are released at the same target, rather than being aimed separately at different targets. Both the Poseidon and the A-3 missiles are designed for a range of about 2,880 miles.

Counting bomber loads, the United States will have an awesome 8,500 nuclear warheads in its strategic forces when the Minuteman III and Poseidon changeovers are finished within the next five years.

Kissinger has projected that the U.S. "will have about three times as many warheads" as the Russians at the end of the five-year freeze on offensive missile launchers. It is during this five-year period that the two sides pledge themselves to negotiate for more comprehensive limits on nuclear weapons.

But U.S. defence officials are doubtful the Russians will agree to any curbs on MIRVs until they have caught up with the U.S. in multiple warheads.

Nixon administration leaders believe the first stage in limitation agreements came about because the U.S. bargained from a position of strength.

Thus, they argue that the U.S. must push ahead with qualitative improvements in its offensive weaponry in order to maintain that strength.

The administration's plan for upgrading U.S. deterrent power contemplates relacing the oldest Polaris submarines, which can not be converted to Poseidon, with 10 much-bigger Trident subs. Each Trident would mount 24 missiles compared with 16 in the Polaris boats.

The Trident missile would have about twice the reach of the most advanced Polaris weapon, vastly extending the ocean area in which the missile-firing submarines could hide from Soviet hunters.

If Congress approves, the first Tridents could be in operation in 1978, some six years in the future.

But congressional budget cutters are gagging at the $10 billion cost estimate for the Trident. Navy officials say this would cover not just buying the submarines but also development and purchase of the new missiles and the expense of running the system for 20 years.

Another weapon the administration is proposing, although with a lower priority, is the B-1 bomber. This plane, intended to replace the elderly B-52, is designed to penetrate the kind of sophisticated air defences that Russia is likely to put up in the 1980s.

The Russians never went in heavily for long-range bombers. They still have only about 140 compared with 811 in the American fleet.

But the Russians could be changing that strategy; they are known to have test flown a new supersonic swing-wing bomber code-named Backfire.

The anti-missile treaty has aroused little controversy so far.

In essence, it limits each side to one ABM site for defence of its national capital and one site for protection of a field of intercontinental ballistic missiles.

What the Stars Say

By JEANE DIXON

Thursday, August 10

Aries (March 21): Get collaboration on difficult chores; fill this routine but busy day with good humor. Pursue romantic adventure where you can.

Taurs (April 20-May 20): Your work is there to do even though you may not feel much like doing it. Younger people and pleasure are favored.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Your experience of today will be low-key, not very dramatic, but pleasant. Meditation provides inspiration for future action.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Once in a while it is appropriate to work a full day for the public good. Now is such a time, assuming your progress is normal.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): Social involvement, excitement compete with your work and commitments. A long-standing connection suddenly if more significant.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Divide your time and attention between clearly defined periods. First, your work then your emotional concerns, family and social life.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Your community swarms with fascinating developments. During lively events, find a time for confidential arrangements.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): No vast achievement is material progress is likely, although you'll find satisfaction in the success of what is done.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Handle the day as if it were a picnic or a vacation; your work being the sport of the times. Enjoy what you do.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): It may seem that not enough is getting done—until you realize that people's spirits may be more important in the long run than material output.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Business menus mostly maintenance, consolidation of achieved results, final touches. Take time out for fun and understandings.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Straighten your thinking out to fit your clear feelings; make them known where they count. It's a day for teamwork.

Lupus Attacks Connective Tissue

By G. C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: We lost our 18-year-old son with this lupus disease last year. The shock (the disease was rushing around here, I think) has us all stunned. Can you explain a little about it?—Mrs. J.N.

The disease, lupus erythematosus (LOOP-us-air-i-thee-mah-TOE-sus) is pretty much unknown—except to those who have it.

It is one of the collagen diseases, so named because they affect connective tissues, including the skin. The cause is not known. Hence there is no specific cure, although cortisone-type drugs and anti-inflammatory drugs can sometimes quiescent for years.

It is important to know that there are two types of lupus. One is discoid lupus. It is essentially a skin disease and the patient is not otherwise ill. The skin rash often features a "butterfly" pattern across the nose and cheeks, which once reminded somebody of the appearance of a wolf: Hence the name "lupus" or "wolf." The discoid type is not dangerous unless (in one to five per cent of cases) it progresses into another type—systemic lupus erythematosus, or SLE.

SLE can affect any part of the body: kidneys, liver, heart, lungs, nerves. It often includes arthritis or muscle pain, along with anemia, fatigue, digestive upsets and so on. A nasty disease.

It can indeed be fatal—although it varies greatly in severity. Many patients get along tolerably well year after year, especially if treatment prevents infections and keeps the disease under control. In short, don't take lupus lightly—but don't assume that it is a hopeless situation, either.

Obviously a great deal must yet be learned about it. I was asked, recently, whether there was a society devoted specifically to that disease. I said I didn't know of any, but I have since been told of a number that are active.

The federal government is supporting research. Of the large voluntary health groups, the Arthritis Foundation is most deeply involved because lupus is closely related to arthritis. It is supporting research, in various parts of the country.

Other groups called to my attention as doing research on lupus include Universities of Miami, Virginia, Cincinnati and Pennsylvania, the Toledo Clinic in Ohio, and others.

There's a Constance Chapman Baker Memorial Fund at the Mayo Foundation in Rochester, Minn., devoted to lupus. The Cleveland Clinic has a lupus fund and research project in its department of dermatology.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: With so many women taking hormones for the menopause and sometimes longer, just what are the symptoms of too much estrogen?—L.E.H.

Chiefly soreness of the breasts, and vaginal spotting or bleeding.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Would you define a "brittle" diabetic? —Mrs. P.D.

Some patients with diabetes are known as stable diabetics. That is, the sugar level remains reliably under control with the usual requirements of diet and medication.

Other patients are subject to abrupt sugar fluctuations (high and low) without much warning. They are "brittle" diabetics.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	5♦	Dble

Opening lead — king of clubs.

Assume you get to five diamonds on the bidding shown and West leads the king of clubs. How should you play the hand? Obviously, you are expected to play on the basis that you see only the North-South cards, not all four hands as shown in the diagram. Strangely enough, your first and most important play is to discard a spade on the king of clubs! Once you do this, you cannot be defeated.

Let's say West continues with the ace. You ruff, play a spade to the ace, ruff a spade high, cross to dummy again with a trump and ruff another spade, thus establishing three spade tricks in dummy.

When you get back to dummy with a trump you discard the K-J-4 of hearts on the 10-8-7 of spades and wind up making the contract with an overtrick. This comes to a neat 950 points.

Of course, you wouldn't make the overtrick if West cashed the ace of hearts at trick two, but that would not be a great hardship to bear.

Now let's suppose you ruffed the king of clubs at trick one, which certainly seems to be the natural thing to do. In that event you would finish down one, assuming proper defense. At some later point East would take the lead with a spade and return a heart up and down the chute you'd go.

This hand demonstrates again that one must occasionally make an unusual play in order to keep the dangerous opponent — in this deal, East — out of the lead. It is easy enough to discard a spade on the opening lead; the hard part is to think of it.

Tomorrow: The rebid by responder.

Canadians, Spouses End Sit-in in Embassy

MOSCOW (AP) — Two native-born Canadians and the Soviet wife of one ended the hunger strike at the Canadian embassy Wednesday night and said they felt compelled to leave because "we weren't wanted there."

The four had gone to the embassy Monday to protest against the Soviet authorities' repeated refusals to grant them visas to Canada. They said they chose the embassy for the protest because they would probably be arrested if it were held elsewhere.

The four are Canadian-born Eugene Lenko and Nadia Dent, who are reluctantly considered to the Ukraine with their parents 14 years ago, Lenko's wife Svetlana, and Mrs. Dentenko's husband Anatoly.

"All three days it was a battle with the embassy—step by step reaking us down," Mrs. Dent told reporters. "I mean we had less trouble with the Soviet authorities.

"It was a great disappointment," she added. "We felt we weren't wanted there. When you can't get help from the Canadian embassy, who do you turn to?"

The four were particularly critical of the embassy's charge d'affaires, Pierre Trottier, who is filling in for Ambassador Robert A. D. Ford while Ford is

Papist Jailed

SUDBURY (CP) — An Ohio man convicted of raping a 15 year-old Sudbury district girl last Aug. 22 has been extradited from the United States and will serve a three-year term in Kingston penitentiary.

Originally, Craig David Shaw, 20, of Burton, near Cleveland, was given a suspended sentence when he pleaded guilty before Mr. Justice Patrick Galligan of the Ontario Supreme Court here last Jan. 16.

The offence was committed against a baby-sitter minding Shanower's children while he was vacationing at nearby Kagawong Lake.

Still Talking

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Western Hospital board of trustees has held the door open for another meeting Friday with the Canadian Union of Gerners' Employees, Boyd McAulay, hospital director, said Wednesday night.

Mr. McAulay reported on the labor dispute and firing of 350 workers to the 20 trustees.

Union lawyer George Miller said earlier the talks are "not going particularly well."

Plan Programs

QUEBEC (CP) — Radio-Quebec, set up by the government three years ago to prepare radio and television programming for educational purposes, is to begin producing its own programs for broadcast in late October, a spokesman said Wednesday.

The program will be prepared for broadcasting two hours daily on Montreal's and Quebec City's three major cable television networks.

Judge F. E. Baker added the term to the life sentence he is serving for non-capital murder after he pleaded guilty to being unlawfully at large.

Diet Worried

WINNIPEG (CP) — Former prime minister John Diefenbaker said Wednesday he is concerned at Justice Minister Otto Lang's urging of lowered penalties for possession of hashish and marijuana.

"When, ever before in Canadian history, did the justice department instruct justices not to invoke penalties provided by law? That right should be exercised by the magistrate or judge.

Plans Cruise

VANCOUVER (CP) — A six-day yacht cruise along the British Columbia coast and mountain climbing in the Whistler Mountain area north of Vancouver are among Prime Minister Trudeau's B.C. vacation plans.

The prime minister, along with his wife, Margaret, and son, Justin, arrived by train in Vancouver Tuesday.

Early Christmas

BOSTON, Ont. (CP) — Rev. Gorden Lean said Wednesday Boston's Baptists will be holding their Christmas this Sunday.

The minister said he plans to hold the Christmas service this week to avoid the commercialism usually associated with Christmas.

Two Charged

TORONTO (CP) — Charges have been laid against two striking Ontario Hydro employees in connection with an incident Tuesday at a picket line at the Lakeview generating plant in nearby Mississauga.

Valves Wrong

BARRIE (CP) — A coroner's jury investigating the death of two men in a brewery explosion here March 23 found Wednesday that incorrect setting of valves permitting a buildup of carbon dioxide pressure which caused a vat to explode.

Lay Off 1,800

TORONTO (CP)— A spokesman for Douglas Aircraft Co. of Canada confirmed Wednesday that 1,800 workers at the nearby Malton plant will be laid off over the next 18 months.

McKeough Patches Split on Planning

Ottawa Foiled Bremer

UPPER MARLBORO, Md. (CP) — A spellbound jury heard a defence lawyer read the final pages of Arthur Bremer's diary telling of his futile attempt to assassinate President Nixon in Ottawa last April — a manuscript he hoped would become a best seller.

He couldn't get close enough to Nixon because of tight security or the speed of the president's motor convoy. Later Bremer went home to Milwaukee and got the idea of killing Gov. George Wallace of Alabama after watching a movie.

In the diary, Bremer blamed a small group of anti-Nixon demonstrators—"radical comrades" for the stringent Canadian security which prevented him from using his gun against the president.

"Can't kill Nixie boy if you can't get close to him," Bremer wrote.

He boasted of his own importance and wrote: "This will be among the best reads since the scrolls in those caves."

Asks Municipalities To Stay in Board

By KEN SMITH, Staff Reporter

TRENTON — Councillor Ted Parker has called for restructuring of Quinte Planning Board as a means of bringing, Trenton, Brighton, Brighton and Murray Townships back into QPB and Trenton Mayor Duncan McDonald has announced he is calling a meeting of regional representatives to talk over problems.

The two developments follow receipt yesterday of a letter from Darcy McKeough, the minister of treasury, economics and intergovernmental affairs that instructs the four municipalities to stay in QPB while his staff analyzes implications of their pull-out.

"I can see that it is possible for us to plan for ourselves and still stay within Quinte Planning Board," said the Mayor, still quick to contend a return of Trenton, Brighton, Brighton and Murray Townships to QPB may not be the long-term answer.

However, he says something must be done with the Quinte unit for the time being in view of the McKeough decision.

Mayor McDonald's cautious statement that QPB can work — or at least will have to work for now — comes at a time when one of the town's councillors Ted Parker is advocating a fundamental restructuring of Quinte Planning Area as a solution.

Parker is calling for the division of QPB into two planning committees, one composed of Trenton, Brighton and the townships and perhaps Frankford and the other committee composed of the remaining QPB members. He suggests a joint group of all QPB municipalities to handle clear-cut regional matters.

The councillor, who is president of the Progressive Conservative Quinte Riding Association, indicates he has had telephone conversation with Darcy McKeough and that in this conversation he outlined this proposal informally.

"I have suggested this to the minister," he said.

McKeough's letter has sparked considerable interest here, particularly its references to proposals for "local government reform across the province generally, and east of Metropolitan Toronto in particular."

"By September or October, I should be in a better position to assess the impact of this local government reform / proposals for the area east of Metro as they relate to the future of planning organizations for the Quinte municipalities," McKeough says in his letter.

"Until that final decision can be made, I am sure your council would agree with me that it is in the interests of everyone concerned to continue to participate in the Quinte Planning Board's program."

Mayor McDonald says the minister told planning board officials at a meeting in Toronto three weeks ago the break-away four should stay in QPB for the present.

Bought Markham Land

Bales and 2 Partners May Profit by $177,000

TORONTO (CP) — The Globe and Mail says in a copyright story that Attorney-General Dalton Bales and two partners paid $232,000 for land in Markham Township as a long-term investment while the Ontario cabinet was privately preparing a plan to limit Metropolitan Toronto's population by promoting growth to the east.

The Toronto-centred region plan, a guide to development of 8,600 square miles up to year 2000, was unveiled in May, 1970. Less than eight months after Mr. Bales, then labor minister, purchased the property.

The Globe and Mail quotes Mr. Bales as saying in an interview that he and his partners could make between $77,000 and $177,000 on 99 acres of farmland which the Ontario government is to expropriate for development of a new city near the site of the proposed Pickering airport 30 miles northeast of Toronto.

Mr. Bales said he, Gerardo Fiorini and Armando Beccia purchased the land in their Markham Township, now the town of Markham, in September, 1969, as "an investment for a long-range time," the newspaper says.

But as soon as he became aware last January that the federal government was proposing to build an airport north and east of Metro he informed Premier William Davis by letter that he owned the land.

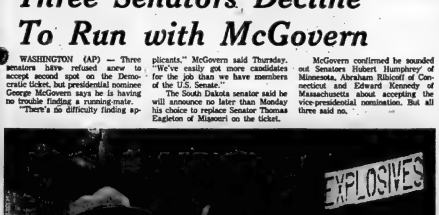
He said he did not participate in any cabinet discussions about the airport site or, after it was settled, the Ontario government proposal to build a nearby city designated as North Pickering, the newspaper says. It was earlier called Cedarwood.

North Pickering, which is to be developed on 23,000 acres of land the province is buying or expropriating, is just south of the proposed airport site and intended to accommodate between 150,000 and 200,000 people in the 10 to 15 years after the airport opens.

Mr. Bales, who said he took no part in the preliminary planning for the airport site, said that after the site and the North Pickering proposal were announced March 2 he received "a routine letter from the task force acquiring the North Pickering site advising that this property would be required.

"I am not interested in selling the land," The Globe and Mail quotes him as replying. "As far as I am concerned, if the province requires the property then it will have to expropriate the property."

He told the newspaper that since his department officials are responsible for expropriations, "extra and special safeguards" will be used in the procedure to expropriate his property. These would involve using an outside agency to ensure "a fair and reasonable price will be paid."



Three Senators Decline To Run with McGovern

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three senators have refused anew to accept second spot on the Democratic ticket, but presidential nominee George McGovern says he is having no trouble finding a running-mate.

"There's no difficulty finding applicants," McGovern said Thursday. "We've easily got more candidates for the job than we have members of the U.S. Senate."

The South Dakota senator said he will announce no later than Monday his choice to replace Senator Thomas Eagleton of Missouri on the ticket.

McGovern confirmed he sounded out Senators Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota, Abraham Ribicoff of Connecticut and Edward Kennedy of Massachusetts about accepting the vice-presidential nomination. But all three said no.

U.S. Senate Ratifies Pact Limiting Missiles

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has ratified a treaty limiting the spread of Soviet and American defensive missiles.

By a vote of 88 to 2 Thursday, the Senate cleared the way for later consideration of the more controversial five-year SALT agreement on offensive nuclear weapons.

The treaty was opposed only by Senators James Allen (Dem., Ala.) and James Buckley, New York Conservative Republican who contended it is immoral because it enlaces the United States to forgo any available means of defending its population against potential nuclear attack.

Signed by President Nixon and Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev in Moscow last May 26, the treaty limits each nation to 200 anti-ballistic missiles and just two sites — one at the capital and one in the interior defending an offensive-missile site.

Heated debate is likely as the Senate moves on to consider the agreement which allows the Soviet Union to surpass the United States in the numbers of land-and sea-based nuclear offensive missiles.

The agreement places ceilings on both nations' nuclear arsenals, and the Nixon administration has contended it will have the effect of breaking the momentum of the recent Soviet arms buildup.

Senator Henry Jackson (Dem. Wash.) challenged that view and announced he will seek to amend the agreement, by adding a warning to the Russians that any move to increase their offensive capability so as to threaten the American nuclear deterrent would be considered a threat to the United States.

Such a threat could cause the United States to pull out of the agreement, he said.

The foreign relations committee chairman, J. W. Fulbright, and other Democrats expressed anxieties and dismay when told the Jackson amendment had the backing of Senate Republican leader Hugh Scott and Nixon administration.

Nixon Gets New Half-million-dollar Armor-plated Limousine

DEARBORN, Mich. (AP) — President Nixon's new $500,000 armor-plated limousine rolls out of a closed shop today and will be trucked to Washington in a closed van with a Secret Service escort.

"It's as strong as a tank: it is so strong that a bomb would only roll it over," the Detroit Free Press quoted one workman as saying.

The taxpayer is only picking up a fraction of the tab for the president's five ton Lincoln, about a $5,000-a-year lease fee. Because of its prestige involved, the manufacturer does not charge the full cost.

"Ford Motor Co. has cloaked the hand-made, option-loaded, black Lincoln Continental in a veil of secrecy.

But The Free Press gave these details:

The 365-horsepower engine displaces 460-cubic inches. The car weighs 10,000 pounds, compared with 5,200 for the usual Continental.

Much of the extra weight comes from the quarter-inch of armor plate on the bottom, roof and doors.

The windows and metal reinforced tires are bullet proof and so is the plexiglass bubble which can be hydraulically raised when the president wants to stand up and wave.

The limousine was three years in the making but never was near an assembly line. It was hand-crafted

The car has hand-bars for Secret Service agents. Running boards fold out from the fenders.

"It has power everything," said one worker, as well as air conditioning, two-way radio, telephone, stereo equipment for the front and rear and black leather upholstery.

Accident Claims Second Life

KINGSTON (Staff) — Mrs. Eva Elizabeth Rosser, 58, of Renfrew, died at Kingston General Hospital Thursday, as the result of multiple injuries sustained in a car-truck collision which claimed the life of her husband Albert William Button, 59. Renfrew municipal owner and former councillor.

The collision occurred on Highway 37, approximately 15 miles north of Belleville, at the Plainfield bypass.

Four Hurt

Four Quinte area residents were injured in a two-car collision at the intersection of Dundas Street West and Coleman Street at 9.30 p.m. yesterday.

City police report a car driven by Vincent G. Prower of 153 Foster Avenue, was involved in a collision with a second car, operated by Isidore Urena Bowler, of 89 Heber Street, Trenton.

Both Mr. Prower and his 15-year-old son Robert, sustained minor injuries. Mrs. Bowler and her passenger, Noreen Golleher of 105 Ontario Street, Trenton were also injured. None were admitted to hospital.

Rhode Island Reds at Fair

The International Rhode Island Red Association will hold a convention in conjunction with the Quinte Exhibition, Aug. 9-13.

Harold Caldwell of Consecon, Chairman of the fair's poultry committee, says he does not look for a large turnout although visitors from across the continent will bring some of the finest birds this area has seen.

Mr. Caldwell says many reds are now in moult and do not reach their prime until winter.

Planning Task Forces Present Ideas

The topic of housing in Belleville, heavily interspersed with recommendations, on the apartment situation, plus parkland use throughout the city, formed a major portion of brief's presented by four area task forces at Quinte Planning Board last night.

Their presentations were the culmination of two months of public meetings and strings of tentative proposals for Belleville's official plan.

Some of the major recommendations call for construction of high-rise apartments in the Hillcrest area; note growth in Thurlow Township and insufficient downtown parking; comment on Belleville industrial growth, new arterial routes into the city, sewers, railway lines and traffic and community growth in general.

Not this is the tremendous response to the idea of going to citizens at the early stages of the plan," Coleen Sinn, Hubicki, senior planner Roger Brunet said following the meeting.

He recommended public participation should propose names for the four areas of the city — the names which could be incorporated into the official plan for future use.

Mr. Trucsmer said the task forces and public in general, will continue to play an active role right up until such time as the final draft is tabled. At the past, by law, it is for 1973 as the earliest date for completion. The time which progress is right on schedule. A charge of possession of stolen goods against Paul Douglas Clapper of Belleville was dismissed in provincial court Thursday.

Clapper told Judge John L. Clendenning the wooden bench he was carrying when halted by city police constable Patrick O'Donnell was one he was picked up by him on a sidewalk on Octavia Street.

On July 5, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Walmsley reported the bench, worth less than $5, missing from their 84 Catharine Street home.

Crown attorney John Pringle said there was no proof that Clapper had taken possession of the bench illegally.

Man Cut

A Front Street resident was injured early this morning, when he was cut by breaking glass after two persons threw a brick through the front window of Jim's Pizzeria at 326 Front Street.

City police report Nick Syntetos of 326 Front received small cuts. Two suspects escaped on foot down a nearby alley after the 2.55 a.m. incident.

Task Forces Present Ideas

This task force has also suggested lands south of Dundas, where Union Cemetery is located, should be retained as parkland and the city should prevent further industrial expansion in this area."

Ald. Arnold Derry, Vice-chairman of the QPB, wanted to know if, and when, the 10 tracks of sewers removed would this have any bearing on acceptance of the Zoner Weed plans as they now stand.

Mr. William Hamilton of Task Force A indicated the land taken up by the tracks forms a natural division and the committee decision would remain the same.

One other recommendation which met with queries, dealt with the area around Great St. James Street, along the City Hall line. The brief recommends the area to be commercial, rather than industrial.

Ald. Corke said he felt this would be a waste of a 10 acre industrial site which could be ideal for a factory and would retail for approximately $35-

Mrs. Schibeich replied the study concern was proximity of single family residences to this land.

Roger Porter, president of the Belleville Downtown Association, and chairman of the downtown business and commercial task force, said its major recommendation, on behalf of Pinnacle Street merchants, calls for retention of that street as two lane one-way traffic, and the addition of two-hour, two-way street de-void of parking meters.

He said businessmen were greatly concerned they would suffer financially, if the metters were removed. However, the downtown association believes if the city were to provide adequate parking facilities nearby, this problem might not arise.

Mr. Porter also said downtown merchants would welcome development of parkettes in any vacant lots, until such time as new buildings could be erected.

Alderman Orr said there were no alternatives to the two-way, four lane concept for Pinnacle Street, if downtown traffic problems were to be cleared up.

Mr. Porter said the association as a whole was not opposed to this idea, but added he was speaking on behalf of those Pinnacle merchants. He did suggest stopping laces would help.

McKeough Patches Split

The mayor says he "hasn't a clue" about the nature of these changes and Parker says he doesn't either. However, the councillor has speculated that the date for 1973 as the earliest date for completion of the plan, with progress is right on schedule.

He says it may be that Port Hope - Cobourg will receive some news concerning provincial development plans that will make that municipality an easterly growth center for the Toronto region.

McKeough says his pending reforms will likely not have a direct effect on those region but states may have implications that deserve serious consideration.

"The minister's comments make me think ... we must to take a good look at this," says Parker, adding, "also the pull out of Trenton, Brighton, and the townships from QPB) don't have a good look at all."

The councillor had been against Trenton's withdrawal from the planning board this spring because he felt the matter deserved thorough investigation.

"I am biased but I think the minister has done the right thing." Parker commented today.

He says the problems the break-away four have had with QPB have been related to "the question of control of finance" and not with the board's competence, particularly not with the competence of QPB professional staff.

Despite the bid to get out of the board, he still pays into its participation fee to the regional board (until the end of 1973) and the specific services may be handled by these municipalities which officially constitute the planning board can remain a viable entity.

The only these (breakaway) municipalities have left is a way to continuation of the board and I hope their differences can be aired."

He said this "would be for the betterment of the whole area. The staff and board are ready to continue helping any and all municipalities in the area."

Walk Scarecrow, Walk!

Bedlam breaks loose regularly for the cast of Youbetcha Theatre's production of "Scarecrow" as hordes of young people cluster in the park to help out where ever they can. The play, which seeks child participation, involves the life of a scarecrow played by Holly Goslin. She is shunned by her owner after the crows, (children) eat his corn crop made up of more children. The spirit of nature grants a wish to the scarecrow to become a man and the children pitch in to teach him how to walk. An exhausting performance to 100 children at the East Hill Playground, Miss Goslin, after the show, fell asleep in the back of the company van, was rewakened, made up removed and sent home to prepare for her opening night with Theatre August.

Two-week Quinte Death Toll 16

FOXBORO (Staff) — A two-vehicle collision at the junction of Highway 62 and 14 early Thursday afternoon claimed the life of the 18th person to die in Quinte-area highway or road mishaps in the past two weeks.

Dead is Mrs. Hazel Bain of Hamilton, driver of a 1967 Austin Mini which provincial police report came in collision with a panel truck driven by Gino Donatucci, of 15 Harris Street, Belleville.

Coroner Dr. W. F. Bates pronounced her dead on arrival at Belleville General Hospital. Mr. Donatucci was unhurt in the accident.

Both were sole occupants of their vehicles.

Investigating Constable Donald Bowry reports the Bain car was heading north on Highway 14, and made a left turn at the junction of 62, heading for the Stirling area, when the collision with the southbound Donatucci truck occured.

Where police arrived, they found the body of Mrs. Bain lying on grass at the edge of the road. An unidentified person removed her from the wreckage of her small car. It was a total wreck.

Following is a round-up of area deaths since July 21, in motor vehicle or boating mishaps.

— July 21 . . . Mrs. Lily Petrie, 86, of 403 Coleman Street, Belleville, died in a two-car crash on Highway 62, near the hamlet of Ivanhoe.

— July 21 . . . Nancy Wilson, 21, of Montreal, was thrown from her car which rolled over on Highway 401 at the Glen Miller interchange.

— July 22. . . . Sylvester John Trumble, 60, of Bibi, Picton, drowned in West Lake while fishing there. He was a non-swimmer.

— July 23 . . . Keith Bernard Dery, 17, of Thomasburg was drowned when he got caught in an undertow near the grist mill dam at Chisholm's Mills, while swimming with friends.

— July 23 . . . Mrs. Martin (Penny) Geertsma, 28, mother of five children, drowned while swimming off the main dock at the Tweed Park on Stoco Lake.

— July 26 . . . Sylvia Marie Sagriff, 5, of 3 Chatham St., Kingston, died in the swiftly flowing waters of the Napanee River at Springside Park.

— July 29 . . . Mrs. Muriel David Bennett, 6, of 236-B Pine St., drowned in East Lake when she slipped from a foam float at Cove Beach.

— July 29. . . A two-car collision claimed the life of three men residents. Simeon Scripture, 78, of Victoria Street, Colborne, his passenger Jennie Mae Benedict, 85, of Brighton, and Eadie Brinklow, 54 of Colborne, a passenger in a second vehicle were the victims of this accident which occurred at the junction of county road 1 and Highway 30 near Consecon.

— July 31 . . . William Lavern Smith (William Lavern Baker) 27, of 204 Station St., died when the stolen car he was driving plunged off Highway 14, south of Stirling as he attempted to elude provincial police.

— August 3 . . . Charles Macaldie, 34, and his wife, Colleen, 38, of Seagrave, Ont., parents of eight children, died when their car collided with a tractor-trailer near Maynooth.

— August 4 . . . The body of Gaston Bruno Letourneau, 17, of 205 King Street, Belleville, was recovered from Mazinaw Lake at Bon Echo beach. Further details are not been released pending investigation.

— August 3 . . . Albert William Watson, 20, motel owner and former councillor at Renfrew, died when his car came in collision with a truck on Highway 37, near the Plainfield bypass.

— August 3 . . . Mrs. Eva Elizabeth Buston, 58, of Renfrew, died at Kingston General Hospital as the result of the same August 2 accident which claimed the life of her husband.

Cuba on CUSO List

HAVANA (CP) — At annual meetings of Canadian University Service Overseas this perennial complaint, most often coming from students oriented towards the left politically, was that CUSO was not in Cuba.

CUSO now is in Cuba with a type of programme that is totally new for the private foreign assistance organization.

CUSO's presence in Cuba has been different from the beginning. Joe Vise, co-ordinator here for the programme, said in an interview on the terrace of his eighth-floor apartment overlooking the sea-wall that fronts the old Atlantic quarter of Havana.

The usual pattern has been for CUSO to study a country and make the initial contact but Vise said CUSO had done less in Latin America than in other areas.

"Canada has been behind with respect to Latin America and CUSO probably reflected this."

The initial inquiries were made by the Cubans in 1969, at a time when the Canadian government was displaying an increased interest in Canada. In approaching CUSO, the Cubans had specific objectives.

"They wanted to fill jobs where there was no chance that the work could be done by a Cuban.

In many cases, this meant teachers in isolated locations.

Most other CUSO programs provide people with skills— such as engineers, magineers— who do field work and train a two-year counterpart.

The Cubans wanted top-level professionals to do specific tasks which may involve a few weeks work or a year or two.

Vise, 39, arrived in late 1970. He has a PhD from Columbia University of New York, and after completing the doctoral program in 1963 he worked for two years in an Indian village in Guatemala doing basic community work. Before joining CUSO he taught engineering physics for four years at Nairobi, Kenya.

The first teacher arrived in December and the goal for the program is to have about 75 Canadians work in Cuba this year. There has been no decision about continuing the program and that decision will not be made until the Cuban and CUSO evaluate this year's results.

The Cuban request reflected a desire to establish programs which Cubans were capable of running. They wanted people to establish or review and revise courses and people to write textbooks. There were some requests for people to do research.

The education program under the Castro government has placed heavy emphasis on training in technological skills. Central University at Santa Clara has an enrolment of about 4,000 and only 111 are in the humanities.

Many of the degree programs were established after the revolution that brought Fidel Castro to power in 1959 in an several of these programs most of the teachers are recent university graduates.

The textbooks the Cubans wanted primarily were for courses to train middle level technicians. Vise said the types of textbooks which the Cubans could adapt to their needs often are not suitable for the skill levels Cuba needs. For example, these would be for courses for laboratory technicians or hospital orderlies. Frequently these people had broader personal abilities because of shortages of trained professionals. Sometimes the needs were for skills that were learned on the job in advanced medical societies.

There was a heavy emphasis on agriculture, including forestry, and animal sciences in the Cuban requests.

An unexpected request, Vise said, was for a swimming instructor. The country program is "probably one of the best organized things in Cuba." Cuba has done well recently in team sports—Cuba was second to the United States at the Pan-American Games and well ahead of Canada and the Latin American countries. Cuban athletes have not done as well in individual sports.

Part of the program involves Canadian professionals working for a year in Cuba. A year is a long enough time period for a university professor because a sabbatical leave is for a year.

Vise said one of the attractions of Cuba for Canadian professors is that it has tropical conditions for research which do not exist in Canada and state control of the economy allows for large research projects in any field.

CUSO-program courses are given in English and Vise said this has not created many problems. English is a requirement in Cuban secondary schools and English or Russian is required at the university level. One of the Canadians take a 10-week course in Spanish at Guantanamo, Mexico, before going to Cuba.

Another part of CUSO's work here involves the engineering technology faculty at the University of Oriente. The university has just begun a doctoral program in this faculty and 29 Canadian professors are scheduled to give a concentrated intensive course to Cuban professors to help establish the program.

Three Plays Are All Winners

Three smash productions in one evening is a quick change of pace for summer, and that is what the August offered its audience last night at the Pinnacle Playhouse.

One after another, The Flattering Word, by George Kelly, directed by Jennifer Ross; The Man With A Flower In His Mouth by Luigi Pirandello, directed by Gentles and Sarah and the Sax by Lewis Carlino and directed by Steve Hunter, each powerful in its own right, were executed adeptly.

An encouraging audience watched the three, 45-minute productions.

The Flattering Word, a light sort of comedy opens the show.

The five-member cast, the largest cast of the three plays, depicted the opposition of the church against theatre while also showing a remarkable weakness for the compliment of "you should be on stage."

Charles Smith portrays the minister in this play, his wife played by Holly Goslin. The actor who delivers the flattering word is done by Bryan Bray.

After the light, and mostly comical opener, the two actor production The Man With The Flower In His Mouth cause on like "gang-busters".

The man, played by Milton McCrystal, then begins his exercise of trying to tell the first man what to look for in life.

"Forget the trivialities."

The flower is cancer, Milton has been bitten and faces death soon.

His final passage after intimidating the first man for hours: "On your way home count the blades in the first tuft of grass you see. That's how many days I have to live. Do me a favor, find a large tuft."

Strong performances in all, the evening was stolen by a little Jewish lady, who when she perched on the park bench could not touch the floor with her feet.

Played by Sheila Jourard, Sarah passes each Thursday going downtown to her favorite butcher to pick up the pulmi that he always orders for her.

She lives the fantasy that her son, who died in Korea, is alive and she prepares him a great supper of boiled pulmi each Friday.

Stewart Arnott plays the tuned in, turned on, sax blowing, jazz hippy.

They come to life, they enchant the audience and soon both people find themselves.

Vietnamese Soldiers Must Live Off Land

NHI BINH, Vietnam (AP) — At noon milliaman Tran Van Cay puts down his rifle and picks up his fishing pole. When your salary doesn't cover your groceries, fish is more important than war.

As many as 30 per cent of South Vietnam's million-plus full-time men at arms have Cay's problem. Some are a little better off, many more worse.

Even a recent pay increase doesn't offset the climbing cost of food for hundreds of thousands of regular and regional soldiers, and 250,000 Popular Force militiamen like Cay who are supposed to make the countryside safe for nation-building.

Cay is lucky. In his fertile Mekong Delta district, 53 miles southwest of Saigon, he can amble to a bunker top at his tiny outpost, lean his long bamboo pool over the barbed wire and cadge the bomb-size fish that abound in every ditch.

Elsewhere, where the land is less rich and pacification less advanced, it is harder to supplement rations. There are reports of soldiers marauding, deserting and profiteering—sleeping on duty because they are worn out from moonlight jobs.

Tran Van An, a National Assembly deputy and former army officer, claims the Saigon regime's new austerity program has put 800,000 troops in a financial-nutritional bind that could be disastrous for Vietnamization. He points to pay increases of 50 to 200 per cent in the Vietnamese military commissary system.

The controversial price increases are deliberate.

The United States, which once showered South Vietnam with guns and butter in vast quantities, has cut back. The Americans have told the Vietnamese in effect that besides Vietnamizing the war they are going to have to Vietnamize the budget.

This is not easy in a nation that has one of 18 inhabitants in military uniform and faces an unrelieved prospect of war. American officials say it will be impossible unless some accepted tastes for imported items are forgotten.

Currency supports once let the Vietnamese commissary system buy condensed milk from Singapore and cooking oil from the U.S. for about one-quarter of their real value. Those days are gone, they say with.

Consequently, the commissary price of oil has gone from 65 Vietnamese piastres to 150 since the economic reform program was announced Nov. 15. Milk has risen from 27 piastres to 85 per can.

The monthly commissary ration for a Vietnamese soldier with a wife and three children has risen in price from about $9.50 to $13.50.

A recent round of pay increases gave combat troops a boost of more than $10 a month, but some 84 per cent of regulars and militiamen got only $3. The raise gives a non-combat Vietnamese army private with four dependents a monthly income of $21.50.

For his $13.50 ration he gets 3½ pints of condensed milk, two quarts of cooking oil, nine pounds of sugar, 3½ pounds of canned meat and fish, 132 pounds of rice and eight packs of cigarettes.

A Vietnamese commissary officer estimates that takes care of only about 20 per cent of the family's monthly requirements.

Dock Surveyed By Engineer

Rehabilitation of Belleville Harbor Commission facilities in the city's waterfront area may have taken a definite step toward realization yesterday.

Dock facilities on both sides of the harbor area were surveyed by a department of public works engineer, a possible preliminary to future action.

A more definite outcome of the on-the-dock survey involves the dock at the south end of Victoria Park near the Bay, of Quinte Yacht Club.

Harbor Master Don Barrett who conducted public works engineer C. P. Boyce on a tour of commission facilities, said he now is "hopeful" work may start in the fall on reconstruction of the Victoria Park installation.

The aging structure, heavily used in summer by boating tourists, has needed repeated patching to its perforated wooden decking.

A fall start on its rehabilitation would be timed with the end of the boating season and cause no inconvenience to visiting boatowners, he said.

Until then, a close watch will be kept to see there is no weakening of dock planes and further patching will be done if necessary until such time as the construction project gets under way.

Measurements and depth soundings were taken around the dock by Mr. Boyce who will later file his recommendations to the department, said the harbor commissioner.

"I expect to hear the results (from federal authorities) very shortly," added Mr. Barrett.

The engineer also viewed Commission dock facilities in the South Front St. area where erosion is posing a problem.

Community Education

The meeting here on the utilization of educational facilities provided another useful forum for the airing of problems and discussion of priorities.

The high degree of interest in the general educational picture was reflected by an attendance of about 70 people and they learned from the chairman of the provincial committee studying the utilization theme, Dr. Charles McIlveen, that Belleville's record is the second best he has seen so far.

And at that Dr. McIlveen may be prejudiced! He is PC member for Oshawa and he regards that city's program is the best.

Perhaps it is, though. For one thing Oshawa probably has more money to spare than some, being the home of General Motors of Canada and other industries. But Dr. McIlveen admits money is a general barrier in the implementation of extra-curricular school use.

Prince Edward County for instance probably feels the pinch more acutely than most, being a region of scant population and few major industries. As county board of education chairman James Plomer put it: "Boards face growing problems with increased maintenance costs due to community use of schools."

He wanted to know what were the principles education of youngsters, night school, or recreational use of schools?

Those are the sort of questions which must be answered if the economics of widespread school utilization are not to get out of hand. For all that, we should think that community use of schools is here to stay; its advantages are many and it occupies many of our young people, as we pointed out the other day.

There are other problems at the local level and the meeting heard about them — differences for example in the salary schedule for night school teachers at Loyalist community college and those employed by Prince Edward County board, and duplication of services already supplied by commercial business colleges. However, Loyalist dean of faculty Paul King says the college has already undertaken a "total immersion" courses to the Ontario Business College here and the phasing out of Loyalist's one-year commercial course is being considered. Mr. Plomer pleased with the clarification of the situation between community colleges and local education boards. He believes the province should take steps to achieve closer co-ordination in this sphere.

Mohawk Centre

We are glad to see the excellent progress that has been made toward building the new community centre on the Tyendinaga Reserve. It replaces the one structure destroyed by fire a year ago this month and according to Chief Earl Hill should be ready for an official opening in the next two months and established on Pinnacle Street on Mohawk Day on September 16. Lack of such a building would be a serious blow to the people of the reserve, but such a situation has not been allowed to develop further, the Indian community set to work with a will and with government and community backing raised some $25,000 for the new centre. Some funds are still required to complete the building, but the Mohawks are confident this will be forthcoming. All in all it is a fine achievement.

New Developments

Development of two downtown sites which have been lying vacant on the one hand and derelict on the other is now in the planning stage. We refer to the projected office block to be erected on Pinnacle Street just across from Bell Telephone, and conversion of the former supermarket on Victoria Avenue, just up from Front, to use as a provincial court.

These are interesting prospects from a variety of standpoints. They will not only fill a need for office and courthouse space but when completed — new building and existing one converted — should enhance the aesthetic qualities of the downtown area.

Pedestrian Needs

It is a year or more since we urged something be done to identify more clearly the pedestrian crosswalk at Loblaws supermarket on Pinnacle Street. An accident the other day, in which an elderly woman was injured, makes this now a matter of urgency. At the moment the crossing leaves too much to chance and to the whim of drivers, while visiting drivers hardly know it exists.

Parliament Could Stay Recessed for Six Months

By FARMER TISSINTON
From The Intelligencer's
Ottawa Bureau

Parliament adjourned for its summer recess July 7. Under present circumstances and rules, there is a possibility that it may not meet again for a full six months, until early January, 1973.

Officially, it has been adjourned until Sept. 28. But the betting here is that the 29th Parliament will not again see the light of day and the general election will be called in August for a date in October, probably Oct. 22.

If this prediction is even reasonably accurate, it will mean that by the time the election writs are relured, the present or new prime minister has formed his cabinet, the cabinet has planned legislation and discussed priorities, and by the time the speech from the throne has been written, it will be early December. At this juncture, it may be reasoned that there is little point calling the members into session for a couple of weeks when the Christmas recess is so near. In that event, an early January start for Canada's 30th Parliament might have more sense—thus the lapse of six months.

The Commons could be called back in early December solely for the opening ceremonies and the speech and debate on the speech from the throne, and then recess for Christmas. This would enable the January gap down to serious business early in the new year.

There is something wrong with a system that allows even the possibility of a six-month hiatus in the business of the country when there is so much business waiting for attention. A delay of this, or even shorter, duration not only stalls legislative action but it puts some committees in an almost impossible position. The committee on privileges and elections, for one, would find its work of examining the annual auditor general's report thrown badly off schedule.

Part of the reason for the situation lies with the arbitrary powers that have been given to the prime minister under the British North America Act, as to when general elections are to be held. The time-table is extremely flexible and every prime minister has utilized this fact in his own party's best advantage—going to the country when the prospects look the most promising.

For a number of sessions, several MPs have put private members' bills on the order paper urging an amendment to the BNA Act which would reduce or eliminate this arbitrary time-setting. They would put Canada on the same system as the United States where elections are held on specific dates every four years. In the Canadian situation, the only deviation from a pre-determined four-year term would come in the event of the defeat of the government on a want-of-confidence vote.

The problem in implementing a change of this sort—one that would take the work of Parliament more orderly and eliminate the election-date guessing game—is similar to inducing the Senate to vote itself out of existence. The party in power is naturally reluctant to vote for any measure that trims the authority of its leader to make a decision most likely to be in its favor.

Another part of the problem involves the loose time-table now in vogue for handling Commons' business. This applies particularly to the dates of adjournment for each session and the length of Christmas, January and summer recesses. If the government had really wanted to get its family income security and its foreign investment legislation passed, why didn't it keep Parliament operating for a week or more longer. As far as FISP is concerned, there surely would have been one day in the following week or two when Paul Hellyer would not have been in his commons' seat.

Tough Legislation to Protect Our Coastline

By JOHN HARBRON
Foreign Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Service

Canada's Arctic Waters Pollution Prevention Act, introduced into Parliament in the summer of 1970, now is law. It is basically an anti-pollution measure to protect our Arctic waters from some future ravage by a super-tanker spilling oil into northern waters.

But its punitive clauses, large fines for ocean spills and Arctic waters surveillance, definitely point to a new and tougher direction for future Canadian foreign policy.

In the same month Admiral Sergei Gorshkov, Soviet naval commander-in-chief, boasts no enemy warship is now safe from his huge fleet. Canada is beginning to replace its traditional anti-submarine surveillance role for a legislative one to protect the Canadian ocean environment.

The traditional ASW, (anti-Submarine Warfare) role will, of course, continue for some time, implemented by our modernized destroyer escorts and the four super ASW destroyer helicopters to be commissioned this year and in early 1973.

But in the very long run, say by 1980, and at such increasingly-important maritime meetings as the 1973 International Law of the Sea Conference, Canadian foreign policy will be concerned almost not at all with ASW warfare, but almost entirely with anti-pollution warfare in the oceans of the world.

And Canada, we must remember, is one of the world's few three-ocean countries.

This shift from a naval to an environmental surveillance of Canadian oceans will continue even if the Trudeau Liberals which instituted it, are overthrown by a new Conservative government.

During Mr. Diefenbaker's years in power (1957-1963), he was Alvin Hamilton, as former northern affairs minister, was still a powerful Tory, who made public statements about Canadian Arctic waters' Sovereignty.

These have been used as part of the justification for Prime Minister Trudeau's Arctic policy as defined by his legal aide, Dr. Ivan Head, a former international law professor who developed the new Arctic anti-pollution act.

If the act is ever implemented, it won't be against the traditional Russian adversary at sea, but against a friendly Western maritime power using super tankers to carry oil through the Northwest Passage. Or more succinctly against the United States.

At present, it seems unlikely huge quantities of either Alaskan or newly-found Canadian Arctic oil are going to move through the Arctic.

Some of it will go overland, via Mackenzie River oil pipeline about to be built. And U.S. Alaskan oil will go via a West coast supertanker route, against which both the prime minister and Mitchell Sharp, secretary of state for foreign affairs, have officially protested.

The U.S. recognizes our Northwest Passage as international waters. The Trudeau government has shrewdly not challenged this directly. However, the new antipollution bill in effect declares our sovereignty over the passage since its clauses apply to all waters above the 60th parallel and within 100 miles of any Canadian shoreline.

This is why juridical decisions by, Ottawa, rather than an increase in naval resources which we cannot afford against any vast seapower as the Russians now muster in the Atlantic and Pacific, will be a measure of our future foreign policy.

Darcy McKeough Man in A Hot Seat

By DON O'HEARN
From The Intelligencer's
Queen's Park Bureau

The most controversial figure in this government is Darcy McKeough, treasurer and minister of intergovernmental affairs.

As the most popular target for abuse Darcy winds up hands down—or fanny up.

Any Liberal or NDPer not mad at anything else at a moment can always find an excuse to try and throw a rock or take a boot to the treasurer.

The young minister from Chatham has been called arrogant, autocratic, power-hungry, callous, undemocratic, pig-headed and bullheaded so many times now that even he himself at times must wonder if he really all that bad.

It is one of the perversities of politics that the more a man does the more trouble he can be in.

And there has seldom been a better illustration of this here than the case of Darcy.

For the reason the treasurer is such an open target is essentially that he is doing things.

He is doing things that should have been done a long time ago. And he is doing them forcefully, because that is the only way they can be done. Because it was lack of force in the past that made them necessary to be done.

The key thing that McKeough is doing is reorganizing local government throughout the province.

He is leading it into larger units, cutting down on the number of municipalities and steering (or pushing) it into a more efficient structure.

There are those, of course, who say this isn't needed. And particularly these his methods aren't needed.

But it is needed. And the methods are needed.

Aside from such mechanical needs of more efficient use of fire and police forces and road building at the local level there has been a great underlying need in Ontario for good planning.

The need has been there for years. In fact when former Premier Frost returned from the coronation in the early 50s he remarked on this.

And he promised it. But we never got it. And we didn't get it during the era of John Robarts.

We didn't get it because of a reluctance to use any force. To put any real pressure on the municipalities.

Now McKeough is doing this.

And when you read that somebody has taken a whack at him and somebody else has tried to back him it is well to remember it.

He is doing. And doers leave themselves open for whacks. Personally I respect him.

McGovern Treads A Rocky Path

By PETER BUCKLEY

WASHINGTON (CP) — George McGovern's fond hope that the United States election campaign can get down to issues now, and get away from personalities, may prove forlorn.

McGovern's own personality seems certain to get some added scrutiny because of the way he has handled the cliff-hanging 18-day career of Senator Thomas Eagleton as vice-presidential candidate for the Democratic party.

To many observers here, Senator McGovern seemed to make the worst of a bad situation, by first backing Eagleton "1,000 per cent" and then steadily backing away from the uproar caused by Eagleton's belated disclosure that he had a history of mental illness.

McGovern's apparent inability to keep his own staff under rigid control has raised questions about the firmness of his leadership. The curious disparities between McGovern's utterances to Eagleton and his comments to reporters have also raised eyebrows.

Even the final scene Monday night in the Senate caucus room, seemed to lack that total candor which McGovern wants to be the hallmark of his campaign, with both men saying Eagleton's withdrawal was a "joint agreement" when all the world knew by then that Eagleton desperately wanted to stay on.

McGovern supporters here feel their candidate was placed in an impossible situation—doomed for ruthlessness if he cut Eagleton off after last Tuesday's revelations, and doomed for indecision if he waited to see how the public reacted to the news.

However, the criticism of McGovern has centred more on the way he and his staff kept leaking hints to the press that they would like Eagleton to withdraw, while giving the impression that there was not enough encouragement to that it made withdrawal ever more difficult.

Ulster Intransigence

Peterborough Examiner

Many people still refer to the Irish problem in Northern Ireland as a religion problem, a conflict between Roman Catholics and Protestants.

True, religious differences and political economic problems stemming from the religious differences started the murderous snowball that has since then become a deadly avalanche.

It's also true that the outlawed Irish Republican Army (IRA) at one time had been a legitimate weapon of the Irish cause — legitimate in the sense that its main aim was to achieve equality for the Irish.

Events of the past few months have proved that some segments of the IRA have little to do with Irish causes; the slaughter these people have been committing in Northern Ireland in the name of freedom and equality defies the imagination and logic and they have nothing to do with Ireland.

A band of terrorists have completely taken over and is maintaining the terror in order to keep the Irish from settling their differences.

The Scotsman

The Protestants have shown great forbearance while the new IRA have not had a monopoly of violence. It is understandable that they should feel uneasy and insecure, but the UDA would do great harm to their cause if they resorted to forceful and provocative steps. . .They would lose sympathy if they plunged the province again into the misery from which it has just emerged, or if they came into conflict with the forces of the crown which they profess such devoted loyalty."

The Babington Plot by Catholics to kill Queen Elizabeth I was detected 386 years ago today—in 1586. Anthony Babington, member of Mary, Queen of Scots, planned to kill Elizabeth and her ministers and assume power with the aid of English Catholics and Spanish soldiers. The plot was discovered when letters to Mary were intercepted and one plotter confessed. Babington and six others were executed for high treason.

Second Inquest On Indian's Death Proves Indecisive

KAMLOOPS, B.C. (CP) — A second coroner's inquest into the death last Nov. 30 of Chilcotin Indian Fred Quilt has failed to resolve the conflicting versions of how the 45-year-old man died.

The jury found Thursday that Quilt died following an injury he received at a time he was being handled by two RCMP constables. It was unable to say how he received the injury.

The jury returned an open verdict. It did not attribute to anyone the blame for Quilt's death in hospital two days after the incident involving the RCMP constables.

His death, said the jury, was from "unnatural causes."

"We find the death was caused by general peritonitis of the abdomen over a 48-hour period caused by a perforation of the small bowel, . . ." the jury ruled.

"The injury was sustained between the time that Mr. Quilt was removed from the Quilt vehicle and assisted to the police vehicle (on the Chilcotin Road on Nov. 28, 1971."

The verdict also said Quilt's failure to avail himself of ambulance service and medical attention and his activities during the 48 hours that followed the incident were contributing factors in his death."

The first inquest into Quilt's death was held in Williams Lake in January. It proceedings and findings were quashed by the B.C. Supreme Court on grounds that there was an association between two of the jurors and the RCMP.

The first verdict knolved perforation of any kidney.

The second inquest jury heard almost three weeks of testimony and much of it conflicted. Members of the Quilt family testified that Quilt was taken from the family council and jumped on by an RCMP officer.

The two policemen involved denied this and claimed that Quilt fell to the frozen ground twice while being escorted to their police cruiser. The jury also heard testimony that the entire family had been drinking heavily.

Stanbury Defends Policies

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Critics of the federal government have been able to play on prejudices "that really don't exist" because the government has not completed its task of efforts to satisfy the people of Quebec, the president of the Liberal Federation of Canada said Thursday.

Senator Richard J. Stanbury said the critics, who he did not identify, create a suspicion of Quebec in the rest of Canada.

"We've let them (the critics) get away with this," Senator Stanbury said during a stopover here as part of a two-day tour of southwestern Ontario.

"Mr. Trudeau isn't trying to shove French down anyone's throat. It's just he's trying to ensure anyone's right of access to the government when you live in an area where there's a substantial language group."

He said the Liberal party will have to correct the situation in the next election.

Toronto Climbers Killed

MICA CREEK, B.C. (CP) — The bodies of two Toronto men were recovered Thursday from Geneveva Icefield where they were killed on a climbing expedition.

Police said the two, whose names were not released, were traversing a narrow ledge when overhanging ice above them gave way and knocked them over the ledge.

The men were part of a group of about 35 members of the Alpine Club of Canada, climbing the rugged mountain area of southern British Columbia near the Alberta border.

The bodies were brought out by helicopter after police received word of the accident through a base operator.

Mountie Charged In Scare

RICHMOND, B.C. (CP) — Two personnel, one of them an RCMP corporal, are to appear in court Aug. 24 to face charges of mischief arising from two separate bomb scares on a Pacific Western Airlines plane June 9.

RCMP Cpl. James D. Clavelle, 32, of Kelowna, will be summoned to appear in an incident in which a passenger on a flight to Kelowna from Vancouver told a stewardess he had a bomb. The passenger was removed from the plane before it left Vancouver International Airport.

Clarence A. Dobko, 31, of Surrey, was charged after a man claimed to have a bomb on the same PWA plane making the return trip from Kelowna.

No bombs were found in either case.

Tired Men Should Go --Stanfield

NIAGARA FALLS (CP) — Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield said Thursday the time has come to replace the "tired and cynical men who are now in power."

"They have had their chance. And they have failed."

Mr. Stanfield said Canadians deserve the reality of a just society, not just the Liberal slogan of the 1968 election that took them to power.

The Liberals had led the country to inflation and unemployment.

The solution he proposed was the challenge "to work out together a national development strategy for Canada."

The speech, text of which was given to reporters before delivery, was part of a six-day tour of Ontario — what Mr. Stanfield calls a pre campaign.

The Conservative leader said the development strategy which he has urged for months would involve federal initiative in getting the public involved in setting economic and social goals.

It would not mean "telling the government bureaucracy to come out with a five-year plan to be imposed on the country from above."

Mr. Stanfield did not suggest what the details of such a strategy might be. He has said before that he would not do so until he becomes prime minister.

Lewis Says Housing Report Destroyed

OTTAWA (CP) — New Democratic Party Leader David Lewis said today 3,000 copies of a low-income housing report were destroyed on orders from Urban Affairs Minister Ron Basford because of information that would be embarrassing to the government.

Spokesmen for both Mr. Basford and Central Mortgage and Housing Corp. refused to say what charge was unfounded as far as they knew.

Mr. Lewis, who made the allegation in a news release, said the government released only the 27-page introduction to the report and withheld the remainder.

He said the report, commissioned by CMHC and submitted to the government in April, was approximately 200 pages in length and included "a synthesis and distillation" of six background reports.

Three thousand copies of the full report were printed, he said.

"These were recalled and shredded on the orders of Urban Affairs Minister Ron Basford at a cost to the taxpayer of nearly $20,000."

Native Friendship Centres Will Close Day in Protest

WINNIPEG (CP) — Canada's 40 native friendship centres will close their doors from 8 hours Aug. 9 to protest a delay in distributing funds from a $23-million federal aid program.

Roger Obonsawin of Red Lake, Ont., president of the National Association of Friendship Centres, told a news conference Thursday delays in implementing the program "are forcing us into bankruptcy."

The federal program to assist the friendship centres, which are aimed at helping Indian, Metis and Eskimo people adjust to urban life, was announced in June by State Secretary Gerard Pelletier.

Mr. Obonsawin said while all centres will close for the day Wednesday many of them will have to close permanently for lack of funds.

A centre at London, Ont., has already closed down and centres at Edmonton, Calgary and Red Lake were likely to follow suit within the next 30 days.

The first annual convention of friendship centres, meeting here for the last four days, decided on the closed-door protest because, he said, Mr. Pelletier failed to acknowledge a telegram sent Monday urging quick implementation of the program.

"Because of Mr. Pelletier's failure to respond to our appeals launched here this week a delegation from our national body will go to Ottawa Tuesday to negotiate immediate release of the funds and will park themselves in front of Dr. Pelletier's door until we get some money."

Fight California Fire

BIG SUR, Calif. (AP) — More than 1,600 men worked desperately Thursday to contain a 3,700 - acre fire in the coastal Big Sur country.

Cooler temperatures, fog and slackening winds helped fire crews contain about 30 per cent of the blaze. One firefighter was taken to a hospital with a possible concussion after falling about 35 feet, and five other men were injured Thursday in separate mishaps.

The big question still was whether the raging flames could be prevented from jumping the south fork of the Big Sur River into the heart of the 98,000-acre Ventana preserve.

The absence of roads among the rugged peaks and canyons of the wilderness area would add days to the task of halting the fire, authorities said.

"We still hope to have the fire contained by Saturday," said Ray Withrow, spokesman for the California division of forestry.

"But if it slops over the South Fork, there's no telling how long it could take."

Fire crews were using pack mules, fire trucks, bulldozers, air tankers and helicopters.

Almost 2,000 vacationers and residents fled the area after the fire— the region's worst in 30 years — started Tuesday from what officials say was an illegal campfire.

Passports Russian So Canada Lacks Right to Intervene

OTTAWA (CP) — The government has no legal grounds to demand the release of two native-born Canadians and their spouses from the Soviet Union, a spokesman of the external affairs department said Thursday.

The four are Canadian-born Eugene (Jim) Lenko and Nadia Davidenkoo, Mr. Lenko's wife Svetlana and Mrs. Davidenko's husband Anatoly.

Both Canada and the Soviet Union claims Lenko and Mrs. Davidenko as citizens. The spouses and the couples' children have only Soviet citizenships.

Mrs. Davidenko and Mr. Lenko had moved to the USSR to be with their parents in 1956.

"This is an issue between the Soviet government and the families, not between Russia and Canadian authorities," the department spokesman said.

"They travelled in Russia under Soviet passports, not Canadian ones," so legally there is nothing the government can do to bring them back.

The two families went to the Canadian embassy in Moscow Monday to begin a hunger strike which they gave up Thursday.

70 Boats Protest Port Plans

ESPANOLA, Ont. (CP) — A group of more than 70 boats set sail around Little Clonbe Island Thursday, protesting the establishment of a deep-water port.

The port, a $2.3-million development by Alexander Centres Industries Ltd. of Sudbury, is in the middle stages of completion.

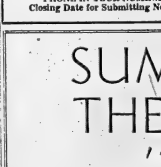
The deep-water port is being constructed on Little Clonbe Island, about 30 miles southeast of Sudbury.

The floating protesters, consisting mainly of United States cottage owners, are particularly angry with the construction of a causeway between Little Clonbe and Greater Clonbe Island.

The protesters argue that the causeway makes it impossible to navigate immediate release of the funds and will park themselves in front of Dr. Pelletier's door until we get some money."

Sudbury Seeks To Limit Dogs

SUDBURY (CP) — The city has started court action seeking a permanent injunction to prohibit a Sudbury woman from keeping more than two dogs in her apartment.



Earlier this week the Ontario Supreme Court refused to give the city an interim injunction that would have forced Olga Srodulski to get rid of six of her dogs.

Last summer the woman was fined $100 for contravening a city bylaw that prohibits anymore than two dogs in a home. She had been convicted of the same offence twice before, in 1970 and 1969.

The woman was keeping eight dogs in her apartment and a delegation of neighbors complained of noise to the city.

English Housewife Becomes Non-Slip Tile Pioneer

HARLOW, England (CP) — Sally Anderson, a housewife who turned from ceramic sculptures to more practical matters, has become Britain's non-slip tile pioneer.

Trained in the ceramics department of Edinburgh School of Art during 1960-64, she began a professional career in ceramic sculptures and sent her works on tour in the early 1960s.

But it was the desire to earn a living as well as to work in ceramics that led her to abandon ceramic sculpture and turn her hand to coffee pots, cups and saucers, casseroles and platters. At the same time she moved from Scotland to Harlow and taught at the local tech nical college.

Her pots' sold extremely well and this encouraged Sally Anderson to leave teaching and become a full-time potter. Her husband, James Dobson, whose background is management, work study and industrial design, was commissioned to design the Jacey Galleries' shopping arcade in Oxford Street, London, which gave them enough money to put a deposit on Parndon Mill near here.

The idea was to let the mill to add to other craftsmen and it now houses upholsterers, painters, picture-frame makers, metal-die casters and people producing architectural panels in glass fibre.

Besides pots, however Mrs. Anderson had also made a few tiles. This side of her activities got under way at the beginning of 1970 when her husband received a telephone call from an old friend asking if she could produce 4,000 square yards of tiles for the London International Hotel then being built opposite the West London Air Terminal in Cromwell Road.

"The next six months," says Sally, "were complete chaos. As we bought new electric kilns, experimented in firing and eventually found a way of putting decorative glazes on plain white tiles bought from commercial manufacturers."

In fulfilling the order meant firing one of the two kilns twice a day non-stop for five months. But at the end of the hectic period she had the range of wall tiles had been laid.

Next came an order for an indoor swimming pool in a millionaire's house. Mrs. Anderson supplied tiles for the edge of the pool and she was also given a chance to make tiles for the surround as well.

The problem as she saw it was to find a tile which was hard-wearing and non-slip, but still the end was done by glazing standard floor tiles so that oils and fatty substances cannot penetrate them and then firing them granules into the glaze to give it a rough texture.

The degree of roughness can be altered by changing the spread and thickness of the granules, while their distribution is arranged to achieve decorative effects.

It is a technique that has never been used by the tile industry before.

Mrs. Anderson at present employs two women part-time, to glaze the tiles using stencils to control the patterns, and one young man working full time to do the heavy work and carry out research. Using two kilns she can produce up to 250 square yards of tiles a week, though production is usually nearer 150 square yards a week.

Are Animal Fats Harmful to Health?

EDMONTON (CP) — The American Heart Association's campaign to convince the public that animal fats are harmful to health is "extremely damaging to farmers who market milk, pork, beef and eggs, says Ed Bristow of the Alberta dairy branch.

Mr. Bristow says the controversy still rages after 20 years over claims that the best way to avoid a heart attack is to cut down on the intake of animal fats.

And, on the basis of many years of research "we feel much more needs to be known . . . before a general manipulation of cholesterol levels in the population is wise, or even safe," he said.

There is no denying the incidence of coronary heart disease has increased in North America during the last 30 years, but Mr. Bristow says the matter of animal fats has been over-emphasized.

"On a per-capita basis the consumption of saturated fats decreased by 12 per cent from 1951 to 1966 . . . mainly due to the switch to cheaper vegetable oils and the advertising directed against animal fats."

Now, North Americans have ahead of the animal fat and take on a per-capita basis of any developed country, "and they have the highest rate of heart disease," Mr. Bristow says.

A study of nearly 1,000 men and women in the United States conducted over a 10-year period after being commissioned by the American Heart Association "shattered" the association's long campaign on the basis of animal fats when it was released in 1970, he said.

The results showed no association between diet intake and serum cholesterol levels or the blood stream "nor did the data suggest any relationship between diet and the subsequent development of coronary heart disease."

These findings do not mean that diet adjustments may not help individual circumstances, but they do point out the need for more research into the problem.

He said the heart association did not succeed in its campaign to "silence its campaign."

Mr. Bristow said the Harold Brunn Institute for Cardiovascular Research at Mount Zion Hospital in San Francisco released data on a 10-year study showing there was "little correlation" between animal fats and cigarettes were to blame for the "alarming" increase in heart disease.

"The culprit . . . is the increasing incidence and intensity of emotional stress."

In another study, involving 1,800 people in the U.S. over an eight-year period, the results indicated the death rates of those who ate fats and those on a unsaturated fat diet "were almost identical."

Mr. Bristow said in view of these and other research findings researchers are emphatic that no aggressive effort should be made to change the diets of the population without much more study.

Honey Color Shows Flavor

Honey comes in colors and flavors to suit every taste. Color, flavor, and aroma depend on the flower which was the source of honey, say food specialists at the Ontario Food Council, Ontario Department of Agriculture and Food.

There are four colors of Ontario honey — white, golden, amber, and dark. To indicate flavor, either the color or floral source must be marked on the label. Pale colors indicate a milder flavor and aroma. Mild white honey is made from clover, alfalfa, and raspberries. Dark honey, with the strongest flavor and aroma, is made primarily from buckwheat. Honey is made from a blend of nectars gathered from several kinds of flowers. Honey from single-flower sources is available, but generally in a specialty item.

Police Women

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Lackland Air Force Base has added the feminine touch to its military police force.

The big base, home of virtually all U.S. Air Force basic training, has begun accepting women as students in its security police technical school for the first time.

One of the recent graduates, Annie Foster, says she enjoys her job so much that she plans to make it a career. She has a law enforcement degree.

Now on duty, Airman First Class Foster says the only problem so far "is when people stop and stare in amazement" at a girl directing traffic or handling other military police jobs.

Learning her many duties, she says, the police dispatch desk is her favorite. "It gives me a big feeling of exchange as I learn as much as possible about my job," she said.

Annie finished first among six women attending the police school and was the honor graduate in a class of 49.

She scored another first by becoming the only women to qualify as an expert with both the M16 rifle and the .38-calibre pistol.

Her training also included courses in physical apprehension and restraint techniques, riot control, traffic control, investigation, military jurisdiction, and search and seizure techniques.

Food Cost Is Higher

VANCOUVER (CP) — The chairman of the board of Canada Safeway Ltd. said a sharp increasing retail food costs are caused by greater expenses at every level of food production and marketing, although for the years food costs have actually declined relative to wages and salaries.

William F. Griffiths said in a statement that increased prices for the producer and increased costs in processing, wholesaling and transportation all are reflected in retail prices.

And at the retail end of the business, "the facts show that the retailer realizes a minimum profit on sales dollar in turn for performing his services."

He was commenting on a prediction last week by a Steelberg's Ltd. official in Montreal that food costs will rise to "disturbingly high levels" starting in September, the result of crop failures or poor production around the world.

Home Economist Recommends New Plastic Cooking Bags

Mrs. Lanny Scholes, a young University of Toronto-trained home economist and mother of two children, constantly sees evidence of the continuing revolution in the kitchen.

More women are joining the work force, she says, or going back to school. Many more women are unwilling to spend as much time as their mothers doing the less creative chores associated with cooking. As a result, science and industry over the past few decades have sought to make life in the kitchen easier and less time-consuming.

Recently, Mrs. Scholes tested a new product that is designed to cut down drastically on the messy aspects of cooking and, at the same time, preserve the natural food flavor.

Using plastic cooking bags, she cooked meat, poultry, fish and vegetables from recipes that would appeal to the typical Canadian family.

"I felt right away that homemakers would be attracted first by the obvious advantage . . . no oven clean up . . . and that the other benefits would be realized later," commented Mrs. Scholes.

Some of these advantages, she said, are the retaining of natural food flavors, the vitamins in vegetables and the tenderness of meats. "Also, cooking odors are cut down. This is particularly noticeable with fish.

"In addition, leftovers like spaghetti can be freeze-stored in the bags and then popped into boiling water, without thawing, for quick meals-in-a-t children's lunches."

She found the clear nylon bags particularly useful for less tender cuts of meat such as pot roasts and chicken which can dry out with roasting.

Since the bags keep in all the natural juices, she invariably found her roasts, poultry and fish remained "moist and tasty.

"The old problem of fish sticking to the pan was completely eliminated."

A pot roast she cooked in one of the bags came out "juicy and flavorful, and the carrots, potatoes and onions cooked along with the meat were done beautifully."

Chicken roasted in the nylon bags, she discovered, is more moist than chicken cooked in the conventional manner. "A particular advantage is that drippings are trapped in the bag, making it possible to have gravy."

Mrs. Scholes said vegetables boiled in the bags retain their vitamins because they never come in direct contact with water. "And they taste fresh — because the flavor stays locked inside the bag and is not boiled away in the water."

She also said the new cooking bags are useful for freezing fruits and vegetables in large quantities. "They could, for instance, be stored in portions large enough for the family's meal, and when needed just dropped into boiling water direct from the freezer. Also the transparent bags make identification easy" and they do not impart any flavor of their own to food stored in them.

She says, "pre-heat your oven to 350 degrees F. or less, and always place your meat-in-a-bag in a baking pan or dish at least two inches deep."

the empty bag, close and shake. "Then place meat in the bag and secure with a tie. Always punch several holes in the top of the bag to let steam escape. Also,"

Handle Drugs with Care

A revised edition of the popular "Drugs — Handle With Care" has recently been released by the new Health Protection Branch of the Health and Welfare Department. The new bilingual booklet carries the message that drugs are poisonous remedies for use in treating diseases and must always be handled with care and caution. Updated information on drug safety and a new format with cartoon illustrations make up the "Drugs — Handle With Care" revision.

The dangers of drug misuse are discussed in the booklet and effective safeguards are suggested. It urges consumers to read and heed label directions on self-medication products and to carefully follow doctor's directions on prescription drugs. A warning against the dangers of driving or operating machinery while taking certain drugs such as tranquilizers, is pointed out. It's also risky to take several different drugs at the same time without consulting a physician or a pharmacist.

There is a healthful advice in the booklet about taking home remedies. Reaching for a pill at the first feeling of pain or discomfort or the prolonged use of any medicine without the advice of a doctor may eventually cause trouble to the user. The booklet stresses also the importance of always keeping drugs in a safe place, away from the prying tendencies of little children.

Drugs may harm or help you, it depends on you, says the booklet and ends with the statement — Drugs save lives — it's their misuse that kills.

Copies of the bilingual booklet, Drugs — Handle With Care, may be obtained by writing to Educational Services, Drug Protection Branch, Department of Health and Welfare, Ottawa, or contact the regional consultant, Educational Services, Health Protection Branch, in your area.

Tempting Summer Recipes

Coq Au Vin

This famous chicken with wine dish is an international favorite, but its appeal to its French creators, notably Burfy, began because it is delicious and economical. The new principles of bag cookery make it possible for all the juices and sauce to self-baste the meat and vegetables right in the bag, yielding moist chicken and the tenderest vegetables. With just salad, bread and wine, it is a complete meal.

1 (2½-) broiler fryer chicken
6 slices bacon, diced
1 clove garlic, crushed
½ teaspoon thyme
1 bay leaf salt
flour
12 small white onions, peeled
3 teaspoon dried parsley flakes
½ lb. small whole mushrooms
1 cup dry red wine
¼ cup brandy

Pre-heat oven to 350 degrees F.

Dredge chicken pieces with flour. Place chicken in a 19" x 16" plastic cooking bag. Place bag in a large baking pan. Add remaining ingredients. Secure end of bag with twist-tie; puncture three small holes in top of bag. Bake in a moderate (350 degrees F.) oven for 1½ hours. 4 servings.

MUSHROOM SUMMER SALAD

2 pts. (1 lb.) mushrooms, halved or quartered
1 cup celery, chopped diagonally
1 tbsp. minced green onion
½ cup chopped sweet red pepper
½ tsp. salt
¼ tsp. pepper
½ tsp. dry mustard
½ cup French dressing
2 hard cooked eggs, chopped

Greens washed and crisped. Combine mushrooms, celery, onions and pepper. In a glass jar shake together salt, pepper, mustard and dressing. Pour over vegetables and toss lightly. Chill for at least one hour. Just before serving, arrange into bite - sized pieces and place in a chilled bowl. Add mushroom mixture and chopped eggs. Toss together lightly. 8 servings.

International Fashion Flair

They are not back to front — because these knee-high stockings by Mary Grey Hosiery of Bristol, Va., are worn with the seams in front. Called 'Front Line' they are available in a variety of color combinations.

At a recent fashion show in New York, a selection of creations by Canadian designers vied for attention with chic young clothes from 10 other countries.

It was all part of a show, "Young Fashions—An International Language," given by the Fashion Group Inc., of New York. Buyers, fashion writers and merchandise executives fly into New York from all over the United States to see the Fashion Group shows which are reputed to be the latest in fashion show ideas and staging.

The show emphasized the international scope of fashion and the accent on the part of the consumer and illustrated the way fashion ideas are produced simultaneously by designers in different parts of the world.

Sketches from 16 Canadian manufacturers were submitted to the show's organizers and nine manufacturers were chosen to exhibit their creations. Clothes selected were varied, ranging from tweed coats to stretchy sweaters.

During the Canadian portion of the show, pictures of girls leaving Montreal office buildings were projected to form a back drop.

Olympic Entrant's Hair Test Reveals Sex

Dear Ann Landers: A friend of ours whose young daughter is competing in the 1972 Olympics, this month in Germany has told us some incredible stories about how the officials are going to determine the women entries. Five of the 11 women champions are really women. It is a known fact that some of the medal winners of the past who were classified as females, had both components would often have a male and female physical character-advantage. A newly developed scientific test will be made on all female competitors who go to the Olympics in Munich. One inch there would be any question. If or bit, examined under a microscope, will reveal the true chromosomal make-up of the individual of which could surely vidual. be established by examination.

But absolute answers are more, and more difficult to find in this wild world. For example, some women athletes feel they have improved their prowess by undergoing intensive hormone treatments. That's about as unsportsmanlike as the male athlete who hypes his performance-

Dear Ann Landers: I was not happy with your reply to the woman who was afraid to get married because a friend had told her that once a person has had syphilis, more often than not, the Wasserman test will come out "positive" even though the person has been cured. The woman didn't want her fiance to know she had been infected and was fearful that her blood test might reveal it.

The facts are these: One out of ten people who have had syphilis will get a Wasserman test which means they will produce a positive Wasserman reading even though cured. Please make it clear to your readers. And that if they get a positive Wasserman report they should seek additional medical advice to learn whether or not they still

Dear Ann Landers: A friend of mine is a divorce lawyer. He specializes in uncontested cases. He charges $150 and handles the entire matter. He says he has a very high success rate. Most of his clients are referred by satisfied customers. He has been in practice for 15 years and has a fine reputation. Please tell your readers to be sure they are dealing with a reputable attorney when they get a divorce. — Mrs. Jones

Dear Mrs. Jones: Thanks for the tip. Readers, please note.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a 16-year-old girl who has been going with a boy for two years. He is a wonderful person and I am very much in love with him. We have talked about getting married when we finish high school. Lately he has been pressuring me to have sexual relations with him. I am a virgin and I want to remain one until I get married. I am afraid that if I don't go along with him he will break up with me and find someone else. What should I do? — Worried

Dear Worried: Stop worrying. If he breaks up with you because you refuse to have sexual relations with him, he is not worth having. Tell him you love him very much but you are not willing to take a chance on getting pregnant. Tell him you are willing to wait until you are married. If he loves you he will wait

Fischer Has Advantage As Game Is Adjourned

REYEJAVIK, Iceland (AP) — Two experts predicted that Bobby Fischer would win the 10th game of the world chess championship today, giving him a commanding 6½-3½ lead over Boris Spassky.

Grandmasters Bent Larsen of Denmark and Svetozar Gligoric of Yugoslavia agreed that the American challenger appeared certain to gain a three-point edge when play resumes in the game.

"Spassky is massacred," said Gligoric. "It is unbelievable that the world champion cannot even manage a draw."

"If Spassky loses this game, the match becomes a farce," said British Grandmaster David Levy.

Woman Dies

NEWMARKET, Ont. (CP) — Phyllis Moore, 39, of Toronto, who underwent an operation two weeks ago to reconnect an arm almost totally severed in a car accident, died Thursday in hospital.

Plan Eviction

TORONTO (CP) — Officials of the Meridian development group met briefly with the city's executive committee Thursday night and announced Meridian intends to pursue action to evict the tenants of eight houses in the area south of St. James Town.

Record Sales

DETROIT (AP) — Sales by United States auto manufacturers broke all-time, July records last month, opening 1972's second half in the wake of a spectacular six months in which they rolled up new sales and profits records.

The game was due to resume at 10:30 a.m. EDT, earlier than usual because Fischer's sabbath begins at sunset Friday and he has insisted that adjourned games begin early enough to be finished in time.

Play was adjourned Thursday night after the 40th move, and Fischer handed his sealed 41st move to referee Lother Schmid.

Grandmaster Isaac Kashdan, analysing the matches for The Associated Press, said Fischer after the 40th move had the material advantage with two rooks against a rook and a bishop. Spassky had the edge in pawns, four against three, but this did not make up for the deficit.

Want to Leave

TORONTO (CP) — Plane hijackers taking shelter in Cuba want to go home and face the courts but the Castro government will not let them, CBC reporter Ron Collister said in an interview Wednesday.

Mr. Collister, back from a 16-day trip filming a CBC-TV documentary on Cuba, spoke to several hijackers and said they are disillusioned with the aftermath of the revolution.

Cache Found

TORONTO (CP) — Metropolitan Toronto police have arrested two men in connection with a cache of $150,000 in stolen merchandise found in a raid on a Toronto house June 24.

John Kenneth Park, 28, of no fixed address, and Jeffrey Steve Snider, 34, were arrested Wednesday.

Idyllic Picture

OTTAWA (CP) — A thousand high school students reflected an almost idyllic picture of Communist China Thursday in a presentation to 135 teachers in Ottawa for a month-long summer training program.

Happy children's faces and tranquil but efficient commune rice-planters are a common sight in the People's Republic of China, said Dan Dislenko and Elaine Rock, both 17, following the film. It was the first showing in Canada.

Five Injured

VANCOUVER (CP) — Six persons were injured Thursday when fire ripped through an old warehouse in the city's Gastown bourdoise district, causing an estimated $1.25 million damage.

Buses Speeded

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Transit Commission buses along Eglinton Avenue clipped three minutes off their normal runs Thursday—the first day of an experiment with "buses only" lanes.

Bus drivers were generally surprised with the new system which officials said sliced from between one and 1½ minutes on two routes along Eglinton avenue, a busy midtown street.

"I'm surprised the way all the autos stayed in their two lanes instead of taking advantage of the empty room in the bus lane," said Gord Barber, one of the first drivers to test the new lane.

OTTAWA (CP) — Several hundred federal labor and trades employees paraded outside treasury board offices Thursday protesting what they called government "stalling tactics" during contract negotiations.

The 69,400 members of the General Labor and Trades Group of the Public Service Alliance of Canada, have been without a working contract since November, 1971. About 5,000 members of the bargaining group are located in Ottawa.

Official Makes Claim

Red China Has Wiped Out Cholera, Pox, Plague, VD

By WES GALLAGHER

PEKING (AP) — The Chinese have wiped out cholera, smallpox, plague and venereal disease, all once endemic in their country, a high official of the department of health reports.

The drug problem is non-existent, Dr. Chen Hai-feng said in a long interview, due to a combination of education, strict control of drugs by the government and severe treatment of sellers 10 to 15 years ago.

Tuberculosis, typhoid measles, chickenpox, malaria and snail fever, all of which once were rampant in China, are considered "controlled," the doctor said.

"We cannot find venereal disease cases to show our medical students in colleges," Dr. Chen said.

Dr. Chen explained the four-point aim of China's health program, which is not unlike those in the West, and also the medical structure which seems a key to China's success in programs that failed elsewhere in the world.

The four aims:

1. To direct medical work at the masses by putting medical workers in the field.

2. Prevention of disease by vaccines, sterilization of drinking water and attacking insects such as mosquitos and flies.

3. Combining Western and ancient Chinese herb medicines in new treatment.

4. Mass education of peasants and workers to understand the causes of diseases and the worth of prevention measures.

These principles are administered through a detailed medical structure reaching units of 100 persons or less. China has 800 million people.

It had been thought previously that the "barefoot doctors" were the lowest level of the state medical program, but it goes farther down that that, to the "health worker," a part-time job. The health worker is trained to give injections and detect disease. His main strength is in knowing well everyone he deals with.

"He knows when a baby is born and 42 days later the baby is given all the vaccines necessary at that age," Dr. Chen said.

The health worker knows all that happens in his small group and can report to the barefoot-doctor level if a disease appears which he cannot handle.

Barefoot doctors, many of them women, have received three to four months training in hospital. They can administer Chinese herb medicines, acupuncture and some Western medicines. If the barefoot doctor finds a problem too complicated, he sends the patient to an outpatient clinic, staffed by regular nurses and doctors, for treatment. If the patient requires further treatment, he is sent to a hospital.

Obviously a disease cannot go long undetected at the health-worker level. The Chinese avoid saying that their vaccines and other preventive treatments are "compulsory," preferring to regard them as administered after discussion or persuasion, but it is obvious that treatment, if it is needed, is given one way or the other.

Dr. Chen said some health workers are good and some not up to standard. But he added that the system had enabled China to head off epidemics by early detection by barefoot doctors even if the health worker was bad.

Dr. Chen placed considerable emphasis on the combination of Western and Chinese medicines as being helpful. He said that at first there had been conflict between doctors over the combinations of Chinese herb medicine with the Western, but that it now is accepted.

He said the health ministry ordered all Chinese herb cures collected, beginning at the village level, and taken to university research departments for scientific analysis and experimental treatment. Those proved effective were adopted.

Many new treatments have been discovered combining the medicines of West and East. Among these, Dr. Chen mentioned a new treatment for severe burns to bring about quick healing with less necessity for skin grafts, better results in treatments of goiters, malaria and snail fever, and treatment of fractures.

U.S. Supplies Russia

First Surplus Grain Shipments Move Soon

By DON KENDALL

WASHINGTON (AP) — First shipments of U.S. surplus grain soon will begin moving into a new farm-export pipeline to the Soviet Union, a link government officials say could herald a new production era for American farmers.

The grain sale to the Russians, announced last July 8, involves $750 million worth of wheat and livestock feed grain during the next three years. It will be financed under credit arrangements handled by the Commodity Credit Corp.

If sustained, and further export doors such as China opened, dramatic shifts in U.S. government crop-control programs may be in the offing. Changes which could enable farmers to raise more crops for cash markets and less for storage bins.

One of the more immediate impacts, however, will be on employment, primarily at port facilities where grain is loaded on to ships. In yards where ships are fitted for such cargoes and in the transportation industry generally.

Nixon administration officials estimate between 3,000 and 5,000 additional jobs are created each time grain exports are increased $100 million.

At the agriculture department, officials say enough grain probably is in position at Great Lakes and Gulf ports right now to handle Soviet shipments in the next few months.

Laurel Meade, general sales manager for the export-marketing service, said in an interview that he expects the Russians initially to buy mostly wheat.

The sales, which Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz predicts could exceed $1 billion during the next three years, will be handled by private traders.

Under the "export sales" program, a private U.S. exporter can receive government credit financing. Interest charged is at commercial rates, with the exporter or buyer paying back the loan plus carrying charges.

Last year, U.S. farmers raised a record wheat crop of more than 1.64 billion bushels, about 1.5 billion were needed to meet domestic needs and export commitments.

Thus, as of July 1 as another bumper crop was being harvested the wheat carryover—including earlier surpluses—was about 600 million bushels, one of the largest supplies in a decade.

Bay of Quinte Is Under Close Scrutiny

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

The blemished Bay of Quinte has become one big test tube in a painstaking probe which Natural Resources Minister Leo Bernier believes may be the first of its kind in North America.

The results not only could have wide local significance, but make the oft-criticized watercourse a reputation in international scientific circles.

The detailed probe hinges on introduction in the near future of a treatment program in bay shore communities for removal of phosphorous, a major stimulant for algae and other aquatic growth detrimental to water quality and marine life.

Provincial government ecologists hope this could mean significant restoration of the Bay as a nursery for game and commercial fish — aside from raising the quality of water for drinking and recreational purposes.

Data supporting such a hoped-for achievement could also provide significant references for scientists faced with similar situations e l s e w h e r e in the world.

Mr. Bernier says the study may be the first of its kind on the continent.

It's an opportunity, he explains, to "assess fully t h e contribution of phosphate removal to the quality of water and the health of rehabilitation of present and commercial fish of Lake Ontario."

The ministry sees as providing vital data which could become guidelines for the future management of the bay's ecology. Natural resources of fic ials are optimistic of such results.

Says W. J. Christie, director of the department's Glenora fisheries research station: "It will affect the whole management of the bay. The use of its water for general, recreation, drinking purposes and fish stocking hinges on this."

However, with a scientist's typical reserve, he cautions: "It's not so much the exact changes. Even if we have excellent water in the future, it's not self-evident you would have a recovery of forms of life, such as fish, to man's liking. The ecological system doesn't automatically restructure itself. But with this information we're hopeful we'll know how to go about it."

Russ Whitfield, fish and wildlife supervisor for the ministry's Tweed area, which includes the bay, is even more specific about its possibilities for fish restoration in a zone now depleted of such a once-rich resource: "There's a real possibility the area could be restored as a nursery. I'd die me might even return it to the state it was 50 years ago."

The study will gather the facts of bay life — from the lowest mud and plant organisms to fish — while phosphates are still a pollutant factor. After the phosphate-free environment has been defined and treatment techniques operating, the research teams will return to discover just what changes have occurred.

The data will help scientists understand the nature of resulting changes. This, in turn, will provide pointers as to how best the Bay's ecology may be restructured, what fish life should be stocked, how recreational and community needs may be affected.

Of necessity, the mills of scientific assessment grind slowly and it may be at least five years before all the facts have been compiled. Since the project is unique, the data assembled should also provide a scientific point of reference for researchers facing similar problems elsewhere in the world, say natural resources spokesmen.

The combined operation involves personnel from the ministry's Glenora station and its Napanee division offices, the ministry of the environments water quality branch, the federal Canada Centre for inland waters at Burlington, and Queen's University.

In the field, it sees task forces, reinforced by students from various universities, plying the watercourse from Picton to Trenton and close to both at the Bay's mouth. They are gathering samples of organic life, statistics on water depths and light densities and netting and tagging fish.

Asbore, research evolves at Glenora and at university and WQB laboratories.

The program hinges on WQB plans for a phosphorous control program for larger bayshore communities — including Belleville, Napanee, Trenton, and its neighboring Canadian Forces Base.

Glen Owen, regional biologist at Kingston for the WQB — successor to the Ontario Water Resources Commission — says the deadline for the installation program, which will mainly involve chemical-additive processes — now has been set for the end of 1974.

There are secondary factors for choosing the Bay of Quinte for such a study.

For one thing, points out D. A. Hurley, Natural Resources scientist at Glenora, the watercourse is big enough to be representative of the Great Lakes system, yet sufficiently compact to permit intensive scrutiny.

Also extensive information already exists on its epicronment, gleaned by government agencies and scientists who have researched it for various projects through the years. The current all - out operation will fill information gaps left by these earlier studies, rounding out extinct data into a comprehensive information stockpile.

What actually has happened in the bay is an "overkill" situation — its vegetation has become greatly enriched and multiplied with the nutrient increase.

First survey of Bay conditions is believed to date from the 1880s. As far back as 1904 Belleville city council, worried about algae plant blooms, called in a Toronto professor. He classified it not only a minor problem, but indicative of high productivity excellent for fish production.

"Since that time, with population increased and the introduction of detergents t h e water blooms have intensified and their character changed," says Dr. Hurley.

In recent years, the spread of algae and plant life have proliferated, decreasing vital water oxygen levels and thus affecting the "well-being" of the entire bay.

Dr. Murray Johnson of the CCIW, says, the spread of plants and algae in the Belleville area actually has caused a low-quality water situation akin to that of western Lake Erie, one of the worst trouble spots in the Great Lakes. With the installation of treatment programs, oxygen-destroying algae concentrations should begin to diminish fairly quickly, permitting an increase in benign vegetation around which a new cycle of marine life may feed and proliferate.

"We may see a succession of the Bay as conditions change over the next few years," believes Dr. Hurley.

Aside from costlier treatment effects on community water supplies, the state of bay water has had drastic results on fishing, both for sportsmen and commercial anglers.

The annual commercial catch between 1935-1937 averaged 800,000 pounds, 36 per cent of the total for Lake Ontario. The loss of important species such as pickerel, whitefish and smallmouth bass is relatively recent. This indicates water quality changes, presumed a major cause of the decline.

The burning question researchers must discover is how far back in time they must reach to restore a viable water environment says the CIWW's Dr. Johnson.

"Everything must be restored to normal before y o u can bring back the fish."

At Tweed, Mr. Whitfield is positive the reduction of phosphorous nutrients will precipitate a vigorous fish climate. He expects treatment will contribute "a great deal" to restoration of the bay as a Great Lakes spawning ground, a role that has been rapidly deteriorating for the past 15 years.

Again, with at least three big tributaries — the Trent, Moira and Napanee rivers — the Bay is flushed out nine times a year — a volume 60 times greater than that spread across Lake Ontario.

The rivers also create much of the phosphorous content — but need not necessarily be pinpointed as a major source of the problem. Natural phosphorous runoff in the watershed is about 400,000 pounds a year from a total of 750,000 pounds. However, timing is important. The river-borne nutrient comes down with the last-flowing spring runoff and can be much diluted.

Contribution from communities sources is continuous — Belleville alone feeds about 150,000 pounds into the Bay, says Dr. Johnson.

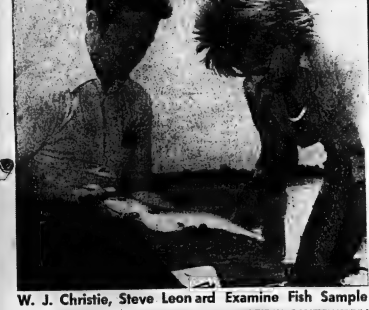
"So much of this problem of algae-feeding is from municipal sources," he says.

A professional, side accomplishment of the survey, says Glenora director Christie, is that so many various agencies have pooled resources in a common effort.

The program was shaped last year during discussions between scientists and, for the moment, is tied into the broader International Field Year for the Great Lakes, involving Canadian and U.S. researchers.

However, the Bay of Quinte project will still be in progress long after the IFYGL operation ends.

Field studies will be renewed next summer and a further three to five years may be required to assess the affects of diminished phosphorous output after the WQB installation program is complete.



The results of its comprehensiveness should have benefits reaching far from the shores of the Bay of Quinte. — "It will," said Mr. Christie, "help researchers and communities elsewhere in the continent, perhaps abroad, to know what to expect in similar situations."

Bay Water Bottled For Research

New Plant Discovered

A new species of aquatic plant has been discovered in the Bay of Quinte, already a source of much bothersome marine growth.

Known as Frog Bits it was identified by Queens' University researchers who are among scientists now studying bay waters with federal and provincial government agencies, says W. J. Christie, director of the Ministry of Natural Resources Glenora Fisheries research station.

Mr. Christie says the plant is akin to duckweed, only much larger. It floats on the surface, proliferates quickly into-a-thick mat and can be a nuisance for plugging up waterways."

It was first discovered some years ago in the Ottawa River, later in the Kingston area from where it, presumably, spread up the bay.

Drainage Problem Solution Found?

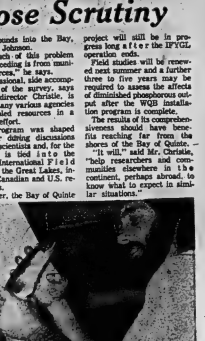
Soon, homeowners in the Ghent subdivision, off the Trent Road, will be approached by township Councillors with a plan to resolve poor drainage in the area.

Matthew Bernhart, of the ministry of transportation and communications attended the council meeting this week with an engineer, and proposed a scheme that would alleviate the water problem.

In the past, three culverts had drained the area but these had been combined into one large ditch.

"We argue that it brings more water into one place," said Jack Bush, Sidney Township reeve. "In the past, the three culverts spread the water around a little."

Mr. Bernhart's department claims there is no more water now than there ever was before.



The plan proposed by Mr. Bernhart consisted of extending the existing culvert by approximately 550 feet, taking the runoff water directly into a swamp area adjacent to the subdivision.

Satisfied with the scheme, council has taken steps to contact homeowners in the subdivision for permission to proceed with the work.

"The department of transportation is willing to take care of the financial end.

Council members will be seeking permission from homeowners for an easement to provide a path for the ditch.

"If the plan goes through, the ditch will run at the rear of four homes," said Mr. Bush.

Crossing Precautions Announced by Bush

Approval for improvements on the Canadian Pacific Crossing at Aikens Road was received Tuesday night and announced at the Sidney Township Council meeting.

The improvements will include rebuilding the grade, widening the crossing and clearing brush from the area.

The work — to begin immediately — will be financed federally through the Board of Transport's grade separation fund.

Jack Bush, reeve of Sidney Township, said the crossing is dangerous and action has been in process for the past seven months.

Township council has also requested automatic signal protection from the same government body, and there is to be placed at another CP crossing on White's Road.

The signals, if the plan is accepted, will cost the township approximately $2,000 for installation.

This figure represents 12½ per cent of the cost of the signals. Another 7½ per cent is paid by the railroad and the remaining 80 per cent paid through the grade separation fund.

Depending on maintenance costs of the signals, it could cost the township anywhere from $500 to $1,100 annually.

"We are attempting to make the crossings safer," said Mr. Bush.

There are 27 crossings on Township roads.

Boy Said 'Fair'

BANCROFT — Provincial police here today said a five-year-old boy, who suffered head injuries in a highway mishap in which his parents were killed at Maynooth Tuesday, was still in fair condition at last report from hospital authorities.

Christopher Maschke, of Stratford, Ont., yesterday was transferred from a Peterborough hospital to Toronto's Sick Children's Hospital.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Maschke, were instantly killed when their car collided with a transport trailer on Highway 62, 15 miles north of here at Maynooth where they had been visiting relatives.

Loyalist Building Plans Discussed

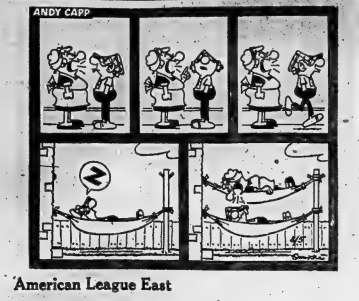
Loyalist College's board of governors, its ranks shrunken by summer holidays, failed to get a quorum for its regular monthly meeting last night.

The meeting was adjourned on a day-to-day basis until enough members of the board have examined the resolutions approved by those present last night and added their assent to make them final.

The six governors present approved additions to the new building now nearing completion. Three sculptured walls will be installed in the cafeteria and staff dining room, special graphic designs will be painted on various walls and fluorescent plastic sheets will be hung from the ceiling of the student lounge in various arrangements. Total cost of the improvements will be $15,000.

The board also authorized its contractor, Dalton Engineering and Construction Ltd. to buy $9,600 worth of marble chips in anticipation of the construction of the third building on the campus.

The exterior of the new buildings at Loyalist is concrete block with a surface of marble chips aggregate north of Madoc.



The quarry will soon close for the winter and the college wants the marble aggregate on hand for use before the spring. The marble chips cost $49 a ton, and 250 tons will be required for the new building.

Dean of faculty Paul King told the governors that Loyalist will have more than 500 retraining students on campus by September, with more expected by December. This is in addition to the 800 or more regular day students expected to enrol.

Among the 500 retraining students are 100 retired armed forces members who will attend a special, federally - subsidized course designed to relate their service - acquired skills to civilian occupations.

American League East

Nobody Wants Pennant

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

This is a pennant race?

Detroit Tigers, leaders of the American League's East Division, have lost eight of their last eight games. Baltimore Orioles, just two games behind the Tigers, have dropped five out of six.

New York Yankees and Boston Red Sox are closing in on the pace-setters but they would be making a lot more progress if they weren't so busy beating each other.

It was business as usual in the Division Monday Wards Thursday as the Tigers lost 8-3 to Milwaukee, their third straight defeat at the hands of the last-place Brewers, and the Orioles suffered a 4-3 setback against Cleveland Indians.

The Red Sox whipped the Yankees 7-2, leaving New York five games off the pace, a ballgame ahead of Boston.

Chicago White Sox trimmed California Angels 3-2 and chipped a half-game off Oakland's lead in the West to 5½ games. In the only other game Thursday, Minnesota Twins routed Texas Rangers 8-1.

Chris Chambliss drilled three hits and sparked two rallies and Tom Hilgendorf and Tom Hennigan combined on a seven-hitter to help the Indians beat the Orioles.

Chambliss doubled in both the fourth and 10th innings to highlight two-run rallies in each frame as the Indians wiped out an early 1-0 Baltimore lead and Hennigan shut the door in the late innings.

Milwaukee continues to act like a pennant-contender against Detroit.

With Thursday night's triumph, Milwaukee established a 9-4 margin in the season series and came up with 43 hits and 38 runs in the three - game set.

Carlton Fisk's two-run homer in the second inning and a three-run seventh carried Boston and rookie pitcher Lynn McGlothen to a victory over New York.

Luis Alvarado drilled a two run triple in the last of the eighth to unlock a tie and send Chicago past California.

Righthander Jim Perry pitched a three-hitter and Rich Reese knocked in three runs with a pair of singles to lead Minnesota over Texas.

Reserve Clause May Be Tested

OTTAWA (CP) — An American lawyer involved with the new World Hockey Association said Thursday that National Hockey League reserve clauses would be tested in violation of U.S. anti-trust laws if they were ever tested in American courts.

Charles Abrahams of Los Angeles said at a news conference held by Ottawa Nationals, one of four Canadian entries in the new professional hockey league, that the association is needed to keep the National Hockey League "clean."

The World Hockey Association has been organizing and signing players in preparation for the opening of their season Oct. 11.

Mr. Abrahams said he had been much of "dirty tactics" and "blackballing" used by league officials against hockey players and particularly criticized the NHL reserve clause which binds players to teams, possibly against their will.

Hands Loses No-Hitter

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ken Singleton's ground ball bounced off the glove of Chicago pitcher Bill Hands and rolled into right field for a base hit.

Later, Paul Popovich, the Cubs' second baseman, told Hands it would have been an easy double play if he had let the ball alone.

Hands won the game anyway, defeating Montreal Expos 3-0, but the seventh-inning incident kept his name out of the National League record book. It was the only hit he gave up all night.

The victory gave Chicago a split in the doubleheader at Montreal as the Expos took the opener 2-1.

In other games, San Diego Padres edged Atlanta Braves 6-5 as Nate Colbert tied a league record with his eighth homer in a week, Los Angeles Dodgers blanked San Francisco Giants 3-0, Philadelphia Phillies defeated Cincinnati Reds 4-1 and Pittsburgh Pirates defeated St. Louis Cardinals 2-1.

Hands had pitched perfect ball through 4 1-3 innings before he gave up a walk to Clyde Mashore. Singleton then hit the chopper that bounced off his glove.

"It was only a reflex action," said Hands. "The ball came out of the ground and I stuck my glove up.

"What a way to lose it."

After the hit, Hands walked Ron Fairly to load the bases before getting Boots Day to hit into a double play.

In the opener, Ron Woods' pinch-hit single in the 13th inning drove in the winning Montreal run. He came to bat with the bases loaded after a walk to Mike Jorgensen and an intentional walk. Montreal starter Ernie McAnily gave up just one hit in his time in the first six innings but Mike Marshall came on to relieve and get the victory.

Colbert, who slugged two homers in Houston Sunday and five more in a doubleheader in Atlanta Saturday, is tied with Willie Mays for first place in the National League with 30 homers.

Colbert had to scramble for his 80, hoiling five birdies and four bogeys.

Nicklaus, winner of the Masters and U.S. Open, and second to Trevino in the British Open last month, had his preparations for the PGA derailed by a badly infected finger which required surgery last week, but said the finger "got better and I got out."

Trevino said he "just flaked out."

"I knew I had the wrong club in my hand four times and just wouldn't change . . . Maybe I was just too lazy to take it back to the bag."

Sam Snead, 60-year-old relic from another era, was the greatest, was one of a large group matching par 70 over the 7,004-yard layout.

The field was to be cut to the low 70 and ties for Saturday and Sunday's rounds, with a 150 score a likely cutoff point.

George Knudson of Toronto, the only Canadian in the tournament, was unlikely to be among them. He shot himself out of the running with a 73.

Argonauts Stumble, Theisman Falls

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Argonauts lost a quarterback and Montreal Alouettes found one in the early stages of their Eastern Football Conference game Thursday night. The result was a 19-4 victory for the Alouettes in the opener of the EFC season for both clubs.

Sonny Wade, a Grey Cup hero in 1970 who barely made the club this season, was pulled off the bench by Montreal coach Sam Etcheverry late in the first quarter with his team trailing 7-0. Shortly after the teams changed ends, Toronto starter Joe Theismann, whose touchdown had put the Argos ahead, limped to the sidelines with a suspected broken right ankle.

The Alouettes, who had been getting nowhere with Jim Chasey at quarterback, suddenly jelled. The Argos, demoralized by the loss of Theismann, never recovered.

Halfback Moses Denso, another 1970 standout who had gone into eclipse, scored the tying touchdown in the second quarter and rookie Don Sweet gave Montreal an 8-7 lead on a missed field goal.

Andruzyahyn's third-quarter single, also on a missed field goal, tied the score but the Alouettes pulled away in the final quarter as Wade scored a touchdown and kicked a single and Sweet added a field goal. Sweet converted both Montreal touchdowns and Andruzyahyn kicked the extra point on Theismann's single.

The injured Toronto quarterback watched the rest of the game from the sidelines before being taken to hospital for x-rays. Doctors suspected he suffered a fractured fibula and Leo Cahill said he might be out of the lineup for six weeks.

Theismann, who had not been injured since he suffered a shoulder separation in a boating accident while he was in defensive end Phil Vandersee on a routine running play near the sideline.

Cahill said defensive back Dick Thornton, who did some quarterbacking earlier in his career with Winnipeg Blue Bombers, may back up Greg Barton until Theismann returns, although the club would explore the possibilities of bringing in a replacement.

Barton, former Detroit Lion who alternated with Theismann last season until he suffered an injury, appeared jittery Thursday night, completing only five of his 19 passes for a net gain of 10 yards. Two were intercepted.

Etcheverry was particularly pleased that Wade, the EFC leader in giving up interceptions for the last two years, had no passes picked off, although he completed only eight of his 20 attempts.

"The big thing was we had no turnovers," said the Montreal coach. "I thought our defence put the pressure on them. With Theismann in there, he's a big threat. When he's out of the game, it takes something off their offence."

JOE THEISMAN

With Leon McQuay, last year's EFC rushing leader, sidelined because of an injured knee, Toronto's net offence totalled only 134 yards to Montreal's 287. Veteran running back Dave Ralmey, returning from defence to fill in for McQuay, picked up 33 yards on seven carries. Eric Allen manged 33 yards in 11 tries.

Denson and newcomer Ike Brown picked up most of Montreal's 150 yards rushing.

Unknown Leads PGA

BIRMINGHAM, Mich. (AP) — "I'm sorry I made you miss your dinner," apologized Stan Thirsk with a grin, "--but I really enjoyed it."

That's the way the virtual golfing unknown from Shawnee Mission, Kan., signed off his news conference after stunning reporters by strolling off the Oakland Hills Country Club course with a two-under par 68 Thursday for a share of the lead with BudAllin after the first round of the 54th PGA National Championship.

Most reporters had their stories wrapped up, having written about another relatively obscure pro. Allin, who came in early with a 68 and appeared certain to stay on top alone.

But the 44-year-old Thirsk birdied three holes on the back nine, including two of the last four, which put him two under. He was the last golfer off the course.

Although the 27-year-old Allin's name isn't a household word either among golf followers, he did win $55,786 last year in his first season on the tour.

Allin and Thirsk are leading such notables as Arnold Palmer, Lee Trevino, Jack Nicklaus and Gary Player.

Palmer was among the early leaders and finished with a one-under 69. The PGA is the only major championship he has not won.

Trevino shot a 73 while Nicklaus was in at 72 along with Player.

Joining the one-under group was another nearly unknown pro, Larry Gilbert of Fayetteville, Tenn. Jerry Heard, who has won two tour events this year, was also at 68, along with Ray Floyd and Jim Jamieson.

Thirsk was one of the few to hit the 18th green in regulation two strokes. If he had been able to sink a 25-foot putt he would have taken sole possession of the lead. But he put it a foot short.

Palmer had to scramble for his 69, holing five birdies and four bogeys.

Nicklaus, winner of the Masters and U.S. Open, and second to Trevino in the British Open last month, had his preparations for the PGA derailed by a badly infected finger which required surgery last week, but said the finger "got better and I got out."

Trevino said he "just flaked out."

WHA Dirty?

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Derek Sanderson took time out from tightening his money belt to predict that play in the embryo World Hockey Association will be much dirtier than it is in the established National Hockey League.

The 26-year-old Sanderson jumped from the NHL champion Boston Bruins Thursday to the WHA's Philadelphia Blazers.

The move brought him a cool $2.5 million, give or take a hundred thousand, as well as a multi-year contract that even made his dad, Harold, a scout for the Blazers. It also made Sanderson a big fish in a small pond, rather than a middle-sized fish in a pond which also included Bobby Orr and Phil Esposito.

Sanderson was asked to compare the hockey he expected in the WHA with what he was leaving behind.

"I think it will be a lot dirtier and there will be a lot more fighting in the WHA," Sanderson said. "It's just to make more excitement for the fans. The players will be more aggressive in a new league. They're making more money than they ever dreamed of and they'll all want to keep their jobs."

Sanderson has been one of the NHL's top villains for five years, spending 660 minutes in the penalty box. He also was the established league's most dangerous penalty killer with more goals in short-handed situations than any other player.

The 175-pound Sanderson, a native of Niagara Falls, Ont., scored 25 goals last season of his NHL career total of 121. He believes he can double that for the Blazers, because in addition to killing penalties, he'll centre the power play line.

Sanderson lived up to his reputation as a one-liner expert.

He explained his acceptance of the Blazers' offer: "Like the Godfather they made me an offer I couldn't refuse."

On how he liked being in Philadelphia: "Unlike W. C. Fields I'd rather be in Philadelphia than be dead. For $2.5 million, why not?"

Informed that Philadelphia was a quiet town, he replied: "So was Boston, when I got there."

OAKVILLE, Ont. (CP) — Les Duff, brother of Dick Duff, former National Hockey League star, has been appointed coach of Oakville Oaks of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series, it was announced Thursday night.

General manager Jack Price said the appointment for Duff, who played 16 years with various teams in the American Hockey League, is for the 1972-73 season.

Ellis Juniors Win Season's First

Strings continued to snap in the Commercial Softball League Thursday. After 30 straight losses the Juniors finally reached the win column with a 2-1 nail-biting victory over Devolin Motors.

Devolin, who three nights before had handed Rollins Construction their first loss of the season, lost a 5-0 shut-out then the game in eight innings to the Juniors.

Quinte Hotel blanked the Globe Hotel 1-0 in the second game of the Commercial Softball double-header.

Ron Hill was the stopper for the Juniors firing a one hitter at the Motormen. He lost his no-hit bid in the sixth frame when Vern Peters touched a single. Hill struck out seven and walked four in his initial win of the year.

The Juniors added a bit of dramatic flare to their win, tieing the game in the seventh and winning it in the eight. Steve Campbell reached on a fielder's choice in the first extra frame, went to third on a sacrifice and walk and then raced home on a wild pitch for the Juniors first winning run of the year.

Singles by Rick Graham and Terry Pope and a pair of errors gave the Printers two runs in the seventh inning wiping out a pair of Devolin unearned runs from the second and fourth frames.

Dan Holloway went seven innings for the Motormen giving up seven hits and striking out nine. Ron Maracle came on in the eight and took the loss.

Ron Hill had a pair of singles, Graham a double and single and John Romano and Dave Horwood single each.

Quinte's Scott Reid stopped the Globe on four hits as the winners moved to within two points of Devolin and Howard and Roberts.

Reid carned his slxth shutout and increased his lead in leading strike out total to 159 with seven killings last night. Warren Ostrander tripled to start the third inning and raced home with the only run of the game on Larry Mavety's single.

Hugh Brennan had a pair of singles and Ray Lesage one to round out Quinte's six hits off Bill Harrison.

Elzner Daley smashed a three bagger for Globe's big hit.

Meads Squirts Clear First Hurdle

The Belleville Mead Johnson squirts vaulted over their first obstacle last night in their cross the province run for the O.A.S.A. championship.

Meads stamped Napanee 16-8 in Napanee Thursday night to sweep the best of three series in straight games. The locals now await the winners of the Campbellford - Peterboro series.

Everybody got into the act in last night's win. Meads of the year against only four losses. Tim Soule didn't quite equal his no-hit performance of Tuesday night but he did come close. He allowed two scratch singles in the seventh inning to ruin another no-hit bid. He struck out 14 and issued only one walk.

Ron Begley had a big night at the plate stroking a single, double and triple. Andy Rozsi and John Henry pounded out a triple and single each while Darrell Coltman had two singles. Soule a double and single and Allan Brooks, Sylvain Palisca and Paul Soule a single each.

"Not only does he steal our signs, but from the highway department, too!"

Western Rolling

The Western Tire peewees dug in their treds and rolled into the semi-finals of the Belleville Minor softball playoffs last night by blotting Richard Ellis Printing 8-3.

Mike Yaramy smashed a homer and single, Kevin Campbell a double and single and Rick Tripp a double to lead the winners at the plate.

Rod Moring had a triple and single for the Printers.

CJBQ Shut Off

The Golden Mile Restaurant switched channels on CJBQ in a Belleville Minor Baseball bantam contest Tuesday night and tuned out the Radio-men 12-0.

Paul Weeks fired the no-hit shutout striking out eight and walking only four.

Flyers Grounded

The C.P.R. Flyers were grounded by a low ceiling in Thursday night's Bay of Quinte Soccer action.

Belleville United smothered the Flyers at every turn to record a 3-1 victory. Nick Del Grosso opened the scoring for United and goals by Keith Perry and Gary Kumpula upped the count to 3-0 before C.P.R. broke their scoring ice.

Chuck Eddy netted the Flyers lone tally on a brilliant individual effort but Chris Johnson's late marker insured the United win.

Lenders Work For Industrial Win

The Intelligencer and the Lenders picked up identical 9-0 victories in a pair of Industrial Softball League games Thursday but the similarity ends at the score.

The Lenders had to work for their shutout over the Utilities while the Intels received a forfeited gift from the Independents. The wins keep both the Lenders and the Printers tied on top of division A.

Terry Murphy threw a two hitter for the Lenders striking out 13 and showing perfect control. Wayne Casselman supplied enough runs for the win by smashing a homer. Fred Smith drove in three runs with a double and single while Norm Tetlock and Larry Gawley chipped in the winners' picked up four runs in the third and five in the seventh. Wilson Bulatt worked the Utilities mound giving up eight hits and fanning seven. Steve Ethier triple for half of the losers hit output.

Red Barn Rally Just Not Enough

Bob Blaind - Red Barn tried a fast minute rally in their Belleville and District Ladies Softball League contest last night but it failed to overcome the B.Y.B.F.'s consistent attack.

The pennant leading Yardbirds scored in every inning to smash Blaind Barn 23-10.

Sue Morton hurled the win allowing ten hits and fanning seven. Sheilla Smith had a homer and three singles. Judy Johnson a homer and two singles. Penny Hughes five singles and Donna Preston four safeties in the victors 32 hit surge.

Debbie Weese picked up three singles in a losing cause for Blaind-Barn.

Spurs Too Sharp

Lucas Spur proved to be too sharp for Dan's Food as they recorded a 25-17 Girls Minor Softball win Thursday.

The Lucas victory moves them to the finals of the junior girls championship where they will face Clayton TV in the title game Tuesday at Harry J. Clarke public school.

Lenders Suffer Shattered

National Billiards broke up the Steelworkers by recording a 6-0 win in the opening round of Belleville Minor Soccer cup play.

Robin McKinney paced the 8 losers with three goals while Alan Woodley scored twice for the mosquito team and Ward Morse added the other tally.

"Wonder what made him so mad? He seemed very friendly at the weigh-in!"

Hull Protests 'Blackballing'

TORONTO (CP) — Bobby Hull says the decision from Team Canada of players who have signed with World Hockey Association clubs is "silly blackballing."

In an interview with The Globe and Mail in Chicago, the new playing coach of Winnipeg Jets of the WHA thanked Canadians, including Prime Minister Trudeau, who objected when he and other players originally invited to play in an eight-game series against Russia next month were barred.

Hull left Chicago Black Hawks of the National Hockey League to join the WHA. Other players affected were goaltender Gerry Cheevers, defenceman J. C. Tremblay and centre Derek Sanderson, who have signed with WHA clubs.

Under the agreement setting up the Canadian team, all players must sign NHL contracts before reporting to its training camp in Toronto Aug. 13.

Hull said he was surprised that only two of the other players chosen for the team protested when he was banned. Sanderson, who later displaced himself by signing with Philadelphia Blazers of the WHA, said he would not play for Team Canada if the Golden Jet was not included and Hull's brother, Dennis, also became his supporter.

"I told them both not to be silly and just go and give it their best shot for Canada," Hull said.

He added that he believed the WHA players might have remained on the team if the NHL Players Association had spoken up for them.

Perhaps Al Eagleson, the executive director of the players association, could have got me on if he had been my agent. Of course there's no way that he'd be my agent."

NHL Goes to Court

BOSTON (AP) — Clarence Campbell, president of the National Hockey League, said Thursday the NHL will oppose an injunction on many of the World Hockey Association declarers."

Campbell added: "We'll go after the big fish first."

The players he apparently referred to are Bobby Hull, formerly of Chicago Black Hawks who signed with Winnipeg Jets; Gerry Cheevers and Derek Sanderson, who jumped from Boston Bruins and J.C. Tremblay who left Montreal Canadiens.

The reserve clause is quite valid in NHL contracts and it will be enforceable by injunction," Campbell said in an interview on WSBK-TV.

"I would predict several test cases will be in order in the near future. We are not going to bed with the rival World Hockey Association."

Keon to Ottawa?

TORONTO (CP) — The Globe and Mail says Dave Keon has received a $50,000 cheque from Ottawa Nationals but the report was not confirmed by Keon's agent nor by the World Hockey Association club.

The newspaper says it has learned that the Toronto Maple Leafs centre left the office of Buck Houle, general manager of the Nationals, with the cheque last week and that it was signed by Nick Turkovitz of Buffalo, N.Y., who has come into partnership with Doug Michel of Toronto in the operation of the team.

The 32-year-old Leaf captain's contract with the National Hockey League club expired at the end of last season.

Keon's agent, Mike Ellis, said he has received no money.

"We're talking to them, that's all," he said. "I talked to them last a couple of weeks ago on the telephone."

Ellis said Keon is also negotiating with the Leafs.

"You ask embarrassing questions so I'll have to say no," Houle replied when asked about the cheque. "All I can say is I'm negotiating with his lawyer and his agent."

Riva Ridge In Stride

OCEANPORT, N.J. (AP) — Meadow Stable's Riva Ridge takes another stride Saturday on the road his owners hope will lead to his becoming the Horse of the Year for 1972.

The winner of the Kentucky Derby, Belmont Stakes and Hollywood Derby is the heavy favorite to add the $100,000 Monmouth Invitational Handicap for three-year-olds at Monmouth Park to his imposing list of successes.

Expected to oppose the top weighted 126-pound Riva Ridge in the 1¼ mile test are Cloudy Dawn and Fidelcas, each at 117 pounds, King's Bishop, 115, Gentleman Conn 114, Introductivo and Thirtee Squares each 113 and Deep Cut, 110.

Trainer Lucien Laurau said Riva Ridge went an easy five furlongs in 1:02 3-5 in his last workout before shipping from Saratoga and is in good form for the Monmouth.

Ron Turcotte, a native of Grand Falls, N.B., will ride for the three-year-old colt who has won 12 of 16 career starts and $362,152.

Job Crisis Feared

TORONTO (CP) — If the unemployment problem in Ontario and Canada is not solved soon, the country will be in the throes of a crisis that will overshadow the collapse of the economy in the 1930s, the Ontario Federation of Labor said Thursday.

David Archer, president of the OFL, told the province's select committee on economic and cultural nationalism that "of all sectors of our society, the working people have the most to lose by lack of action in resolving this important problem of the erosion of our national independence."

Mr. Archer, in presenting the federation's brief, said Ontario has the dubious distinction of leading the other provinces in foreign penetration of its economy, and almost all of this control is in the hands of American corporations.

"This erosion of our independence is causing great anxiety to the people of this province as it does indeed to all of Canada."

The labor leader said the OFL advocated a modern approach to economic nationalism to create a uniquely Canadian society and way of life.

Eaton Plan Approved

TORONTO (CP) — Complicated plans for the 15-ac re downtown Eaton Centre-Fair view redevelopment were approved Thursday night by Toronto's executive committee.

The $440-million-dollar project may be under way by the new year if approved by city council. Because it does not need rezoning for higher-density use, it does not require Ontario Municipal Board approval.

Council meets next Wednesday to debate the proposed agreement between the city and the developers.

Hormone Supported

EDMONTON (CP) — A federal government ban on the growth hormone DES would affect virtually all of Alberta's one million feeder cattle and would be "a crying shame," Dr. L. W. McElroy of the University of Alberta said Thursday.

Federal government officials are expected to decide within a few days whether Canadian cattle ranchers can continue to use the hormone which was banned in the United States Wednesday.

Dr. McElroy said birth control pills contain "a thousand times" larger amounts of the chemical than beef on the supermarket shelf.

The hormone was banned in the U.S. after studies connected it with vaginal cancer in 60 girls whose mothers received heavy doses of the chemical to combat threatened miscarriages.

Algoma Steel Pact Ratified

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP) — About 8,500 members of Local 2251 of the United Steelworkers of America decide today whether to ratify a three-year contract settlement negotiated between union leaders and Algoma Steel Corp. Ltd. last week.

The tentative agreement is expected to form the basis for settlements between the company and several other unions now negotiating with Algoma Steel.

Not Bankrupt

TORONTO (CP) — The Canadian Press reported erroneously July 26 in a story about air charter firms that Atlantic Air Brokers, a wholesaler of charter tickets, had filed bankruptcy papers.

In fact, the company has not filed bankruptcy papers. The company partnership has been dissolved.

All Options Open

J.J. Greene Ponders Future

OTTAWA (CP) — J. J. Greene still is pondering his political future in the light of continuing anticipation of a fall federal general election.

"I'm leaving all the options open," the tall, 52-year-old former energy minister said Thursday.

Mr. Greene, first of Prime Minister Trudeau's ministers to propound the government's mild nationalism, has not yet decided he will run again in his Niagara Falls Constituency.

Still handicapped following a stroke last fall in Japan, he reports three times a week to the military hospital here for physical therapy.

He also is in his Commons office several times a week to attend to constituency business. Most MPs now are either on holidays or are out handshaking in pre-election campaigns.

He refuses to say whether Mr. Trudeau has offered a Senate appointment as an alternative to running for re-election. But he does not dismiss such a possibility.

Paler and less enthusiastic than when he ran against Mr. Trudeau for the Liberal leadership in 1968, Mr. Greene says he will cross his political bridges when he reaches them.

"If I can, I would prefer to stay in public life."

"With the experience I've had and the confidence gained thereby, I had really felt until this blow, that I was just ready to make my maximum contribution in the future."

Mr. Greene first was elected to Parliament in 1963 as member for Renfrew South and was minister of agriculture from 1965 to 1968.

In 1967 he ran for the Ontario Liberal leadership against Robert Nixon and was defeated. The next year, he challenged Mr. Trudeau for the federal leadership, and again was defeated.

Redistribution in 1968 eliminated his Renfrew South riding, so he ran and won in Niagara Falls. Immediately after the election Mr. Trudeau named him minister of energy, mines and resources, a post he held until forced to resign the office following his heart attack, the third in a series dating back to November, 1968.

He says his decision will be more difficult if an election is called for this fall than if it is called for sometime next spring. The decision would be based mainly on the state of his health.

Oakland Police Chief To Take Calgary Post

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Oakland Police Chief Charles R. Gain said Thursday night he "definitely" plans to accept a job as police chief in Calgary Sept. 4, unless opposition becomes "overriding" before then.

"It's a commitment on my part which I have every intension of honoring," Gain said in an interview after flying from the Alberta city earlier Thursday.

The Calgary city council voted 6 to 5 Wednesday to welcome him. However, some angry citizens at the meeting protested they did not want an American as police chief and were opposed to the police commission's going out of the country to fill the post. Gain said he felt some were accused by California exaggerated this opposition. He said he felt most Canadian citizens were willing to welcome him.

He qualified his remarks, however, by saying he planned to make a "serious, accurate" analysis of citizen opposition. He said if he judged it had become "an overriding issue, a significant-type thing" he may "reassess the situation."

"Both Canada and the United States are nations of immigrants," Gain said. "One more Canadian immigrant should be welcomed. It's my expectation that Calgary's citizens will feel that way.

"I feel very strongly about wanting the job. I like the area and it's challenging to police administration," he said.

"But if I assess the anti American sentiment turns out to be overwhelming, I'll have to consider: 'Will I be there'."

Earlier, when he arrived at the San Francisco airport, Gain told reporters that he had until Sept. 4 to decide.

Gain said he was not "bitched personally" by the opposition, but would not want himself to "become a social agitator in other areas" because he feels this "would be a disservice to Calgary's citizens."

Small Nursing Homes Said Now Infeasible

TORONTO (CP) — Two city nursing homes which are too small to be profitable under the new provincial medical care payment scheme intend to close within the next few months.

Trafford House Nursing home, housing 18 elderly people, and Kelton House, housing 10, will close in August and October, respectively.

"The new system makes it impossible for us to operate," said Mrs. Ethel A. B. Davies, who operates the homes said Thursday. He estimated that a minimum of 30 patients are needed for a nursing home operation to be viable.

He explained that under legislation which became effective in April the province pays the nursing homes $9-a-day per patient. The family of the patient or the patient pays the balance, which is $3.50 a day for ward accommodation, $6.50 a day for a semi-private room and $9.50 for a private room.

A few of the patients will be transferred to a third nursing home operated by the Davies family. Those affected are all elderly people who are sick enough to qualify for nursing care but not sick enough to be admitted to hospital.

Non-resident Land Ownership Issue Stirs Intense Feelings

HALIFAX (CP) — Canada's premiers began to tackle the heavier end of their conference agenda today after getting bogged down on the matter of non-resident ownership of land as the two-day conference opened Thursday.

Federal-provincial policies for employment, the organization of higher education institutions, health care costs, foreign ownership and telecommunications were waiting for nine premiers and Premier Columbia's deputy provincial secretary today as they began their final day of discussions.

Although most Canadian premiers were not directly threatened, they spent considerable time and thought Thursday on non-resident land ownership. No consensus was reached although there were "intense feelings" on the issue, said Premier Gerald Regan of Nova Scotia, conference chairman.

Most provinces have experienced some form of difficulty in preserving land for their own residents, but at least two premiers argued strongly against placing barriers against other Canadians purchasing property.

Premier William Davis of Ontario and Premier Ed Schreyer of Manitoba said following Thursday's session that although they realized that some eastern provinces were troubled by non-resident purchases of land they hoped that it would not mean that other Canadians would be shut out of land purchases.

"I would hope, recognizing the unique problems of some of our provinces, that a Canadian citizen or resident would have the freedom to move around this country and have the same rights in one province as he has in another," said Premier Davis. "I would hope that solutions could be found to land use programs that would accommodate the very legitimate concerns of some provinces with respect to land."

Premier Schreyer registered very definite plea for a definition of non-resident "we think in national terms, rather than local or parochial terms." He thought it would be "very sad day" if legislation by any province was to preclude Canadians from any other part of the country buying land somewhere else in the country.

Premier Regan concluded that the premiers had decided there had been too much emphasis on residency and not enough on the use of land.

Premier Robert Bourassa of Quebec, who came to the meeting seeking some support from his counterparts on proposals for social security arrangements with Ottawa, was satisfied with "encouragement" support from the other provinces.

Premier Davis said he was not objecting to Quebec's position on principle but could go no further since "we are not aware of what the practical implications are."

Educational TV Offer Expected to Win Favor

OTTAWA (CP) — Government sources here are confident the provinces will be satisfied with the latest federal peace-offering in the struggle over educational television.

The new solution, announced Thursday by the state secretary's department, wipes out the blanket prohibition on provincial ownership of broadcasting licences.

Instead, the federal government will permit independent provincial corporations, similar to the CBC in the federal area, to obtain broadcasting licences from the Canadian Radio Television Commission.

These corporations will be free to control program content as long as it is within the definitions of educational programming accepted by the federal and provincial governments two years ago.

If observers here are right, the new move will remove a continuing irritant in federal-provincial relations dating back at least three years.

The new policy would allow the federal government to maintain its control over having out broadcasting frequencies and regulation for broadcasting system. But provincial jurisdiction in education would be recognized.

The independent provincial corporations will have to keep within the definition of educational broadcasting to obtain CRTC licences.

A spokesman for State Secretary Gerard Pelletier said that the earlier discussions with the provinces have indicated the change in rules would be satisfactory.

He said the provincial government may have further objections but "we feel quite confident it will ne acceptable."

The new policy still denies broadcasting licences to provincial government departments and agencies.

But it will allow independent provincial corporations to hold broadcasting licences for educational purposes. The only requirement is that the independent corporations must not be directly controlled by the provincial government.

"This means that the provincial corporation would have to be at least as autonomous in the provincial field as the CBC is in the federal area. The CBC reports to Parliament through Mr. Pelletier but it is free of direct government control.

What the Stars Say

By JEANE DIXON

Saturday, August 5

Aries (March 21-April 19): Being calm and affectionate fills a great need in your family circle. There is little to gain by rushing around in unfamiliar places.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Distraction may have some impact on your personal economy. Impulse buying isn't the best approach. Re-check facts and figures routinely.

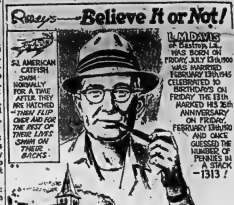
Gemini (May 21-June 20): Today's encounter has been shaping up a little at a time all week. Take it from the beginning, work it out with real love.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Haste and negligence can bring you up short early in the day's available, yes, and partially correctible. Have patience.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): Wearing your heart on your sleeve may set you up for harsh words later, but seems to be the only way to go. Leave friends out of money deals.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Being sensitive doesn't suffice nor can you compromise principles. Seek social involvement rather than stay at home.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Even a little extra effort brings dividends. Good ways of self-expression are available. Don't be over-eager in exciting approval.



Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 2 Creative qualities surface, should not be wasted on casual entertainment. Relationships, romantic interests intensify.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): The momentum of your efforts attracts interference, anybody near will do, may respond to your haste. Slow down, forget decisions.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): You may be swamped with more work than you can handle. Learn to divert some of it by saying "no" once in a while.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Neither lend nor borrow today for any reason. Find a novel way of expressing your real feelings, surprise someone you care about.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Refrain from rash words as you balance and budget your time between conflicting demands. Find time for your esthetic or emotional side.

Many Hospitals Have Volunteers

By G.C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My girl friend and I are both 22. We are very serious about becoming nurses in a maternity ward. When we turn 14 we want to become candy-stripers. Could you give us information about the job and what hospitals still have candy-stripers? — K.M.

Most all large hospitals either have candy-stripers or programs that mean the same thing but go under some other name.

Some just call it the "volunteer program." Anyway, it's a fine and worthwhile sort of thing to get into, and it's excellent training for bright girls who want to become nurses eventually.

The candy-stripers do such things as working with the occupational therapy staff, working in the children's ward, and so on. Besides making themselves useful, they gain a first-hand insight into the way hospitals operate.

Programs and ages vary a bit from one hospital to another. In the one I'm most familiar with, 16 is the age, but they sometimes stretch a point—some girls are more grown up at 15 than others are at 17.

You're too young at 13 or 13 anywhere, of course, but in a couple of years ask for an interview at the hospital. Be on your toes—some hospitals have more applicants than openings.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: About ringing noises in the ear—really can they be cured? I've been told several times that doctors don't know what causes them and don't know how the noises can be stopped.—F.W.

Like a lot of things you hear, that's true in part, but wrong in part. Doctors don't know what causes all ear noises, but they know what causes some.

Sometimes the noises can't be cured, but that doesn't mean folks shouldn't do what can be done to cure the curable noises.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My daughter will be 18 next month and has never had her monthly period. Would you recommend taking her for an examination? Isn't this rare, as I think the average age to start menstruation is about 14?—J.M.

The age of starting varies rather widely, from 13 or younger, to 16 or 17. By age 18 it's wise to check up. She may be deficient in glandular activity, the thyroid for one. And is she of normal weight? Excess weight can have quite an effect, too.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What is there besides tuberculosis that can leave a scar on the lung? I am 78 and recently had a routine lung x-ray. The doctor told me I must have had TB sometime in my life but I haven't. What else could cause it? How could a person have TB and not know it, or get over it without treatment?—M.R.G.

Well, people do throw off even serious diseases, and years ago, when there wasn't any treatment for TB except bed rest, some patients did recover any way. So it can happen, but it is quite rare.

X-rays keep on turning up such people who never knew they had TB.

There's one other disease that causes scarring that closely resembles that of TB. It is a fungus infection called histoplasmosis. In your case it's endemic, and whatever you had, you got over. With such cases, there are skin tests which determine whether the organism at work is TB or histoplasmosis.

Bidding Quiz

You are South, both sides vulnerable. The bidding has been:

North	East	South	West
1♥	Pass	1♠	Pass
2♣	Pass	?

What would you bid now with each of the following five hands?

1. ♠ AJ32 ♥Q4 ♦KQ10 ♣QJ63
2. ♠QJ932 ♥K3 ♦96 ♣AQ7
3. ♠AQJ86 ♥Y5 ♦K74 ♣KJ3
4. ♠AQJ986 ♥K2 ♦5 ♣Q 9 5
5. ♠KJ764 ♥Q8 ♦3 ♣KQ742

1. Three notrump. An opening bid facing an opening bid means game. Game must be rewarded here as certain and there are also strong indications that everything is the best spot. If partner prefers a suit contract or has slam aspirations, he is free to bid suits over three notrump.

It would be wrong to bid either two notrump or three clubs instead. These bids would indicate about 11 points and would unnecessarily run the risk that partner might pass.

2. Two hearts. With only a shade more than the minimum values for a spade response, you should show willingness to stop in a part score by bidding your hearts. It is better in say two hearts than pass, since North might have a game - going hand, and it is also better to bid two hearts than three clubs, which would be more forward going.

3. True, the clubs are of better quality than the hearts, but it would be wrong to let that factor sway you in choosing the trump suit. It must be remembered that the odds distinctly favor partner's having more hearts than clubs.

3. Three clubs. The raise to the three level suggests a possibility of game if North has more than minimum values, but it is by no stretch of the imagination forcing. Two spades would show a good suit but would not be as encouraging for game going purposes as a straightforward raise in clubs.

4. Three hearts. It is clear that game must be undertaken, and the jump preference in hearts, forcing, tells the story. There is no need to mend the spades with a good heart fit already established.

5. Four clubs. The excellent trump fit and the powerful distribution both indicate there is a game in the cards — even though there are only 11 high - card points. Thus, if partner had only the A-K of hearts and ace of clubs, he would still be a good chance for game.

If North became slam-minded after the jump raise, he could use Blackwood to learn how many aces we have. This weakness in our hand — no aces — is easily discoverable.

Tomorrow: Detective work.

INDIAN HUNTING GROUNDS AND GOLD MINE COUNTRY

Shawano is a Canadian Heritage. One of the few unspoiled farms remaining in Southern Ontario it offers year-round vacation living in a beautiful setting. The 1,200 acre tract encompasses two lakes, streams and lush hardwood forests where wildlife range freely. Centuries before the arrival of European settlers, Ojibway tribes hunted and fished the area, which is reputed for its beauty. A century ago, the region was the scene of Ontario's first gold mine.

You can now buy a hunt lake, front lot from $400 down ($4,900 full price). Acreage and gorgeous cottage plans from $4,695. Special cottage prices available, including lot, cottage, plumbing and wiring. Shawano is only 7 miles northeast of Peterborough in the Highlands of Hastings. If you love the scene of history, Shawano is your kind of place. For free colored literature, phone 968-4371, Bowes and Cocks Limited, 175 North Front St., Belleville.

Fraud Alleged

LONDON (CP) — A hard-hitting Opposition member charges in the House of Commons that the public is being fleeced of millions of pounds through fraudulent companies and that the government isn't doing much about it.

Labor member Arthur Lewis named a group of companies Thursday, including one incorporated in Canada which he described as the most notorious of the lot, and claimed that government officials have done a cover-up job on company operators who have broken the law.

Provincial Premiers For Decentralization

Parley Called Turning Point

HALIFAX (CP) — A new accord in Canadian inter-provincial relations with decentralization as the theme appeared to have been forged at the two-day Canadian premiers conference which ended here Friday.

"A significant turning point," said conference chairman Premier Gerald Regan of Nova Scotia. Other premiers in declaring Robert Bourassa of Quebec, who had observed prior to the conference that it could constitute a "last chance" for his province in inter-provincial affairs, expressed satisfaction.

"It's evident that more decentralization will exist in Canada," Premier Bourassa said. "It seems obvious that with a new generation of premiers there will be more decentralization and this will be good for all regions of Canada."

He noted that all provinces had agreed on a number of "key questions for the future of Canada" after plowing through an agenda which many thought could not be covered in time.

Among issues agreed upon was an immediate start on negotiations with Ottawa on financing of higher education.

The present program of federal grants to universities expires in 1974.

There also was agreement on an appeal to Ottawa for early consultations with the provinces regarding a program to overcome winter unemployment.

The premiers unanimously adopted a resolution, initiated by Saskatchewan, that the provinces should have a say in communications policy and programming, including television.

They also agreed to form a common position at this fall's tri-level conference on urban affairs, while reasserting their view that municipalities must remain under exclusive provincial control.

Premier Allan Blakeney of Saskatchewan, who with his western compatriots appeared to have taken a leading role in the conference, saw a new trend developing to find common ground and present a united position to Ottawa.

"There is a genuine effort on the part of the premiers to find what the common ground is and to identify the ground that isn't common and there are substantial differences—to put points of view to Ottawa not in a way which is shrill or carping."

The premiers had divergent views on collective bargaining for public employees, whether any residents should be allowed to buy up valuable property in a province, and whether there should be a new federal-provincial cost-sharing arrangement on health care.

The possibility of revising federal-provincial constitutional talks, which ended in Victoria, B.C., last year, was suggested by Premier Bourassa. Other premiers thought they could probably be no early resumption of the talks.

"It seemsato me that what will follow is that we're going to live with the constitution we have now, but we're going to see the programs operated more extensively by the provincial governments and the financial arrangements will reflect that over the course of perhaps the decade ahead," said Premier Peter Lougheed of Alberta.

Flood in Fountain

Sure makes it hard for a girl to get a drink of water when the fountain is full to overflowing. Heather Jackson's cup was running over on Zwick's Island, but after a little bailing she got her drink and was on her way.

THIS SAFETY NET in Belfast, is used to ward off bombs thrown from cars. Shop owners inside the barrier claim it has stopped nearly all their business. There is a pedestrian gate at each end of the barrier and persons passing through are searched. (CP Photo)

Bremer Given 63 Years

UPPER MARLBORO, Md. (CP) — Arthur H. Bremer, characterized by both prosecution and the defence as mentally ill, has been found guilty of wounding Alabama Gov. George Wallace and three other persons.

He was sentenced Friday to 63 years in prison in connection with the outburst of violence at a Wallace political rally at Laurel, Md., shopping centre May 15.

Branded as a "second-rate assassin" who wanted to kill to impress his mother, Bremer, 21, kept a diary which revealed that he attacked Wallace after failing to assassinate President Nixon in Ottawa.

He will be eligible for parole after serving 15 years and nine months of his sentence.

Police Do Not Intervene

Defiant Protestants Hold Uniformed March

BELFAST (AP) — A defiant march today by 1,000 members of the paramilitary Protestant Ulster Defence association posed a major threat to British efforts to find a path to peace in Northern Ireland.

R o m a n Catholic-orientated parliamentarians in Ulster indicated that unless police action was taken against the marchers they would pull out of talks with the British administration.

But the UDA—the Protestants' answer to the Irish Republican Army—challenged security forces to a showdown and boasted that in the face of their militancy British administrator William Whitelaw was "helpless."

The UDA men, masked and wielding clubs, stamped through the predominantly Protestant Woodstock zone of Belfast late Friday night.

Despite a warning by Whitelaw in the London Parliament Thursday that people parading in paramilitary uniforms in inflamed areas of Northern Ireland would be prosecuted, neither police nor soldiers intervened.

an army spokesman said: "The UDA marchers have broken the law and the police did not intervene. We did not intervene because the police did not ask us to intervene. This is basically a police matter."

A spokesman at police head quarters confirmed no arrests were made, but added that charges could be laid against identified marchers. He said, however, that because many of the UDA men were masked identification would be difficult.

Radio Relay Station Raided

SAIGON (CP) — Scores of North Vietnamese and Viet Cong sappers with explosives charges strapped to backs attacked a strategic mountaintop radio relay station in Kontum under cover of a 200-round rocket and mortar barrage before dawn today.

The U.S. and South Vietnamese commands said the assault was driven back with no major damage to the installation atop 3,000 foot Nui Ba Den mountain 55 miles northwest of Saigon.

Lewis Makes Charge

Sewage Treatment Report Suppressed

NEW GLASGOW, N.S. (CP) — David Lewis, national leader of the New Democratic Party, said here Friday that suppression of a Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation report on sewer treatment is resulting in the loss of millions of dollars in tax money.

Mr. Lewis said the Seaden report, a six volume study on sewer treatment, has not been made public despite the fact its authors presented the report to Ottawa 18 months ago.

He said the report says not enough money is being spent in Canada to contain pollution from human waste. Tax dollars were being thrown away because of the lack of planning and cost procedures.

He said the report, like the Dennis report on housing, is being suppressed by the Trudeau government. He said many city and town engineers would find much of the material in the Seaden report useful.

Parley Called Turning Point

HALIFAX (CP) — A new accord in Canadian inter-provincial relations with decentralization as the theme appeared to have been forged at the two-day Canadian premiers conference which ended here Friday.

"A significant turning point," said conference chairman Premier Gerald Regan of Nova Scotia. Other premiers in declaring Robert Bourassa of Quebec, who had observed prior to the conference that it could constitute a "last chance" for his province in inter-provincial affairs, expressed satisfaction.

"It's evident that more decentralization will exist in Canada," Premier Bourassa said. "It seems obvious that with a new generation of premiers there will be more decentralization and this will be good for all regions of Canada."

He noted that all provinces had agreed on a number of "key questions for the future of Canada" after plowing through an agenda which many thought could not be covered in time.

Among issues agreed upon was an immediate start on negotiations with Ottawa on financing of higher education.

The present program of federal grants to universities expires in 1974.

There also was agreement on an appeal to Ottawa for early consultations with the provinces regarding a program to overcome winter unemployment.

The premiers unanimously adopted a resolution, initiated by Saskatchewan, that the provinces should have a say in communications policy and programming, including television.

They also agreed to form a common position at this fall's tri-level conference on urban affairs, while reasserting their view that municipalities must remain under exclusive provincial control.

Premier Allan Blakeney of Saskatchewan, who with his western compatriots appeared to have taken a leading role in the conference, saw a new trend developing to find common ground and present a united position to Ottawa.

"There is a genuine effort on the part of the premiers to find what the common ground is and to identify the ground that isn't common and there are substantial differences—to put points of view to Ottawa not in a way which is shrill or carping."

The premiers had divergent views on collective bargaining for public employees, whether any residents should be allowed to buy up valuable property in a province, and whether there should be a new federal-provincial cost-sharing arrangement on health care.

The possibility of revising federal-provincial constitutional talks, which ended in Victoria, B.C., last year, was suggested by Premier Bourassa. Other premiers thought they could probably be no early resumption of the talks.

"It seemsato me that what will follow is that we're going to live with the constitution we have now, but we're going to see the programs operated more extensively by the provincial governments and the financial arrangements will reflect that over the course of perhaps the decade ahead," said Premier Peter Lougheed of Alberta.

Toronto Fireman Killed

TORONTO (CP) — Fireman William James Foster, 37, was killed early today when trapped in the basement of a burning three-storey building on westbound Queen Street near Roncesvalles Ave.

Four other firemen were hurt in the three alarm blaze that left only the walls standing in the four hours before it was brought under control.

Mr. Gesty, an 11-year veteran of the Toronto fire department, was the first to enter the room to open the basement door. The handle was "red hot," a department spokesman said.

'Dief' in Hospital

OTTAWA (CP) — Former prime minister John Diefenbaker entered hospital Friday for a hernia operation scheduled for today, his office announced. A spokesman said Mr. Diefenbaker, 76, suffered the hernia three weeks ago during a fishing trip in his Saskatchewan riding of Prince Albert.

Not a Single Call

SIMCOE, Ont. (CP) — Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield sat through an hour-long radio talk show Friday without receiving a single call. After the show, Mr. Stanfield went out to meet the public himself with a bit of hand shaking at the county administration building and a tour of Norview, a senior citizens home.

Gunmen Slay Four

BARRINGTON HILLS, Ill. (AP) — Four persons were killed Friday night when gunmen invaded their home. An unknown number of persons entered the home of Paul M. Carbett, 64, rounded up all occupants of the mansion, herded them into the kitchen pantry and opened fire with .25-and .30 calibre weapons.

Eat Cats, Rats, Snakes

MANILA (Reuter) — Starving villagers are eating cats, rats and water snakes to stay alive during the Philippines worst floods this century, refugees reported in Manila Friday. The official death toll in the three-week-long disaster is put at 291 so far.

Criticism Swells

TORONTO (CP) — Criticism of Attorney-General Dalton Bales by opposition members of the provincial legislature gained momentum Friday in the wake of disclosures that the Ontario cabinet minister owns land near the proposed international airport at Pickering, northwest of Toronto. New Democratic Party leader Stephen Lewis said not only cabinet ministers, but all 117 members of the legislature, government and opposition alike, should be required to disclose their land holdings.

Hijackers Released

ALGIERS (AP) — A Black Panther spokesman said Friday the American who hijacked a Delta Air Lines jet with $1 million ransom to Algeria this week have been released from government custody. Government sources said the hijackers had been free to move about as they wish ever since their arrival. An inquiry into the hijack is still going on, and the ransom money is being held by the government.

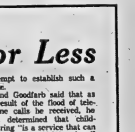
Bremer Given 63 Years

UPPER MARLBORO, Md. (CP) — Arthur H. Bremer, characterized by both prosecution and the defence as mentally ill, has been found guilty of wounding Alabama Gov. George Wallace and three other persons.

He was sentenced Friday to 63 years in prison in connection with the outburst of violence at a Wallace political rally at Laurel, Md., shopping centre May 15.

Branded as a "second-rate assassin" who wanted to kill to impress his mother, Bremer, 21, kept a diary which revealed that he attacked Wallace after failing to assassinate President Nixon in Ottawa.

He will be eligible for parole after serving 15 years and nine months of his sentence.



McGovern Rebuffed By Muskie

WASHINGTON (CP) — Senator Edmund Muskie, George McGovern's fourth choice for a running mate, will refuse the offer to be the Democratic vice-presidential candidate, McGovern's press secretary said today.

"Our understanding is Muskie is going to say no," Richard Dougherty told a reporter.

Dougherty said McGovern, who won the Democratic presidential nomination last month in Miami Beach, got the word from Muskie today.

Muskie's refusal, due formally at a news conference in Kennebunk, leaves McGovern without a running mate and in what most observers consider a very embarrassing political situation.

"How about a jumping mate?

What Price A Baby?

Actuary Is Able to Fix Going Rate at Ten Grand or Less

PHILADELPHIA, Pa. (Reuter) — Forget it, girls—that advertisement offering $10,000 cash if you'd just have a baby was a boax.

Dozens of women from across the United States and around the world responded to a widely published news story about an advertisement offering $10,000 and $3,000 in education benefits to someone who would have a baby for a childless couple.

But the man who placed the advertisement, Lenard E. Goodfarb, a 45-year-old actuary, telephoned Reuters Friday from what he called a "secret hideaway" to say the whole thing was a put-on.

Goodfarb said he placed the advertisement in The Drummer, a weekly Philadelphia newspaper, in an effort to get information for his profession. Actuaries are economic mathematicians who estimate insurance premiums and pensions and aid in financial settlements after accidents.

The advertisement purportedly offering $10,000 to a woman who would bear a child for another couple, was a device to determine the value of a housewife's services including child-bearing, said Goddfarb.

He explained that when a man dies, "he is earning so much a year so we have a mathematical base for determining his loss."

"But when a housewife is killed, there is no mathematical base," he said. His advertisement, he said, was an attempt to establish such a base.

And Goodfarb said that as a result of the flood of telephone calls he received, he has determined that childbearing "is a service that can be bought for $10,000 or less."

Trent Authority Gets New Office

The Lower Trent Region Conservation Authority is moving its office headquarters to Campbellford where it has obtained space on the second floor of the town hall.

Since the organization of the authority in 1968, the Trent Region office has been at the home of its Secretary Treasurer, William Lawson, on a Carrying Place Road outside Trenton. But as the office volumes grew this accommodation became too crowded.

"We just had to have more office room and when space became available at Campbellford it was decided to move," Mr. Lawson told The Intelligencer.

The Campbellford office will be opened Aug. 8, but it is expected it will take a few days to get settled.

With one year lease on the second floor Campbellford office space has been taken.

The Lower Trent Region takes in the Trent River watershed from the village of Hastings to the Murray Canal south of Trenton, a distance of 40 miles.

In addition to providing more office space as well as a board room, the move to Campbellford will also provide a separate office for John Wolfe who has been working out of Camilton in his dual role as resources manager for the Moira River Conservation Authority and for the Lower Trent Region.

Mr. White will move his files to Campbellford and will work out of that office three days of the week — Monday, Wednesdays and Fridays and from the Moira office at Camilton on Tuesdays and Wednesdays.

Something New for Militia

Three girls have now included their name on the roll of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment. Though not officially Hasty Pees, they train with the company and are part of the Canadian Women's Army Corps. Here Karen McCauley trains on the rifle range.

Girls Join Ranks

Three girls have infiltrated the ranks of the Hastings and Prince Edward Militia and have turned out to be three of the most competitive people in the company.

"We are out to prove that we can do anything a boy can do," said Karen McCauley.

The only complaint of the girls is that the uniforms issued by the Canadian Women's Army Corps are too baggy. Although not especially feminine, the girls have chosen pants and shirts.

The girls, screened from a number of applicants, have been working in the summer course and will continue in the fall with the regular militia.

"We are in here for the challenge," said Debi Swihart, "It has got a lot to do with women's lib," agreed all three girls.

"When we first came through the door we were greeted with laughs and it was treated as just a big joke," said one of the girls.

The girls must comply with all military procedures and are accepting the responsibility, as outlined by company commander Major Carl Hubel "you are girls and everyone is going to be looking at you to see how you are performing."

Since that first piece of advice that girls have developed a reputation for being the best dressed people in the place and are scoring high on examinations.

In a first aid course, all three girls placed in the top of the class.

"As far as posture and such goes, they are outstanding," said Major Hubel.

In their course they participate in all aspects of militia except field work.

They shoot rifles, learn drill and at present are being trained as administrative clerks said Major Hubel.

This week the girls went on a four mile hike by map and compass and later in the month will hopefully be taking part in a three-day campout.

The campout will include a 20 miles of walking.

Commenting on the whole situation Lynn Wood said: "the pay is not bad ($8.80 a day), we would never get this type of thing anywhere else and the boots are comfortable."

Industrial Commissioners Plight

City Can't Move Quickly Enough

By COLIN BRUCE
Staff Reporter

Belleville recently lost a possible industry which had the potential of taking the city name all over the world in its marketing techniques and national advertising because, in part, the city is not equipped to accommodate companies quickly.

Allegre Metals Corp., specializing in the manufacturing of aluminum trailers couldn't locate in the city for a numer of reasons, this being one of them.

The company would have had an employee figure of about 60, and like Black Diamond Cheese, it would have carried the 'Made in Belleville' stamp around the world.

Fred Bemis, industrial commissioner for the city said "it is companies like this that further, not only the industrial aspect of the city put promote the entire economic spectrum."

Allegre Metals applied for government to do necessary work on the site and were refused.

They lataer applied for another loan but by the time the regulations were successfully completed it was too late for construction to begin.

"All this does is re-inforce the need for more serviced industrial land in the city," said Mr. Bemis.

Allegre Metals were that close to being a member of the industrial community here and were the recipient of the situation of little suitable serviced land.

In the city there are 220 acres of industrial park and possible sites.

Only 30 scattered acres have services, and none of this acreage is showcase property.

For land to be showcase property it generally will have frontage on Highway 401 for display purposes.

The remainder of the property is generally open field, standing idle, waiting to be occupied and serviced.

The industrial commissioner said goodbye to Belleville and moved its plant to Orangeville, like many others in the past few years who would have made quicker decisions about locating here if serviced land was readily available.

Mr. Bemis is hard put to find the facility available, we could have had a new company here, hiring well over 100 people," said Mr. Bemis. Belleville's industrial average is about 60.

Legal near the Quinte Mall is showcase property. The highway runs nearby and Front Street is just a jump away.

For the moment most potential clients can't get a very good look at the site because there is no road. Two and other sites in the city pose problems to Mr. Bemis when he takes clients to show what Belleville has to offer.

"I've walked up side roads and into fields in the middle of winter with clients, showing them what kind of land is available," he said.

"It would certainly make our job easier if we could drive the client into the site."

The way Mr. Bemis assesses the situation it is a buyers' market and the municipalities who act quickly will take greatest advantage of the coming, projected industrial upswing.

The country's economy is becoming more buoyant and businessmen are willing to step onto a more more quickly," said Mr. Bemis.

"They will step quickly if we have something a little better to offer. In the past, financial activity has been sluggish and cautious decisions.

The answer is to have a serviced site, ready-made with an existing building, he said.

At the moment 10 companies each capable of employing 1,000 people, are looked at on available sites here.

In all, 20 companies (agencies) are pending in various areas of negotiations.

Mr. Bemis claimed Belleville will experience a good industrial upswing but that an industrial mall would be a great benefit at this time.

He projected that a parcel of land could be taken and a building erected that would be suitable for dividing into units, catered to individual needs.

"This type of accommodation would be ideal. Firms to be come well acquainted with our market, and usually these firms will build their own plants within two to five years.

"We have to be realistic and we just have to work harder," said Mr. Bemis.

Tomato or Potato or Both

For a while, it looked like a botanical wonder was sprouting this summer in Estelle Gardner's Purdy St. garden.

What happened was this:

In the spring, Mrs. Gardner laid down a patch of potato plants. Some time later, a friend gave her some cherry tomato plants, which we re bedded down close to the potatoes.

Suddenly, a few weeks ago, small growths appeared on the potato plants. Green, round and firm, they looked just like unripened cherry tomatoes. People viewing them were sure it was a phenomenon.

Just to make sure, Mrs. Gardner dug up one of the plants. Sure enough, there were potatoes nestling at its tip.

A baffled Mrs. Gardner pondered how the versatility of a vine which could produce what appeared to be tomatoes above ground while nurturing potatoes below ground.

A call to the federal Smithfield experimental farm brought an answer.

Explained researcher Dr. Stan Louis: Although potato, tomato vines are closely related, a botanical marriage, even in the same garden bed, is impossible What looked like cherry tomatoes were either potato seed pods or growths stimulated by some organism.

Body Found In Lake

Brighton provincial police Friday were working to identify the body of a young man believed to be in his early 20s which was recovered in Lake Ontario about 20 miles south of Colborne.

The body was discovered by the crew of a lake freighter, the English River from Quebec.

Search and Rescue at CFB Trenton and Brighton provincial police were notified and a coast guard cutter from Presqu'Ile was dispatched to recover the body. The young man was clad in shorts and a short sleeved summer shirt. It is believed the body had been in the water for about a week.

Brighton OPP are working with Metropolitan police in Toronto in an effort to establish identification.

It Was A Day To Forget

It was a day to forget for Everett Phillips of 135 College Street West.

It started when Mr. Phillips backed his car down the driveway of 29 Bongard Crescent.

The vehicle hit a hydro pole. But it didn't stop there. Slipped into forward gear, the car plunged ahead, the driver unable to control it, police report.

It smashed through a back fence, struck the southeast corner of a garage at 11 Bonard Crescent continued on its way, ripped through a tent set up in the yard, and finally came to rest against an apple tree.

A shaken but otherwise unhurt Mr. Phillips emerged.

The total damage bill? Approximately $600 to the car, and another $1,000 in property damage.

Ball Hill To Be Levelled

Ball Hill on the Rawdon-Sidney Town line east of Stirling, is to be flattened.

The H. J. McFarland Construction Company of Picton has been awarded the contract for rebuilding the hallside section of roadway which has proved treacherous for driving under winter conditions.

The road will be levelled with approximately 40,000 cubic yards of material being taken out. Some of the work will be underwritten by the province as a development project. Work is expected to commence within 10 days

IN MEMORIAM

BOYLE — In loving memory of a dear husband and daughter who passed away August 4, 1966.

Dear husband and daughter, we loved you dearly,
But it cannot fill the longing,
Your smile and laughter,
Who shall say the grief of bereaved,
Who shall say the pain of heart bereaved,
Memories
Memories keep the wound still sore,
Memories keep the heart still true,
Lovingly remembered by Mom and Family. Aug-4-1

ANDERSON — In loving memory of Irene Anderson who passed away August 4, 1964.

Those we love we do not forget,
Those we would see more often,
Those we wish to death so soon would part,
Treasured forever in our memory,
Sadly missed by wife Evelyn and family. Aug-4-1

BURRELL — In loving memory of a dear wife and mother, Bertha Jane, who passed away August 4th, 1966.

Those we love we do not forget,
Those we would see more often,
Those we loved was called away,
God in His wisdom has a place,
But in our hearts she liveth still.
Lovingly remembered by husband Ernest and family, Hazle, Cecil and Norman. Aug-4-1

O'NEILL — In loving memory of a dear husband and daughter, Mary, who passed away August 7th, 1966, and daughter Mary Ann, who passed away August 8th, 1966.

Quietly remembered everyday,
No one knows the heart ache,
But in our hearts she's always there.
Lovingly remembered by husband, sister Jean, and Gladys.

BOYLE — In loving memory of a dear sister and aunt, Margaret Lorraine Boyle, who passed away August 6, 1964.

Ten years of sadness passing,
Though still we count the days,
Still we miss you, dear Margaret Lorraine Boyle.
Sadly missed by sister Beverley, brother-in-law Bill and family.

CORPORATION OF THE CITY OF BELLEVILLE

GARBAGE NOTICE

Householders who would normally place their garbage for collection on Monday, August 5th, 1974 are reminded that, in accordance with the contract with the City of Belleville Garbage Collection contractor there will be no collection made on that day, it being the statutory holiday known as "Civic Holiday".

Garbage and refuse should be retained and placed for collection on the next normal collection day, by householders so affected.

Artful Dodge Still Evident

Your everyday ordinary pickpocket looks like someone who would probably never be remembered in a crowd. For him, that is fine, for the dip's claim to ill-fame is his ability to slip unobtrusively through a crowd, occasionally stopping a moment or two for a wallet lift.

Now, while Belleville is not a regular haunting ground for the "Artful Dodger"... (city police records show few arrests have been made in recent years, none in 1971)... events such as the Quinte Exhibition do provide prime target areas.

It's no secret that pickpockets follow the fall fairs. Those that do, says city police Chief Douglas Crosbie, are usually the more experienced. "However, that's not to say the amateur wouldn't take the opportunity," he said.

The catching and conviction of a pickpocket is not a simple task.

They usually work where large gatherings of people can be found, but can strike anywhere, at any time.

A regular television advertisement heralding the merits of purchasing travelers' cheques, is a good example of how pairs operate. The front man on the bus spots the woman passenger's purse and notifies the dip, who in the TV advertisement was a woman.

On leaving the bus, the front man causes the victim to collide with him. While they exchange brief apologies, the catch is made.

A third team member can be employed. It is to this person, or stall, that the actual pickpocket passes the take, which in many instances makes it next to impossible for the money to be recovered.

International pickpockets (dip, cannon, pocket, mort and stall are common slang expressions which refer to various types of pickpockets) found Canada placed on their map with the coming of Expo 67 in Montreal. Since 1967, that city has experienced an average of 300 victims a year.

In the big city, police often look for the possible victim rather than the pocket men, on the theory if they can spot logical prey, so can the pickpockets.

The same methods, to some extent, apply in smaller centres such as Belleville. Plain-clothes and uniformed policemen looks for women with shoulder strap purses, dangling behind them with the flap pointing outwards. Police recommend women who carry this type of carry-all should keep them to the front, with the flap pointing inside. Back pockets used by men are easy targets for the quick-fingered bunch.

Men should put their wallets in the front pocket. Another suggestion if one has to carry large amounts of cash, is to distribute it through several pockets.

Police are firmly against signs warning against the presence of pickpockets. The person who keeps checking his pocket to see if the wallet is still there, is often making an open invitation, police say.

Chief Crosbie warns against leaving purses on strollers or baby buggies, and against taking any rides with purses open or loosely held. A woman should keep her purse firmly grasped, not carelessly slung by its strap. "Check belongings to see if anything has fallen out," he cautions.

He also points out the necessity of notifying credit card companies immediately a theft is discovered. Chief Crosbie cited a recent case of several youths who drove to Belleville from Vancouver and lived the "Life of Reilly" with stolen credit cards, stayed in the best of hotels, and left a trail of false charge purchases behind them.

The pickpocket may spend a long time watching for the right moment to strike. But he is usually highly skilled at his work, and the actual moment when he places his hands where they don't belong, can be just that . . . a moment.

Off To Zambia

After almost 50 years of active service with CN, C. R. "Jimmy" BUSKARD, formerly of Belleville, has retired.

At first a call boy, he began his machinist apprenticeship in May, 1924, attaining the position of mechanical inspector, motive power, five years later. At his recent retirement party in Montreal, he was honored by 400 fellow employees and presented with his lifetime pass. The former Thurlow Township native has now accepted a posting to Zambia with his wife Margaret, as a consultant. On completion of this assignment, in 1973, he and his wife expect to take up residence in Belleville.

To Get Trophy

A highlight of the Belleville Flying Club's booth at the Quinte Exhibition, this coming week will be the presentation of the George Hees' Trophy to provincial record-breaking flyer Franels Lesk.

Mr. Hees, MP, will personally make the presentation in Francis who flew solo over the Belleville club for more than eight hours.

Exact time for the occasion has not been set.

In Parade

Only four convertibles will travel across town in the Quinte Exhibition's grand parade next Wednesday. Dignitaries on board will be Mayor J. Russell Scott and his wife, exhibition president John R. Bush and Mrs. Bush, second vice-president Doug Rollins and Mrs. Rollins and Women's division president Mrs. Robert Barkitt and Mr. Burkitt. Other special guests will view the parade from a section in the grandstand.

New Teacher

The position of teacher of newspaper production and public relations in the communication arts staff at Loyalist College has been filled by Robert Haggas. Mr. Huggan has had 20 years experience in the newspaper and magazine field. He began his duties this week.

Veterans Invited

The Law 1972-Style

The administration of the law in this country — as well as in other parts of the English-speaking world — is becoming, as they say, curioser and curioser.

For instance we have been talking on occasions about our bail system and the Government's increasing regard for the criminal element, treating them almost as pampered citizens and the rest of us — the law-abiding — be damned.

In one case we referred to the fact that a judge at a Supreme Court hearing in Sudbury had let off with a suspended sentence an Ohio man convicted of raping a 15-year-old girl. We recall the judge being quoted as saying the man was of good character generally and was unlikely to repeat such an offence.

Incredible, is it not? And particularly when it is realized that until recently the penalty for rape, in the United States at least, was death. That has been changed of course by the U.S. Supreme Court but the seriousness with which the offence is regarded in the minds of the general public, if not the authorities, remains.

In any event, the Crown must have appealed the sentence, for we see now that the man, who incidentally pleaded guilty to the original hearing, has been extradited from the United States and will serve a three-year sentence in Kingston penitentiary.

Thus justice appears to be being served at last in this case at least, a perplexing one by any standards since the man leaves behind a young family in the U.S. The offence was committed against a baby-sitter minding his children while he was vacationing at a lake near Sudbury.

Exit Denied

The plight of the two native-born Canadians and their Soviet spouses who are trying to get out of Russia seems to have reached a crucial stage. Denied exit visas by the Soviet authorities and apparently given a cold shoulder by the Canadian embassy in Moscow where they went on a brief hunger strike, it is difficult to see what they can do now to achieve their goal.

Æugene Lenko and Nadia Demikenko and their families have been assured entry to Canada if Soviet authorities allow them to leave ,but permission has not been forthcoming despite repeated applications. Both are in their early 30s and reluctantly emigrated to the Ukraine with their parents 16 years ago.

At the moment it is one of those dead-end situations which are such a blight for the people of the Communist world. Humanitarianism is not a strong point of the bureaucracy anywhere, but it is singularly lacking in the Soviet world. The embassy people cannot be faulted perhaps ,since it is felt the hunger strike may hamper their exit efforts still further. As of now it is a story without a happy ending.

Broadcasting in Quebec

There was a time,not so long ago when the CBC was virulently anti-American almost to the point of being "pinko," if not red, in the tenor of its programming.

Of late the broadcasting corporation seems to have toned down this trend so that it is a lot less noticeable and may be regarded as reasonably fair and balanced.

On the French-language network however, political slant or manipulation is apparently present in a large degree. That is the word from Acting Quebec Premier Marie-Clair Kirkland Casgrain.

Mrs. Kirkland-Casgrain is quoted as saying she would like the federal government to impose "some sort of control over the news" of Radio Canada as it is called in Quebec.

Separatists and radicals, according to the acting premier, have "infiltrated" Radio Canada and "slant" news and documentaries "to divide the country and sow revolution."

This is a serious charge, but it comes as no surprise given the general nature of CBC programming in recent years. We believe that Ottawa should heed Mrs. Kirkland-Casgrain's warning. Freedom of the Press and of the media at large is one thing, but the CBC is a publicly-supported institution, functioning by reason of tax dollars paid by us all which makes it answerable to Canadians and to Parliament. The request for an investigation is a pertinent one.

Some After PM's Job Too

Cracks May Be Widening in Government Ranks

By RICHARD JACKSON
from The Intelligencer's
Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Remember how it was with Conservative Prime Minister Diefenbaker in 1962, when his minority government, undermined by cabinet defections and rank - and - file unrest, was coming up to the losing 1963 general election?

Transport Minister George Hees, defence Minister Douglas Harkness and Associate Defence Minister Pierre Sevigny resigned.

Other cabinet ministers and a number of Conservative backbenchers were conspiring to depose Dief as Chief, and there was a deep feeling of dissatisfaction verging on acceptance of the increasing prospect of defeat as inevitable.

The cabinet disaffection and backbench disillusion was not enough to dump Dief — that would take four more years of slow decay of party morale — but it was enough to destroy his government.

What has been going on among the Liberals may not be entirely a parallel, but the similarity is close enough to cause some concern within the party.

Nobody inside the cabinet — at least not openly — is harboring to overthrow Prime Minister Trudeau.

But there are two of his ministers who have not been concealing their aspirations to succeed him through due process of a leadership convention, if and when he goes.

Waiting, with some impatience, in the wings are Finance Minister John Turner and Energy Minister Donald Macdonald.

But while the Prime Minister appears safe from any attempts to pull him down from within the cabinet, he has been petrified by defections of its key ministers.

Paul Hellyer, the former "Mr. Liberal" in Toronto, has gone long since, and the flagship has crossed over to the Conservatives.

His loss, from the outset, was a serious blow to Liberal solidarity for when he left the cabinet three years ago he was Deputy Prime Minister as well as Transport Minister, and a bigger Liberal in the Toronto area than either External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp or Donald Macdonald.

Since then, Eric Kierans, Postmaster General and Communications Minister, has resigned, out of tune, he said with Liberal policy.

Solicitor General George McIlraith took his leave of cabinet and while his departure was quietly public, it was no secret he was acutely unhappy with the way what he termed the "radicals" in the Trudeau ministry dominated its policy-making.

It is even less of a secret that the old West Coast political warhorse, Works minister Arthur Laing is dropping out, not because he has lost interest or lacks vigor but simply because he can not reconcile himself to the cause "radicals" who were responsible, at least in part, for McIlraith's resignation.

There are some others, too, in the Liberal cabinet, whose unhappiness and uneasiness with government policy have not yet reached the breaking point.

It has been at the point for some time now that Prime Minister Trudeau is so gun-shy of resignation threats in the cabinet that he backs off, giving the "radicals" more room to do their own way.

But it has not been in cabinet alone where the damage of dissatisfaction has been done.

From the beginning first it was Toronto Liberal Perry Ryan who defected to the Conservatives, then Montreal Liberal Raymond Rock.

There could be a few others.

As alarming to the Liberals as cabinet and backbench desertion has been the disintegration of the party organization in a few of the constituencies.

It surfaced spectacularly in the old Eastern Ontario riding of Leeds where half the party's constituency executive resigned while denouncing Prime Minister Trudeau and what the dissidents charged was his destructive "only for Quebec" policies.

The sensation of the Leeds Liberal disaffection was that it was led by a former Liberal MP, George Picard, who served two terms in Parliament and also then has been the party's financial angel in the riding.

So damaging was this disaffection that Liberal Senator made a special mission to Brockville, county seat of the Leeds constituency, ran into some anti-Trudeau flack and rallied utterly to engineer any reconciliation with the party executive rebels.

What 1963 and 1972 are not pitical duplicates, there is enough "look - and - feel - alike" between those two election years to make you wonder.

"What are you sighing for?"

Northwest Ontario Makes Its Presence Felt

By DON O'HEARN
From The Intelligencer's
Queen's Park Bureau

A while ago an unique pilot project was announced by Minister of Correctional Services Syl Apps.

The project will be an experimental co-educational training school (or as formerly known, a reformatory).

Boys and girl inmates will share the same institution — classrooms, dining rooms, playing fields, everything except dormitories.

And where is this going to be? Why, Thunder Bay, of course. And in the fact that this there could be a lesson for other areas of the province, for it isn't any accident that this project is in Thunder Bay. Nor is it an accident that soon we will see a consolidation of government offices at the Lakehead which will be as close to a second seat of government as we have had in the province.

Nor is it an accident that there will be a multi-million dollar restoration of Old Fort William which will be one of our most spectacular tourist attractions.

Nor that proportionately there has been more road building from Terrace Bay west than any other section of Ontario.

Or that this year the wind-up speakers for the opposition parties in the throne debate in the Legislature were both from northwestern Ontario, Pat Reid of Rainy River for the Liberals and Jack Stokes of Thunder Bay for the NDP.

These are all recognition that northwestern Ontario is on the map as it has never been before and on the map probably more than any other section of Ontario. Perhaps even more than London was when John Robarts was premier.

This is not accidental. It has been earned, earned by a united effort.

Perhaps the best example ever seen here of a people devoted to one goal and united in one interest has been the experience with the people of northwestern Ontario in recent years. Their goal is northwestern Ontario.

There are five members from the area — two PCs, two NDPers and one Liberal.

Politically they are apart, and make this evident. But wherever and whenever northwestern Ontario is concerned, they are together. And they make this known.

Annually, for years, a huge delegation from the Northwestern Ontario Chambers of Commerce has made an 1,000-mile trip for a meeting with the cabinet. This is made up of people of many diverse interests and associations. But they are united for northwestern Ontario and they have made a strong impact.

This unity has been expressed by other groups and in other ways, and of course it has had results.

At one time northwestern Ontario was perhaps a bit of a second-class citizen here. Not now.

How Long Will It Last ?

Egypt and Libya Establish New Arab Alliance

By JOHN HARBRON
Foreign Affairs Analyst
THOMSON NEWS SERVICE

The love-hate feasts of the leaders of the Arab world leave Westerners skeptical, and Israelis both curious and anxious about their motives.

Most of these on-and-off arrangements are based on personal and emotional differences, not always tied to the struggle against Israel.

Several years ago, the differences between Egypt and Saudi Arabia were based on their different societies. Egypt was revolutionary and socialist under Nasser, Saudi Arabia was royalist, intensely conservative and reactionary under Ibn Saud'd and his heirs.

The current hate scene between Arab leaders centres on very young Colonel Qaddafi, Libya's emotional, headstrong leader and Jordan's now not so young King Hussein. He has lasted through attempted assassinations, coups, wars with Israel, an astonishing record of personal survival.

Hussein is Qaddafi's sworn enemy because the Jordanian king is the only Arab world leader who wants a rapprochement with Israel. He should, since he lost about a quarter of his kingdom to Israel in the disastrous 1967 Six-Day War.

This personal comment again on Arab leadership because of the new alliance between Libya and Egypt, an updated version of the United Arab Republic. The first one was established in 1961 between Egypt and Syria and was totally unsuccessful.

The liaison was bound to fail. Syria is a long way from Egypt, separated by sea and the land mass of the Middle East with Israel inbetween.

The Syrians and Egyptians have taken different cultural roads [illegible] Syrian and Egyptian Arabic are distinct enough versions of the generic language of the Arab world, to rival each other. But we must not be cocky about the prospect for failure of this second attempt at union. Libya and Egypt are not only geographically next door in North Africa, but complement each other in ways which could make for an easy economic union.

Egypt has the population, about 35 million, and its huge, Soviet - built military arsenal. Libya, thin on people, about three million, holds 25 per cent of the world's known oil reserves and [illegible] reservoir of underground fresh water lakes in the world.

Her ancient oil has had either. It includes superb French Mirage supersonic jets. In the hands of Israeli pilots who also fly the Mirage, they control the skies over Egypt.

And there are no particular political ties between Libya and Egypt about history and culture which plagued the Egyptian-Syrian affair at union.

Not even Moslem fundamentalist Qaddafi will claim Tripoli and Benghazi, Libya's two chief cities, are any more than outposts of Islam, scarcely like Syria's Damascus where the prophet himself once visited. Damascus rightly rivals Cairo as a great centre of Islam.

And both national societies, as Nasser and Qaddafi of Libya keep saying, are committed to socialism. There is very little left to nationalize in Libya now the oil companies have been taken over, nothing at all left in Egypt, except the shops (all Egyptian-owned anyway).

And so we watch the latest dazzling display of the newest Arab world alignment.

Only time will tell whether it has survival power and to what extent it will "hot up" even further the enmity against Israel — and against other Arab leaders — like hardy Hussein in once-embattled Amman.

Hospital Services Compared

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

Recently I had the experience of being a guest at a private hospital in Florida and in our own Belleville General Hospital, and I believe it will be of interest to some of your readers if I were to give my impressions of the relative institutions.

In the private hospital I had very good service, but every appeared to be more utilization of time - waiting around - and there appeared to be greater output per person. This, of course is just a calculated guess. The per diem rate of $41 seems reasonable when it includes only the room and nursing service. All other costs such as laboratory, drugs and special services are extra and could be considerable in some cases.

My experience confirms my belief that our own BGH is now one of the finest institutions of its kind anywhere and that the proper utilization of the various types of service available is the key to cost control and fast recovery.

Although I am a firm believer in the individual enterprise system I am convinced that our governments were wise in adopting universal prepaid health care, as the matter is so important to the physical and mental wellbeing of all citizens.

I believe our system is the best for all despite a few deficiencies and loopholes which I am sure will be corrected. We the public and the professions must be continually on the alert to maintain quality and stability of service. That is why we are charged with the responsibility of operating the system and for too many of the public are demanding overtime and misuse.

I sincerely believe the minister of Health and Welfare, Mr. Potter, is making a significant attempt to provide Ontario with the best possible health care system and we here especially should give him strong support when he is right and suggest improvements where necessary.

Mr. Editor, your kindness in providing this space gives me an opportunity to say a sincere thank you to the many, many friends who were concerned about my wellbeing. It's great to be still again, but it is comforting to know that you will be cared for when you are not.

Jesus Movement Is Appraised In Widely Varying Fashions

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Some church officers think the Jesus movement in the United States is a lightweight fad that will die out within a year. Others think it will revitalize the entire Christian cause, either inside the institutional churches or through gradually being absorbed into them.

In any case, it is for the moment, a hairy, navel gazing nonsense, with a bandwagon, group appeal to a growing number of youngsters in many places.

One of the most broad-gauged appraisals of it came recently from Dr. Elton Trueblood, a widely respected and perceptive Quaker philosopher at Earlham College in Richmond, Ind.

In a circular letter to members of the Yokefellow, an interdenominational association pledged to deeper discipline in Christian devotions and service, he says many of its "Jesus people" are young persons who have been part of the drug culture and have revolted against it and begins seeking real fulfillment.

"In a world of desperation they have turned to Jesus as a viable alternative to their former despair and disillusionment. . . .

"The new life in which these people now rejoice is one of almost continuous hilarity. They sing and sing and call out to anyone who will listen, 'Jesus loves you.'

He says it's obviously a positive step when anyone stops the self-destruction. People who have been alienated emotionally, of trying to escape reality through drugs, begins seeking real fulfillment.

"The adherents of the new cult often carry about with them tattered copies of the New Testament which they read assiduously. There may, unfortunately, be no understanding of the scholarly work on the gospels. . . .

However, he adds, "just to know intimately what Jesus said and did, including the way he died, is life. And once again, is to know something of a revolutionary importance" and "one does not have to be a scholar or acquire a mastery of Greek" to do it.

On the other hand, he says, the movement reflects several dangers and shortcomings, including its "fundamentally simplistic approach."

"One weakness is that the Jesus people do not represent a large group. However valuable it may be to concentrate upon Christ, there are other aspects of truth which are needed. Not strange, for example, to have so little reference to God!"

At the same time, he concluded, a "fragmented gospel" is better than none.

'Perhaps Something Is Really Happening'

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Signs of the Jesus movement are bobbing up increasingly among students here in the big city.

"Perhaps something is really happening," says Rev. Albert P. Ahlstrom, Lutheran campus pastor at Columbia University. But considering the scene's diversity and numbers, he adds, "I'm not sure it is."

Latest flurry of Jesus activity came on two recent weekends at the Columbia campus with a series of concerts, a festival of discussions, speeches and celebrations focused on Jesus.

"We have no illusions of a mass turning to Jesus," says Leslie Newton, a Columbia medical student. "But the Lord's spirit is working."

Off campus, similar symptoms also picked up momentum among the young.

For one thing, New York City recently got its first underground Jesus paper, called Truth, put out by a group from a room rented in the Hotel Salisbury.

For its initial two issues, sold on campuses, in coffee houses and on Greenwich Village streets, managing editor Dennis A. Miller said circulation rose to 15,000 from 6,000.

Its aim, he says, is to "plug a gap in the ministry to the 40,000 college and university students here."

One group of Jesus people recently decided to concentrate on 42nd Street, with its profusion of pornography, movie houses and stores selling erotic magazines. Their way, Jesus way?" the group called out, strolling the sidewalks in front. "Love of God, love of man!" They entered one shop, but were thoroughly ushered back out.

"It remains to be seen," commented one youth, "whether Christianity can survive the pornographic edifice."

Other approaches are obviously turning to Jesus as something new, a sort of 'do-it-yourself religion. Among Jesus a folk hero," says Rev. Abigail Evans, Episcopal minister who helped lead the Columbia activities.

"Others are turning to the charismatic Christ who can truly change lives through His Spirit."

Among the Columbia festivities was a "Shalom meal," an entertain love feast in which the breaking and sharing of bread stands for a "sign of peace" pointing toward a day when the whole world finds harmony in God's love.

Such meals were started in Holland among Roman Catholics, Protestants and Jews and have since spread to the United States.

Great Day for Religion But Tough for Church

KENTVILLE, N.S. (CP) — The contemporary claim that it is a "great day for religion but a tough time for the church" has been sum up the position of the church in society today, says Dr. E. D. Long, secretary general of the United Church of Canada.

Dr. Long explained to the Windsor presbytery at nearby Canning, N.S., that the church as an institution is being attacked throughout the world and is losing some of its influence.

Most institutions such as the churches, universities, the medical and legal professions and systems of justice and government are under attack.

"It's that kind of generation," he said.

This opposition was seen by the church as a challenge to "renewal and trust". Its functions and priorities.

He said perhaps the church has been "too much under false colors" and has not been as strong as it made itself out to be.

"If we have hah' a million people who are really honest in goodness dedicated members of the church, then that's pretty good. But on paper we have over a million adult communicant members."

Dr. Long viewed the apostle Paul's trials for the ministry as a theological question.

"Maybe we are not demanding the commitment there ought to be and perhaps we are better off with fewer numbers but more dedicated people."

Apostles Widely Varied Types

By Rev. Gordon C. Smyth

Mark's Gospel suggests that the renewal of his fellowship from the public scene triggered our Lord's ministry. "Now after John was arrested, Jesus came into Galilee, preaching the Gospel of God." This was the beginning of a saga unrivalled in the annals of history.

The concensus of opinion among scholars is that our Lord's ministry lasted for only about three years. Most of the time was spent in the northern province of Galilee. A little but increasingly significant part of the time was spent going through the province of Judaea to Jerusalem for the three annual pilgrim festivals of which the spring Passover is best known to us.

Thus the makeup of our Lord's audience ascended in size where His itinerant teaching and healing ministry happened to be. I mention this realizing the statement must be qualified. At time went by even Galilean audiences were infiltrated by spies and trouble-makers from the holy city. At any rate, it should surprise nobody that Jesus attracted a wide following. Indeed the relationship with some of these like Nicodemus is more fully reported than some who comprised the inner circle.

Many rabbis went about the land. Each usually had at least 12 disciples because only a group of that number, representing all the tribes of Israel, symbolized the nation in the Messianic reality. The time came when disciple would in turn become a rabbi. Perhaps the first year of His general activity was over. Nobody can say for sure but it is a fact that He was screening many with whom He came in contact.

The word "disciple" means "pupil". To live as such implied more than classroom instruction. It included continual personal association with a rabbi (teacher) an integral part of the learning process.

However, our Lord had something more in mind. To be a disciple in the full Bense required the way for potential apostleship. An "apostle," one commissioned and sent out with a mission and message. Thus the twelve "called to be with him" sent into the hills to pray; and all night. He continued in prayer. And when it was day, He called His disciples unto Him: whom He named apostles" (Luke 6:12 -16).

Matthew and Mark also preserve a list. While several of the names are different, they can be conjectured or put together with Luke's. They contain three groups of four, in each of which the same names are found, although the order of arrangement varies. The first group includes those best known, the second the next best, and the third those least known of all, or in the case of the traitor, known only to God. With this exception, it is even truer of our Lord's inner circle than of the lighter plane of the Allied Command during the Battle of Britain, "Never in the field of human conflict was so much owed by so many to so few".

Peter is always named first. He was the first when our Lord came to Caesarea Philippi and met with Him, as on the Mount of Transfiguration. It was Peter who proposed the selection of a twelfth to take the place of Judas. The impulsive fisherman vexed Jesus more than any of the others. And yet he was a born leader. We need more of his ilk. The people who make no mistakes are those who do nothing.

Then there is Andrew. The greatest thing he did was to bring his brother to Jesus. Many people resent reflected glory. Andrew never did. We need more men like his spirit in our pews.

Then there are James and John. They had been associated with the aforementioned brothers as fish merchants in the city of Capernaum on the shores of the Lake of Galilee. These brothers were nicknamed "sons of thunder". They started out as hot-tempered enthusiasts. They wanted a whole village wiped out because of its lack of hospitality. The Master's influence cooled their tempers and they matured under Him. James was not afraid to die for his faith. He was the first to seal the Gospel that bears his name, with martyrdom for love. It has much to teach us.

Then there is Philip. He was no inquirer. Long the line as we go down the list. I hope we can identify before reaching the end.

Then is Bartholomew, elsewhere spoken of as Nathanael. Jesus paid him a rare tribute by saying, "Behold an Israelite indeed, in whom is no guile!" He was transparently sincere and unsophisticated. He was quite unlike those elders in Athens, whom Paul recently fired their minister because his daughter won a beauty contest. What did Nathan lost?

Then there is Matthew (Levi). He was a tax collector for Herod Antipas and paid to the pagan Rome. Pious Jews would spit on the ground as they passed this man. Jesus always had a kindly word for Matthew. The Master saw how he responded to a call to a better business. But he brought his training with him. He had learned to note everything quickly and accurately. His brief experience we have a collection of "Sayings" in the Gospel named for him. The "Sermon on the Mount" is a case in point. But do we ever get tired of evangelism?

Of course, we know Thomas whom so many genuinely people will be placed. Simon who was called the Zealot typifies those who are learning that revolution is no answer to man's problems. Judas, the son of James is on record as speaking once, but actions speak louder than words. And Judas betrayed who "became" a traitor!

Jesus wrote no books. He left the future of His cause on 12 men who represented His limitations as well as their strong individuality. Time has abundantly proven the victory of faith, with a single exception. We can see ourselves somewhere along the line as we

Quit Spreading Divisions Missionary Asks Churches

X344 SCRIPTURE VOICE March 5c Religion

NEW YORK (AP) — An African church leader, Rev. Jean Bokelele, has appealed to Western missionaries to quit spreading their own divisions among Christians in his country.

This is a sharpening issue in many Asian and African areas as a scene once dominated by American Protestant denominational extensions, but where new, indigenously-run churches now are developing widely.

"We do things differently from what you have been brought up to do," says Dr. Bokelele, general secretary of the recently launched United Church of Christ in Zaire (The Congo).

In an unusual letter to all foreign missionaries there, he urged them "to preach love, unity and holiness among the children of God, instead of setting one against the other."

"We understand your difficulty," he wrote in an appraisal of the problem. "It is very hard for some of you to accept unity in the children of God, because in your own experience in your own countries, there has never been room in people's hearts for unity."

He emphasized that most missionaries of the major mainline denominations have a type of concentrating on denominational interests. Most have ended their control and turned over the reins to the newly nationalizing younger churches.

Reporter Writes About Geisha Party

The following story about a geisha party, 1972 version, in Japan was written by J. C. Graham, New Zealand correspondent of The Canadian Press, who has been touring Southeast Asia.

By J. C. GRAHAM
CP Correspondent

TOKYO (CP) — The geisha concept has fascinated the West to such an extent that it has long been an irresistible subject for writers of both fact and fiction. Yet, everyone knows that only part of the story is told.

Nowadays many geisha presentations are discreetly on no more than tourist shows for visitors, not the real thing. Yet there is still insistence that appreciation of the geisha tradition is essential to a full understanding of Japan.

This reporter recently had the opportunity to attend a geisha party under the auspices of an organization of such impeccable credentials and in circumstances of such assumed authenticity that if a genuine geisha evening exists in 1972, this must have been it.

We entered a low-structured wooden house in a quiet riverside street in Tokyo containing several similar premises. Stepping stones on the small path had been newly swept and scrubbed. Everything was scrupulously clean and tidy.

Shoes were removed in the lobby although the 11 guests, Japanese and Westerns, were standard business suits.

Inside, the floors were covered in tatami—rice straw matting. Guests were seated on chairs without legs, at a low table.

The geishas entered one by one kneli, made a low bow. They were mostly in the 20- to 30-year range, good looking in individual ways without being beauties to turn heads in a crowd at a western party.

Unexpectedly, they did not use the highly stylized traditional makeup—except the maiko, or apprentice geisha. She had the conventional white makeup, including a pattern on the back of the neck, added apparently furne on Japanese males. The others have the normal makeup and hair styles of any well-groomed woman.

The geishas knelt between the guests, poured beer, sake or Japanese whisky as preferred. The correct ritual of offering and receiving drinks was pointed out, largely by gesture.

While the guests were served by waitresses with a many-course meal, the geishas selected choice morsels and offered them to guests with chopsticks, but ate nothing themselves.

But they readily joined in the drinking when requested —some particularly readily.

From time to time the geishas moved round the table to sit between other guests.

As well as refilling glasses or the tiny sake bowls at frequent intervals, they moved to familiarize with Japanese meals how to cope with the assortment of dishes ranging from several soups to raw fish, marinated shell-fish and assorted vegetables.

Part of the way through the meal they formed a small orchestra of traditional Japanese instruments, while the maiko and a geisha performed a series of dances.

Then the party games began. One was a guessing game played by children in every country—scissors cut paper, paper wraps stone, stones break on steel. To music, each guest was persuaded to do a little ritual dance led by a geisha and try his skill at outguessing the geisha in this game.

The geishas demonstrated the art of origami (paper folding), how to wad a glass backward round the wrist without spilling, how to drink from two sake bowls held in tandem, how to pour sake drop by drop into a full cup until the surface was well over the top without overflowing, how to drink and eat that the liquids remained in separate layers in the glass.

The maiko, who spoke more fluent English than her older colleagues, said she had graduated from high school the previous year, had been appointed to her maiko role was 18 and had become a fully qualified geisha at 20, saying that time "no drink, no smoke, no boy-friend."

Most of the others had a "patron." One was rumored to be a prominent politician. And the patron apparently was expected to make handsome monthly contributions for the privilege.

Getting married, said one, was simply not an attractive proposition, for no husband could be expected to maintain a geisha as the style to which she was accustomed.

But, for the purposes of the party, merriment rather than sex was understood in the West was the keynote.

As the banquet continued, the geishas tended to become slightly boisterous. The paper, stone, scissors game was repeated on a less edate note.

Canada 'Entirely Happy Choice'

LONDON (CP) — Canada is a country "entirely happy" in its name, says the author of a widely-researched book on the origins and influence of place-names around the English-speaking world.

Mrs. C. M. Matthews, a local historian who has spent a lifetime fascinated by the nature of words, says the choice of this native name, originally applied to one of three Indian kings and by both French and English settlers from the beginning, was "acceptable to all."

Although the origin of the Arab has sparkled several theories, the most likely source being the Algonquian "kanata," meaning huts, Mrs. Matthews says its actual interpretation is less important than the historical associations it has gathered since.

"Canada-now truly belongs to the country that it names, and has grown in meaning as it has swelled in size."

Mrs. Matthews, the wife of a schoolmaster, devotes a chapter to Canada in her book Place Names of the English-Speaking World, published here by Weidenfeld and Nicolson. She sees Canadian place-names as more spontaneous and rooted in nature than those of the United States and likes their descriptive imagery in both English and French.

Such names as Swift Current, Eagle Creek, Smoky Lake, Deer and Fat Cat Qu'Appelle—which guarded a rocky, echoing dale—"across the country as it really is," says the New Zealander. She notes that Mont Royal, later transmuted to Montreal, is the oldest recorded place-name on the North American mainland north of Mexico.

Her book traces the development of Canada's place-names from Jacques Cartier's 16th-century travels to the royal finish that spread across the West in the 19th century —Alberta for Princess Albert, Regina as a variant of Queen Victoria, Lake Louise for one of her daughters.

Where names were imported direct from the motherland, Mrs. Matthews says, the most successful were those of small, obscure British communities as Calcary on the Scottish island of Mull which took on a new status in Canada. But proud emigrants who named their Ontario community London must always endure the outside world qualifying it as London, Ont.

Elsewhere in her wide-ranging book, Mrs. Matthews notes that although Shakespeare is probably the world's most admired Englishman, Canada is the only country to possess a community named after him—or at least one remotely enough to be included in the 200,000 entries of the Times world atlas.

She regrets the frequent name-changes undergone in the sweep of Canadian history, which she feels often swapped a pithy original for something duller—Acadie for Nova Scotia, Rupertsland for the North West Territory.

For 60 years, she reveals, the name Fort Garry completed the most romantic elements of the West." Br in the 1800s a fashion for Indian names and an expanding city administration chose instead Winnipeg, the name of a nearby lake meaning "murky water."

"There is nothing against Winnipeg as a name, but it already existed on a lake and a river; Fort Garry, which had survived a tough period and grown colorful in the process, deserved to go on to city honors and not be relegated to a suburban position."

Another change she regrets, this time from French to English, is the switch from Fort Frontenac to the present Kingston, Ont.

"There are many Kingstons, and if Frontenac still have been unique," she comments.

Mrs. Matthews, one of whose brothers, Philip Carrington, was an administrator in Quebec, has an appreciative eye for the humor in early Canadians. She recalls how the Seur la Salle mockingly named his farm in 1671 "La Chine"—China—because that was the destination he had planned for his travels. Lachine now is a busy suburb of Montreal.

Some Canadian names that defy translation also display a successful image all their own, says Mrs. Matthews, noting that the solid, rigorous sound" of Niagara conveys an impact recognized around the world. She is also charmed by the original sailors' names for havens around the Newfoundland coast — Hard's Luck, Canc-By-Chance and Willess Bay.

Newfoundland it self, she says, is the first permanent English-derived name to be given beyond the British Isles —"a splendidly spontaneous phrase like, great cake a town in the mouths of English sailors at sea and merchants in Bristol."

Some Canadian communities were named for more bizarre reasons. The book includes the example of Luther, Ont., named out of spite by a Roman Catholic surveyor who thought it was the "meanest tract of land" he had yet surveyed.

Nevertheless, Mrs. Matthews concludes, "Canada's place-names are full of exciting history as those of any country in the world."

Preparing Tossed Salads

Tossed salads are Canada's favorite recipe for fresh greens. With toasted breads or thin buttered rye, the green salad may accompany a main course or become a light meal in itself with ham or two added ingredients. For either, the salad must be light as lettuce crisp and fresh — limp lettuce is no one's favorite.

Remember that a salad cannot be better than the greens that go into it. Start with carefully relected produce, firm, unbruised, and fresh. Retain its quality by careful handling and storage. For salad greens such as leaf and head lettuce, endive, romaine, escarole, and spinach, rinse in cold running water and dry lightly. Wrap in paper towelling and refrigerate in a plastic bag. Use within a week for best quality.

Tear leaves, don't cut, and the salad will look and taste fresher. Then the last minute rush out of tossing salads by breaking greens ahead of time — wrap the bite-size pieces in towelling and place back in the plastic bag. Even if done early in the day, greens stay crisp and fresh.

Put the torn greens on top, cover with plastic wrap, and refrigerate both salad bowl and salad plates. Then, right at serving time toss the salad

Flavor Combinations For Salad Sandwiches

A few tomato wedges can take the place of the sauce — they marinate in the dressing while holding greens up.

Toss with a flourish, adding other vegetables if desired. Crispy bacon bits, raw sliced mushrooms, garlic croutons, raw cauliflower or apple, chunks of cucumber and tomato, whole or sliced ripe olives — all combine to create a salad to go with any meal whether a company "special" or a backyard barbecue.

There's a salad sandwich for every party from the garden club or the teenage crowd. Start with thin slices of raisin bread or a hearty slice of pumpernickel and spread with butter, mayonnaise or mayonnaise dressing. Add a filling. a second slice, another filling and a top slice and it's triple decker that satisfies the heartiest appetite. Or savory herb fridge and build a dagwood which has a height determined only by the skill of cook. Make them for eating out of hand, or open face with knife and fork.

Try these flavor combinations: — split a long loaf and fill with coleslaw, ham or corned beef and cheese. Cut in serving size chunks.

— spread cream cheese on thinly sliced white rye, top with cucumber, and sprinkle with paprika. Serve open-face.

— layer baked beans, tomato slices, and salmon on a bun.

— combine chicken-salad, snipped parsley, and lettuce on raisin bread.

— spread liverwurst on whole wheat, and green pep per or cucumber, and shredded lettuce

— spread ham slices with mustard, top with sliced pickle and cold potato salad. Serve open face or in a toasted bun.

Mirror of Your Mind
by JOHN CONWELL

Can mental ploys defeat frustration?

NO, not if the schemes a person devises to cope with his frustration are used only to ward it off or contain it. Frustration infiltrates; it will keep up the attack until it finds a loophole. Once the person's guard is down, he is overwhelmed by his frustration. Not only are his mental ploys defeated, but he also feels worse because he now realizes he should have tried to solve the problem that caused his frustration in the first place.

Does the abused child stand a chance?

HARDLY. One strike against him is that the abused child is at the mercy of disturbed parents who not only can conceal their dreadful punishment of their child but are also able to ward off most legal attempts to protect the youngster. Even more disastrous is the mental damage done to the child. He is deprived of the love he should have and, on top of that, the parents usually make him feel he is to blame for the way they treat him.

Is a 'runaway' marriage doomed?

NO marriage is destined to be doomed—no matter how it begins. There is always the chance that love will be motivating force, and that could save almost any marriage regardless of how it began. Unfortunately, though, a runaway marriage rarely involves love. Usually the man or the woman—or both, in some cases—can't resolve a problem at home. Then, running away to get married is nothing more than an immature means to hurt or "show" someone.

Flying Scared Elderly Woman

By DORIS CLARK

Dear Doris: Months ago, I wrote you regarding my husband's elderly mother in England, who was petrified of the thought of flying. She had always said she would have to be bound and blindfolded before boarding a plane. You offered words of help.

I am happy to say she has now been with us for two weeks. The airline trip after her fear she had VIP treatment all the way.

Everything here amazes her, from three-quart milk containers to the wonder of Niagara Falls, from the friendliness of the people, to super highways and "clover leafs". — All For Air Travel.

Dear All: Wonderful! Your mother deserves a medal for plucking up the courage to try.

Dear Doris: Why legalize marijuana? If we do this we are saying that we are in agreement with those citizens who are taking dope.

My firm opinion is that we should roll up our sleeves and do something to help them. We can start by publicly promoting the power of prayer — the most powerful force on earth.

Count on me to do whatever I can to give now faith to any who will make it known to me that they will accept my help, even if it is just a simple discussion. — More Than Concerned, Fredericton.

Dear Concerned: For that matter, why legalize anything we know to be detrimental? Alcohol, for instance? And cigarettes?

The idea of legalizing marijuana is to get the sale of it under control — at least, that is part of it. Youngsters who really get hooked get led into situations in which they are forced to commit crimes for the great sums they need to feed their addiction.

Prayer is powerful — when combined with works. The addiction research, cognitive centres, our social agencies, medical men, ministers and many others are intent on the works — plus prayer.

The basic causes are inherent in our loveless, materialistic society, from which the victim of dope is trying to escape.

Dear Doris: Your answer to Bewildered was the usual tripe one woman gives another. True, jealousy springs from feeling unworthy. But many people know instinctively how to make a person feel unworthy — especially a husband! My husband made me feel lower than a worm almost daily. When we went out with friends he made love to every lady friend of ours, quite openly.

Finally I decided two could play at that game and began to be friendly with other men. But then he began shouting that I was a tramp. I told him he was jealous. That didn't help.

Now 30 years later, I ignore his attention to other women as if he were mentally unbalanced; which diagnosis may be correct after all. — Disillusioned.

Dear Disillusioned: I could not agree more. Such emotionally immature and self-centred men as you have described can gradually debase a woman. Sometimes it takes long years for such a wife to detach herself enough to retain anything of a lighthearted personality.

In such cases my suggestions for handling more jealousy are not enough. There is nothing in such men to be appealed to. Thank you for your letter.

(Doris can help you with that puzzling decision. Write to her, enclosing a stamped, self - addressed envelope for private reply.)

Ann Landers

'Other Woman' Was Her Mother-in-Law

Dear Ann Landers: Sooner or later you hit everyone. I got mine last week. It was the letter from the wife who said "The Other Woman" was her mother-in-law. So is mine.

When I first met Jeff I knew he was devoted to his mother and I respected him for it. His hang-up didn't become apparent until six years ago, when his father died. Since then it has been one hellish nightmare after another.

It started when Jeff began inviting his mother for weekends that sometimes lasted five days. When she wasn't here, they were on the phone discussing everything from relatives to pea soup. Then he became critical of my cooking. Finally, I couldn't fry an egg until he called his mother to find out how she did it. When he started to call her "Honey," "Dear," and "Sweetheart," I knew something was squirrely.

Three years ago I turned to the bottle. I look back at those days with shame. Finally I had to seek psychiatric help.

Today I am able to accept the fact that I will never be first in Jeff's life. I have survived a $500 stereo gift (he surprised her, and me, too). I have been able to swallow the vacation they took together because I couldn't get my vacation when he got his. I've quietly counteranced his taking Mama to dinner when I've been ill. These things hurt but I can tolerate them sober now, and that's a big improvement. I still love him, which probably means I'm a little sick, too, but he's a great father and I'm glad I decided to keep our family together. Each night I pray that I will be a better mother-in-law than the one I have. I also pray that the good Lord will help me stop hating her so much.—Seeing Red Fiddle

Dear Fiddle: I hope you make it. Hate is like acid—it can do more damage to the vessel in which it is stored than to the object on which it is poured.

Dear Ann Landers: A recent letter from a second wife who resented her stepdaughter helping herself to her deceased mother's china, paintings and heirlooms moves me to write my first letter to Ann Landers.

My husband and I solved the problem in advance. We went through the house with pencils and pads and wrote down what each of us wanted to leave to the other. We also itemized specific articles we thought our children (all married) would like. We agreed that if either of us had a special attachment to any particular item, we'd have preference over the children. If not, we would leave it to the child who would appreciate it most. These lists have been appended to our wills and there will be no arguments about who gets what.

We tried to divide the most valuable heirlooms equitably among the children. Just as my husband's estate has been divided in his will, according to his best judgment, with my approval, I have divided my worldly goods in a way that takes him into consideration.

I'm sure your columns have started many useful discussions in thousands of families around the country, and this is all to the good. Too often people fail to discuss these problems in advance, and the results are disastrous.—Happy and Lucky

Dear H. and L.: Benjamin Franklin said: "If you want to know a person, share an inheritance with him." No truer words were ever spoken.

You and your husband handled the matter beautifully. The best way to deal with trouble is to prevent it from happening.

ASIA THROUGH A BUS WINDOW

"Nepal is a beautiful country. Its people loving and kind. I could go back there." — Phyllis Walsh.

From the Kashmir, the London bus with its 29 passengers departed for (its next destination) New Delhi, India, and Phyllis Walsh of 259 Bridge Street, East, of Belleville, travelling this route on her around-the-world return home, observes in her diary.

"We were on the road when the sun came up today (September 20), pretty against the clouds. Went past lots of little towns. Small shops lined the road . . . saw an elephant grazing under a tree. Very few camels now. Went through a cow market, hundreds of cows; lots of white ones . . . " with her last entry for the day, ". . . still in the bus at sunset. Have driven 13 and three quarters hours today . . . "

In New Delhi, Phyills speaking of it now tells us she was impressed above all by the contrast between the old city with its rfmosques and temples and the new city beside it; modern in every way — architecture, transport, food.

"Never," she recalls, "have I tasted such delicious ice-cream. There is just one flavor — vanilla. When we asked for a "banana split", our waiter had never heard of it. But when dessert came to be went up the street, bought some bananas and brought our ice-cream in — covered with slices of bananas topped by a dash of marmalade. It was delicious!"

Other cities in India visited were: "Jaipur, a pink city, buildings of rose sand stone' and the remarkable palace built by a Maharajah "embellished with fine marble designs representing several patterns in typical Indian style with perfectly matched marble screens in amber . . ." At Agra, the famed and beautiful Taj Mahal white marble mausoleum built in 1630-52 by Shah Jahan for his wife, made a tremendous impact. "Nothing has ever affected me more emotionally; no picture can possibly convey the truth of it; its beauty and culture."

At Kajuraho: "I found the carving (craftsmanship) on huge 30 to 50 foot-high stone statues of Hindu temples exquisite. . . While in Benares, the Holy City of the Ganges, it was the boat ride on the river Ganges that has left the greatest impression by the rituals performed by the people in its waters."

Here at Benares, the bus reached its destination. The passengers dispersed. Some along with Phyllis took a plane to Nepal to visit Katmandu.

"The flight was bumpy," she recalls, "the city really fascinating. Scenery from the hotel window gorgeous . . . view of Mt. Everest blurred somewhat due to rain. Women wore multiple earrings all around the ear-lobes. Saw a sacrificial bull being burned. Its skin is scraped off and carved into pieces given away to the people. . .Temples look like pagodas, small shrines everywhere . . .Nepal is a beautiful country. Its people loving and kind. I could go back there."

From Katmandu, Phyllis left by plane for Bangkok, Singapore, Vancouver arriving home in Belleville, December 7, 1972.

"Oh, it is so good to be home. . ." she replies in answer to our questions, "So good to be back and in routine again. But whenever I look at my slides, the thrill of the whole trip comes back; full force!"

"For those interested in taking this trip, have you any tips"

"I might say: travel as lightly as possible. A heavy coat not necessary the time of year that I went, but a sweating has never affected me as more emotionally; no picture can possibly convey the truth of it; its beauty and culture."

"I might say: travel as lightly as possible. A heavy coat not necessary the time of year that I went, but a sweating has never affected me as much since. Also salt tablets, for it can be hot, as high as 110-115 degrees in some parts of Asia. But shoes all else. A jackknife is a great friend; to open tins of corn beef (a source of protein to keep on hand, for one comes to crave it) and cut up cheese. It serves a purpose for many things."

Recreation Program Can Shorten Summer

It may be a long summer for some people in Belleville but only those who don't know where to look.

The Belleville Recreation Department has offered an alternative to the back yard pools, the crowded beaches and mother's hair by, opening the gyms of Quinte and Moira Secondary Schools for the summer.

Paid instructors are in attendance at both schools at all times and are busy organizing a bevy of summer activities to both teach and supply exercise.

Instruction in tennis, volleyball, basketball, floor hockey, table tennis, badminton and most other conceivable summer sports are available for anyone interested. The gyms are opened from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Thursday and until 6 p.m. Fridays.

Information on times and days for specific instructional classes may be attained at the Rec Centre.

If hanging around is more your line of activity pick up games of basketball, volleyball or whatever can be readily arranged in the evenings.

A trio of Belleville young sters utilized the capacities of the Quinte centre to the full est yesterday when tennis, basketball and table tennis were the main concerns. Elvis Leonardumi (far left) may not have the most orthodox style in the tennis world but he got the job done with this shot. Kevin Benn fled the hot weather outside to try his hand at table tennis (right) but found the action to be just as strenuous and warm. Meanwhile Jean - Anne Meagher found the bigger basketball a little easier to see but a lot harder to handle.

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, SATURDAY, AUGUST 5, 1972

Norman May Play at Quinte

The Bay of Quinte Country Club will be a well worn site come Tuesday after the completion of the annual three-day Golf Festival beginning today.

Over 400 golfers will be tackling the tough Bay of Quinte course including approximately 40 professionals during Monday's Motorland Chrysler Pro Tournament. Gary Slater of the Burlington Springs Golf Club would have to rate as a pre-tourney favorite after his runner-up finish in the 1971 CPGA. A former winner here at Belleville Frank Whibley will return to try again as will John Kincaid from Peterborough via Florida. Popular Ontario player and one of the top pros in the country, Moe Norman is hopefully another entry in the pro field. Norman will be leaving the Peter Jackson Tour to hopi his new tournament on Tuesday and possibly will make the trip to Belleville for the Monday matches. Tee off time for the pros will be 12 noon and there will be no admission charge to the course.

Norman will also see the A flight competition get under way with 18 holes pending 63 players to the tees. Fletcher Wall Jr. has the double distinction of being the furthest-out-of-town player plus the former pro Wall, from Lexington, North Carolina, will lead players from Thunder Bay, Orillia, Carleton and many points north, south, east and west after the low score honors.

Sunday will be the busiest day for the Bay of Quinte organizers when 118 teams battle it out for the Mixed Pairs Championship. Fletcher Wall Jr. is again expected to provide most of the competition along with his lifetime partner Mrs. Fletcher. G. H. R. Jenkins playing from the Royal Selangor Club in Malaysia has teamed with Kathy Lee of Grandview. A total of 220 players representing 29 golf clubs will be making the rounds when the play gets under way at 8:30.

The B and C Flights get the ball rolling today with 160 players with handicaps from 8-30 shooting. Donald Joss from Lyford Cay, Bahamas, G. Jenkins from Malaysia, and Bill Jacoby from Ohio State University make up the out-of-country contingent.

Players from Toronto, Tam-O'Shanter, Willowdale, Streetsville Glen, Guelph and 29 other clubs tour the tough Quinte lay-out today.

Stakes Sunday

The Molson Breweries Stake race will highlight racing action at Frontenac Downs Sunday afternoon.

A total of $3,222 is up for grabs in the two divisions and stake foal and 19 pacers and trotters will be vying for the winner's share of the purse.

Many of the entrants have raced locally, in fact 13 in all, which should produce plenty of local interest in the race.

Dave Godkin of Kingston has one of the favorites in the first division. His Cha Cha Richelieu driven by Jim Slater will be a strong contender along with Sorry Flight, owned by David Henry and Hugh Wemp's Zorro Gratian.

Boxing Executive Named

With organizational aspects nearly well cleared away, the Belleville Boxing Club can come to grips with its most crucial needs.

The fledgling organization, which promises to promote fitness in the city as well as resurrect boxing in Belleville named its executive at a meeting last week.

Terry Bennett, who originated the idea for the club will be its first president with Jack Fitzgerald as treasurer and Floyd Crawford as secretary. Other active participants in the club will include Jack Lucas, Barney Parsons, Jack Hughes, Ray Lucas, Jerry Downs, George Woodhouse, Bernie McIsaac and Ed Lee.

The boxing group now hopes to obtain financial assistance from the Belleville Yardmen and the use of the old Legion building on Pinnacle Street before beginning operations.

Commercial Best Will Test Oshawa Tony's

The best of the Commercial Softball League will be getting together come August 27 and it may take the best to stop the Oshawa Tony's.

The Tony's will be in town Sunday the 27th for a pair of exhibition softball games against the local Commercial All-stars with all proceeds going to the newly formed bantam hockey all stars.

Harold Reid of Quinte Hotel and Doug Murray of Howland and Deserts will have the difficult task of choosing the Belleville squad which will face one of the perennial top teams in Ontario.

The Tony's are involved in the Ontario - Michigan Fastball League where the competition is of the highest calibre in the country. Regular opponents for the Tony's are the 1972 World Champions Richmond Hill Dynes and the London Dukes who display Dick Hames, the hero of that world championship performance by the Dynes. Detroit Notabrit Tool are the league champions while James Brown's Black and Brown squad provide the other Detroit opposition. Michigan State softball finalists Lansing and Ann Arbor offer further U.S. competition while the Sarnia Rennies round out the league teams.

Strength up the middle has always been the forte of the Tony's and this year offers much the same shenery. Andy Konopacki leads a quartet of hurlers which include Junior graduate Paul Wannamaker, Barry Timbers and Wayne Colley. Bob Solomon anchors the infield behind the plate while centre fielder brother Phil leads the team with a .335 batting average.

The Belleville nine haven't been chosen for the 7 p.m. starting time double header at the Alemite but the best is what it may take to tame one of the best teams in Ontario.

A new way to really get your mail moving: Postal Codes.

If you haven't already received it, in the next few days you'll be getting your new Postal Code in the mail. It's not very exciting to look at. But it is very necessary. And it's really not as complicated as it looks.

After two years of studying the systems of most of the countries of the world, here's how we developed Postal Codes for Canada.

The map sequence on the right shows just how accurate Postal Codes really are.

To uncomplicate your Postal Code, you will be receiving a Postal Code Package. It contains your code, instructions on how to use it, a handy address book, special Postal Code stickers for your envelopes, and postage paid address cards that you should send to your friends. If you don't have enough, you can get as many as you need at your nearest Post Office. Because, after all, your Code doesn't mean your mail unless your friends use it.

And if you haven't received your Code by July 31st, please call your local Post Office. We will mail it to you immediately. It is possible however, that you are not in the EASTERN ONTARIO POSTAL DISTRICT, in which case your area may not have been coded yet.

Get the habit.

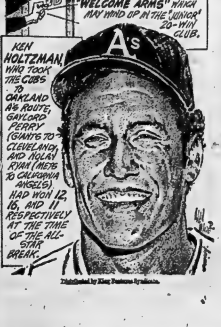
Canada Post Postes Canada

K1: Canada was first divided into 10 large areas, each designated by a letter.

K2: By adding a number, we narrowed the area down — for example, a city.

K2P: By adding another letter, we indicate a specific section of that city.

K2P 0P4: And by adding these more characters that section of the city is further narrowed to one side of a street between two intersections.



Codes can then represent — on either building with 10 or more occupants, or a company that receives large volumes of mail.

On an apartment building with over 50 units, or in less densely populated areas, a code will represent the whole house.

Tidrow Outpitches Tiger Ace

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Dick Tidrow was a most happy fellow. After all, a rookie doesn't outpitch Mickey Lolich every day.

"This has to be my best game—ever," the Cleveland Indians right-hander said after hurling a 1-0 beauty at Detroit Tigers Friday night.

Lolich, seeking to become the majors' first 13-game winner, was saddled with his 10th defeat instead.

Detroit's star southpaw was beaten by Rookie Duffy's home run in the seventh inning.

"It was a breaking ball up a little bit more than it should have been," said Lolich.

The loss was the fourth straight and seventh in nine games for Tigers, who are still in first place in the American League East because the second-place Baltimore Orioles also continue to lose.

The Orioles remained two games behind the Tigers after dropping a 2-0 decision to Boston Red Sox.

New York Yankees outlinned to take advantage of the stumbling front-runners. The third place Yankees, eight games behind on July 27, moved within four of the top by beating Milwaukee Brewers 9-4.

Elsewhere, the Minnesota Twins slopped the West-leading Oakland Athletics 5-1; the Chicago White Sox trimmed the Texas Rangers 3-2 and hte California Angels turned back the Kansas City Royals 6-5 in 10 innings.

Tidrow was the roaster Friday night as he struck out five of the first nine batters. Detroit didn't get a hit until Aurelio Rodriguez and Gates Brown singled with one out in the fourth.

The cool Cleveland rookie worked out of the jam and allowed just two hits the rest of the way.

Marty Pattin stopped Baltimore on two hits and Luis Aparicio and Rico Petrocelli each knocked in a run in Boston's victory.

Bobby Murcer drilled a grand-slam homer and scored three runs to lead New York's triumph over Milwaukee. Fritz Peterson scot over the 50th mark for the first time this season, notching his 13th victory against 11 defeats.

Bert Blyleven broke a personal four-game losing streak as Minnesota beat Oakland and trimmed the Athletics' lead in the West to 4½ games over Chicago.

The White Sox stopped Texas as Dick Allen socked a run-scoring double in the ninth inning.

Vada Pinson drove in the winning run with a 19th inning single—his fifth of the game—to pace California over Kansas City.

Gomez Gets Happy Reunion

TORONTO (CP) — Aveline Gomez, known to the sports world as cocky little jockey who rides race horses with the calm of a master—broke down and wept in an old woman's arms at Toronto International Airport Friday night.

"I never thought it would happen," the Cuban-born Canadian jockey said. "I never thought I'd see her alive again."

He was referring to his mother Jesusa, 79, who flew to Toronto to join him after a 12-year separation, the Cuban revolution and the death in Havana last month of his father.

Despite Cuba's restrictions on immigration, Mrs. Gomez was reunited with the rest of her family here with relative ease because she was born in Spain and retained her Spanish citizenship throughout her years in Cuba.

Last month, she simply flew to Spain and waited there two weeks with Avelino's brother, Mickey, for final clearance from Spanish authorities to come to Canada.

"Now she's here to stay and she'll become a Canadian citizen," the 42-year-old jockey said.

Gomez, who lost three small apartment buildings and a house in Havana when Fidel Castro seized power in 1960, said he had feared his mother couldn't survive on the rations she said she was allotted in Cuba: Two ounces of coffee and a half pound of wheat; six pounds of rice and four pounds of sugar a month.

"There's no other country as good as Canada," he said. "We'll take good care of her here."

More Tennis Unrest

WINNIPEG (CP) — Canada's top-ranked female tennis player, Vicki Berner of Vancouver, has added her voice to the growing list of players discontented with the development of the game in this country.

Miss Berner, who teamed with Andree Martin of Montreal to advance to the semi-finals of the ladies' doubles Friday, plays today in the semi-finals of the singles at the Canadian national tennis championships.

There were only four matches played Friday, all doubles semi-finals. In the other ladies' semi-final Janice Tindle and Susan Stone defeated Taffy Savard and IONA Jones 6-2, 7-6 in an all-Vancouver affair.

There was little excitement in the men's doubles as Pierre Lamarche of Montreal and Jim Boyce of Toronto downed Bob and Tony Bardsley of Vancouver 6-2, 6-1, and Dave Brown of Port Credit, Ont., combined with Don McCormick of Vancouver to beat Jean Pierre of Montreal and Peter Pospisil of Vancouver 6-4, 6-3.

The semi-finals of the men's and ladies' singles will be played today.

Miss Berner, seeded No. 1 in the tournament, said something has to be done for the young tennis players and it has to be soon.

"There is a tennis boom now and we need someone to organize things and develop some sort of program, especially for the juniors.

"There is no reason why Canada can not develop top international players. Yet there are only a handful of good female players in Canada and not too many more men.

"I don't know what the solution is, but part of the problem is that Canadians basically play only in Canada. They don't realize there are five million Europeans who can beat them handily."

Miss Berner, who returned to tournament tennis full time last summer after three years of teaching the game, said most of the good Canadian tennis players have been developed in the United States.

"You can't really call Mike Belkin a Canadian player because he learned to play in the States. Look at Pierre Lamarche and Jim Boyce, they both went to the States."

"There is no reason why Canada can't produce players. We have the indoor facilities now."

One solution would be to hire three national coaches to coach junior players.

Miss Berner today will meet Miss Brzackowsky in one semi-final match in the ladies's singles while second-seeded Miss Tindle meets the third seed, Miss Martin.

In the men's semi-finals it will be Belkin against Tory Bardsley and McCormick versus Brown.

Expos Rookie Whiffs Willie

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It was a situation every young pitcher dreams about.

Bases loaded with two out in the ninth. You have a one-run lead. Their big hitter comes up and you strike him out on three pitches.

That was exactly what 21-year-old Balor Moore did to Pittsburgh Pirates Friday night as he pitched Montreal Expos to a 2-1 victory.

His victim was Willie Stargell, who owns a .304 batting average, 22 home runs and 78 runs batted in. Stargell looked at one fast ball and swung and missed the next two as Moore became one of its rare left-landers to beat the National League's hard-hitting East Division leaders this season.

Elsewhere in the National League, New York Mets trounced Chicago Cubs 6-1, Cincinnati Reds swept a double-header over Atlanta Braves 8-5 in 11 innings and 3-2, Houston Astros trimmed San Francisco Giants 6-1, San Diego Padres blanked Los Angeles Dodgers 2-0 and Philadelphia Phillies downed St. Louis Cardinals 8-2.

Moore was more than willing to describe his clutch strikeout of Stargell.

"He took the first pitch, which was above the knees, over the plate for the first strike. I wanted to get the second pitch away from him, but it broke in on him and he swung and missed it. The third pitch was a ball. It started out as a strike, but then it fell up and rode in on him. I threw him nothing but fast balls."

Montreal scored the winning run when Tim McCarver hit a solo homer off Bruce Kison in the sixth inning, only his second as a member of the Expos. They defeated aloof Pittsburgh's lead over the Mets to 6½ games.

New York snapped a three-game losing streak as Jim McAndrew checked the Cubs on three hits and Willie Mays drove in three runs with his 581st career homer and two singles.

Mays tied the score with a first-inning homer off Ferguson Jenkins, who had pitched two straight shutouts, and added run-scoring singles in the third and fifth.

"Jenkins usually keeps the ball away," Mays said, "but the ball I hit for the home run broke right over the plate and he gave me the same pitch again on my first single."

San Diego ruined Bill Singer's no-hit bid when Clarence Gaston singled with two out in the seventh and then beat the Los Angeles hurler on two-out ninth-inning doubles by Nate Colbert, Gaston and Gerry Jestadt. Mike Caldwell ceased a four-hit shutout and caned Frank Robinson three times.

Bobby Tolan was the big gun in Cincinnati's sweep of Atlanta. He homered in the ninth inning to send the opener into overtime, the doubled in the 11th and scored the winning run on a throwing error by second baseman Felix Millan.

In the nightcap, Tolan delivered a two-run single off Gerry McLain in the third inning.

The Astros got two solo homers and a double from Lee May and a solo homer from John Edwards to send San Francisco's Juan Marichal to his 12th loss in 16 decisions.

The Philadelphia-St. Louis game matched two winless starters—6-8 Ken Reynolds of the Phillies and 6-3 Don Durham of the Cardinals—and neither one came away with a triumph.

Durham slammed a three-run homer in the second inning and protected a 3-2 lead until the eighth, when the Phils tagged him and relievers John Cumberland and Diego Segui for six runs.

St. Catharines Offers Rowing Site

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—Montreal has been offered the Henley course as a site for the Olympic rowing regatta in 1976.

Tim Rigby, president of the Henley Aquatic Association, confirmed Friday that a letter has gone to Mayor Jean Drapeau of Montreal suggesting that he consider saving the vast expenditure required to create a rowing and paddling course for 1976 by using the St. Catharines facilities.

The Henley Course has been the site of the 1967 North American rowing championships as well as the 1976 world rowing championships. All national rowing championships and trials are held here and the 1968 Canadian canoe championships were held on it.

Mr. Rigby, in his letter to Mayor Drapeau, suggested using St. Catharines for the Olympic rowing and paddling in 1976 would help save "tremendous expenditures" required in building a rowing course. He cited the St. Catharines plan as "a logical and inexpensive method of preparing for 1976."

Estimates of the cost of creating an acceptable rowing and paddling course on the Expo 67 islands site range up to $16 million.

"Experienced regatta officials are also available here in St. Catharines to run the Olympic rowing and paddling," wrote Mr. Rigby. "They are all part of a group regularly staging national events while at the same time having played key roles in international regattas like the North American and the Worlds."

Mr. Rigby has offered to meet with Mayor Drapeau or his representatives at any time to discuss the offer.

The Henley Aquatic Association is a St. Catharines rowing group charged with the maintenance and administration of the Henley Course, a multi-million dollar rowing facility which has been created here over the last 10 years.

Bruins File Suit Against Two Stars

BOSTON (AP) — Boston Bruins of the National Hockey League filed suit in Suffolk Superior Court Friday to prevent Gerry Cheevers and Derek Sanderson from playing in the new World Hockey Association.

Sanderson and Cheevers, two standouts on the Bruins team that won last season's Stanley Cup, recently signed contracts with the new league.

Judge Joseph Ford set Aug. 11 for a hearing on the request for injunction and ordered that Sanderson and Cheevers at that time show cause why they should not be enjoined from playing in the WHA.

The Bruins claim that both players are bound to the NHL, even though their contracts with the established league expire Oct. 1.

The Bruins, in a statement, said they filed the suit "to enforce contractual obligations which the Bruins considered to be valid . . . Until the matters have been heard in court, we have been advised by our counsel to refrain from discussing the issues involved."

Sanderson signed Thursday with the WHA Philadelphia Blazers for a contract reported to be worth $2.3 million. Cheevers last week joined Cleveland Crusaders.

PETER BOROUGH, Ont. (CP) — Peterborough PCOs defeated Oshawa Green Gaels 14-4 here Friday night in the first game of a double round robin semi-final series of the Ontario Lacrosse Association Junior A league.

It was Peterborough's 23rd consecutive win in a row this year without a loss, tying the Canadian junior record set by Oshawa in 1941.

Scoring for Peterborough were Bill Mazer, with three; John Grant, Guy Legault and Steve Plunkett with two each and Jim Johnston, Paul Evan, Greg Lustic, Bob Wasdon and Jim Wasson with one apiece.

Oshawa scorers were by Doug Hannon, Rich Watkins, Terry Lloyd and Stan Crockerton.

The next game is Monday with Peterborough at Oshawa.

The series goes to Sept. 25 with each team and Rexdale playing each other twice at home and once away, with the two best clubs playoff for the best-of-seven Ontario title.

TORONTO (CP) — The Canadian Television network and Canadian Broadcasting Corporation's television network announced Friday a joint agreement for televising the Canada-Russia exhibition hockey series.

In a joint statement, the networks said they will pool their facilities and production staff to produce all eight games.

The CTV network will carry the opening game Sept. 2 from Montreal, the third game Sept. 6 from Winnipeg and two games from Moscow Sept. 22 and 26.

The CBC network will carry the Sept. 4 game from Toronto, Sept. 8 from Vancouver and Moscow games Sept. 24 and 28.

The CBC French network will carry all eight games.

Foster Hewitt is the play-by-play commentator for all English broadcasts while Rene LaCavalier broadcasts on the French network.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Running back Duane Thomas, reported absent from San Diego Chargers' training camp since a mid-week trade, was ordered off a plane late Friday night in a row with American Airlines personnel.

The former Dallas Cowboys star, had his tape recorder on to too loud in the aircraft as it was taxiing down the runway. When he was asked to lower the volume and refused, he was ordered off the Dallas-bound jet, airline officials said.

Thomas then rebooked passage to Dallas on a later flight.

Thomas was traded to San Diego for running back Mike Montgomery and wide receiver Billy Parks.

HEIDELBERG, West Germany (UPI) — Canada won two gold medals Friday at the 21st World Cadet Olympics. Peter Bovee of Edmonton won the men's 69-metre wheelchair slalom in the Class IA competition, for persons almost totally disabled, with a time of 76.9 seconds. Eugene Reimer of Abbotsford, B.C., won the Class IA event in the men's lesion Class 4 competition with a toss of 29.91 metres.

In all, 36 Canadian paraplegics are participating in the Games.

MEL PROFIT

Profit Retires For Second Time

TORONTO (CP) — Mel Profit, Canadian Football League all-star tight end with Toronto Argonauts last season, said Friday he plans to retire for the second time in two months.

Profit went on the voluntarily retired list when Toronto coach Leo Cahill announced before the club's training camp opened that he would be unable to keep Profit this season because he needed to use his quota of United States imports at other positions.

Last week, Profit became a free agent in order to negotiate with Los Angeles Rams of the National Football League.

He said Friday the Rams had offered him "two or three times" the salary he had received with the Argonauts but he had decided not to return to football.

"That part of my life is through," he said. "It was nice, but I'm going for something else now."

The 31-year-old UCLA graduate was drafted by the Rams in 1964. was traded to Pittsburgh Steelers the same year and joined British Columbia Lions after refusing to report to Pittsburgh in 1965. Toronto purchased him from the Lions the following year.

He ranked second in pass-receiving in the Eastern Conference last season, catching 38 passes, for 725 yards and five touchdowns.

Golf Giant Leads B. C. Open

VANCOUVER (CP) — Dave Shuster, one of five golfers leading after the opening round in the British Columbia Open, figures he knows how to lick the Vancouver Golf Club course.

Shuster, who recorded a four-under-par 68 on the 6,629-yard course, said following his round that "commercial golf" is the answer.

The 23-year-old giant from Juno Beach, Fla., one of a horde of golfers who pleaded his game while attending the University of Houston, said he likes hitting the ball for distance on the short Vancouver club course.

"The main thing is to stay out of trouble," said Shuster, who is six-feet three and a slightly round 210 pounds.

"You've got to stay out of the trees."

Shuster, just married, is on a diet to pare some pounds from his big frame, but said the lack of food isn't hurting.

"All I've had today is a couple of eggs," he said. "It doesn't seem to be hurting my game any."

Tied with Shuster after the opening round in the 4-hole championship were Elwin Franklin of Houston, Ron Willey of Bella, B.C., John Calabria of Rochester, N.Y., and Rale Botts of Los Angeles.

Botts, looking for his first win on the seven event Canadian tour, is in third place in overall money winnings behind Greg Pitzer of Pacific Palisades, Calif., who had a 74 in the opener, and Alberto Billedeneiro of Brancaulla, Colombia, who isn't playing.

Pitzer has $5,889 from his play in Canada, while Botts has $4,775.

In addition to his sixth par round, Willey won a $5,200 car Friday, firing in a four iron on the 178-yard 12th hole for an ace.

The car is worth $5,200 more than first-prize money in the $16,000 tourney.

Four other golfers, John Elliott of Ocean Pitzer, Fla., Terry McGinnis of Memphis, Tenn., Terry Small of Long Beach, Calif., and Rusty Guernsey of Ogden, Utah, trailed by one shot after the first round.

Stan Leonard of Vancouver, Deray Simon of Costa Mesa, Calif., Ernie Vaeckenstyne of Renton, Wash., and Tom Storey of Las Vegas, Nev., were still in the title hunt with scores of 70s.

The field of 122 golfers which began play Friday will be pared to the top 80 and ties before Sunday's final round and it won't be too soon for some of the tournament pros.

"This is far too many golfers," one of them said. "They should have held a qualifying round. Some of the golfers out there just don't belong in this tournament."

"About 144 golfers would have been just about right."

Some of the scores in the opening round tended to bear him out. A few of the others were in the 90s, others were in the high 80s and only 21 managed to break par.

"I don't think there's anything more satisfying than the 'click' you hear when you hit the ball just right."

PGA Favorites Falter As Heard Holds Lead

BIRMINGHAM, Mich. (AP) — Jerry Heard says winning the PGA championship "would really give my career a shot in the arm."

If he continues to play as well as he did Thursday and Friday, the inoculation should be administered Sunday evening, along with a trophy, a lot of handshakes and interviews and, oh yes, a $40,000 cheque.

Heard toured the 7,064-yard, par-70 Oakland Hills Country Club layout near Detroit with a second-round 70 Friday to give him a one-stroke lead in the $400,000 event.

With a 69 Thursday, his one-under total made him the only golfer in a field of 139 who broke par.

Only two golfers came in at even par after 36 holes to trail the 25-year-old Heard by one stroke with 140-1969 winner Ray Floyd and Hale Irwin.

Three others were tied at 141: Gay Brewer, Bob Smith and Jim Jamieson. Another four were in contention at 142: Tommy Aaron, Larry Player, Dan Sikes, and Lanny Watkins.

First-round leaders Bud Allin and Sten Thirsk, both little known, ran into all kinds of trouble but still managed to make the cut of the low 70 players. Those firing 150 or better made it.

Allin and Thirsk surprised the record opening day PGA crowd of 19,200 Thursday by carding two-under 69s to lead such notables as Player, Arnold Palmer, Lee Trevino and Jack Nicklaus. But Allin shot up to a 77 to total 145, while Thirsk ballooned to an 82 for 150.

Palmer, who shot 69 in the first round, came in with a 75 to stand five strokes behind at 144.

Trevino, winner of the British Open, was erratic in a 71 round for a 146, while U.S. Open and Masters champ Nicklaus had a disastrous 75 to climb to 147.

Heard was one of a handful of golfers to hit the green on 18 in two strokes. He finished with a par four at the much-criticized 459-yard hole, which has accounted for 145 bogeys, 27 double bogeys and four triple bogeys. Heard was one birdie by George Knudson of Toronto, who finished with 73-74—153 and didn't make the cut.

"I can't remember a round this year I've played that badly," Nicklaus grumbled.

"I'd rather forget it and think about tomorrow."

Flyers Forward Shares Golf Win

KITCHENER (CP) — Garry Dornbofer and Mike Silver of Kitchener combined Friday to win the second annual Canadian Professional Golf Association Ontario assistants' best-ball tournament at Westmount Golf and Country Club.

They fired a four-under-par 68 to finish one stroke ahead of Terry Parker and John Liska of Oakville. Third were Dan Allman and Bevan each posted 69s.

Prize money totalled $1,825 and 49 teams competed.

Dornbofer, a forward with Philadelphia Flyers in the National Hockey League, and Silver won $200 each while the runners-up collected $150 each. Allman and Bevan each pocketed $100.

Tennis Title 'Roped' In

TORONTO (CP) — Fourteen-year-old Laurie Rope of Galt, Ont., won the under-14 Ontario Open tennis championship Friday at the Toronto Lawn Tennis Club.

Laurie, oldest daughter of one-time Toronto Marlboro hockey player Don Rope, beat Mike Kostiuk of Kenora, Ont., 7-6, 6-1 in the final after eliminating top-seeded Pat Sinclair of Toronto 6-4, 6-4.

Her father, who teaches tennis near Parry Sound every summer, said after the win that Galt has produced some fine female players.

"They have an excellent junior program," he added.

Laurie said she started playing tennis when she was 10. "And I just hit the ball around."

"I didn't get serious about it until last year," she said.

She was the only unseeded player to win a singles title.

Results Friday included:

Boys under 18: Steve Whitehead, St. Catharines, Ont., defeated John Turner, London, Ont., 6-4, 6-3. Whitehead defeated Mark Berner, San Diego, Calif., 3-6, 6-2, 6-2.

Boys under 16: Ken Thomas Detroit, defeated Bill Leigh, Galt, 6-4, 4-6, 6-2. Thomas defeated Bill Rennie, Galt, 1-6, 7-5, 6-2.

Boys under 14: Garth Nasmuff, Toronto, defeated Hans Muench, Toronto, 6-4, 7-5. Owen Bradley, Toronto, defeated Kyle Langill, Toronto, 6-1, 6-2. Pelley defeated Nazmoff 6-2, 6-2.

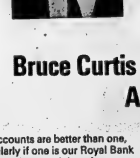
Rams Claw Panthers

TORONTO (CP) — Scarborough Rams won their Ontario Junior Football Conference game against Peterborough Panthers 34-29 in the final two minutes Friday night when Gary Robinson of the Rams recovered a blocked kick in the Peterborough end zone for six points.

Vic Aboff's successful convert completed the scoring.

For Rams it was vindication. Earlier in the fourth quarter Peterborough's 22-point deficit had been cut by Peterborough fumble at the Rams' 15-yard line as the Panthers went threatening to score and get lopped 86 yards downfield—only to have the touchdown called back on a clipping call.

Bobby Hall counted two big ones for the Rams in the second quarter. He took a pitchout from Fred Lucas for one touchdown and after Tod Lucas kicked a field goal had Peterborough, ran off a touchdown pass from quarterback Dave Kilpatrick for another. Both TDs were converted by Vic Abolf, giving Peterborough a score of Rams 17, Panthers 13.



The Panthers opened the scoring in the third quarter with Lucas kicking a field goal. Abolf came back, adding a field goal, to tie it 3-3.

But Jim Mundell caught a 40-yard pass from Cam Atchison and ran another 45 for a touchdown. Atchison's pass which was converted by Lucas to end the first quarter as Peterborough 16, Scarborough 3.

In the third quarter Greg Watson, the Peterborough fullback, took a pass from Atchison and ran successfully for a touchdown. Lucas booted a single to give Peterborough a lead for the second time 29-17 after the third period.

Bruce Curtis and Phil Snyder Agree

Two accounts are better than one, particularly if one is our Royal Bank Bonus Savings, and the other our Personal Chequing Account.

Our Bonus Savings Account pays high interest because you're not tempted to write cheques against it. You can't! But you can draw from it if need be. Even transfer funds when necessary.

As for our Personal Chequing Account (PCA for short), it's such a simple way to keep organized. You list all your cheques in your Cheque Book Register, as you write them. And we list them, too, in the monthly statement we mail to you – with all your cancelled cheques. Makes double-checking a cinch. You know exactly how you're doing.

And, with a Personal Chequing Account your name and address can be printed on all your cheques. You can even have them beautifully monogrammed with your family initial for a small charge.

Who do you talk this over with? You decide. (Or flip a coin!)

Bruce Curtis is our manager at 241 Front Street (telephone 962-9164) and Phil Snyder manages our branch at North Front and Valleyview (telephone 968-4553).

SHAWANO NUGGETS

HOW I SPIT OUT MY PIECE

by SOURDOUGH SAM

Howdy there. Could you tell a fella know me from a Adam, Bert's, I've been bushin' and prospectin' long in the Highlands of Hastings, you kinda lose track of time.

I see in the papers as how some fella these days is talk a lot about ecology. Looked the word up in a dictionary and I figure maybe they're talkin' about me. Seems like I'm as big a ecologist too. 'Cos I don't feel no diffrenct, for all the fancy name.

Trampin' around these beautiful woods is living ecology. The lakes and streams and woods is all figured on the way you. All you have to do is use your eyes and ears and nose.

But now an old codger like me notices change.

Couple of years back, some city fellers bought this whole passel of land. Twelve hundred acres and four of my favorite lakes. Dickey, Birch, Lost and Lake o' Islands.

Last me never tried up it did. Next time I see'd 'em poking around in their fancy automobiles, I kinda stood up on 'em. Thought this one feller'd never get back in his skin. Scared he was.

Anyways, I spit out my piece and told a few I'd been keeping an eye on.

Shawano is the 1,200-acre, four-season vacationland in the beautiful Highlands of Hastings, 75 miles northeast of Toronto. Get your free colored brochure from Bowes & Cocks Ltd., Realtor, 175 North Front St., Belleville, 968-4571.

CP News Briefs

Medical Journal Hits Interchanging of Drugs

OTTAWA (CP) — An editorial published today in the Journal of the Canadian Medical Association argues that government health authorities should cease promoting the idea that various brands of medication or prescription drugs are interchangeable.

The editorial cites a research report in the same issue concluding that chemically-similar drugs from different makers do not necessarily produce the same results in patients.

The research report and guest editorial were produced by six Montreal researchers — four of them with Ayerst Laboratories, a drug manufacturer, the others with Montreal General Hospital. Ayerst financed its research.

The researchers say scientific evidence on bioavailability — studies on the amounts of active ingredient absorbed in the body for use — are only beginning to be available now. Studies show that drugs considered chemically equivalent may turn up in blood and urine in different quantities.

The article and editorial appear to be a renewed attack against legislation on the books in five provinces. The laws permit substitution in drug prescriptions. Also opposed are lists of interchangeable drugs published by the federal and Ontario drug-testing programs.

The CMA and the Canadian Pharmaceutical Manufacturers' Association, both of which oppose drug substitution, took pains to draw the editorial and the article to the attention of the press in advance.

Bar U.S. Chief

CALGARY (CP) — A temporary restraining order preventing the swearing in of a police chief who has been opposed because he is a United States citizen was issued Friday in Alberta Supreme Court.

Chief Justice J. V. H. Milvain granted the order at the request of lawyer Milt Harradence, who was acting for Norma Wilms Smith, listed only as a property owner in Calgary.

Accept Contract

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP) — Members of the 600-strong Local 2251 of the United Steelworkers of America voted 9 to 1 Friday in favor of a new three-year contract with Algoma Steel Corp. Ltd.

Oil Mopped Up

OAKVILLE, Ont. (CP) — The bulk of an oil spill from a tanker here was mopped up by mid-afternoon Friday but officials were keeping watch on the remnants of a breakaway slick drifting westward along the Burlington shoreline.

Can't Prosecute

OTTAWA (CP) — The public service staff relations board refused Friday to allow the treasury board to prosecute 180 members of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers for taking part in a nationwide airport strike last February. The 140 members, part of the IBEW's Local 2228, were designated essential to maintain public services during the strike, but by law the treasury board had to clear the right to prosecute through the staff relations board.

New Party

OTTAWA (CP) — It may not be a household word yet, but Modernization is the name of Canada's newest official political party.

Never heard of it?

Neither have most voters, which seems to suit leader Glenn Pylypa of Edmonton. "If and when we do it, we'll make a formal statement."

Ready to Go

HULL, Que. (CP) — Three truckloads of demolition equipment rolled on to the site of an unfinished apartment development here Friday to add muscle to a citizens' group attempting to destroy the building.

The equipment was greeted by about 50 laughing, cheering, horn-honking residents supporting the Tache Gardens Property Owners Association in its efforts to demolish the 512 million Dasken development.

Two 3,000-pound steel balls are to swing into action Monday with both the Tache Gardens group and its opponents in a bitter mood.

Pair Freed

SPRINGHILL, N.S. (CP) — Two former bank accountants sentenced to two years in prison following the theft of $414,847 from the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce at Summerside, P.E.I., last September were released from the medium security prison Thursday.

William Angus MacDonald and Archibald Alexander MacLeod, both of Summerside, had served about 8½ months of their sentence.

'Bomb' Is Hoax

OTTAWA (CP) — Bomb experts Friday dismantled the paper wrapped parcel found on Parliament Hill Thursday and discovered an empty beer can, a two soft-drink bottles taped together, a broken shoelace and flashlight batteries.

No Clean-up Unless Forced

ST. JEROME, Que. (CP) — The engineer in charge of pollution control at a mill owned by Rolland Paper Co Ltd. on the North River says his company will not take steps to fight pollution until it is forced.

"Pollution control doesn't do a goddam thing for Rolland," says Andre Asselin, engineer for the Rolland paper mill in this community 30 miles north west of Montreal.

Fischer Wins

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (Reuter) — American challenger Bobby Fischer appeared ready to be firmly on the road to his first world chess title after defeating current champion Boris Spassky for the fifth time.

Fischer's victory Friday in their adjourned 10th game gave him 6½ points to the Russian's 3½—and experts here could not recall any case in the history of the championship, or in modern tournament play in which a player had so scored from being three points down.

What the Stars Say

By JEANE DIXON

Sunday, August 6

Aries (March 21-April 19): Do the least you can manage without creating difficulties. Let people enjoy their opinions, however you view them, at reasonable distances.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Make an early appearance and placidly share in week-end amenities. Get as much of your personal obligations out of the way as you can.

Gemini (May 21- June 20): Exercise and entertainment in moderation, a tight rein on your spending are all of real concern this delicately balanced Sunday.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): You are out of step with your peers this Sunday. Like as not, with very good reason. Do as your Intuition tells you.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): There's nothing to gain by impulsive changes. Doubtless expressions. Relatives, distant friends require tact, perhaps simply cannot agree.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Normal week-end routines are the most likely to get you through current mood. Make yourself be co-operative despite surface irritations.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): The frustrating part of this Sunday's stress is that it is clear you can do very little directly to get to basic problems.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): You may as well have no special plans, as indications are for last-minute developments, local events demanding your attention.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): You can dispose of stress in competitive sports, games, pastimes so long as you remember to offer your companions true personal respect.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): It's easy to get into more than you can cope with. Clear words avoid misunderstandings. Some people seem to seek discrepancy.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Stay away from physically taxing exertions, expensive entertainments, even if it means being aloof from your normal associations.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Loved ones suit. Be moderate. Wait for moods to pass, change plans to suit the occasion. All works well if you remain serene.

Monday August 7

Aries (March 21-April 19): Surprises are the order of the day, those of evening being very helpful once you accept the changes thrust upon you. Conclude late.

Taurus (April 20- May 20): Home, family matters need review and experimental rearrangement. By evening you return to an older idea and a feeling of relief.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Only at the end of the day does your luck work well. Accept upheavals as temporary phases of something good developing.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Material concerns encounter choppy going all day, with conflicting estimates of what is needed and what costs may be reasonable.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): It's a day for breaking precedent, letting go of the overdone. Later hours bring sound plans, new plans.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): The main path to getting anything done is do whatever you can alone, adjusting and double checking. You'll get something done.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Purchases don't bring the expected involvement to a minimum. Modern's habits are indicated.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Exciting news and provocative ideas arrive. Your world is not the same again, so you may as well prepare for change.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Friends have slightly incorrect information. By evening you will have sifted things out and know more of where you stand.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): It's Monday is more of a circus than routine. Accept temporary conditions, wait to see developments before you settle your own plans.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Today's people, schemes and tactics tend to be premature. Watch for indications of future trend, discount temporary results.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Past efforts are near, but not yet to the point of recognition. Persist, come with misunderstandings. Family life has surprises tonight.

Tuesday, August 8

Aries (March 21 - April 19): Emotional involvements exceed past expression, and very happily expressed.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Bargains exist, whatever you plan to purchase. Get family or group participation in your plans.

Leo (July 23-Aug.22): Imaginative projects are favored. Your persuasive abilities are high. Remember those who helped when times were not so good.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Now comes the impact of whatever excesses you and those around have been permitting. Guard your well-being by moderate habits.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Your advancement depends on your resources directed toward your goals without reference to other people's schemes.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Accept whatever help and support others going in the same direction may share with you. Alternatives prove valuable.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Take the time and effort to study yesterday's revelations, add perspective. Your evaluation of future prospects improves.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Plans and projects come together with an early start. Anything related to long range security is strongly favored.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Bring associates along on all ventures. Their views influence matters advantageously. Share a good show tonight.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Consistency is key to prosperity whether you feel that what you do is great or petty. You may be setting standards.

Elephant Kills Trainer

SUDBURY, Ont. (CP) — The fate of Tina, the elephant who killed an assistant trainer of the Canadian International Circus Friday, was still undecided today.

Owners of the circus, Canadian Dominion Productions Ltd. of Vancouver, said, after the death of Chester Longe, 40, of Tresham, Ore., that the three-elephant act in which Tina performs would probably go on as usual—at least for the time being.

Longe was killed when he entered the trailer in which the elephants were chained, to loose them Friday morning.

When he did not emerge trainer Paul Duke of Dallas, Tex., and several stage-hands entered the trailer. They found the trampled body of Longe lying next to Tina's bloody left foot. None of the three elephants had been unchained.

Arsonist Sought Indemnity

TORONTO (CP) — An arsonist who sets fire to himself can't get compensation, Ontario's Criminal Injuries Compensation Board comments in its annual report.

Telling of crank applications, it said: "One insistent character was paid $50 to commit arson.

"When he was setting fire to the building, the bottle containing the inflammable material exploded, inflicting serious burns. . . .

The registrar (of the board) had great difficulty convincing him that the legislature did not have him in mind for compensation when it passed the statute."

Branding Fish

These rainbow trout fingerlings are branded before being released into Manitoba Lakes. The branding scar will help identify adult trout in the fall so the hardiest stock can be selected and cross-bred for superior trout strains. The stocking is part of a study by the Fisheries Research Board's Freshwater Institute of the feasibility of commercial production of rainbow trout farms.

Board Upholds Firing For Dues Non-payment

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Labor Relations Board rules Friday that a union that refused to process a grievance by an employee, dismissed for refusing to pay union dues on religious grounds, was not acting in bad faith.

The board also ruled that the union, the Service Employees International Union, was not acting in an arbitrary or discriminating manner contrary to the law.

The case involved Dorothe Eilens, an employee of St. Catharines General Hospital, who earlier had asked the OLRB to excuse her from paying dues on religious grounds.

The board had dismissed her application on grounds she became working in the hospital after the time limit set by the section of Labor Act dealing with exemptions from dues and union membership on religious grounds.

The union had not opposed the application but refused to exempt her voluntarily from the dues payments.

Miss Eilens claimed the hospital did not have the right under the collective agreements to fire her for failing to authorize the deduction of union dues.

The union refused to act on her request to take her case to arbitration, and was supported in this by the hospital.

Sixteen Dogs Freed From Pen in Swamp

MASCOUCHE, Que. (CP) — Sixteen dogs, most of them so weak they could hardly stand, were freed Friday from a makeshift pen in a swamp by police and officials of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals in this community 20 miles north of Montreal.

Jean Bourgeois, Mascouche police chief, said that "it didn't look like they'd had anything to eat for over a week."

Chief Bourgeois, who is faced with the task of tracing the dogs' owners, said "we're pretty sure at least three of them will have to be de-stroyed."

Allergy to Sting May Have Gone

By G.C. THOSTESON MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Our son, who is now 14, is allergic to bee sting. We camp a lot and that is how we were first aware of the problem.

He was about six when he was stung on the finger by a yellow jacket. We were about 15 miles from a town and by the time we got to a doctor, he was having difficulty with his breathing and wanted to sleep.

The doctor gave him a shot and pills.

When we got home our doctor started him on a series of shots. When he was about 10, he was stung on the leg but showed no ill effects.

Are all shots alike or do some affect the person differently?—Mrs. D.S.

You should have the boy checked again for his reaction to insect bites prior to taking another camping trip. As a matter of fact, you probably should whether or not you are planning such a trip. He may have overcome his sensitivity to the bites in the intervening years.

Insect bites are specific in the reactions produced and it is advisable to desensitize against all of the stingers even if you have evidence of an allergy to only one of them—in your case the yellowjacket.

Persons with known susceptibility toward such bites should take such precautions. On camping trips, for example, it is advisable to have antihistamine on hand, either for injection or in cream form for application to the bite area. Insect toxin bears no resemblance to the histamines.

It is important to remove the stinger that the insect leaves imbedded in the flesh and this can be done with sterilized tweezers.

The discomfort of the sting usually disappears within 24 hours. Ice applied to the bite will relieve much of the pain. Do not, repeat, not use the old witch-doctor cure of applying mud to the area.

For other campers wanting to avoid insect bites, here are some tips.

Avoid strongly scented lotions or perfumes.

Favor white or less colorful clothing.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1♣	Pass	4 NT	Pass
5♥	Pass	6 NT	Pass
6♦	Pass	7 NT	Pass

Opening lead—Jack of clubs.

Assume you're in seven notrump and West leads a club. When dummy comes down, you see exactly nine tricks in hearts, diamonds and clubs — and that you must therefore make four spade tricks to land the grand slam.

There are various and sundry ways of playing the spades successfully — depending on how they are divided and your one and only problem is to find the best way in the present case.

To meet the challenge—and before tackling the spades—you must learn as much as possible about how the unseen cards are divided. To start with, you proceed to cash the A-K-Q of clubs. As it happens, East shows out on the third round, so you mentally chalk up the fact that West started with five clubs and East with two.

Next you cash the A-K-Q of hearts, choosing hearts because you have more of them than diamonds. This probe for further information likewise proves illuminating, for you learn that West started with five hearts and East with two.

Hot on the scent, you now play three rounds of diamonds and your investigative efforts are fully rewarded when you learn that West started with precisely two diamonds — which in turn means that he started with one spade.

So, as a result of your detective work and by forcing East-West to reveal their distribution, you are able to insure the contract by cashing the ace of spades and finessing the jack with a 100 per cent assurance that it will win.

Perhaps you may regard all this as a circuitous venture into the unknown, and somewhat laborious, but how often do you get a chance to make a grand slam by dint of first-rate detective work?

Robinette Advises Action on Leases

Moores Would Spare Ex-PM

CORNER BROOK, Nfld. (CP) — The Western Star says a report by a Toronto lawyer on whether legal action should be taken as the result of a royal commission investigation into provincial liquor store leases will be considered by the Newfoundland cabinet today.

The newspaper says the report by John J. Robinette, who was retained by the government, recommends legal action against some of the parties involved.

The commission said last month that former Liberal premier Joseph Smallwood, former deputy economic development minister L. L. Vardy and Arthur Landreian, a local businessman, purchased $1.6 million in Brinco shares at a time when Mr. Smallwood's government was negotiating with the company for the Churchill Falls power development.

But Mr. Moores said civil action may be taken by the government which he would like to see settled out of court.

Catholics Talk With Whitelaw

BELFAST (CP) — The death toll in three years of communal warfare in Northern Ireland reached 500 Monday night, revised police figures showed, as more Catholic politicians opened secret peace talks with British officials.

Talks began in secret Monday between Britain's administrator for Northern Ireland, William Whitelaw, and leaders of the Social Democratic and Labor party, the opposition group that represents the province's Roman Catholic minority.

The talks were to continue today. But nobody would say what was discussed or what progress, if any, was made.

Both sides are operating under delicate conditions. Whitelaw faces the possibility of backlash from the Protestant majority for talking to the Catholics while violence persists.

The SDLP risks being repudiated for talking with the British while Britain's troops occupy the Catholic enclaves hitherto ruled by the IRA and while the policy of internment without trial still is in force.

Dockers' Security Studied

LONDON (Reuter) — A committee representing port unions and management meets here today to consider the question of job security—the basic issue behind Britain's 12-day national dock strike.

The committee had been appealing to container firms—companies whose modernized techniques have cut down the number of jobs for longshoremen—to take on more men, but there has been little response so far.

Observers noted that unless the deadlock can be broken quickly, the strike could well last another two weeks.

Closure of ports has not yet seriously affected most Britons in terms of supplies, but sales of animal feed can be brought into the country by the end of the week, farmers will be forced to slaughter pigs and poultry.

"People don't seem to realize how far things have gone," a spokesman for the agriculture ministry said. "You and I can live without a meal, but you can't tell a chicken that he has nothing to eat."

Pact Discussed

Caution Made Mild

WASHINGTON (AP) — A go-slow warning to the Russians has been toned down and endorsed by the White House in an effort to appease senators on both sides of the U.S.-Soviet arms-limitation agreement.

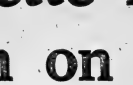
The compromise may have improved chances for early Senate passage of the interim agreement limiting offensive nuclear arsenals, although initial reaction to the developments Monday was mixed.

The White House endorsed Senator Henry Jackson's amendment to the five-year SALT agreement after Jackson eliminated its strongest provision—a note to Russia that installing multiple warheads capable of destroying U.S. missile silos on its 313 largest intercontinental missiles could threaten American security and cause the United States to abandon the interim SALT agreement.

The Washington state Democrat introduced the amendment last week, arousing a storm of protest from some senators who support the pact.

Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott joined Jackson in presenting the amendment, leading some senators to consider it had White House support from the beginning.

The White House emphasized it had worked with Jackson on the amendment in order to win over critics who fear the agreement could give the U.S. security inferior if exceeds the Russians a temporary edge in the total number of land and sea-based missiles.



Jackson consulted with the White House on the revised amendment, which retains language calling for U.S. negotiators to seek strategic equality in any future SALT treaty with the Soviet Union.

Senator J. W. Fulbright, chairman of the foreign relations committee, said: "I don't think any more of it than I did the other. It raises questions about the competence and propriety of the original agreement."

To take effect, the interim agreement needs a majority votes in both the House of Representatives and Senate, unless the companion treaty limiting both nations to small and equal defensive missile forces. That needed only Senate approval and was ratified last week.

The interim agreement sets ceilings on the number of offensive weapons each country may have, and is designed to slow the momentum of the arms race while a more permanent means is sought to end it.

Fulbright has contended that President Nixon should be taken at his word that the original agreement alone is no mention of the Soviet armsbuildup and enhanced rather than jeopardizes, American security.

Riot in Liverpool

LIVERPOOL, England (AP) — A race riot erupted in Liverpool Monday night when a row over allocation of municipal houses boiled over into the streets. Gangs of white and non white youths clashed in the Edgehill district of the tough port city and residents hurled barricades up around their homes, police said.

Couple 'Rescued'

TORONTO (CP) — A Toronto couple was surprised Sunday to learn they had become the object of an air sea search on Lake Ontario. Mr. and Mrs. John MacDonald of North York, were reported missing in their 28-foot sailboat, Fiddlers Green, between Toronto and Niagara-on-the-Lake. But it was all a misunderstanding. When the coast guard cutter Spindrift located the MacDonalds late Sunday afternoon, they were cruising about four miles off Toronto.

NEW YORK (CP) — A federal court judge has ordered a group which says it has raised nearly $500,000 for the Irish Republican Army to open its books and records for inspection by the U.S. justice department. The New York based Irish Northern Aid Committee claims to have 93 chapters in the United States and says it has raised nearly $500,000 to aid the Provisional wing of the IRA in Northern Ireland.

Moscow Trade Talks Fruitless

MOSCOW (Reuter) — Canada's trade talks with the Soviet Union have ended without any agreement on the sale of Canadian wheat to Russia.

Pepin said he was disappointed that no agreement was reached but added that the talks were not a failure.

He said he was confident that Canada would sell wheat to the Soviet Union in the future.

Records to Be Shown

NEW YORK (CP) — A federal court judge has ordered a group which says it has raised nearly $500,000 for the Irish Republican Army to open its books and records for inspection by the U.S. justice department. The New York based Irish Northern Aid Committee claims to have 93 chapters in the United States and says it has raised nearly $500,000 to aid the Provisional wing of the IRA in Northern Ireland.

Moscow Trade Talks Fruitless

MOSCOW (Reuter) — Canada's trade talks with the Soviet Union have ended without any agreement on the sale of Canadian wheat to Russia.

Pepin said he was disappointed that no agreement was reached but added that the talks were not a failure.

He said he was confident that Canada would sell wheat to the Soviet Union in the future.

Refugees

Hutu refugees rest in a field in Swima, Zaire, recently after fleeing the East African state of Burundi in the wake of an attempted coup. Various sources have reported that up to 150,000 members of the Hutu tribe have been killed since the unsuccessful coup in April against President Michel Micombero. The Micombero regime has denied reports of the officially-inspired programs against the tribesman.

Asians Are Awaiting Expulsion from Uganda

KAMPALA, Uganda (Reuter) — Tens of thousands of British Asians, accused of sabotaging Uganda's economy, are waiting for a final official pronouncement on their fate—expected expulsion from the country that has been their home for generations.

A final policy statement on the threatened expulsions is due Wednesday from President Idi Amin following a meeting with British High Commissioner Richard Slater and leaders of the big Asian community.

The British passport-holding Asians, who largely control Uganda's private commerce, were told by Amin last week they must leave the country within three months. The charge against them was economic sabotage through profiteering, smuggling, hoarding and currency offenses.

At Wednesday's meeting Amin will officially tell the British government representative of his plans to rid his country of Asians to make way for a vented black control of commerce and industry.

Amin has insisted that Britain bears responsibility for finding a new home for the Asians, whose numbers he has put at 80,000. The Asian figure, however, is 57,000.

Wednesday's meeting was scheduled against a background of possible economic retaliation from Britain if Amin carries out his expulsion threat.

British Foreign Secretary Sir Alec Douglas-Home said in the House of Commons Monday that Britain would have to review its economic arrangements with Uganda, which collects about $11.8 million a year in aid from Britain.

Sir Alec called the expulsion plan directed at people "close in Uganda for 70 years" as "totally irresponsible and racist."

Amin's reply was to announce that his decision to oust the Asians would be extended to cover all non-citizens subverting the central African state's economy.

Resistance Growing To Sheltering Ousted

LONDON (CP) — Resistance seems to be growing here against permitting entry to Britain to thousands of Asians facing expulsion from Uganda amid suggestions that some new homes should be sought in Canada.

The Daily Mail comments today: "The number of colored people coming into this country must at least be held at the present level.

"This is the responsibility, the overriding responsibility, which the British government owes to all of us who live here — whatever the color of our skin."

Ugandan Foreign Minister Wanume Kibedi said in a British television interview recently Britain should seek homes in Canada and Australia for the Asians, about to be expelled from the Commonwealth African state.

President Idi Amin of Uganda has given the Asians in his country who hold British passports three months to leave. The actual numbers involved are not clear but estimates place these at 60,000 to 80,000.

Most of the Asians are of Indian origin and British officials here are searching for some arrangement under which large numbers might be allowed to move to India.

President Amin has said the Asians have created grave social and economic problems for his near-bankrupt regime.

The Telegraph says today all Commonwealth countries bear some responsibility for helping the Asians. The full burden should not fall to Britain when countries such as Canada and Australia have ample resources, wealth and living space.

Conservative MP John Hunt, chairman of an all-party committee on United Kingdom citizenship, is urging a meeting of all Commonwealth countries directly concerned with the Ugandan situation.

Kenya Plans To Ban Asians

NAIROBI (Reuter) — Kenya said today it would seal her frontier to bar entry to Asians threatened with expulsion from neighboring Uganda.

The official Kenya news agency said Vice-President Daniel Arap Moi told an audience at Nakuru that Kenya does not intend to offer herself as a refuge for Asians ordered out of Uganda.

Shriver to Be Named To McGovern Ticket

WASHINGTON (Reuter) — The Democratic National Committee is expected to formally approve R. Sargent Shriver as George McGovern's vice-presidential running mate tonight.

Delegates to the "mini-convention" wrestled Monday over the credentials of who was representing which state, and they probably will do so again today.

But presidential nominee McGovern seemed assured of total support when they act to final vote.

At the Miami Beach convention last month—which selected McGovern and has ill-fated first choice, Senator Thomas Eagleton—the nomination will need 1,509 delegate votes.

In picking the vice-presidential candidate, state delegates on the 303 member Democratic national committee will cast the same number of votes as they cast at the August convention.

Shriver, 56, former peace corps director, diplomat and a Kennedy family in-law, has the support of a large, moderate element of the Democratic party organization that recalls his energetic campaign work for the late President John Kennedy and the 1960 congressional elections.

Party officials believe this has taken support for Eagleton, among a handful of delegates who would like to renominate him, will wither before the final vote is taken.

In a rare show of unanimity, Democratic members of the House of Representatives Monday endorsed Shriver as vice-presidential candidate.

Vietnamese Attacking Cambodia

SAIGON (AP) — North Vietnamese troops and tanks thrusted three towns in eastern Cambodia today, raising fears of five thrusts across the border into the Mekong Delta region provinces north and west of Saigon.

Messages from Kompong Trebek on the Saigon-Phnom Penh highway 85 miles west of the South Vietnamese capital, indicated the Cambodians were still fighting there on the west bank. Reports in Trebek first but had abandoned that part of the city lying on the east bank.

Sandbanks Issue

Weekend Investigators Offer 'Unfair Criticism'

PICTON (Staff) — A press release issued by Local 387 of the United Cement, Lime and Gypsum Workers International today defended a recent report on the Sandbanks prepared by Dr. Walter Tovell against "unfair criticism".

"On viewing the report it is obvious to us that the facts we presented to the public in the initial stages of the issue were also very obvious to Dr. Tovell and subsequently appear in his report," stated the release signed by union president, Stewart Norval.

"It is exasperating to us then," he continued, "in view of the facts and suggestions of Dr. Tovell, to still be plagued by the various weekend wonders who on a couple of days' investigation become such experts on the issue. It would seem that the Sandbanks issue, rather than getting the consideration it requires, is just being used as a stepping stone for personal gain of one sort or another."

Mr. Norval said the union feels that Dr. Tovell has exercised fairness in his report and added he hoped natural resources minister Leo Bernier will give "due consideration" to its recommendations.

"We conclude by commending Dr. Tovell for his efforts and in so doing so feel we speak for the silent majority," said the union president.

Charges against Lake Ontario Cement Ltd. and Triad Truckways Ltd. will be heard Sept. 15 in provincial court here.

The companies were each charged by Mrs. Agda Baijer of Toronto with committing an offence under the Environmental Act by emission of sound from the operation of a loader. They were also charged with two counts of mischief to private property under the Criminal Code by interfering with the lawful enjoyment by a person of private property.

Ex Coupons Replace Tickets

Visitors to Quinte Exhibition will find a new method in use for ticket buying on the midway this year.

Conklin Shows has adopted a centralized ticket buying system. Any ticket purchased anywhere on the midway will be honored on any ride or show.

A fair-goer buys coupons at 10 cents apiece at any of the ticket booths on the grounds. He may then go to the ride or show of his choice, where, instead of having to stand in line to buy tickets, he simply hands over the number of coupons required for that particular attraction. The number of coupons needed for each ride or show is plainly marked.

The customer may purchase a strip of as many tickets as he may want at one time and this way is spared waiting in line-ups.

All personnel working the midway will wear colorful uniforms this year, and Conko, the Conklin Clown will appear with the midway.

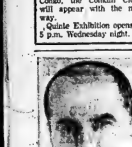
Quinte Exhibition opens at 5 p.m. Wednesday night.

Petawawa Con Caught in Picton

PICTON (Staff) — An escapee from Lansdowne Crossing minimum security prison near Petawawa was apprehended by police early this morning in Picton.

Harry Leonard Moore, 31, a former London, Ont., resident who escaped custody July 22, was recaptured at a Picton residence shortly after midnight. Constables 10 and 14 Camp and Ronald Roblin of the Picton Police Department and Corporal A. J. Kea of the Picton OPP, investigated the incident.

A police spokesman said the escapee surrendered willingly and has been returned to custody at Landry Crossing. Police were unable to state the length of Moore's sentence or the crime for which he had been committed.



Couple Injured

TRENTON (Staff) — A Trenton area couple suffered serious injuries Monday when the motorcycle they were riding struck a car on Highway 33, near Wooler Road.

Following the 2 p.m.-accident, the motorcycle driver, William Potter, 21, of RR5, Trenton, was taken to Kingston General Hospital where he is being treated for leg injuries.

His wife, Patricia, also 21, is in Trenton Memorial Hospital for treatment of multiple fractures.

The Potter motorcycle, westbound on the highway, hit a car driven by Dirk Talsma, Trenton, which had stopped on the roadway while a car ahead was turning, said police.

IN MEMORIAM

HOUSE — In loving memory of a dear son and brother, Leslie, who passed away August 9, 1970.
Gone from us but loving memories,
Memories that will always linger,
Memories that will never depart,
While upon this earth we stay!
—Lovingly remembered by Mom, Dad and brothers Gary, Rodney, Wayne and Dale.

FOLMANTER — In loving memory of a grandaughter Brenda Ann Folmanter, 3 years, who died Aug. 8, 1969.
God took her home, it was His will,
But in our hearts she lingers still.
—Sadly missed by Mom and Dad.

SHERROW — In loving memory of a dear daughter, Brenda Ann who passed away August 9, 1970.
I watched you suffer, I saw you sigh,
But all I could do was just stand by.
Then the time came, I suffered too,
For you never knew what I went through.
God, put Your arms around her,
Cherish her with care,
Tell her I'll be there, hereafter,
Till you are with me forever.
—Sadly missed but never forgotten by Daddy and Mommy, Cindy and Gloria.

Lightning Bolt May Have Caused Death

BRIGHTON (Staff) — The body of a man found in the Lake Ontario ship channel, 20 miles south of Colborne Thursday, has been identified as that of Igor Stephen Ray, 29, a Toronto sailboat enthusiast.

Mr. Ray had been missing since July 23, when he set out alone in a small craft from Ashbridge Bay at Toronto, to sail to Toronto Island.

Investigation has shown a severe storm blew up after his departure and a Brighton provincial police spokesman said Monday that Toronto police assume Mr. Ray was killed by lightning. His boat has not been found.

His body was spotted by the crew of the lake freighter English River, and was recovered by the crew of a coast-guard cutter based at Prescott, Ont. It was moved to Belleville General Hospital for an autopsy.

Pathologist Dr. D. B. Smith disclosed Mr. Ray, who had been wearing a lifejacket, died by drowning.

More Rain Expected

More rain is expected in the Quinte district tonight — in the wake of the cool weather that ended the August holiday weekend.

Rain and thundershowers that intermittently hit the area Sunday saw the heaviest downfalls in the Tweed district where 1.01 inches fell. In Belleville there was .84 of an inch and .31 at Bancroft.

The duty forecaster at Canadian Forces Base Trenton, said today would be cloudy with rain expected tonight, lasting until Wednesday morning.

Temperatures will remain relatively cool with highs in the high 60s today and Wednesday, and overnight lows of around 50.

Plunger Is Baton In Oldsters' Band

CARVALLIS, Ore. (AP) — A plumber's helper serves as a baton and a toilet seat is the ball fiddle for the Corvallis senior citizen recycling band.

Lundberg Honored By ANAF

J. C. LUNDBERG

A Bellevillian who has played a leading role in national veterans affairs for a decade has received high recognition for his service.

Jack C. Lundberg, national president of the Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans in Canada since 1962, was awarded his organization's Award of Merit at its recent Montreal convention.

Mr. Lundbert was elected to the ANAF top national post after 13 years' service in the veterans' association. As its national president he became a leading spokesman for Canadian veterans and a leader in development of various ANAF projects, including youth and community programs.

His leadership was also credited with producing greater co-operation and understanding between veterans and government — an achievement acknowledged at the convention by Veterans' Affairs Minister Arthur Laing.

Mr. Lundberg is a member of the ANAF's Belleville Duke of Edinburgh Unit.

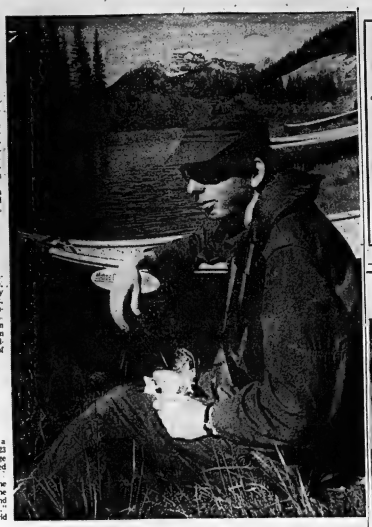
The band started about a year ago and has grown to 23 members, ranging in age from 60 to the 90s, with red and gold uniforms.

"We got started when one member came back from the state fair with a kazoo and wanted someone to play it," says organizer Mrs. David Quinlan.

"I did and we had the band going within two or three days."

All the instruments are made from recycled material, most of which comes from the Corvallis recycling centre where Mrs. Quinlan works as a volunteer.

The band's most expensive item is a 20-cent humazoo, which lacks and sounds like the more traditionel kazoo.



Among the other instruments are a hubcap banjo and a milk can strainer horn.

Mrs. Quinlan uses the plumber's helper to direct the band.

"It goes over real good with the audience, but I only use it for the first two or three numbers because it's heavy," she says.

The band has performed at the Albany Fire Arts Festival, Philomath Follies and senior citizens centres and nursing homes in Salem, Albany, Springfield, Dallas and Corvallis.

The one-hour program starts with band numbers featuring the older tunes, moves to the fiddles and then alternates between band solo and specialty numbers.

Truck Sparks Hydro Blackout

A truck, owned and operated by Fitzgibbon Construction Ltd., was burned up Saturday morning after it struck a 44,000-volt feeder line pole on Wallbridge Road.

The truck, travelling down a steep grade veered into a field, exploding on impact, with the hydro pole.

Driver, 24-year old Gordon Foster of 117 North Front Street escaped without injury.

Corbyville, Canuflon and parts of Belleville had a 50-minute power interruption because of the incident.

Sterling and surrounding areas were without power for more than five hours.

Management personnel of Ontario Hydro had to man the service vehicles because of their province wide strike which is still in effect.

The strike is in its eighth week, with negotiations continuing today in Toronto.

Flag Flutters Finally

TWEED (Special) — It was a little late, but New Brunswick finally made it in the line up of provincial flutes along the Avenue of Provinces at Lester B. Pearson Peace Park near here. The New Brunswick coat of arms and flag arrived following a telephone call from the provincial secretary, of New Brunswick to park co-chairman Rev. J. H. Thompson of Madoc.

A request for the flag had gone to former Premier Louis Robichaud but was lost in the change of government. Another letter to Premier Richard Hatfield straightened the matter out and the flag is flutterin' proudly.

REAL ESTATE
WHAT DO WOMEN WANT IN A HOME?
ED McGINNEY
J. E. McGINNEY Realty Ltd.

Well, usually all the same things that men want — a roof that doesn't leak and plumbing that works and schools nearby — plus a few little extras.

But to a woman who wants them, the extras may mean more than all the fundamental things put together. A Realtor who neglects to devote attention to a woman's wants, does so at his peril.

Women usually want things like plenty of closet space, extra bedrooms and games rooms and recreational areas for children and built-in appliances.

Location and distance to schools and shopping are usually important considerations for the woman. And questions often asked include neighbours and ages of children in the area.

Individual wants of women home seekers are individual to them and make the difference between a home she loves to live in or merely another house. Finding just the right home for the "lady of the house" as well as the husband involves plenty of leg work, record-keeping and study of his files by a Realtor seeking the right property.

Here's a new-style ton of coal.

That's a pellet of uranium dioxide, the raw fuel for Hydro's nuclear power stations. It will produce as much heat as a ton of coal — and there you have the main reason for Hydro's nuclear power program.

A nuclear reactor is an extremely efficient way of producing the heat needed to generate electricity. The cost of generating power the nuclear way is expected to be less than in fuel-burning plants, and should decrease as more and bigger nuclear stations are built. There are other advantages too.

An environmental advantage — the only emission from a nuclear power station that has any appreciable effect on the environment is the water used for cooling, returned cleaner and warmer into the adjacent lake. Scientific tests are constantly being conducted to be sure that this effect is in no way detrimental to our water resources.

An economic advantage—while Ontario has no adequate deposits of coal, or oil, or gas, there is an abundance of natural uranium.

And a technical advantage. The low, stable, fuel costs of the nuclear system make it an ideal "base-load" power source — working continuously at peak capacity, for maximum efficiency.

The success of Hydro's nuclear program offers high promise for the future. It's another way of ensuring that Ontario will always have a clean, economical, source of power, to meet the needs of strong economic growth and continuing improvement in the quality of life.

Historical Project

Mgr LeMarchant of Cobourg is a distinguished looking man with the air of one who has a regard for history and tradition. And indeed his interests do lie in that direction. He left recently for Europe to carry out research into the life and times of Louis Fauche Borel (1762-1829) who was a secret emissary of King Louis XVIII of France, and of General Joseph Genevieve Comte de Puisaye (1757-1827) who brought a settlement of refugees from the French revolution to settle north of Toronto.

Mr. LeMarchant is very much a person of his own time too, for he has been chairman of Hamilton township planning board for the past 18 months. However he resigned this position to carry out his research project, with the assistance of a Canada Council grant of $4,950.

According to The Cobourg Sentinel-Star Mr. LeMarchant goes first to Switzerland where he has access through his family to private documents of the period at Neuchatel, where Borel lived, became and died. He then goes to the public archives in Germany, France and London, where the British Museum alone has 117 volumes of de Puisaye's own papers. His goal — and he already has substantial amounts of the period recorded in manuscript — is a work on the period of the French Revolution and Restoration.

As Mr. LeMarchant (who served in the Royal Air Force in both wars) points out, it was a period of great political activity and intrigue across Europe. Men and women from all walks of life were swept into underground movements aimed at the downfall of Napoleon and restoration of the Bourbons to the throne of France. Fauche Borel was an ancestor of Mr. LeMarchant who by way of contrast was born in Dresden, Germany, and whose family escaped from France to England during the French revolution.

The Cobourg resident's project may not be in the usual realm of subject matter blessed with Canada Council beneficence or of "popular" reading. It is nevertheless part and parcel of the history of this country and Canadians in recent years have become much more aware of their heritage. There are some very interesting historical records available in book stores today, including those penned by Gerald Boyce of Belleville.

A proper regard for the past is necessary to a balanced picture of any community, region or country. Mr. LeMarchant's historical project will be a significant addition to this historical record.

Stoned on Jeans !

A question of the moment oft the fashion scene, observes the Paris despatch to The Montreal Gazette from Aline Mosby of United Press International: "Will girls get out of the blue jeans and back into real clothes?

Hmmm . . . so the problem is not confined to Belleville and mainstreet Canada! Certainly from a girl-watching standpoint it is getting to be a little tiresome, this sea of inelegant blue, faded blue, patched blue, cutout-blue, with other matchingly inelegant garb acquired perhaps from too early exposure to the shadowy world of unisex.

Anyway the burning question in the rag trade, says Miss Mosby, is whether females will accept the ideas of 28 high fashion designers from 16 countries gathered by Saint Laurent) presented in winter collections (ugh. . .) to press, buyers and private customers recently.

After surveying the offerings she wonders again if girls will give up pants and long foldiore dresses for real clothes, concluding ominously: "One clue may be the outfit the fashion editor of the newspaper Le Figaro, known as the best dressed girl in the showings — faded blue jeans and matching battlejacket studded with nailheads, blue T-shirt, necklace of ivory tusks and a belt with an intricate buckle, white vinyl and wooden shoes."

It sounds almost like something the "fashionable" woman of 1984 will wear for Big Brother when he comes, as writer George Orwell predicts in that celebrated book.

While The P.M. Takes It Easy

Opposition Leader Stanfield Hits Non-Election Trail

By RICHARD JACKSON
from The Intelligencer's
Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Prime Minister Trudeau must have been laughing all the way to the West Coast.

There he was, with wife Margaret and son Justin aboard one of the Governor General's private railway cars with aides and bodyguards in another coach one back on Canadian Pacific Rail's Canadian.

Busy, for the moment, anyway, enjoying what he had promised would be a sunny, prosperous election-free summer.

Oh sure, he popped off the train briefly at Thunder Bay, Kenora, where the Trudeaus overnighted at Services and Supply Minister James Richardson's island summer home, Winnipeg and Calgary, doing a spot of non-electioneering along the way to the West Coast.

Non - electioneering because, as he has explained, he is only doing his thing as Prime Minister — meeting the people — one of the historic duties of office.

This non-campaigning dodge gets him free use of the government's fleet of 707's, Jet-Stars, Viscounts and helicopters.

"He's Prime Minister," Defence Minister Sexsmith has said routinely it on the parliamentary record, "and so we take him wherever he wants to go."

It makes it much easier and far less expensive — for either his office or the National Liberal Federation — with the taxpayers picking up the prime ministerial travel tab.

Taken literally, as he has been doing, it could almost be a sort of vacation. Gets him away from the' East Block, doesn't it.

That is why he must be laughing all the way to Vancouver.

For there he was, taking it relatively easy.

While Number One Rival, Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield, apparently not believing in a word of that "sunny, prosperous election-free summer" jazz, has been out, electioneering like crazy.

And crazy is the word for it with the Conservative leader hitting a schedule that takes him to as many as 6 towns in three days.

First week it was the Ottawa Valley, from Cornwall to Pembroke.

Then it is all around Central Ontario and there, where the population is thicker and cities and towns closer together than raisins in a fruit cake, he is hitting a pace that makes 18 stops in three days like a crawl.

He started his Ottawa Valley trek with a picnic for his candidate in Ottawa West, Peter Reilly, the Canadian Television Network star - on - leave and the Conservatives' high calibred "hired gun" who has been saying all those dreadful things about Mr. Trudeau.

It was a hot dog feed with pop and a German band oompah-pahing.

And Peter Reilly going all around the place being funny and fascinating, beaming like a harvest moon and keeping his hand in political shape with non-stop shaking.

Bob Stanfield chatted with a thousand or so guests in groups and then made a short pitch to say what a great day it was for him — with former liberal cabinet minister Paul Hellyer making his morning by coming over in the Conservatives' and Peter Reilly making his afternoon by putting on such a great campaign show.

Then Stanfield took off in a car for his tour of the Ottawa Valley towns.

Three days with 16 stops, innumerable speeches, countless chats, endless handshaking, radio open-line and TV shows, continuous main - streeting, hot dogs, hamburgers, rubber chicken, potato salad, vegetable jelly moulds, jokes to be cracked, babies to be kissed, all the morning - noon - and - night nonsense of campaigning.

This sort of thing does not come easy to Robert Stanfield. Nor to Pierre Trudeau — but at least the PM is not doing as much of it, not yet at any rate.

It is fatiguing, all right, as political leader maintains the hectic pace long enough, it can become utterly and dangerously exhausting.

The only leader in political memory who loved every minute of it, and in loving it did it extremely well, was John Diefenbaker.

And neither Trudeau nor Stanfield are anything like the Dief, which is all the more reason why the Prime Minister has to be travelling these weeks in relaxation, knowing that the Conservative leader is not working harder, and longer, and liking it less than any old - time travelling salesman.

Pollution Control at Newfoundland Refinery

BY FARMER TISSINGTON
From The Intelligencer's
Ottawa Bureau

The news that the federal government and Newfoundland Refining Co. Ltd. have reached agreement on pollution controls at the oil refinery at Come By, Chance, Nfld. is welcome. At the same time, the argument which developed between the ministry of the environment in Ottawa and the company raises some fundamental questions.

The $200-million project has been in the planning stage for several years and federal loans have been made towards construction of the wharf which will permit large tankers to dock at the Placentia Bay site. With construction well under way, Environment Minister Jack Davis said there was no need to halt work on the big project unless the company made certain changes in the design to overcome potential pollution hazards.

Mr. Davis gave the company an ultimatum and a deadline to make the changes his department felt necessary. As the deadline arrived, he sent one of his deputy ministers to the scene for personal negotiations with company officials. This led to the agreement on the water pollution control measures and removed the threat of a work stoppage.

With pollution such a popular subject today, it is probably heresay to suggest that governments and citizens' groups may have gone overboard on the issue. Pollution of any kind is to be avoided and the pollution of waters by oil spills is certainly one of the worst kinds. But there should be some balance of judgment and politicians should be wary of getting carried away by the popular issue.

At about the time the Come-By-Chance affair was in the news, there was a small oil spill at Cherry Point in British Columbia. It rated large headlines for several days and became the chief topic in the Commons daily question period. A special debate on the issue occupied the House for a day. Yet the spill apparently brought under control and almost as quickly cleaned up with no apparent long-term deleterious effects.

At Come-By-Chance, the company was "trying to do things on the cheap" and has since said that the federal and provincial governments will keep after the company about air pollution controls, now that the water pollution problem has been resolved.

The Newfoundland situation raises the question of why Mr. Davis chose to make threats and such a public issue out of something that would appear to be a straight business dealing between the company and the department. One can only speculate that it was done deliberately because it was the first major test case of the environment new and tough legislation.

It also raises the issue of whether federal criteria on anti-pollution measures may be too restrictive in a case where companies may find it too costly to operate and will decide to move to some other country. The measures insisted upon by Ottawa in the Newfoundland situation, for example, will send the company several millions of dollars more than originally estimated.

Finally, the government must always bear in mind the importance of such projects to employment, particularly in economically stagnant areas such as Newfoundland. There are nearly 2,000 workers involved in the construction at Come-By-Chance and once the refinery is operating it will continue to provide employment and make a significant contribution to the general economy of the province and country.

'Conflict' Decision Remains Public Issue Locally

Editor,
The Intelligencer,

An inquiry into the charges alleged against the mayor of Belleville would not have been if the city had it been initiated. Regardless of the results which an inquiry would have revealed the city would have benefitted from it.

Had the mayor been found innocent of all charges we would be correct that we have a good man in the office of mayor and our confidence in him would be reinforced.

If the mayor had been found even guilty of these alleged charges, the citizens of Belleville would have their doubts raised by this question clarified.

However, if we wait until the city fathers fulfill their commitments to the citizens we will be old and grey indeed but it is accomplished.

Alderman Soutter and Jeffrey have done the only thing possible in the present questionable conditions relating to Mayor Scott's dilemma. These two council members have taken an independent stand and have proven by their position that they want the true facts of the situation revealed for all the citizens to see and they are not afraid to fight for what they believe is right.

This they may be able to do successfully in the long run, if the rest of the citizens of Belleville support them and demand an inquiry. Usually no one respects or gets involved with those who fail to ask significant questions. Council should accept its responsibility to the citizens as only two of their number have. To help bring about better conditions in the political sphere of this city, we must maintain the existence of Aldermen Soutter and Jeffrey on our council, and hope that in future city elections the citizens will elect more members of their calibre.

DISTURBED CITIZEN

Quebec and 'Grey Areas' Of BNA Act at Odds

Trois-Rivieres Le Nouvelliste: Premier Robert Bourassa, who hurried the day after his election to bury the hatchet in relations with the federal government so as to have time to use the hoe in the theory of profitable federalism, seems to be growing busily overhatchet.

The latest theory about seeking administrative arrangements between Quebec and the federal government for a province which, Premier Minister John Turner unilaterally decided to intervene old areas of which Quebec had long hoped for improvement and in question. So Quebec bet the dust. .

Naturally, the Canadian government leader, Pierre Elliot Trudeau, did not miss adding his grain of salt. Replying to the attacks of Mr. Bourassa and Mr. Cuttonaway, the Canadian prime minister peremptorily declared: "There are enough important problems in Quebec without bothering with fly specks . . .

Mr. Trudeau has become a master in the art of stupidity. We find quite often in the thick insipid remark by Mr. Trudeau because it is a fair front really replying to the requests of the Bourassa government. We are indebted to the latter for its unmasking that game Mr. Trudeau wants to play with Quebec . . .

It seems evident to us that there is a striking interdependence between Quebec problems and the continued existence of the Quebec-Ottawa relations. If Mr. Trudeau calls this "fly specks" he does not want to face the problems and has a funny notion of federalism. . .

Mr. Trudeau knows better than anyone that the only source of the problem lies in the famous grey areas of the British North America Act. . . . Ottawa profits from these constitutional ambiguities and its unlimited spending power to invade a number of areas without consulting the provinces. This obliges the provinces to invest in sectors they do not judge as having priority.

It is, therefore, at this level that Quebec has decided to attack the basic problem of re-establishing confidence between the two levels of government. We believe Mr. Bourassa is on the right track although it was cleared long ago by preceding governments.

Premiers' Conference Livens Up

By DON O'HEARN
From The Intelligencer's
Queen's Park Bureau

The lobby is turning into a hard rock.

The annual premiers' conference (this year's edition is now sounding up on Halifax) has since 9 was started in the fish '50s, been a raunchy affair.

Leslie Frost and Jean Lesage of Quebec who launched it, had much belief in customs.

The conference would not work, they felt, if it in any way was or appeared to be a provincial gangup against Ottawa.

So even though provincial and the federal government have been the dominant concern of provincial governments for a decade this has not been treated on as the yearly meeting of their premiers.

It has been hands off. And agendas have been taken up with matters of mutual concern such as uniform pension and PCV laws and exchanges of experience in various fields.

At times the conferences have seemed rather a silly way for grown men to spend their time.

This year has seen a great change.

There is now almost a completely new cast of premiers.

And they very obviously have'nt felt at all bound by the penalities of founding fathers And then:

The 1972 agenda has had real meat.

Should civil servants have the right to strike?

Elimination of duplication of academic programs at competing universities (finally brought into the open).

Health care costs.

And then:

Federal-municipal relations: the federal family income security plan; federal-provincial employment policies; provincial reaction to federal takeovers; legislation and telecommunications.

Five out of 10 items on the official agenda have involved Ottawa.

Beyond this prior to the conference both the Western provinces and the Atlantics provinces had a caucuss- their own private little gangups.

And it also a realistic.

Whatever merit the provinces have in their case against the federal government, if there is any merit at all it is better fought for as strongly as possible. As it has been Ottawa through control of the purse and dealing with the provinces one by one has been in an overwhelming position.

It is in the public interest that the best decision possible be arrived at. The more fair and balanced the fight, the better the decisions.

And until now there hasn't been a fair and balanced fight.

Laugh It Up, and Stay Healthy!

Dear Ann Landers: I am the Stanford scientist who was quoted as saying, "Laughter can be hazardous to the health, especially if one is susceptible to heart and respiratory troubles." The writer said: "The doctors are at it again. Every week they come up with some thing that is harmful to Mr. and Mrs. J.Q. Public. If it isn't cholesterol, it's smog. Now they tell us to stop laughing."

It's not the doctors who are at it again but the news services. The original story was badly garbled and left the reading public with some gross misconceptions. The news service said they wanted to correct the erroneous impressions but so far they have not sent their science writers around to interview me.

The truth is that I believe laughter and humor are extremely valuable and we are richer for them. My Stanford medical editor explains it this way: "Maybe some people just can't believe that anything as wonderful as laughter can be harmless." The Puritan Ethic rides again.—William F. Fry, Jr., M.D.

Dear Dr. Fry: Thank you for setting the record straight. More people will see this column than saw that garbled story.

My readers should know that you are a psychiatrist who has devoted 18 years to scientific research and your work on laughter is no joke. The essence of the research is embodied in your statement: "Laughter helps us handle our frustrations and fears. It is a major coping mechanism." So laugh it up, folks, it's good for you.

Dear Ann Landers: I just read the letter from the woman with the foul-mouthed brother-in-law. She said he talks so rotten she hates to have him in her home with other guests.

Please tell her that in certain areas it is against the law to use filthy language.

A Palo Alto meter maid was hanging a ticket on a man's car. When he came out of the store and saw her he opened up with some very dirty language. The woman swore out a criminal complaint against him and the case is going to court. I was pleased to see this item in the newspaper and I hope the fellow gets a stiff fine. I think it would be dandy if that foul-mouthed brother-in-law was fined, too. Do you agree?—Californoter

Dear Cal: There's a difference between a social foul-mouth and obscene and abusive language directed at a meter maid. Both are bad, but if a be remarried.

person could be fined for talking rotten in company, the courts would be jammed 34 hours a day. "

Dear Ann Landers: I am going crazy trying to figure out the relationship between Jim and Ted.

Sam and Fay marry and have a son named Jim. They get divorced.

Pete and Winnie marry and have a son named Tad. They get divorced.

Pete and Fay marry and have a son named Allen. They split.

Jim and Ted are step-brothers while Jim's mother (Fay) is married to Tad's father (Pete).

What is Jim to Tad after Fay and Pete divorce? Remember that they have a step-brother in common. Can you figure this out?—Stumped

Dear S.: I'm not about to try. What you describe sounds more like Hollywood roulette than a family. By the time you read this answer Sam and Fay could

Dinner Above Clouds

By DORIS CLARE

The first thing I did after settling in my seat on the Canadian Airplane which carried me from Toronto to Rome in seven hours was to scribble a postcard back home. When I asked the purser about mailing it he took it from me saying, "CP Air Service, I can take care of it for you." And he meant stamp and all!

Would you like to know what we had to eat? It was an Economy Flight, but they did not save any pennies when it came to steak. We had a hot dinner (fingers-burning hot): filet mignon, broccoli, stuffed tomatoes, mat potatoes, fresh salad; a creamy trifle dessert cheese, crackers, coffee.

Then, what'ya know? As a substitute for finger bowl, a steward picked up a tiny, hot rolled-up towel in a basket tongs and handed it to me to wipe up with.

The plane was a "Stretched DC 8"; carries 200 passengers. The purser spoke English, Spanish, understood Italian and Portuguese. Loved his job.

He says all the crew members look after one another, especially when they are travelling in foreign ports; they keep informed technically by passing courses every year.

Dear Doris: I saw something in an advice column (not yours) about the nuts that walk their dogs. I was wild when I read that.

I have a little terrier and that is all I have. I was an orphan, was married and my husband passed away. When I come home from work at night that dog is like a child to me.

I tell the girls at work I would have made a wonderful farmer's wife. I have no children also therefore cannot be a wonderful grannie. — Dog-gonnit.

Dear Doggonnit. I'm all sympathy. The love and affection of a pet dog adds to the warmth of this cold world, and for persons not surrounded by devoted family something alive to care for is a blessing.

What's more, dogs do other things for people: they lead blind people, they take their owners (blind or not) for walks and this insure needed exercise. I have one friend whose muscles are weakened by Parkinson's Disease, whose dog definitely pulls him for his walk and keeps those poor muscles functioning.

Dear Doris: Last summer my oldest daughter, just 14, started running around with boys and we tried to close her down. She didn't listen to a thing we told her and last fall was pregnant, having had affairs with so many boys she didn't know who the father was.

Now she has had her baby and doesn't know which way to turn. She is too young to be on her own; I haven't the money to keep on paying room and board for her. She doesn't want to come home because everybody is talking and I am sure it would never work out with her stepdad. — Really Mixed Up.

Dear Really: While you haven't said it, I gather the baby is not part of this problem and has been given up for adoption.

Now is the time when your daughter needs all the moral support you can give her. Your usual home, the advent of a stepfather, the terrific adjustment demanded by two families beginning to live as one — all of these must have had some bearing on her irresponsibility with the boys.

If you have all learned from this that your girl needs your loving care and your loyal defense, the whole community will admire you for this. Take her home. She is still a minor.

Dear Doris: When my daughter is given a shower, does she or I bring a gift, or something to show our appreciation for their kindness? These people go to a lot of work and expense.

Would it be out of place for us to do this? — Not Wanting To Offend.

Dear Not Wanting: A shower is usually a surprise party. Take it as that; never arrive with a gift!

Just be sure your daughter admires her gifts as she opens them, thanks each giver right at the time, expresses her pleasure to everybody in a brief impromptu speech when all gifts are opened. And the very next day writes a letter of appreciation to the hostess.

Surprise Party For Two Couples

MARMORA — A surprise party was held recently at the Canadian Legion Hall, Marmora, honoring two couples, Mr. and Mrs. George Roche and Mr. and Mrs. Ted Robinson, on their 25th wedding anniversaries. Guests were present from Oshawa, Whitby, Toronto, Scarborough Cordova, Campbellford and Marmora. A purse of money was presented to each of the couples.

My Pet Turtle

The best of all special gifts — a bouncy pet turtle.

He's huggable, cute and an enchanting gift for small children. Crochet hexagon motifs of rug yarn. Quick, easy to make hassock or pillow. Pat. 7080: about 6" high, 20 x 12."

Seventy-five cents for each pattern — coin, cheque or money order. Add 15 cents for each pattern for first-class mailing and special handling — to Alice Brooks, care of The Intelligencer, Needlecraft Dept., 60 Front St. W., Toronto 1, Ontario. Ontario residents add 4 cents sales tax. Print plainly pattern number, name, address.

Mirror of Your Mind

by JOHN CONWELL

Is it juvenile to want to be popular?

NOT exclusively; everybody—young and old—wants to be well thought of by friends and contemporaries. Teenagers, as expected, do strive a great deal to be popular; but that is because they are constantly seeking approval as they approach adulthood. On the other hand, if a person is practically immobilized because he is afraid to do anything that will make him unpopular, then he is being juvenile no matter how old he is.

Are 'little lies' fair in love?

Oh, they're fair, all right. And what's the harm if a girl tells a boy a slight untruth? It's the moment that counts, right? The only problem is that lies can work both ways. For instance, a girl who has stretched the truth a bit herself wonders when her boy friend explains why he has to make a sudden trip, or some such thing, that interferes with their romance. She knows it all sounds so logical, and yet her lies also had seemed so natural.

Can anyone learn to write legibly?

YES; all a person has to do is to be anxious that what he writes won't be misunderstood. If he is a big shot who thinks it is a status symbol to write illegibly, he will continue to chicken-scratch. But let even a physician say, jot down a message on a prescription blank that he absolutely wants to be sure no one misinterprets, and he will write it out in a script that will be legible enough to startle the doctor himself.

Bomb Shelters Utilized

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — Mrs. William Weiss keeps her bordeaux wines there, Mrs. Aaron Bernstein's children use it to store fish tanks. Raymond Lauer finds it's a great place to relax and cook a quiet dinner.

They all have found a new use for an old fad: the fallout shelter.

In the early 1960s, American homeowners, fearing a nuclear holocaust, brought in the bulldozers, tore holes in their backyards, and built private bomb shelters.

Ten years later, a spot check of owners around New Jersey shows most of the shelters have been converted to wine cellars, dens, tool shops or children's playrooms.

Some persons who built the shelters were reluctant to talk about them. Others said their shelters were sealed several years ago.

Lauer, however, uses his regularly.

The Westfield resident called it "a home away from home."

"I get a lot of pleasure out of it," he said. "I have police radios, television, cooking facilities, a refrigerator and canned food storage.

"I sleep here in the summer. It's cooler. When I come home in the evening I spend about three or four hours here, cooking supper and relaxing. My wife uses the main kitchen."

Most shelters were built during the era of the Cuban missile crisis 10 years ago this autumn. Contractors did a booming business but, as the urgency of protection fell off, so did the fallout shelter trade.

Some communities offer tax exemptions for property owners who have built fallout shelters that would be available for other local residents during an attack or natural disaster.

The federal government issued a booklet several years ago entitled Shelters in New Homes, and suggested the shelters could also be used for wine cellars and sauna baths.

In addition to wine, Mrs. Weiss, of Short Hills, keeps food in her shelter, connected to the basement of her home. She also has used it as a guest room.

Dr. Aaron Bernstein built his 144-square-foot shelter beneath the patio. "It hasn't been functioning for a long time," Mrs. Bernstein said. "We still have cots there but no blankets or pillows because of the dampness.

"We still keep the empty fish tanks there but I haven't gone down to look over the things in quite a while."

Walkers Store Was Family Institution in 1870s

A Front St. fixture since 1857, Walkers Department Store was The Ritchie Company Ltd. when this sketch was made in the 1870s. Only three department stores have occupied the premises since it was built — The Ritchie Company, Canadian Department Stores (A subsidiary of Eaton's) now Walkers Department Store. In its early days, the store had a custom dressmaking and millinery department on its second floor, catering to the elite of Belleville, but it was also renowned for its famous Dollar Day shopping spree. The staircase shown in this early sketch is still in place in the modern Walkers Store. A trolley system conveyed money from purchasers in minicars to the cashier's desk and change returned to each department in the same way. During the Victorian era Ritchie's, together with two similar stores in Picton and Lindsay, sent their own buyers to Europe each year. Yard goods, linens and hosiery, men's and women's ready-made clothing occupied the main floor, dressmaking and millinery was on the second floor and carpet and draperies were sold on the third floor. When the Moirs's banks flooded in 1918, the caretaker was trapped in the basement and had to be pulled out through a hole cut in the floor of the men's wear department.

Perfect Putt Placement

Caddy Randy Hutchinson gets set to pull the pin for Burlington pro Gary Slatter on the 18th green of the Bay of Quinte Country Club. Slatter sank a putt similar to this one for a birdie that gave him a round of 66 and the championship of the Motorland Chrysler Pro Tournament. The Burlington golfer set a new course record in picking up first prize money of $400, while earning a six month lease on a new car by finishing closest to the pin on the 18th hole.

World Record for Thompson

DEPUE, Ill. (Special) — If Doug Thompson's racing philosophy was "today Canada, tomorrow the world," then Saturday was indeed "tomorrow".

The Bloomfield boat racer captured the World Championship in the "B" class racing hydro outboards. Thompson, driving an 11-foot Marchetti owned by Don Channel of Wellington, defeated 50 entries from 38 states to capture the world title Saturday.

Thompson averaged close to 78 mph, a new world record over the five mile racing course to earn the $500 first prize donated by the American Power Boat Association. Earlier this summer he had set a Canadian mark in winning his class at Valleyfield, Que bec.

His mechanics were Bill Wannamaker, Gerv Brown, and Jim Smith while Allan Channel served as pit crew.

Frisco Takes Stakes

Mooreland's Frisco gave the rest of the field two chances but still came out as the top horse in Sunday's $1,015 in Breweries Stake race at Fron tenac Downs.

Frisco captured the second division race in 2:07.3 and then came back an hour later to win the $1,015 prize in 2:09.3. The Lindsay pacer nosed out Kingston product James Magic in both races.

Shy Emily was the winner of the first division race but failed to meet the standards in the finals.

Ethel Haan sped to the fast est time of the day in 2:07.2 in the eighth and Bob Wenn was the only double winner of the day taking Canal View Patsy to victory in the first and Lil Buck in the third.

Other race winners at Sunday's meet were Prima Rea in the second, Fireman Han over in the fourth, Ben's Pride in the seventh and Dr. Kirk in the tenth.

A crowd of 1,398 pushed $39,340 through the betting windows. Racing resumes Wednesday night at 7:45.

Kinsmen Make Finals

The pennant winning Kinsmen Hawks worked their way into the finals of the Belleville Minor Softball tyke play offs last night by thrashing the Malcolm Brothers 10-3.

Sean Monaghan had a triple and three singles and Dale Perry a trio of safeties for the winners while Greg Dennard's two hits were the best in a losing effort for the Malcolm Bros.

In quarter-final action Gib Waite Motors crushed Claude Lucas Spur 19-7 to wrap up their tyke series in two straight games.

Jeff Lewis smashed a homer and two singles and Jody Woodhead a double and two singles for the winners. Dave Phillips had a triple and double for the Spur.

Slatter Masters Bay of Quinte Course

By ERIC EMERSON
Sports Staff

The Bay of Quinte golf course showed its teeth to 29 professionals in the Motorland Chrysler Pro Tournament Monday, as only three members of the field managed to break par after heavy morning rains had drenched the links.

The 40th member of the field, however, took the Quinte tiger firmly by the tail and proceeded to best the birdies out of it. Gary Slatter of Burlington cruised the 18 holes in 66, to set a new course record en route to winning the tournament by a five stroke margin.

Slatter's mark broke the existing tournament record of 67, set by Will Homenuk when the course was a shorter, par 71 layout. The record for the new 6,927 - yard course had been 71.

The seventh-year professional toured the course in 33-33 and did not bogey a single hole. He finished with a flourish by eagling the 559-yard 16th hole, turning in a birdie on the 368-yard 17th and another on the 216-yard finishing hole.

His one iron shot at 18 finished five feet, three inches from the pin to earn him a six month free lease on a new Dodge Stinger from Motorland Chrysler.

"Very often golfers don't take a one-day tournament like this seriously. They treat it as more of a holiday, but I wanted to win this one," informed the new champion, who had arrived in Belleville Friday night in time to play eight practice holes on the Quinte course.

The fact that he was forced to play his final four holes in the rain, didn't bother him in the least. "I'd say that the course was in better shape today than it was Friday night," he related.

"Everything was working well for me today," said Slatter whose best previous round in four tournament appearances at Quinte had been a 71. He also had words of praise for local caddy Randy Hutchinson. "He was perfect. The Lakeview golfer came in four strokes up on R. Miller of the CFB course. A. Thomas of the Whitevale Golf Club fired a 71, good enough to give him the title of B Flight low net champ.

The home Bay of Quinte Club finally broke through into the winners circle in the C Flight competition when J. Taylor carded an 82 to grab the low gross honors. His score was two strokes better than runner-up H. Higgins of CFB.

B. Brawley won the low net honors. The Cobourg golfer carded a 66 to outdistance all competitors.

Two Bay of Quinte mixed teams battled it out for the low net honors in the Mixed Tournament play of the Festival. Ron Hutchinson and Alice Stewart emerged the winners with a 68, one half stroke ahead of Mr. and Mrs. G. Hipkin.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Elliott of Brampton and Mr. and Mrs. F. Wall Jr. of Lexington, North Carolina finished the round tied for the low gross trophy at 82.

Lawn Bowling Features Tight Finishes

By RANDY DERRY
Sports Staff

For those who don't consider lawn bowling as one of the most exciting sports in the nation Belleville's Corbin Gold Cup and Watkins Memorial Trophy competitions offered a pair of finishes that would have had anyone on the edge of their seats.

The Belleville Lawn Bowling Club was again the host of what has been billed as the greatest weekend of bowling in Ontario over the three day holiday period and despite Monday's cancellation of the men's and ladies' pairs events all 12 Belleville greens saw heated competition Saturday and Sunday.

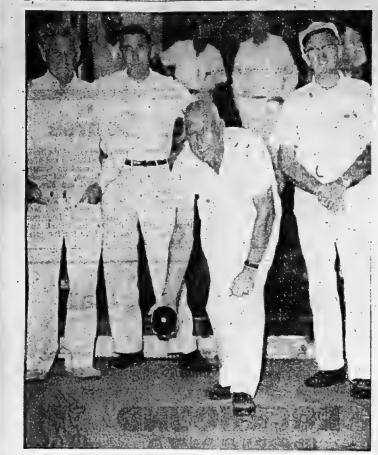
The Corbin Gold Cup awarded to the top team during Sunday's play at six four-man squads enter the final round of play with identical two wins - no loss records. The head-to-head match play saw George Tulloch of the Kingston Lawn Bowling Club emerge as the champion with a three game win total of 37. His team from behind 20-18 win over Greg Steele of New Toronto gave Tulloch the nod over three game winners Archie Marshall and Dick Edney for the Gold Cup.

"This is our first time for winning the whole thing," Although I have rolled two wins - high score before."

It was his first time for winning the Gold Cup but with what is the Governor-General and defending champion for the Burkes Gold Cup two years running and last year's district singles champion Tulloch is no stranger to the winners' circle. In fact the winning aspect of Sunday's play was less strange than his playing partners were.

"This was the first year we have ever played together," stated skip Tulloch of his vice Bert Bruce, second George Martin and lead Harold Buck. "Of course I've known them for a long time but we came just on a fill in team!"

For a fill in team the Kingston crew walked away with the biggest piece of pie from the day long event.- Archie Marshall of the Framingham Lawn Bowling Club grabbed second spot with a three win total of 50, including a final round whipping of Belleville's Bruce Miller 23-7. Miller had been the only undefeated local crew going into the final round of play. Dick Edney made Kingston the winning est club by stopping Dali Tassel's Balmy Beach team 1410 to pick up a three-win total of 45.



"The competition was beautiful here today. I've never enjoyed bowling more than I did today," beamed Tulloch, carefully cradling the Corbin Gold Cup.

The competition was a little less than beautiful however for defending champion George Dickey of the Toronto Cricket Club who could only manage a one-win total of 38.

Wee and Ilene Wench of Willowdale reversed the tables on what happened two years ago to win Saturday's Watkins Memorial Trophy for mixed pairs competition.

The husband and wife team eked out a narrow 33-33 total three-game win score over a Toronto Cricket duo to capture the trophy and avenge a defeat two years prior.

"We've been coming here every year for five years but this was the first year we've ever won it. We missed it two years ago by one bowl but won it this year by one bowl so I guess it all evens out in the end."

First Time Winners

Two Chances Not Enough

Shannonville had two chances to latch onto third spot in the final South Hastings Baseball League standings over the weekend but failed in both attempts.

Cellar dwelling Latta provided the competition Saturday and the Shannonville nine were one out away from the win and third spot before the roof fell in. Playing coach Howard Skelly banged out a two run single in the last of the seventh to tie the game Latta at 3-3.

The tie overshadowed a fine pitching performance by Shannonville's Larry Lewis who allowed just six hits and fanned 12.

John Hill lurked for Latta giving up only four singles and striking out five.

The tie forced a contest between Shannonville and Read Sunday to break a dead lock for third place in the standings. Read emerged as the winners with a 9-8 10-inning victory.

Playoffs begin tonight with Read at Tweed's pennant winning Plane's and Wednesday night with Shannonville travelling to runner up Melrose.

Tweed Advances

The Tweed Sawyer - Stoll midgets advanced to the semi-finals of the Ontario Rural Softball Association playdowns Sunday with a convincing 9 - 3 pounding of Hornby.

The win gave the Tweed nine the best of three series in two straight games. The winners, most of whom are graduates of last year's all-Ontario bantam B champs, defeated Hornby 7-3 in the opening game.

The winners of the Madoc-Springbrook series will provide the next opposition for the Tweed squad

DISC BRAKES ARE SPECIAL

Got disc brakes?
Congratulations.
You've got the best stopping going.
But if you've got disc brakes, you should remember just one thing.
They're very, very different from drum brakes. Instead of a drum, the disc brake has a rotating disc (or rotor). And a caliper equipped with two disc pad assemblies and hydraulic pistons. When you need to stop, the caliper assembly grips the rotor.

And incidentally, there are five basic types of disc brakes on North American cars.
Maybe you're not all that concerned about how your disc brakes work. As long as they do.
And that's why you should be concerned about who works on your disc brakes. You need help from people who are thoroughly familiar with the disc brake difference.

so you need the Firestone disc brake specialists

Our disc brake technicians have taken special training courses on disc brake operation and service. They're familiar with all the different types found on all makes of cars. And they have the right equipment to do the job right. And do it efficiently, with no waste motion. That's why you get the best in disc brake service at a pretty remarkable price.

Here's what we do for only $29.95.
We install 4 new front disc pads. Inspect calipers, rotors, rear brakes, brake fluid level, and parking brake. As a little extra at no extra cost, we also clean, inspect and repack your front wheel outer bearings. Then we road test your car to make sure it measures up to your needs. To our standards. And to our guarantees: 24,000 miles or 24 months, whichever comes first.

Player PGA Champ

BIRMINGHAM, Mich. (AP) — Gary Player, one of golf's mighty mites, has suddenly recouped his fading prestige.

Four months ago Player was eating humble pie after pulling within a stroke of the lead in the Greensboro open golf championship heading into the final round, then being disqualified for not signing his scorecard, which read 67.

Now the South African is the new Professional Golf Association champion, and $40,000 richer. His second PGA title, his first coming in 1962, will probably reinforce the belief that he is one of golf's Big Three, along with Jack Nicklaus and Lee Trevino.

"It just goes to show you

what a humbling game golf is," the 5-foot-8, 150 pound Player said Sunday. "But it all seems to even out."

Player harnessed a balky putter on the key holes down the stretch to salvage a two-over-par 72 Sunday, destroying Jimmy Jamieson's dream of glory and finishing with 281 for 72 holes one-over-par at the 7,015-yard Oakland Hills Country Club south course.

Veteran Tommy Aaron came in with a 71 to tie Jamieson for second 283, both earning $20,850 of the $225,000 purse.

Pre-tournament favorites Trevino and Nicklaus were far off the pace, with Trevino and Hale Irwin at 286, and Nicklaus finishing at 287 with Dan Sikes.

Hutton Has Troubles

WINNIPEG (CP) — Ralph Hutton of Ocean Falls, B.C., has represented Canada in two Olympic Games, winning a silver medal in 1968.

Now 24, Hutton wants more than anything to be on the Canadian Olympic swimming team for a third time. But he has a weight problem and failed Monday to set a record at the Canadian swimming championships and Olympic trials. Other swimmers shattered two British Commonwealth, six Canadian and three age-group marks.

Hutton went on a diet that helped him lose 30 pounds in the last six weeks, dropping his weight to 195 pounds.

"I'm not on the diet now because it was making me a little weak," the still-chubby Hutton said Monday after finishing second in the 200-metre freestyle final at the Canadian swimming championships and Olympic trials. "But if I'm selected for the team, I could probably lost another 10 pounds."

Hutton, who won one gold and five silver medals at the 1967 Pan-Am Games, refuses to believe the younger swimmers are better than he.

"I still hold the Canadian records. Until someone beats them I don't believe they are can't equal those times myself right now, this morning I swam the fastest 200-metre freestyle in Canada this year.

"I believe that if I were to lose another 10 or 15 pounds and go into training I could reach my best times again. The problem is losing those 10 or 15 pounds."

Hutton finished the 200-metre freestyle in 1:58.2 to win morning heats, a time that was the fastest by a Canadian this year until the evening finals when he finished second to Ian Markenzie, a native of Ocean Falls, B.C., now living in Vancouver. MacKenzie finished in 1:57.7, Hutton in 1:58.2.

The event was one of two that failed to produce a record of some sort.

Donna Marie Gurr of Vancouver won the 100 metre backstroke in 1:08.4, and Eric Fish of Medicine Hat, Alta., won his preliminary heat in 1:09.2, both Canadian and Commonwealth records.

Fish managed only a 1:00.52 in the final, however, finishing third behind Clayton Evans of Lakewood, Calif., the winner in 1:00.36, and MacKenzie's 1:00.41.

Mary Beth Rondeau, 15, of Vancouver was the 200 metre freestyle in 2:10.2. Leslie Cliff won her 200-metre butterfly preliminary heat in 2:21.4. Brenda Macdonald of Vancouver won the men's 200-metre butterfly in 2:08.97 and the Canadian Dolphins Swim Club of Vancouver won the men's 200-metre freestyle relay in 1:40.71, all Canadian records.

Miss Cliff managed only a 2:27.03 timing in the final of the 200 metre butterfly, second to team-mate Jennifer McHugh who won in 2:26.6.

The Canadian Dolphins girls won the 200 metre freestyle relay in 1:54.7.

Stephen Pickell, 14, of Vancouver finished sixth in the 100 metre backstroke in 1:02.66. Cathy Rafferty of Dorval, Que., finished third in the 100 metre backstroke in 1:08.6, both national age group records, as was Miss McHugh's time in the 200 metre butterfly.

The Canadian Olympic swimming team is to be selected upon completion of the four-day competition.

Alouettes Sign George Mira

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Alouettes of the Eastern Football Conference announced Monday that former all-American quarterback George Mira has signed a contract with the club.

Terms of the agreement were not disclosed, but Mira said "we're both satisfied."

At the same time, the Alouettes announced that quarterback Jim Chasey and defensive back Peter Paliotti had been placed on waivers. Chasey was cut in make room for Mira while Paliotti was dropped, to allow Paul Brule to remain on the Als' 32-man roster.

Mira won all-American honors while playing at University of Miami in 1962 and 1963. In his three-year college career, the native of Key West, Fla., completed 358 passes in 745 attempts and tossed 30 touchdown strikes. His total offense was 5,130 yards.

Mira was the second-round draft choice od San Francisco 49ers of the National Football League in 1964. He played five years for San Francisco before being traded to Philadelphia Eagles in 1968.

In 1970 he was on the Baltimore Colts taxi squad and last season was backup quarterback to Bob Griese with Miami Dolphins, American Conference champions of the NFL. Mira seldom saw action and completed 11 passes of 30 for one touchdown.

He was released by Miami this season when they picked up veteran Earl Morrall on waivers from Baltimore.

"The 49ers wanted me to stay in the pocket. My game is roll out. I like to run if I have a choice. I'm a quick runner," Mira said.

Als' coach Sam Etcheverry said he was glad to have a player of Mira's calibre. He said that perhaps Mira's height had hindered him in the NFL.

Mira stands five feet, 11 inches and weighs 192 pounds.

Lutz Returns American Title

BROOKLINE, Mass. (AP) — Unseeded Bob Lutz returned the United States pro tennis championship to the United States by defeating Tom Okker of the Netherlands 6-4, 5-6, 6-4 in the finals Sunday.

Lutz, a 24-year-old former National Collegiate Athletic Association champion from Southern California, encountered two service breaks in the second set but he came back for his first triumph on the pro circuit since March and a $10,000 cheque.

Lutz launched his quest for the title by ousting John Newcombe of Australia. He followed with victories over five-time champion Rod Laver and Cliff Drysdale.

Lutz became the first American to win the U.S. title since Butch Buchols in 1962.

PCO's Finally Suffer Loss

OSHAWA, Ont. (CP) — Oshawa Green Gaels defeated Peterborough PCOs 11-8 in the second game of the eight-game, three-team round-robin Ontario Lacrosse Association Junior A semi-finals Monday night.

With the win, Oshawa protected its 1968 record of 33 consecutive victories. Peterborough's win over Oshawa Friday was its 33rd of the season.

The teams were tied 3-3 after the first period Monday night and Oshawa led 9-4 after the second.

Peterborough outshot Oshawa 40-35.

Ted Floyd, Jim Johnston and Jim Watson scored two each for Peterborough with singles going to Steve Plunkett and John Grant.

Yogi Leads Hall of Fame Lineup

— Yogi Berra hatted and made a hit. He was followed in the lineup by a host of superstars.

The Hall of Fame induction ceremonies was baseball drama at its best.

The tearfully sincere Berra and humbly grateful Sandy Koufax were among eight great names out of baseball's past inducted Monday into the Hall amid Cooperstown's setting.

"My only regret is that my father and mother weren't here to see this tribute," Berra said of his late parents while he teared openly.

The former New York Yankee catching great was the first speaker on the mainstay lineup with famous names from the sport's past and present.

While thousands of fans, along with friends and family of the new inductees, crowded in front of the Hall of Fame baseball commissioner Bowie Kuhn introduced the newest of the immortalized.

Berra, Josh Gibson, Lefty Grove, William Hastridge, Ross Barnes, Buck Leonard, Billy Wynn and Ross Youngs. Gibson, Hastridge and Youngs were honored posthumously.

Berra gave thanks to a long list of people, including former Yankee catcher Bill Dickey, "who gave me pointers."

Koufax, the "abusive Los Angeles Dodger left-hander, recalled his early "nuisance" years when the Dodgers were in Brooklyn.

"I thought after my first six years in baseball that it was going to be: Go out and look for another job," said Koufax.

"But then I had some help." Joe Becker, the Dodger pitching coach, and catchers Roy Campanella and John Roseboro eventually provided the assistance that made Koufax the outstanding pitcher in the game for five years before an early retirement in 1966.

"Becker pushed me, shoved me, embarrassed me and made me work," said Koufax.

"Campanella caught my first game and Roseboro most of them after that. I have to thank those fellows and so many more that I just don't have the time to name them."

Each of the speakers talked succinctly and sincerely. Their speeches were of one tone—gratitude.

Gomez, the great Yankee southpaw of the 1930s, called the moment "the greatest pleasure of my life."

"I wouldn't have made it here though, without the help of my centre fielder Joe DiMaggio and our relief pitcher, Johnny Murphy. DiMaggio used to run down my mistakes, and Murphy used to save most of my games."

SEN. GEORGE McGOVERN poses with his new choice for vice-president, R. Sargent Shriver, Sunday at McGovern's home in Washington. McGovern named Shriver as his choice as running mate Saturday night at a Washington news conference. (AP Photo)

In-law of Kennedys Now McGovern's Mate

NEW YORK (AP) — Former head of the Peace Corps, a highly successful ambassador to France and an effective campaigner for his late brother-in-law John Kennedy, R. Sargent Shriver Jr. has been mentioned often for elective office but never made the race before.

At one point in his career, when it was rumored that President Johnson might choose Shriver for his vice-presidential running mate, Shriver did not play coy.

"If I ever do decide to run for office I'll go after votes just as hard as I now go after votes for the Peace Corps," he said.

The tall, handsome, athletic Shriver has been a Washington lawyer and more or less out of politics recently. But when asked in an interview last year whether he was out for good, he replied: "I don't think you are ever out of anything for good." He then launched into a point-by-point attack on the Nixon administration.

Democratic presidential nominee George McGovern announced Saturday he would recommend to the Democratic national committee Tuesday that it name Shriver to replace Senator Thomas Eagleton as the party's vice-presidential candidate.

A descendent of a signer of the U.S. Bill of Rights, David Shriver, and member of an old Maryland family, Shriver experienced hardship when his father, an investment banker, lost most of his money in the 1929 crash.

Born in Westminster, Md., on Nov. 9, 1915, he was in Canterbury School at New Milford, Conn., when the family fortunes turned downward. But he got to Yale on a scholarship.

He was on the varsity baseball team, and headed the Yale Daily News, describing his editorial policy as "Christian, Aristotelian, optimistic and American."

After Yale law school, he was just starting practice with a Wall Street law firm when he was called up by the navy. During the Second World War, Shriver saw service on battleships and submarines in the Pacific, was wounded and come home a lieutenant-commander. Deciding Wall Street law was too stuffy, he took a job as associate editor of Newsweek.

The eldest daughter of Joseph P. Kennedy, Eunice, was a member of Shriver's social circle at that time and when Kennedy wanted someone to look over the memoirs of his son Joseph Jr., who was killed in the war, Shriver was suggested.

He told the elder Kennedy that Joe's paper weren't suitable for publication, and, far from being offended, Kennedy asked the young editor to go to work for him in Chicago.

Bill Shriver and Eunice were married in 1933 at St. Patrick's Cathedral in New York by the late Francis Cardinal Spellman. They have five children.

Shriver's behind-the-scenes role in John Kennedy's 1960 campaign for the presidency, described by the late Robert Kennedy as vital in the Kennedy victory, resulted from Shriver's long-standing ties to the Chicago black community.

He once said Kennedy gave him the Peace Corps job "because everybody knew it would be a failure and it was easier to fire a relative than a political friend."

But his success led President Lyndon Johnson to name Shriver to head up the government's war on poverty as head of the Office of Economic Opportunity.

In March, 1968, Johnson named Shriver ambassador to France and Shriver quickly earned in Paris the title of the most unorthodox ambassador in memory, bicycling around the city with Eunice, turning the embassy lawn into a croquet court and showing up at a consulate party in a white bush jacket.

When Shriver left Paris in 1970, the New York Times said: "There is unanimous agreement in diplomatic circles that relations between France and the United States are better than they have been in more than a decade."

Pennsylvanian Towns Repair Flood Damage

FORTY FORT, Pa. (AP) — The clock stopped at 9:35 in the borough hall when the raging Susquehanna River gushed in that terrible night of June 23.

"Who's got time to fix that when there's people and homes and businesses to be concerned with?" asked Mayor Ernest Balcomb.

But time hasn't stopped in this tiny flood-wrecked town, part of the battered Wyoming Valley that still is dazed and still cleaning up the soggy mess nearly seven weeks after the greatest natural disaster in U.S. history caused an estimated $1 billion damage.

Neighboring Wilkes-Barre, a city of 50,000 that was half damaged, is the hub of the wrecked area.

Balcomb said full recovery probably won't come till next summer.

"I don't know how the people are going to spend the winter," he said. "I think every home heating system in my town was affected."

Forty Fort has about 2,100 homes. Less than 100 were undamaged after the rain-swollen river cracked through a 38-foot dike, first burst across a cemetery here and disinterring about 1,500 bodies.

The enormity of destruction still is being assessed.

—At least 20,000 homes were damaged, and more than half of these won't be ready for occupancy until this winter, or later.

—Around 20,000 persons, at most one-third of those initially idled, haven't been able to resume their jobs.

—On Public Square, heart of Wilkes-Barre's downtown, only 26 of nearly 75 businesses have reopened.

—The Red Cross still is feeding thousands daily.

—Twelve public schools, severely hit, hope to begin classes as scheduled after Labor Day.

The main problem is finding shelter for the flood victims.

It is estimated there are 45,000 homeless, roughly 18 per cent of the Valley's total population and the federal government has promised to put a new, temporary roof over their heads.

This will be done mostly with trailers. The department of housing and urban development already has ordered 9,250 mobile homes, costing around $70 million, and will buy more if needed.

"HUD is so slow," Balcomb said. "That's the main topic in the Valley. HUD has to keep armed guards around its offices because they are afraid of trouble from angry residents."

Clinic Busy

TORONTO (CP) — A Toronto clinic offering advice on sexual problems has had dealings with about 700 individuals and organizations since opening May 26.

Staff members of Harbinger Counselling Services said Monday the clinic has provided information to individuals with sexual questions and has dealt with organizations and professionals offering aid.

The clinic, which operates from a room on the York University campus, dispenses drug information but most of its time is devoted to matters related to sex, such as birth control information, veneral disease and unwanted pregnancies.

Hate and Greed Ruin Experiment in Parking

NICE, France (AP) — The Riviera experiment with parking meters that almost forgive and forget has been a technical success but a human disaster.

The idea, which went into practice early this year, was this: stop giving out tickets for overtime parking and instead put little yellow envelopes marked "sorry" on windshields.

The city would waive a fine.

Instructions on the envelope explained the driver would be given an extra hour free and the city would waive a required court appearance if he put five francs—about $1—in the yellow packet and placed it in a red metal box on the leg of the parking meter.

But instead of coins, there were often little notes placed in the envelopes: "You creep," or "Die, parasite who picks on the poor," or "Why don't you get an honest job."

The meter men complained, offended at the hate mail.

There were enough people, however, to fill the boxes with five-franc contributions to constitute an intolerable temptation for one zealous city meter policeman. He was caught doing overtime repair work on the red boxes when none was needed.

Mayor Jacques Medecin subsequently announced repairmen would be accompanied by uniformed paramen. That was in May.

Then in June, two meter men were arrested and sentenced for taking money out of the envelopes. They had been pocketing about 100 francs, or $20 a day.

All this made city officials despair.

Unhappy Debut for Ed

CINCINNATI (AP) — Eddie Mathews is convinced "we have a better ball club than we've shown, and these guys can do it."

The new Atlanta Braves manager admitted he was nervous in his debut as a major league manager Monday night as Cincinnati Reds bombed him 9-1.

"I guess it's as good a way to break in as any," said the former Braves third baseman appointed to replace Lumen Harris, who was fired Monday.

It was two former Atlanta teammates who did him in. Denis Menke and Joe Morgan who batted in eight of the Reds nine runs between them.

Morgan hit a three-run homer, his 14th of the season, and Menke got two more with a single in the six-run second inning for the Reds.

"It was a tough way for Eddie to break in," said Cincinnati second baseman Joe Morgan. "But I got more satisfaction in simply winning the game and moving closer to the Western Division title."

In the only other National League game Monday night, St. Louis Cardinals defeated New York Mets 3-2 in 13 innings. Pittsburgh Pirates' afternoon game at Montreal was rained out with the Expos.

In Sunday's action, the Pirates swept a doubleheader from Montreal 8-6 and 7-2; Houston Astros split with San Francisco winning 7-3 while the Giants took the second 8-2; the Mets crushed Chicago Cubs 12-2; Atlanta nipped Cincinnati 4-3; St. Louis Cardinals blanked Philadelphia Phillies 8-0 and Los Angeles Dodgers clipped San Diego Padres by the same score.

Pittsburgh downed Montreal 7-4 in Saturday play while Chicago took New York 3-2. Houston downed San Francisco 4-3; Cincinnati beat Atlanta 4-2; Philadelphia breezed past St. Louis 5-0 and Los Angeles edged San Diego 3-0.

The Reds increased their lead to 5½ games with Houston off Monday.

Menke batted in three more runs with his ninth home run of the year in the sixth inning. The Braves managed to break Jim McGlothlin's shutout in the eighth inning on back to back errors by Darrel Chaney and Menke.

Reds manager Sparky Anderson, discussing Mathews' debut, said: "I had sympathy for him before the game when I saw him check his line-up over and over again to make sure there were no mistakes.

"He seemed very nervous for which I don't blame him, but he's got all that it takes to be a fine major league manager."

Henry Aaron, who went two-for-four in the contest, indicated he was pleased with Mathews' selection.

"Eddie's choice is my ninth manager," said Aaron whose entire career has been with the Braves. "He's a friend and a former team mate and I wish him all the luck..."

"But, of course, I hated to see Lum Harris lose the job. We're all pros, and we still have to play the game, no matter who the manager is."

Ted Sizemore's looping leadoff hit in the 13th inning bounced past diving left fielder Cleon Jones for an inside-the-park home run that gave the Cards their victory and dropped the Mets 8½ games behind Pittsburgh in the East Division.

It came just one day after Sizemore had tried for an inside-the-park homer against Philadelphia only to be tagged in a rundown between home and third.

"I couldn't believe it was happening again," he mused. This time, though, there was no close call. He virtually trotted across the plate.

Belanger Blasts Ball and Boss

By BRUCE LOWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Mike Cuellar had nothing said Earl Weaver. But Weaver did have Mark Belanger—although by listening to the Baltimore shortstop, he may not have him for long.

What Belanger had Monday night was a hot bat at the right time. His tie-breaking, two-run double in the sixth inning provided Baltimore Orioles with the impetus they needed to turn back Milwaukee Brewers 5-2.

Elsewhere in the American League Monday, Minnesota Twins shut out Texas Rangers 5-0; Cleveland Indians beat Boston Red Sox 8-3 and Kansas City Royals defeated Oakland Athletics 4-2.

The Orioles bombed Boston 11-2 Sunday to stay within range of the East Division leading Detroit Tigers who split with Cleveland, losing 2-1 and winning 6-5. In other Sunday games, New York Yankees swept two from Milwaukee, 3-0 and 6-4; Chicago White Sox took two from Texas, 10-1 and 7-1; Oakland Athletics and Minnesota split, Oakland taking the first 6-3 and the Twins the nightcap 5-1; California took two from the Royals, 4-3 and 3-2.

In Saturday's games, it was Minnesota 4 Oakland 0, Boston 6 Baltimore 3, Milwaukee 4 New York 2, Detroit 4 Cleveland 3, Kansas City 2 California 1 and Texas 11 Chicago 5.

"Don't misquote me because I'm not asking to be traded," Belanger said after helping the staggering Orioles to only their third victory in the last 10 games, "but those thoughts have run through my mind and a trade is still a possibility.

The nine-year veteran alternates at shortstop with Bobby Grich.

"I don't feel I can do a good job playing one week and sitting down another," Mark continued. "If that happens, I would just as soon go to another club."

Ollie Brown's run-scoring single in the first inning for Milwaukee and Brooks Robinson's homer in the second for Baltimore sent the teams into their sixth inning tie before Jim Lonborg issued two walks and served up the pitch that Belanger drilled into the left-field corner. Doyle Alexander came to Cuellar's rescue in the sixth inning singles, drove in a run after the Brewers had cut the margin to one run.

"Cuellar had nothing tonight," Weaver, the Orioles' manager said. "He had no fast ball to start with and they were jumping on his slow curve."

The Orioles edged within two games of Detroit.

Jim Perry gave up just two hits—a pair of harmless fifth-inning singles, drove in a run and helped himself with a straight unassisted double play to lead the Twins past the Rangers. Bob Darwin chipped in with a three-run homer.

Sniper Believed Commuter

BELFAST (Reuter) — British Army intelligence officers tracking down an unknown assassin who kills British soldiers with a single shot from long range now are working on the theory that he is a commuter from Dunfanda.

The assassin, thought earlier to be a foreign mercenary, was reported to have been hired by the Provisional Irish Republican Army. It was believed that he is paid about $500 for each British soldier he kills. He is also thought to fly into Belfast aboard regular commercial flights.

The army knows the assassin as an ex-military man and believes he has been working in Ulster for at least a year. Intelligence officers believe he has killed five soldiers in the last two months.

In July, 1971, four soldiers in the Ardoyne area of Belfast were killed by single shots. Two of them were hit from a distance of between 200 and 300 yards by a marksman using an Enfield 303 rifle.

The similarity between the Ardoyne shootings and recent killing in the Andersonstown area were uncovered by intelligence officers sifting patiently through files.

Le Dain Calls Pot Policy Step in Right Direction

OTTAWA (CP) — Gerald Le Dain, chairman of the federal commission on the non-medical use of drugs, says the government move to drop penalties for first offences of possession of cannabis as "a step in the right direction."

However, Mr. Le Dain former dean of Toronto's Osgoode Hall law school, said the decision by the government does not go as far as the commission wished. He was appearing on the CTV television network show Question Period on Sunday.

Three of the five Le Dain commissioners, including the chairman, said possession of cannabis—marijuana and hashish—should be legalized.

Although the government has not accepted that recommendation, Health Minister John Munro recently announced steps to reduce legal penalties for possession.

Mr. Le Dain said he thought the government would ultimately have to go further in the acceptance of cannabis.

But he added the recent decision did express concern for three main issues which will have to be faced. The government move "just strikes a different balance between them than we do."

The issues central to the drug question, he said, involve the potential harm of the drug, what is to be done about cannabis, and whether a change in the law will effect public attitudes and behaviour.

Get Little Wool

YELLOWKNIFE, N.W.T. (CP) — A territorial government expedition, sent out to collect muskoxen wool from the barrenlands, has returned almost empty-handed.

The five-man group, led by United Church minister Tom York, spent $5,000 and collected only three pounds of wool in one week.

Aid Promised

TORONTO (CP) — Patrick Murphy, spokesman for the striking non-medical workers at Toronto Western Hospital said Monday the Quebec-based Confederation of National Trade Unions has promised financial support.

Backs Indians

FOREST, Ont. (CP) — Progressive Conservative leader Robert Stanfield says that the nearby Upperwash cadet camp lands should be returned to the Indian band who originally owned them.

Halt Demolition

HULL, Que. (CP) — Demolition of the unfinished Dauken apartment buildings here was stalled again Monday after a group of seven residents in the area of the new project applied for an injunction in Quebec Superior Court.

The application will be considered today, and until the appeal is heard all demolition work at the project must cease.

Three Killed

TORONTO (CP) — Three members of a Peterborough area family were killed Saturday night when their camper truck was hit by a train in northwestern Toronto.

Elephant Killed

SUDBURY, Ont. (CP) — Tina, the killer elephant, was led to a garbage dump Saturday, shot and buried in a big pit.

Bilingual Problem

KARCAHI (AP) — In the continuing language controversy in Sind province, a Sindhi-speaking teacher was beaten to death Monday by Urdu-speaking students in Hyderabad. The province has half Sindhi and half Urdu-speaking people and both are demanding their own language be made the official one in Sind.

Skydiver Hurt

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — A Kingston skydiver is in satisfactory condition today after an emergency parachute saved him from a more than 5,000-foot jump from an airplane.

An eyewitness to the jump Sunday near Gananoque airport said Clifford Udell's emergency chute opened 300 feet from the ground.

Hospital officials in Kingston said the 26-year-old man suffered compressed vertebra and is under observation for possible internal injuries.

Iroquois Want Burial Grounds Undisturbed

NEDROW, N.Y. (AP) — The chiefs of the six Iroquois nations says they will push for legislative prohibitions against future disturbance of known Indian burial grounds.

The ancient remains of 11 Iroquois Indians, spirited away two weeks ago by a Pennsylvania archaeological team, were re-interred Sunday in a traditional-laden ceremony, on the Onondaga reserve in this Syracuse suburb.

The remains, believed to have been undisturbed since about 800 AD, were discovered and taken from a burial mound on a farm in Depanville by a Kutztown, Pa., State College, team.

Onondaga Chief Lloyd Elm said the Grand Council believed it must make it clear to non-Indians that "this desecration must stop."

BOOTH'S

WHERE HE LEFT OFF -- by Alan Maver

Midland Ball Scene Hopping

MIDLAND, Tex. (CP) — With an assist from sanitation crews who battled invading grasshoppers with insecticide, Amarillo completed a sweep of its Texas League doubleheader against Midland Monday night, winning the 14-hour delayed nightcap 2-1.

The grasshoppers were neutralized in the stadium by crews using sprays. Hordes of grass hoppers forced cancellation of the second game in the first inning Sunday night. Amarillo defeated Midland 5-4 in the opener.

Millions of grasshoppers flooded the field. Sportswriter Bob Dillon of the Midland Reporter-Telegram said he was in the stadium press box when the grasshoppers, some three inches long, swarmed the playing field and the stands.

Women screamed, players swung their bats and fans clawed at the insects covering the playing field, the stands and the mercury vapor lights.

"I've never seen anything like it" Dillon said. "The umpires finally called the game off. The lights were turned off and as we walked out of the stadium the ground was just thick with them."

Follmer Races To Can-Am Victory

LEXINGTON, Ohio (AP) — Pole-sitter George Follmer guided his sleek Porsche to a wire-to-wire victory Sunday in the rain-marred $52,300 Mid-Ohio Can-Am, beating the mighty McLarens for the second time in three races.

Follmer, subbing for injured Mark Donohue in the factory-backed Porsche 917-10, stayed with dry tires all the way and covered the 192 miles in two hours, four minutes and 2.815 seconds, an unofficial average of 92.676 miles an hour.

The McLarens were never serious challengers. Denny Hulme pitted four times for tire changes and finished fourth. Team-mate Peter Revson's car broke a transmission early in the 80-lap race.

Jackie Oliver of England finished a surprising second in the Shadow MK 111 while Mik Mitter of Tarzana, Calif. driving another Porsche, took third.

Oliver was a full lap and more than 1½ minutes behind Follmer, who won for the first time this year after Road Atlanta in the turbo-charged Porsche.

Follmer earned $13,000 for his victory, Oliver picked up $10,000 and Mitter $7,000.

Despite an unfortunate decision to change tires frequently, Hulme, a two time Can-Am winner this year came in fourth and established a competitive lap record of 102.13 m.p.h. before the rain.

Gordon Devaar of Canada was seventh in a McLaren M8C.

Sport Briefs

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Ron Perranoski, Los Angeles Dodgers' relief ace of the early 1960s, rejoined the club Monday.

Perranoski, released on waivers by Detroit Tigers last week, was signed by the Dodgers Monday, filling the vacancy left when catcher Duke Sims was claimed on waivers by the Tigers.

The 35-year-old left-hander had pitched only 19 innings for the Tigers this season, with an 0-1 record and a 7.58 earned-run average.

Perranoski began his major league career with the Dodgers in 1961 and had a brilliant 16-3 record in 1962. He was traded to Minnesota Twins in a five-player deal in 1968 and led the American League with 34 saves. In 1970, The Tigers claimed him on waivers from the Twins last July.

VANCOUVER (CP) — 69-68-69. They aren't figures calculated to turn the eye of a man about town, but they were good enough for a win Sunday for Terry Small in the 54-hole British Columbia open golf championship.

Small, a former military policeman, locked up the championship in Sunday's final round at the Vancouver Golf Club with a comfortable four-stroke victory.

His 209 total easily beat the pair of 213s turned in by John Calabrin of Rochester, N.Y., and Malcolm Moe of Spokane, Wash.

Small, a three-year professional from Long Beach, Calif., took home $3,000 from his first win on the Canadian golf circuit and said he did it by playing conservative golf.

"On the final nine holes, I didn't use my driver very often," the 29-year-old said.

"Using a one iron or a three wood doesn't get you in trouble like a driver can. There really aren't any holes on this golf course on which you can gain an advantage by using a driver."

Bomber Line Faces Tough Test

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Winnipeg's offensive line is planning to show the hometown fans it can handle the Calgary Stampeder defence in a Western Football Conference game tonight.

In the night's only other scheduled game, British Columbia Lions entertain Hamilton Tiger Cats in an interlocking Canadian Football League contest at Vancouver.

Affectionately known in Winnipeg as the Hogs the Bomber offensive line of Chuck Harrison, Bob Lueck, Bob Swift, Chuck Liebrock and Bill Frank are out to avenge a 31-7 loss in their season opener last week in Calgary.

Following the defeat, Winnipeg coach Jim Duncan said Stampeder middle linebacker Wayne Harris wasn't blocked all night, but the offensive line is ready for the second meeting of the season.

Frank says: "The Hogs know we can handle the Stamps be-cause think we're better than they are."

Despite the 50-sided score, Capital said he felt the Bomber defence played particularly well at times, displaying a lot of hustle and promise, and credited Calgary with having the best team in the CFL.

Calgary, on the other hand, is confident of winning the encounter, having beaten Winnipeg three times in their last four games.

Both clubs plan to go basically with the same lineups used in the opening contest.

The Stampeders will be without defensive back Terry Wilson, placed on the 30-day injured list with strained knee ligaments, and possibly linebacker Dave Crabbe with knee problems.

Rookie punter Don Moulton is expected to replace Wilson in the secondary and Jim Furlong could start if Crabbe still is hurting.

Three new players—former Ottawa Rough Rider Barclay Allen, former Lion Lach Heron and Mel Smith—also are in camp for a five-day trial and could see action.

The Ti-Cats plan no great changes in the lineup that edged Saskatchewan Roughriders 20-17 in their opener last Monday.

Tommy Joe Coffey needs only 85 more yards in pass receptions to become the first CFL player to reach the 10,000-yard mark and only six passes to move within all-pro record of CH set by Ray Berry of Baltimore Colts.

In the Lion's den, coach Eagle Keys will attempt to convince the people he made the right move in dropping flanker Larry Highbaugh in favor of import Rocky Long, a third-string quarterback and some-time safety.

Highbaugh, one of the fastest receivers the club has ever had, was not the most experienced import B.C. jetti-soned. Veteran punter Ken Phillips, an all-star two of his three years with the club, was another.

The list of injured players is another thorn the Lions will have to contend with. Wayne Mathern, Dave Easley and Wayne Hohn all are doubtful starters. Roy Shatzko and Garrett Hunsperger are out for longer terms.

The Calgary-Winnipeg game will be televised in the west by CTV, beginning at 8 p.m. CDT.

British Cycling Struggles

By IAIN MacLEOD

LONDON (CP) — After a decade of downhill free-wheeling, cycling in Britain is dallling hard to regain the popularity it had a decade or two ago.

At that time, cycling, along with cricket, was the sport the public as "the most thrilling spectacle in English sport." says Len Unwin, 50-year-old secretary of the British Cycling Federation.

"In the 1930s the Federation had over 60,000 members," Unwin recalled. "Today we're down to 10,000 but membership is beginning to rise again steadily."

It's not that cycling has become any less exciting. Like cricket, the sport has fallen victim to what Unwin describes as "the wolves"—soccer, athletics, golf and motor racing.

"Major sports in Britain not only take the lion's share of sponsorship, but also the cream of press and television coverage," he said.

Nevertheless, sponsorship and coverage of cycling events is increasing. Last year, only $35,000 was put up by business concerns to support British amateur races in Britain while "quality" newspapers provided full results and placings.

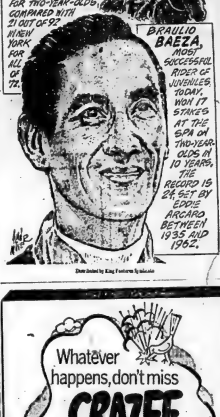
As a spectator sport, cycling is not confined to races racing "where the crowds can enjoy the immediate thrill and speed of the sport," Unwin said.

Long-distance road races, sometimes covering 100 miles, often attract crowds of 3,000 or more on the finishing stages.

"We have many enthusiasts who appreciate the sense of achievement associated with these long, grueling events," Unwin added.

At present, the federation is concentrating on promoting track racing. Sponsors favor this part of the sport because it attracts television coverage. They feel they can advertise their products more easily around the race track than on the road.

Europe is the centre of international road and track racing involving amateurs and professionals from Britain.



"We usually receive 20 invitations a year to compete abroad," Unwin said. "European racing is the one thing that gives our top teams the sort of competition they need."

However, Britain doesn't seem to be an overly enthusiastic host for international racing in this country. Only three major British races—the Tour of the West, the Tour of the North and the Skol Six—provide for overseas riders.

In Britain, cycling seems to be mainly a "fun sport." British boys take up the sport mainly to enjoy themselves, Unwin observed. On the Continent, if a youngster goes for cycle-racing, he's got the ambition of becoming a career rider.

The federation gives full support to the handful of British riders who are determined to compete internationally but Unwin agreed that "the only way these cyclists can break into the top-line professional game is to go to Europe."

Both Hotel Teams Closed Down

The local hotels closed their doors to the rest of the world over the long weekend but Rollins Construction and Devolin Motors changed the pace and closed out the Quinte and Globe Hotels in a trio of Commercial Softball League games.

Devolin had Quinte's number twice stopping the Hotelmen 4-3 Sunday and coming Monday for a 3-1 victory. Globe should have had better things to do Sunday but wound up on the short end of a 10-1 score to Rollins.

Don Holloway and Rick Rosebush emerged as the heroes of Monday's 3-1 Devolin victory as Holoway fired a two hitter and Rosebush doubled in the winning run in the bottom of the seventh.

Holloway fanned six and showed perfect control in guiding the Motormen into a four point bulge in second spot behind the pennant leading Rollins crew. The win righthand er allowed singles to Bob Parsons and Terry Lepage for the only Hotelmen hits.

Eric Maher singled in the final frame setting the stage for Rosebush's game winning rbi. The hits were only the second and third off Holeiman Scott Reid. Reid also gave up a hit to Holloway but fanned four in taking the loss.

	R	H	E
Quinte H.	100 000 0–1	2	0
Devolin M.	010 000 1–2	3	2

Reid was the victim of Sunday's 4 3 nine inning loss to the same Devolin crew when three unearned runs cost him the twin.

Jack Jury's triple to lead off the ninth and Eric Maher's sacrifice gave the winners their only runs. The highlight of the game, but it was the losing one, Rick Rosebush had two singles for Devolin while Doug Olsen, Tom MacDonald, Jamie Hunter and Vern Whalen added single one-baggers.

Quinte have opened up a 3 1 lead after five innings but Holloway tied it in the sixth sending the game into extra innings.

Jamie Hunter banked the win allowing five hits and striking out nine. Lyle Thompson with two singles and Paul Merauw, Warren Ostrander and Martin Walsh with one each were the hitters for Quinte.

RICK ROSEBUSH

Reid struck out 14 in losing a seven hitter.

In Sunday's other game Rollins showed their league leading stuff by demolishing Globe Hotel 10-0.

Ken Denelle went three innings for the winners giving up four hits and fanning two. Carl Boomhower fired four innings of no-hit relief in his first pitching start of the year.

Ralph Plane provided the necessary run with a sixth inning homer. He added a single to his circuit blast, while Ralph Boomhower and Doug Adams had two singles each in the Constructionmen's 11 hit attack.

Bill Harrison took the loss for the Globe.

Globe Hotel	000 000 0– 0	4	7

Although he didn't see any action over the weekend it was last week's performance that gave Howard and Robert's Dwight Rathwell the player of the week award. The Pranter shortstop batted three for four and had two rbi for his third place team.

Drivers Double Up

It was a productive night for a pair of local harness drivers at Saturday night's Quinte Exhibition and Raceway harness meet as both Hugh Wemp and Al Vance picked up a pair of victories in the nine race card.

Wemp raced Babe's Girl to a win in the seventh and had opened the night's racing with a win behind Dandy Duke. Vance made it back-to-back for his part with wins piloting Johnny Command to a win in the third and Skippy Rush in the fourth.

Allison Scott and Dandy Duke ran fan fastest times of the day travelling the half-mile oval in 2:11.

A crowd of 1010 wagered $28,135 over the nine races.

Belleville Tykes Can't Shake Cobourg

The Belleville tykes tried their best to shake their Cobourg opponents Sunday in an EOBA contest but when the final out was recorded the visitors were still there.

The two teams battled to a 15-15 deadlock at Parkdale Sunday. Mark Crawford went the distance on the Belleville mound allowing 13 hits and fanning 10. Dale McTaggart pulled a triple and three singles and Shawn Mulroney a quartet of safeties for the local crew.

The Thurlow tykes wrapped up the regular season pennant in their league over the weekend with a 14-10 win over Oronoco and a forfeited victory from Newcastle.

Tom Masterson and David Blakely fired a six hitter in the win over Orono, striking out seven and walking two. Blakely smashed a homer and triple to lead the winners in hitting attack.

Belleville Minor Baseball house league action saw the high and low of it in a pair of tadpole contests last night when Gibson's Esso slimmed Kinsmen Metals 18-1 and Bob's Sports nipped the Lions 3-2.

Henry Lupenette had two homers and David Mortissen a solo blast for Gibson's.

Henry Boudreau fired a four-hitter and fanned 15 in throwing the Bobs win. Mike Dowling and Mike Legere combined for a three-hitter and 13 killings in a losing effort for the Kinsmen.

The Belleville Conductors and Brakemen Peewees were on the right track in their opening game of the EOBA playdowns by thumping their Kingston opponents 7-2.

Peter Hall fired the victory for Belleville, giving up just three hits while fanning 11 and walking two. Howie Coons and Andy Lupenette each had a double and single to lead the winners in hit support.

The same two teams go at it again Wednesday night in Kingston in the second game of the best of three series.

SACO Socks Rivals

The Belleville SACO peewees found their trip to Peterborough most restful Saturday which left them enough energy to stop their Lift Lock City rivals 11-7 in 1 hr 15 first game of the OASA peewee A playdowns.

Danny Vance paced the local crew with a triple and single plus fanning six on the

What the Stars Say

By JEANE DIXON

Wednesday, Aug. 9.

Aries (March 21-April 19): Impulse at best, temper at worst can land you in more action than you can handle. Forcing issues the worst course.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Your thinking runs in short cycles, coming back again and again to some experience you have not yet digested.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Despite critical moods and impatience your creative expression comes on strong and clear in today. An early search yields results.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Your talent for dealing with money and property is on the up side now, so use it prudently. Come to terms, do something definite.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): Provocation doesn't always deserve an immediate answer. Evaluate your progress, proceed with care toward your ideals.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Now is the time to settle any disagreements, remembering there may be more than you realize. See jealousy as an illness.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Your inner serenity rechannels comments into constructive opinions. News eases your concerns over older people.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Your follow-up on yesterday's doings may open another advance for you today. Explain your ideas so that others understand.

Sagittaries (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Healthy self-interest is always in style. Resolve partnership tensions by getting to the basic causes and making changes.

Carlcorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Waiting on financial moves shows you a better opportunity. Later hours are better for study, meditation, rest.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): You can rub people the wrong way without knowing what you're doing. Invest some effort in creative hobbies.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Continue doing the best you can, expecting no more than normal performance. Deal directly with home and family questions.

Palpating Belly Can Reveal Much

By G. C. Thoiteson, MD

Dear Dr. Thoiteson: When a person goes to the doctor for a physical examination, and the doctor does all this feeling, pushing and kneading around on the abdomen, just what can he feel, determine or diagnose?—Jeff.

Maybe he won't discover anything except that you are healthy.

However, looking at and palpating the belly can give a good many useful clues. First, is it flat, round, distended, or bulging at the sides?

Gently touching the surface can reveal spasm or rigidity which occurs as a defensive guard if there is infection within.

Poking in the upper right side may reveal an enlarged liver or tenderness from a cranky gall bladder. In the upper left the spleen is not ordinarily felt—but if it is, it indicates enlargement which could result from liver or blood disease.

Masses representing tumors may be felt in any quadrant of the abdomen, but usually are in the lower or mid sections.

Appendicitis produces tenderness in the lower right corner. The doctor may press, firmly, then raise his hand quickly. As this procedure can elicit rebound tenderness found with an infected organ, such as appendicitis or fallopian tube.

All sorts of abdominal disorders—ulcers, infected tubes, fibroids, ovarian tumors and a lot of others—will usually reveal themselves with some sort of a clue, after which, of course, more specific tests may then be employed to make certain.

Dear Dr. Thoiteson: I hope you can help my grandson with a bed-wetting problem. He is nine and very sensitive about it. We have had him to the doctor who prescribed some pills which explained were more to make him think he was being helped.

My grandson is so upset and so in fear that some of his friends will hear of it. I get him up in the night and this helps, but he doesn't even remember. I'll do anything to help him, but please do not use my name as some neighbor might suspect.—Mrs. A.S.

Okay, I won't even use your real initials, much less your name.

I'm glad you've had a doctor examine the little fellow to protect against the chance that some physical problem is causing the bed-wetting. Occasionally that's the case, although usually it is a matter of psychology and a habit and self-confidence.

Reason he doesn't remember when you get him up at night is that he is so sound asleep.

There are quite a number of tricks and methods that help stop bed-wetting and sometimes one works and sometimes another does. It's a problem that usually is solved if you're patient and don't put too much pressure on a child.

If it continues to adult life, that usually means it's a deep-seated emotional problem—but such a case is an exception.

Dear Dr. Thoiteson: My menstrual cycle is over four months late. I am 33 and recently have been troubled with this before. Is this anything to worry about? Do I need to go to a doctor?—Miss S.

Assuming that you aren't pregnant—and the chore days it isn't smart to assume much of anything—then you are probably experiencing the irregularity which is quite common in girls your age.

If you aren't greatly overweight, haven't been on a rigid crash diet, and you haven't noticed any other symptoms of anything wrong, then I would wait a bit longer before worrying about it. It probably will adjust itself in its own good time.

Opening lead — king of clubs.

Dreifense is a highly specialized art, and, more often than not, provides a good test of technical skill.

One can't afford to be lazy on defense. You can't play mechanically and expect good results. Usually, there's much to think about, and if a defender shrinks from this task, disaster may easily catch up with him.

Here is a sample of good defense. West led the king of clubs and declarer ducked the dummy. East signaling with the nine. South's purpose in ducking was to reduce the possibility of East's taking the lead for a heart return.

West led another club, dummy taking the ace. Declarer then led a low spade to the ace on which West played the king.

As a result, South found himself kaput. East was bound to take the lead sooner or later with a trump and would then return a heart to put the contract out of reach.

Had West neglected to throw the king on the ace South would have made the contract quite easily. He would have led a trump right back and later discarded one of dummy's hearts on his fifth diamond. All told, declarer would have lost a spade, a heart and a club.

West's unusual play was well reasoned. He knew from the bidding that South had the king of hearts, and he knew from the play that South could not have the A-J of spades, for he would surely have finessed in such case.

West therefore credited East with the Jack and, since South's bidding had indicated only four spades, he knew that dropping the king would not jeopardize his side's trump trick.

Defensively, West could count on a club and a trump, and he had to hope for two heart tricks. All he did was shape his play accordingly.

Half Action Canada Members Will Stick

BRAMPTON, Ont. (CP) — Regarded as the party leader, Emmett Donovan, Peel County chairman of Action Canada, says about half the original membership of Paul Hellyer's party have decided to stick with the party as a separate political group.

Mr. Donovan says that since Mr. Hellyer, who established the party switched to the Progressive Conservative recently, he has telephoned leaders of the group in various parts of the country and found "complete disarray" among those remaining with Action Canada. They were getting no direction from the Ottawa head office.

Of the original membership of between 8,000 and 10,000, he estimated, about half would be leaving the organization, an unspecified percentage of these would follow Mr. Hellyer into the Progressive Conservatives.

Mr. Donovan said that in the minds of most Action Canada members deputy leader George Skelton of Calgary now is re-

CELEBRATING 151 YEARS AS THE AGRICULTURE SHOW-CASE OF THE QUINTE AREA

Fun Featured

Less competition and more entertainment — these are the keys to the 1972 Quinte Exhibition.

Now 151 years old, the exhibition — originally called the Quinte Farmers' Fair and Cattle Show — is moving away from its traditional backbone of agricultural contests into displays designed to familiarize the uninitiated with the ways of the country.

Several long-standing competitions — most notably among cheese factories — have gone by the boards. But in the case of the cheese manufacturers they have decided to join forces and erect an actual assembly line, the product of which will be edible curd.

Animals will still be the most popular sight around the fairgrounds. Horse shows, ranging from pony chariot races to the eastern Ontario Gymkhana championship run each day, and cattle judging will award more than $15,000 in prize money at the Coliseum.

Conklin's Midway has four new rides— the Snowmain, Tip Top, Round Up and Jumping Jacks — and there's even a rodeo show in which spectators will be asked to judge whether the Sasquatch, that legendary monster of the B.C. wilderness, really exists.

Entertainment reaches its climax Sunday night with an all-star grandstand variety show featuring Lee Moore of Moundsville, West Virginia, and the 12-year-old Canadian novelty fiddling champion, Don Reed of Sudbury.

Again this year, there will be no additional charge for grandstand events, meaning the admission also pays the way into grandstand attractions.

Admission costs are $2.50 for adults and $1 for students beyond elementary school age. Children of elementary school age and under are admitted free until 6 p.m. but will be charged 50 cents in the evening.

A special permit costing $10 is available to permit vehicles and drivers to the grounds throughout the exhibition.

The 1972 Dominion Dairy Princess, Dianne Gunning of Tweed, officially opens the fair at 8 p.m. Wednesday, Aug. 9. But things will be under way by that time.

Following a press tour of the grounds, the ever popular Baby Show takes place at 1 p.m. in the curling club, now building number 13.

Draft horses test their strength and junior farmers strut their livestock before the annual parade arrives in front of the grandstand at 7:45 p.m. This year's version, under parade marshall Arthur Corfield, leaves East Hill Park at 6:45 with a contingent of more than 500 persons, 190 horses, five bands, at least 10 floats and a pack of marching dogs.

The contingent moves across town, arriving at the grandstand where Col. W. G. Paisley, commanding officer of CFB Trenton, will take the official salute.

Following the official opening by Miss Gunning, Dairy Princesses for the counties of Hastings and Prince Edward will be crowned.

Thursday is Kid's Day, with all midway rides going for half-price until 6 p.m.

Highlight will be a thrill show by Paul Riddell and his team of professional stunt drivers. They'll do two shows, at 7 and 9 p.m., climaxed by clown acts and a fireworks display.

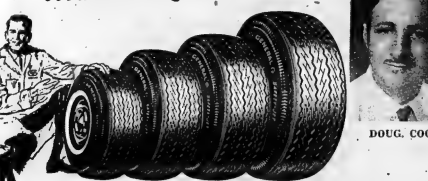
The following evening — which up to Producers Consumers Day — the pros join the amateurs for two Demolition Derbies, again at 7 and 9 p.m. Anyone can enter the jalopy bash but insurance policies must be better be checked beforehand.

Harness racing takes over Saturday night with a big stakes race planned.

The fair closes Sunday — Family Day — but not before an afternoon horse-show which includes showmanship displays by Western Horses and Parades and hunter and jumper competitions. The Prince Philip Games is another first for Belleville, with point leaders from earlier Oshawa and Port Hope contests vying for berths in the Canadian Pony Clubbers finals being held at the Canadian National Exhibition.

To conclude events, music festivals are scheduled for 7 and 9 p.m. at the grandstand. Many well known gospel, folk, country and western personalities will be on hand.

Donnie Lee Bates, recording artist from the Country Junction USA television show and Brent Williams, star of Don Messer's Jubilee, join Lee Moore. Don Reed and others for what should be an exciting evening of entertainment.



Executive members of the 1972 exhibition are John R. Bush, president; Phil Fagler and Douglas Pollins, vice-presidents; and Everett Gowsell, fair manager. Cameron Bennett and Dr. Harry Burns are immediate past presidents.

Mrs. Robert Burkitt heads the women's division of the fair.

Old Time Balloon To Be Focal Point Of Quinte Fair

Many visitors to this week's Quinte Exhibition will be getting their first look at an aeronautical balloon. But old-timers will remember that they were a popular sight early in the century.

In those days, as now, promoters were eager to attract any and all to their fair. And nothing dominated the horizon like a massive balloon, a lure to almost anyone who happened to look out his window.

As a result, the giant spheres, more commonly used for travel or as observation posts, made the rounds of local fairs. Occasionally some daredevil would parachute to the ground or into a nearby body of water.

The earliest balloons were fully enclosed and contained some lighter-than-air gas such as helium or hydrogen.

Jules Verne, the 19th century French science fiction writer, helped elevate them to the realm of the fantastic with such books as Five Weeks in a Balloon, the story of a journey across Africa, and Mysterious Island, in which Confederate inmates escape to a Pacific island in an observation balloon during the American Civil War.

The only problem with sealed globes was the lack of pilot control — virtually none existed. Ballast could be tossed out of the basket to gain height but coming down usually depended on the temperature and wind.

As a result, hot air balloons rose in the fore, craft controlled easily by turning an air valve.

One such device resulted in near disaster at a Quinte fair many years ago. Along with the hot air came sparks rising into the balloon's interior, causing the entire skin to erupt in flames. Fortunately no one was hurt in the incident, although the show could not go on.

The 1972 version is also the hot air variety, but of a design considerably more sophisticated than its predecessors.

Only one person will be taken aloft at a time, but sheer nostalgia should create excitement for thousands more.

Paradise Midway Is Kids'

Fairs are made for kids and the Quinte Exhibition is no exception.

This year's version, August 9-12, has all sorts of entertainment for the young crowd.

Topping the list is the Conklin midway, dubbed the Gayway, which now boasts four new thrill rides. They include the Snowman, Tip Ta, Round Up and Jumping Jack.

Back again is a long standing favorite, Kiddieland, with its jingling rides.

Then there's the new Sasquatch Mystery Story, at which spectators will be asked to judge for themselves if this could be the monster repeatedly reported to be seen in the Canadian Rockies.

Conko, the Conklin Clown, is another colorful addition. In his bright red-white-and-black suit, he'll wander about, spreading infectious carnival gaiety to young and old alike.

Conko also heightens spirits of convalescing children and may make a surprise appearance at Belleville General Hospital.

Youth will be represented on both sides of the ticket booth since many Ontario students have been hired to man midway equipment.

Both the fairgrounds and midway will be open each day from 9 a.m. until midnight, except Wednesday, Aug. 9, when the exhibition officially opens at 5 p.m. Thursday is Kids Day, with all rides at half-price for youngsters until 8 p.m.

Bridge St. Parade Route

Drivers are advised to avoid Bridge Street between 7 and 8:30 p.m. on Wednesday, Aug. 9, while the Grand Parade inaugurating this year's Quinte Exhibition crosses the city.

Four pedestrian gates will be in operation: No. 1, Yeomans and Bridge; No. 2, Bridge and Sidney; No. 3, Bridge St., and No. 4, Sidney St. Cars and trucks will be admitted through the Bridge and Sidney St. gates.

The bus stop and taxi stand are both located at the corner of Bridge and Yeomans. Express buses will run to the grounds every 15 minutes from White's Hardware on Front St. Service begins August 9, 10, 11 and 12 at 6:30 a.m. and continues until midnight. There will be no bus service Sunday, August 13.

Parking facilities are the same as in past years.

Cheesemaking On Display

Persons visiting the curling club at this year's Quinte Exhibition will get a first hand look at how cheese is made.

The array of equipment will take milk, some directly from the cow, and turn out curd at the other end ready for selling. Pictures and words will describe the remainder of the process.

The display corresponds to the exhibition's expressed desire to bridge the gap between producer and customer. Independent local factories will supply the equipment.

Quinte Exhibitions, the Demolition Derby, is returning after a year's absence from the grandstand infield.

Competition will again be open to amateurs although survivors of the professional hell driver show the evening before will also participate.

Milt Johnston, the intrepid CJBQ newsman who won 1970s inaugural smashup, is undecided whether or not to defend his title, so long have the bruises been in healing.

On Thursday night, Paul Biddell and his team of professionals will perform two thrill driving shows, at 7 and 9 p.m.

The first Demolition Derby gets under way Friday at 7 p.m., the second at 9 p.m.

Apply Now

Senior citizens, handicapped and underprivileged persons will be admitted to the Quinte Exhibition free of charge, provided organizations working on their behalf have applied in advance.

Fair officials say persons in the above categories should not expect special treatment if they apply at the gate themselves.

Industry Promoted

The Belleville Chamber of Commerce has joined forces with the Quinte Exhibition to promote local industry.

The chamber is occupying a row of booths in the curling club (building number 13), where thousands are expected to browse among the displays of more than 50 exhibitors.

Representing area concerns are Canadian National, Mead Johnson, the Belleville Industrial Commission, Corby's Distilleries, the Quinte Isle Tourist Association and the Chamber of Commerce.

Chamber manager Don Sutton said it was only natural that his organization take part in the exhibition since both promote the Quinte area. More participation by local industry can be expected in future years.

Fair Office Set Up

After 151 years, the Quinte Exhibition has taken on an added dimension of stability.

No larger will the administrative staff and registration office be housed in a moodie trailer. Room four, on the upper floor of Ben Bleecker Auditorium, is undergoing a transition from stark meeting hall to air-conditioned establishment.

A large counter, to be manned at all times by four or more persons, has been set up to facilitate rapid registration.

All other administrative duties are focused on the new office and exhibition manager Ev Gowsell has his own room in one corner.

Last year, headquarters consisted of a trailer parked on Sidney Street, and for many years they rambled from the home of one vacant basement owner to another.

Strength On Display

Urban dwellers have a tendency to think of horses as animals who only run and jump. Track racing and equestrian competition help confirm this opinion, but farmers know the horse has another, very distinct quality — drawing power.

This practice — as ancient as farming itself — derives from those not-so-long ago days when farmers plowed their fields behind a heavy-haunched equine. Tractors have replaced horse power over most of the world but the tradition is still upheld in contests of strength such as the one scheduled for Wednesday, Aug. 9, at the Quinte Exhibition.

Beginning at 6:30 p.m. in front of the grandstand, Clydesdales and Percherons in light and heavyweight categories will haul stone slabs mounted on rolling platforms until the tonnage overcomes the horse strength.

Top prize is $80 for heavyweight, $70 for lightweight, with $10 awarded to the team which displays the best combination of drawing power and good manners.

In Step With Progress

This year marks the 151st Anniversary of the Quinte Exhibition and I would like to take this opportunity to congratulate the officials and all who have worked so hard to make this one of the finest Fairs in the province.

The Quinte area has enjoyed much better than average progress over the past few years, and is still on the move. Let's all work together for a continuance of growth in this area, and the welfare of all the people of Ontario.

Babies To Have Their Day

The post-war baby boom took place 25 years ago but more entries than ever are expected for the Quinte Exhibition's 1972 Baby Show.

It's not population growth that should swell numbers so much as the show's steadily increasing popularity.

Once again, the contest will be divided into nine categories comprising boys, girls, twins and triplets at ages ranging from three to 18 months.

Competition begins Wednesday, Aug. 8, at the Curling Club (building number 13). Times are as follows: 1 p.m. for babies aged three to six months, 2 p.m. for those seven to 12 months, and twins and 3 p.m. for those 13 to 18 months and triplets.

Entrants should fill out forms published in The Intelligencer and present these to the registration desk on arrival.

This year's committee is made up of Mrs. Doug Rollins, Mrs. E. Denyes, Mrs. Ronald Hamilton and Mrs. Harry Rolins.

Fair Fares Posted

Once again, fair board regulations will be posted conspicuously about the grounds of the Quinte Exhibition.

Food concession prices, together with the weight and contents of hot dogs, hamburgers and other favorites, will also be on display.

Exhibition organizers have found that prominent lists are an asset to both fair patrons and exhibitors since they breed a spirit of co-operation and honesty.

Women's Work In the Spotlight at Quinte Exhibition

The Quinte Exhibition may have started as an annual farmer's get-together but these days the ladies are every bit as important.

Displays of baking, handicraft hooked rugs, dress goods and dozens of other items of interest to women are featured.

It should not be forgotten that it is the distaff side who produce the fair's baby show, always one of the highlights of the exhibition. In fact, many have called it the finest show of its kind in Ontario.

Total prize money for homemaking and cooking entries is approximately $324, and for sewing and needle work $814, and for bazaar articles produced by a women's institute, $6 apiece. Judging will begin at noon, Wednesday, Aug. 9.

Fair's Emphasis Shifting

Change is in the winds for the Quinte Exhibition. But only time can tell when it will come about.

That is the forecast of John R. Bush, president of the Belleville Agricultural Society which sponsors and operates the exhibition.

In a message titled The Problems of a President, at the beginning of the fair's 'obituary' brochure, Mr. Bush explains the dilemma of serving both the public and the society:

"If the board does not organize to meet the need, they will be faulted if a poorer than expected season results. If the board recognizes the need and organizes as they see the need, they will be faulted by accelerating before being accorded a proving period."

One method of updating the society's methods, he says, is by revising its constitution and bylaws to comply with the Agricultural Societies Act of 1971.

But exhibition manager Everett Gowsell warns that the act, designed to standardize fairs, is still pre-agriculture at a time when change is the "only means of survival". No longer is the fair board responsible only to the farmer.

The trend, he says, is to showcase area products in educational, entertaining displays against farmer competition.

"Fairs have to take on the role of a bridge between the producer and consumer of food products," he advises.

Old stipulations, such as one that says all board directors must be volunteers, are clearly impractical. "We haven't the time," he says.

Resistance to change comes from an overloaded old fashioned board of management. Anyone who ever served on the society's executive becomes an associate director for life, resulting in a membership of more than 125 persons. Also, most agricultural people are older and have spent a lifetime dedicated to putting on a farm-oriented show, said Mr. Gowsell.

If management has its problems, they won't be reflected on the grounds themselves where several improvements have been made for this week's exhibition.

All lighting is now permanent with no more overhead strings. Cleaning facilities for the animals are better so wash racks will no longer flood and visitors won't be asked to walk through manure.

More repainting has been done and the parks board has removed many unsightly dead trees.

Finally, the interior of the general exhibits building has been completely rebuilt and booth partitions installed.

Pollution Prober Sues Government

Floods Plague Quebec

'He left last week on a char ter so you'll still catch him at the airport!'

RICHMOND, Que. (CP) — Floods that hit most of the Eastern Townships region of Quebec Tuesday have raised fears that farmers, already suffering because of rain and cool weather, have been given a knockout punch.

The Quebec cabinet, already scheduled to meet today to discuss possible aid to farmers, will also look into the flood crisis, Premier Robert Bourassa said Tuesday.

Towns in the area, where storm sewers were broken and many basements flooded, were "mopping up the mess Tuesday night.

Joseph Badger, 48, owner of a farm near this town about 75 miles east of Montreal, said the record rain had already hurt farming.

"We were counting on a warm fall with a long Indian Summer so maybe we could get another crop of hay for our animals.

"Now we'll probably have to sell them."

Tuesday afternoon Joseph and his brothers surveyed the damage.

"Fences, they're gone—and where they were we've got gullies and cuts 50 feet deep," he said.

In the Bonsecours area, about 40 miles south of Quebec City, hundreds of acres of hay and corn were flooded by the swollen Chaudiere River.

A light rain is expected to fall until the early afternoon today and scattered showers will follow. Sunny weather was predicted for Thursday.

In Richmond, a town of 4,200 residents, roads and streets were washed out, railway tracks were mangled and water and electricity were cut off following the storm.

Almost four inches of water were dumped on the town and much of the main street was washed away.

A few miles away in Acton Vale, diked bodies of animals were floated in rivers and by mid in flooded fields, 23 cottages had been washed away, three were ripped from their moorings, farm fields were covered by almost a foot of water and dozens of homes flooded.

"This is the worst I've seen since 1927," said Henri-Denis, 66, who has lived in the area for most of his life.

Police Chief Gerard Clement said his men, assisted by firemen and Civil Protection workers, rescued 38 persons Tuesday morning.

"It's almost unbelievable," he added. "Those 38 evacuees are nowhere in sight. They just floated down the river and disappeared."

Georges Asselin, 35, worked for hours in a rowboat, dressed only in a bathing suit, rescuing people trapped in their homes.

He was credited with saving an elderly couple who jumped from the balcony of their sinking home onto another house floating by.

Sandbanks Quarry Called Trust Breach

By HARRY MULHALL, Staff Reporter

Fresh sparks have been struck from the smouldering Sandbanks controversy with the launching of a lawsuit against the Ontario government.

The suit was filed yesterday with the Supreme Court of Ontario.

It alleges breach of public trust because the government is allowing Lake Ontario Cement Ltd., of Picton, to quarry sand from dunes beside Sandbanks Provincial Park.

Larry Green, a researcher for Pollution Probe at the University of Toronto, is suing on behalf of himself, all residents of the province and future generations.

It may be the first breach of trust suit ever filed against an Ontario government, perhaps the first of its kind in Canada, says the Environmental Law Association. The action was filed by a special counsel for the association.

The government and company are accused of failing to maintain the Sandbanks for "healthful enjoyment and education".

Mr. Green's statement" of claim alleges company operations have impaired the environment and public enjoyment of the neighboring park by destruction of the "magnificent view" of two dunes and by creation of swamps.

It also claims that noise from trucks and tractors interfere with seclusion and privacy of park users.

The Supreme Court is asked for injunctions to bar future excavations at the site and to

Dockers Expected To Strike

VANCOUVER (CP) — Frank Kennedy, president of the Vancouver local of the Longshoremen's union, Tuesday night predicted dockers will vote 100 per cent in favor of strike action in balloting Thursday and Friday.

Mr. Kennedy said dockers who attended a meeting earlier in the day gave the negotiating committee of the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union a unanimous vote of confidence in their contract dispute with employers.

The dispute already has slowed port activity to a near standstill as the union and the Maritime Employers' Association remain deadlocked over hiring hall practices.

The employers' association refuses to hire what it calls "untrained" workers for specialized jobs through the union hall, and the union refuses to make its members available for work unless all members are given "equal opportunity."

make the company restore its leased sand site as closely as possible to its natural state.

The suit is apparently the latest action by environmental groups which have stepped up protest over the quarrying operation in the past year. They want the government to take over the 18-acre quarry site as part of the park. The company now holds a 75-year, 21-year lease on the site — after government employees accidentally reforested a company plot in the area.

Nixon Leads

WASHINGTON (Reuter) — Democratic presidential candidate George McGovern trails President Nixon by 23 percentage points in a public opinion poll taken after he dropped Senator Thomas Eagleton as his running mate. The Louis Harris poll, published today in the Washington Post, says it is Nixon's biggest lead over McGovern since March — when he was 27 points ahead.

Brennan Aids Schmitz

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actor Walter Brennan will be finance chairman for the American party's presidential candidate, John Schmitz. Brennan, 78, said Tuesday the California congressman "is one candidate who is not committed to the big money establishment that dominates both the old political parties."

Insurance Bill Buried

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Senate has sent back to committee a bill to establish a national system of no-fault automobile insurance, apparently killing any chance of congressional action this year. "Everybody knows what this motion is all about," Senator Warren Magnuson (Dem. Wash.), manager of the bill, told the Senate. "It buries the bill, simple as that."

Missing Craft Sighted

AUCKLAND (AP) — The missing protest trawler Boy Roel was sighted today near Pago Pago, American Samoa, the Royal New Zealand Air Force reported. Two long-range Orion aircraft have searched hundreds of thousands of square miles of the Pacific for the trawler which left New Zealand July 2 on a protest voyage to the French Mururoa atoll nuclear test area. The last message from the boat was received July 5.

Favor Spadina Road

TORONTO (CP) — By a vote of 4 to 2 the Metropolitan Toronto transportation committee voted Tuesday in favor of building a four-lane road in the Hunke Spadina Expressway right-of-way south from Lawrence Avenue to Eglinton Avenue West. The proposed road would leave one lane in either direction for buses only and would be built to expressway specifications so it can easily be converted into a section of the expressway.

There's Good News Tonight, It's Fair Time Once Again

By LENNY WILLIAMSON
Staff Reporter

A colorful parade will wind through Belleville from the East Hill playground to Quinte Exhibition tonight to open the 131st annual fair.

Quinte Exhibition's gates will open at 5 p.m. today for three days of exhibits and events promised to be "bigger and better than ever".

While spectators are awaiting the arrival of the parade before the grandstand, they can enjoy a band concert, a new horse drawing contests in the grandstand infield or watch the junior farmers' livestock show in building 4.

The parade will move off from the corner of Bleecker Ave. and Bridge St. at 7:15 and is expected to arrive at the grandstand at 7:45 p.m.

Bonnie Gunning of Tweed, 1972 Dominion Dairy Princess will officially open the exhibition.

But before the main events get under way, the popular baby show will be judged in the Curling Club, beginning at 1 p.m. The judging will continue all afternoon, in three categories, for babies aged three to six months, those seven to 12 months and those 13 to 18 months. There are also special categories for twins and triplets.

From 8:30 to 11 p.m. both the Hastings county and the Prince Edward County dairy princess competitions will be held. At the same time, three sets of chariot races will be run off. Conklin Show's midway will be set up and running for added enjoyment during the evening.

Two South Vietnamese Companies Are Mauled

SAIGON (Reuter) — Communist troops fiercely mauled two south Vietnamese militia companies only 15 miles from Saigon in the closest fighting to the capital since the North Vietnamese offensive began nearly five months ago.

The mixed North Vietnamese-Viet Cong force attacked a militia camp east of Saigon Tuesday, killing 24 government troops and wounding 45 others, a spokesman announced today. Communist casualties in the Lurgan and bombarded it with fighting were reported to be 17 men killed.

In the north of the country government marines around Quang Tri City made little headway entering North Vietnamese from their entrenched positions.

In Cambodia, Cambodian forces still holding part of the town of Kompong Thalek, 85 miles west of Saigon, drove back a north Vietnamese task and infantry assault after winstanding a 200-round rocket and mortar barrage, the Cambodian command said.

The Cambodians are being supported by U.S. bombers. U.S. and Cambodian officials have claimed 24 Soviet tanks knocked out since Sunday in the battle for Kompong Thalek.

The Cambodian command also reported that one of its helicopters loaded with refugees was shot down Tuesday near Kompong Thalek by a Strela missile, a hand-fired, heat-seeking missile that the North Vietnamese are using for the first time in their current offensive. The four-man crew and 10 to 15 refugees from the besieged provincial capital of Svay Rieng were reported killed.

Catholics Bang Out Protest

BELFAST (CP) — Gunfire, explosions and massive street demonstrations gave Northern Ireland a tumultuous day of Roman Catholic protest today against British interment policy.

The first anniversary of internment without trial in Ulster opened with the eerie banging of garbage can lids on sidewalks. The noisy protest lasted more than an hour until rain dampened it. But violence spread elsewhere.

British troops said they shot two guerrilla gunmen in the capital, and three soldiers were slightly wounded.

Bales Offers To Resign Cabinet Post

TORONTO (CP) — Attorney-General Dalton Bales of Ontario has offered to resign over his controversial ownership of land near the proposed new international airport at Pickering, Premier William Davis said today.

He said he has not accepted Mr. Bales' resignation, but that the attorney-general has not yet withdrawn the request.

"I've urged him to reconsider it," Mr. Davis told a news conference.

Hopes Fade for Quick End To Britain's Dockers' Strike

LONDON (Reuter) — Hopes are fading for an end this week of Britain's national dock strike, now in its 13th day.

A committee representing port unions and employers met again Tuesday to consider the main issue in the strike—job guarantees in the face of rapid modernization of cargo-handling techniques—but broke up just before midnight without making a statement.

It was to meet again today in a bid to find a solution that would persuade the 42,000 dockers to go back to work.

Any proposals from the committee must be accepted by a dock union delegates' conference, and such a conference would take 48 hours to convene.

A new urgency was added to the struggle with a warning, by a major producer of chickens that two million birds would have to be gassed Monday unless imported feeds, now blocked by the strike, are allowed in.

The lack of high-protein feeds is becoming increasingly critical for the entire livestock industry. The minister of agriculture, James Prior, is to meet representatives of the National Farmers Union today to discuss the problem.

The House of Commons, which leaves today for its summer recess, approved Tuesday the government's proclamation last week of a state of emergency.

It provides among other things for the requisitioning of transport and use of troops to ensure the movement of vital supplies.

The government is free to resort to these emergency powers when it thinks they are necessary, but is expected to hold off as long as possible to avoid incurring the anger of militant dockers and wrecking the chances of conciliation.

Two Heads Better Than One

Leisure-time survey of north Belleville's neighborhood by city's recreation department proved big job for original canvasser Jo-Anne Willment, 17, left. So, second surveyor, 18-year-old Connie Sweetman, was added to project, funded by provincial government. Girls are now putting their heads together to see if neighborhood needs in Prince of Wales Drive area justifies extending school community recreation programs. For details, see Page 3.

Two-System Planning Won't Work: Bush

By KENNETH SMITH
Staff Reporter

TRENTON — While Quinte Planning Board chairman Jack M. Bush says he hopes Trenton, Brighton, Brighton and Murray Townships can be persuaded their future lies with the QPB, he is more than flatly against one formula recommended as a solution to the difficulties that have split the board.

"No way . . . It just won't 'cut work," said Bush in an interview today, as he commented on the proposal of Trenton councillor Ted Parker that QPB adopt two functional committees (one Trenton-centered, the other Belleville-centred) plus an executive committee to deal with clear-cut regional issues.

The planning board chairman says he is organizing a meeting of all heads of municipalities that belong or did belong (as the QPB is an attempt to resolve differences, "this get-together may take place as early as next Monday, says Bush.

"I hope we can get them (the breakaway four) to participate again and realize their future is with us," indicates the Sidney township reeve.

One arrangement Bush will give to Trenton, Brighton and the townships at the pending meeting is that "it would cost more to have two planning staffs, two offices . . . and have everything duplicated."

Also, he explained he does not fully accept Trenton's reason for pulling out. Mayor Duncan McDonald has said Trenton wanted, not because its future growth will be to the west.

"Sure they are tied in more with the west now (Brighton and the townships) and they are hemmed in somewhat by the airport," but he says Trenton also has a definite growth area to the north along the Trent River and to the east above the Canadian Pacific tracks that form QPB Trenton's northern perimeter.

Bush points out that the second concession of his township which connects with Trenton's Sidney Street is destined for growth "just as soon as we get services." He says these are matters for Trenton to consider.

Belleville Minister Again Church Head

Rev. J. A. A. Spearman of Belleville was returned to the office of president of the Central Canada District of the Wesleyan Church at the annual conference at Silver Lake Camp, Maberly.

Rev. F. S. Fish of Strathroy, who will soon be taking a position in Belleville, was returned as secretary. Other officers are Rev. I. M. Taylor, vice-president and Miss Eileen Baker of Toronto, treasurer.

Rev. Earl S. Bull of Belleville was the fraternal delegate to the conference from the Free Methodist Church.

Some delegates reported growth in congregations. One has found it necessary to hold two Sunday morning services to accommodate people and another has outgrown the wall of its relatively new sanctuary and has to meet in a collegiate auditorium Sunday mornings.

During the conference, Miss Cheryl Sullivan, a registered nurse from Massey and Belleville was commissioned as a missionary nurse to Sierra Leone, West Africa.

School Demolition Payment Is Held Up

PICTON (Staff) — The former Mary Street school, demolished this summer following several months discussion in town council continues to create controversy.

Payment of $2,850 to wreck-er Murney Howe has been withheld until work at the site of the building will be tidied up satisfactorily completed."

Picton deputy reeve James Bird Tuesday night said a portion of the site was to have been covered with soil but the fill used was not suitable.

He proposed finding "a great deal of rubble" within an inch of the surface although an eight inch depth of topsoil was specified.

The rear portion of the school site which is paved for parking was left littered with debris and motorists using the parking lot's facilities must leave their cars on an unpaved area.

Mr. Bird said town engineer David McIntosh had contacted the wrecker but was informed that terms of the contract did not include grading.

The deputy reeve added that the required depth of topsoil is lacking, however, by agreement for demolition of the school has been withheld.

Picton Mayor Reaffirms One-Government Stand

PICTON (Staff) — Picton Mayor Margaret Ackerman at Tuesday night's council meeting again repeated her stand in favor of one system of government in Prince Edward County. The mayor has urged amalgamation of the county's 10 municipalities into one county government.

Individual municipalities are confronted by the high cost of services, said Mayor Ackerman. The Ontario Water Resources Commission is now recommending a $500,000 expenditure for the town's waste disposal plant and Picton is committed in a reconstruction program.

The mayor said assessment is needed at the county level and she mentioned the $240,000 raised in two years by county council for road construction of a county home.

Mayor Ackerman referred to the reconstruction of Hill Street, a three-phase project to begin this summer to cut through property from scenery. The program's second phase will cost an estimated $72,000.

Two briefs will be submitted to the ministry of intergovernmental affairs, advocating the need for industrial development, growth and economic advancement. One was prepared by Prince Edward Chamber of Commerce and one by William Duggan, director of economic development for the county.

Superintendent's Dismissal Finals Have Moved Out Shelter Service Only

Humane Society Shuts Down Zoo-type Operations

By BRIAN AMARON
Staff Reporter

A large financial deficit has forced the Quinte branch of the Ontario Humane Society to abandon its farm operation — considered a showplace by OHS officials.

In addition, superintendant Harry Brown has returned to full time inspection duties, with Mrs. Vivian Ebner taking over as shelter superintendent.

Both moves followed a review of the Quinte operation by the society's executive board. Cutbacks have been prevalent across the province in an attempt to alleviate the OHS's 1971 deficit of $200,000.

The Quinte branch — only one in Ontario with a farm section — was $20,072 in the red at the end of 1972, second highest figure in the province.

Upkeep for the extra animals — which included horses, goats, doves, pigeons and others — added considerably to costs already escalated in maintaining temporary homes for hundreds of dogs and cats.

Guy Galbraith, president of the Quinte branch, says the local organization was reluctant to follow the executive board's recommendation to close down the farm operation.

"I had a call from the board of education which was very concerned about it," he said, adding that thousands of school children had been given tours through the shelter.

The (Quinte) board was torn on the deal. But Tom Hughes, general manager of the OHS, thought it was wise to relinquish that end of the operation."

Another contributing factor was the amount of time Mr. Brown had to devote to the shelter.

"He had so much to do. It necessitated his being on the shelter nearly all the time," said Mr. Galbraith. "There was not enough time to get out and do inspections."

He said the size of the Belleville depot warranted only one inspector. The shelter also has two wardens and a receptionist.

Mr. Brown remains superintendent but has had his duties restricted to the field, with Mrs. Ebner as warden at the Academy Road branch. For a number of years, prosforming general duties. Her supervisory capacity is a full time position.

The animals involved were all owned by Mr. Brown and have been moved to his farm north of Belleville.

The one time former said he regretted the cutback but felt it was unavoidable.

"It's too bad. We had a good thing going. There were thousands of kids who saw those animals."

His wife and two children will continue to help at the shelter.

From now on, operations there will be confined to the care of dogs and cats and maintenance of King's Mill, permanent residence for about 40 specially selected cats.

Too socially acquired the farm and adjoining land from the Eastern Ontario Cattle Breeder's Association several years ago.

Quebec Floods

He and other rescuers woke many people who were unaware that the White River was rising rapidly.

"Many of them were still sleeping although the water was rising around their beds," he said.

Grasby, a town of 34,000, was also flooded.

Sections of the town were under about four feet of water and water services were still operating Tuesday.

Gerald Benard, a 28-year resident, rived on a bank of the Yamaska River and watched as the waters swelled to a peak level in a nearby yard.

"I can remember a lot of bad summer storms with lots of rain . . . but nothing ever like this," he said.

Suit Is Filed

Earlier this year, the government called in geologist Walter Tovell, Royal Ontario Museum associate director, to study the situation.

His report published July 12, said quarrying operations were not affecting the ecology or reducing the dunes. It suggested the company be permitted to remove another 128,000 tons of sand during the next three years and then return back the lease. Natural Resources Minister Leo Bernier said the government accepts the Tovell report in principle. The minister said he, his staff and company officials would negotiate the report's recommendations.

Environmentalists challenged the report. A Toronto woman, who holidays in the area lodged charges under the Environmental Protection Act and Criminal Code making it counts against the cement company and Trinad Trucking Ltd. The charges are to be heard in provincial court at Picton, Sept. 15.

Obituaries and Funerals

FORBES MACLEAN

A retired Trenton engineer, Forbes Maclean, died in Montgomery Lodge Aug. 8., following an illness. A former president at 313 Foster Ave., Mr. Maclean had lived in Belleville almost 60 years.

He was a native of Edinburgh, Scotland, and came to Canada in 1890 to work with a survey crew on the Q.r.y.s.y Trunk Railway in Brockville. In 1907 Mr. Maclean began as a fireman in the C.P.R. and became a locomotive engineer in 1911. He was transferred to Belleville in 1912 and retired in 1946 after 39 years service on the railway.

The son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Donald Woodside, he was predeceased by his wife the former Edna Dool, in 1969. He is survived by a daughter Mrs. Bert (Marion) Salisbury of Belleville, two sons, Donald Dawson Maclean of Belleville and George Woodside Maclean of Bowo. There are six grandchildren.

Mr. Maclean was a member of Tabernacle United Church and Belleville Lodge 444 Independent Order of Oddfellows.

Funeral service will be held in the Gowsell Funeral Home Aug. 10 at 2 p.m. with interment in Belleville Cemetery. Rev. J. Leslie Dean officiating.

MRS. ALEXANDER CHADWICK

Summer Job for Two

Person-to-Person Touch Proving Beneficial for Recreation Survey

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

One thing about a community survey by a community agency:

The canvassed sometimes can unexpectedly benefit from personal contact with the canvassers.

At least, that's among side effects found by city recreation officials now directing a study northwest of the Moira River. The survey — in the College St. - Prince of Wales Dr. sector — hopes to discover if a need exists for recreational use of community school facilities in the neighborhood.

The month-long door to-door footwork basic to the study, now in full swing, is scheduled to end this week. As yet, it's too early to say just what demand pattern may evolve. That must await eval uation of householders' responses.

But, already, personal contact between department canvassers and the people has made some Bellevillians in the area aware of current recreation programs which they were unaware existed, say officials.

If such were the only result of the study, recreation officials might well be satisfied, indicates the department's deputy director Clifford Belch.

It could sort out individual recreation needs. Residents in the area could be put in touch with programs contemplated or already under way elsewhere in the community.

Already, interviews have shown that some programs requested "are offered either through us at the department or other agencies," says Mr. Belch. "So maybe, all we need is a communication link."

For one thing, this would help avoid fund-wasting and overlapping.

"At no time do we want to augment those things that are current now," insists the deputy director. "At present, we're satisfied we're getting information feedback from the area — which is what the survey is all about."

Aside from ascertaining any need to expand community recreation in neighborhood school facilities — in this case, Prince of Wales public school — the study's feedback alone is invaluable in putting leisure needs of an entire neighborhood in focus, he adds.

In all, about 500 households may be involved in the study — and statistics so far indicate response is running at about 50 per cent.

Is this a satisfactory volume?

Compared with the average return on surveys, the response has been "most encouraging, greater than expected" and department officials are very satisfied."

The unexpected workload has provided a summer job for a second student on the project — funded by the province's community and social service ministry. Originally the job — from canvass to evaluation — was the sole assignment of 17 - year - old Jo-Anne Willmot. Now, Jo-Anne has been joined by a Belleville Collegiate graduate, Connie Sweetman, 18.

Each girl averages about 25 homes daily, conducting interviews, or leaving questionaires for later collection or mailing when householders are away.

By the end of July, 217 homes had been reached. Response totalled 89 personal-spot interviews, and a further 25 questionaires received.

On the doorsteps and "if people said they weren't interested," reports Jo-Anne.

Among impressions gathered:

—People in the area are interested in more recreation facilities.

—There appears to be a demand for a second park in the neighborhood. (Unfenced, outdoor recreation now centres on the Prince of Wales school ground).

—Specifically satisfying is the number of people who indicate interest in helping give leadership in various leisure projects. (Citizenship participation at this level is an ideal much sought by community recreation agencies).

Such leisure time projects, linked to school facilities, already are in vogue — at Prince of Wales and elsewhere — as co-operative projects between recreation and school authorities.

Any extension of the Prince of Wales program, might not automatically follow the current survey, Mr. Belch cautions. After both girls have concluded their evaluation of statistics and interviews, department officials will have their own comments and confer with school counterparts.

After that, the final decision rests with city hall's recreation committee.

"We'll present it to the committee as soon as possible. There may — or may not — be any action, depending on how the members see it," says Mr. Belch.

Kinsmen to Help Equip Playground

PICTON (Staff) — A park allowance near Greenwood Acres in Picton will be equipped as a playground next spring by members of the Picton Kinsmen Club.

Town council last night supported the Kinsmen's efforts by voting to allocate $1,000 towards purchase of fence materials for the playground area, which will be known as Kinsmen Park.

Picton reeve Albert Pirodi said materials for a four-foot fence to surround the park and the right - of - way to Simeon Street would cost $825. He suggested town workmen and members of local service clubs could provide the labor to help eliminate installation costs.

Recreation director Wayne Ring informed council in his report that the cost of a fence, coupled with the charge for installation, would be $2,650.

It was suggested by councillor Harold McLaughlin, chairman of the recreation and parks committee, that the playground equipment should not be placed in the park until next spring. Members of the Kinsmen club plan to purchase approximately $1,200 worth of equipment for the new park.

All Was Not Lost

Vacation time for the Allison Frederick Mosher family of Toronto started well last week until their sail boat's motor broke down. They had to start preparation for the unexpected sail back to Toronto without motor, but all was not lost. Mr. Mosher, right, had two willing crew members, his son Frederick Allison Jr., second from right, and a buddie, Mark Sankey, Mrs. Mosher, left, was quite willing to drive the car back to Toronto.

Stop Lights and Off-Street Parking Topic of Traffic Study

PICTON (Staff) — Town council will study the traffic flow on Main Street to determine the advisability of relocating a stop light controlling a cross walk at the intersection of Ross and Main.

The decision followed discussion of a letter from Jesse Mason, chairman of the Picton police commission in which he emphasized parking problems in Picton.

Mr. Mason stated the commission is concerned with "the traffic problem on Main Street and over the parking problems on Main Street."

He said the police department is "doing a reasonably adequate job against very considerable odds," and recommended provisions for off-street parking and a shorter parking time limit.

Mr. Mason noted long-term parking "is certainly prevalent at the present time" and observed the problem is created by the parking time of up to one hour allotted by the meters.

Although several councillors disagreed with the proposal for shorter parking limits, it was generally suggested that the Main Street stop light slows traffic and should be moved to the intersection of Lake and Talbot Streets.

Although police recently have been controlling the light at rush periods, councillors commented that a constable is not always available when the traffic flow is heavy.

Mayor Ackerman urged the question of off-street parking be referred to the public works committee and said the town is making an effort to acquire such parking facilities.

Several councillors also stressed the need for "no passing" signs at cross walk at the intersection of Main Street and Bowers Avenue.

Councillor Harry Abram said his son had escaped serious injury the last week when two cars collided in an unexpected stop at the cross walk.

Mr. Abram and Councillor Ross Crookwright, who also both employed at a service station near the corner, said youngsters are endangered daily by drivers who pass cars stopped at the cross walk.

Councillors agreed to refer the problem to the public works committee but several felt that "no passing" signs at the cross walk would not be permitted by the department of transportation and communications since the street is a connecting link.

No Road Yet for Subdivision

PICTON (Staff) — Town council, in a recorded vote refused to take action in constructing a road from Simeon Street to the town limits.

The vote ended a lengthy debate triggered by an irate taxpayer who claimed council's public works committee planned to build a road to a Simeon Street subdivision for the benefit of only the subdivider.

Dorothy Haight reminded councillors that during a council session last fall she had asked if the town would assume the cost of the 12ft-foot road and was assured this was the responsibility of the subdivider.

Mrs. Haight said she was told recently that the public works committee planned to pay for construction of the road and other services, although the 12-plex apartment building requiring these facilities is not situated in Picton.

James Bird, chairman of the public works committee, explained no motion calling for a road had been passed and suggested Mrs. Haight was misinformed.

A committee report, however, did approve a draft agreement between the town and the new owner for the installation of sanitary sewers, water mains and "construction of a street," subject to the approval of the Ontario Water Resources Commission.

Mr. Bird told council town solicitor Jack Ward had advised that the original subdividers are responsible for building the road, although the apartment building was sold in 1971.

The original subdividers, Jackson and Evans of Picton, have written to the public works committee stating they do not feel obligated to complete a road.

Mr. Ward informed council last night that because of "unfortunate wording" in the town's agreement with the subdividers, two interpretations of the necessary conditions are possible.

He described it as "a vacuum situation" for the committee and suggested a court action against the original subdividers might have less than a 50 per cent chance of success. Councillor William Lane said the town might discover it cheaper to build a road than to attempt to force the subdivider to construct it.

Town engineer David McIntosh estimated the cost of a gravelled road along the 12ft-foot street allowance at $2,000.

After a motion by Picton reeve Albert Pirodi, council-lors voted to take no action concerning the road.

"Why build a road until we have to," questioned councillor Harry Abram?

Mr. Ward explained that the town cannot be compelled to construct a road but probably would do so eventually, in answer to complaints from dissatisfied residents of the apartment building.

As discussion of the problem drew to a close, deputy-reeve James Bird said committee reports were confidential until council's "so-called" by meeting. He wanted to know who had misinformed Mrs. Haight.

He was told by one of her neighbors attending the meeting that a member of council and "another person" whom he refused to identify, had disclosed the information.

Conklin Axes New Tickets

Conklin Shows will not use centralized ticket purchasing at the midway this year at the Quinte Exhibition.

A Conklin report in yesterday's Intelligencer said the system — by which tickets purchased anywhere on the midway would be honored at any ride or show — would be introduced at the 1972 exhibition which opens at 5 p.m. tonight.

Midnight Skulker Strikes Again

PICTON (Staff) — Town police remain baffled in the search for a prankster who continues to free saddle horses stabled at a Main St. East barn, owned by Harvey McFarland.

Last month the horses were turned loose in a field adjacent to the stable and a foal, owned by Susan Taylor of Picton, apparently was run to death.

The horses were freed again Friday night, despite police vigilance.

Robert Ingarfield, owner of a horse stabled at the barn, called police early today to report two horses had again been turned loose. The barn is sqdressed from a farmer, now working surrounding farm land.

Some Differences with Government

Commons Speaker Lamoureux May Be Election Candidate

BY PARKER TISSINGTON
From The Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

While the general impression is that Commons' Speaker Lucien Lamoureux will not seek re-election, there is still an outside chance he will be a candidate in Stormont-Dundas riding. This suggestion does not come from Mr. Lamoureux himself. He has been consistently uncommital about his personal plans. It is doubtful if his partner in Cornwall is yet aware of his decision. It is fairly clear he is disappointed by the failure of the government to put the Speakership on a continuing basis. He also holds strong views about the necessity of keeping the office totally non-partisan. The Liberal organization in the riding is hoping to meet with Mr. Lamoureux to discuss the possibility of his candidacy.

For its part, the government may not be completely happy about Mr. Speaker, not so much for the few times he has ruled against it, but because he has operated his office in a very free-spirited way. Mr. Lamoureux has exercised his decision-making powers outside the Commons chamber with the same determination as he has inside. With a minimum of consultation he decided to undertake such projects as installing a new Commons translation and sound system and replacing the windows in the chamber with stained glass depicting provincial emblems.

He has greatly widened his contacts throughout the world with speakers of other nations and with parliamentary delegations. Following the recent summer sitting of Parliament, Mr. Lamoureux left on a 2½-week visit to a number of countries in the Far East, returning earlier visits dignitaries had paid to Canada.

These projects, domestic and foreign, cost considerable sums and it seems to be the view of some members of the cabinet that the results do not warrant the expenditures.

But from a purely political point of view, Mr. Lamoureux represents a potential plus for the Liberal party—if he could be persuaded to seek re-election as a Liberal. It is a safe Prime Minister Trudeau would like to win. Such a move would, of course, rule him out as Speaker of the next Parliament if he was successful. But there is no rule that says a Speaker in one Parliament can not be a cabinet minister in the next. Conservative Speaker Marcel Lambert made that jump in the 1962-63 period.

There is no certainty Mr. Lamoureux could win the riding. The Conservative candidate, Grant Campbell, lost to Mr. Lamoureux in 1968 by only 1,000 votes. Campbell is said to be considering another campaign.

But even if Mr. Lamoureux could be induced to run, he would have stated Mr. Lamoureux by 1,000 votes.

A victory for Mr. Lamoureux and the Liberal party, together with a cabinet post, would not preclude an appointment at a later date, perhaps as Governor-General, but more likely as Canada's ambassador to France. There is some tradition for Governor-General to remain outside active politics prior to his appointment. Our present Governor-General, Roland Michener, served as high commissioner to India and ambassador to Egypt between his election defeat in 1962 and being sworn in as the Queen's representative in 1967.

Mr. Lamoureux may decide to forsake any further public service and return to his law practice. If he does, it will be regrettable. His ability, intelligence, charm, wit and fluency in both official languages are assets the country should utilize in the political, or some other, area.

Quinte Planning

The re-integration of the Quinte Planning Board, for the time being at least, as suggested by Intergovernmental Affairs Minister Darcy McKeough, is one solution to the dilemma that has arisen from the withdrawal of Trenton, Brighton and the township of Brighton and Murray from the board.

That it may be only a temporary healing of the split is implicit in the message from Mr. McKeough calling on member municipalities to remain in the QPB until his staff has analysed the implications of the pull-out.

"By September or October," Mr. McKeough indicates, "I should be in a better position to assess the impact of the local government reform proposals for the area east of Metro as they relate to the future of planning organizations for the Quinte municipalities."

This is not a long wait, but it will give board members time for reflection on their actions and for deliberations on what course Quinte planning should take. Its problems thus far have had to do with the unwieldly nature of the board and the feeling among smaller municipalities that their needs are being neglected, if not relegated to a back seat, in relation for instance to Belleville.

Trenton Mayor Duncan McDonald has announced he is calling a meeting of municipal representatives to talk over the situation and this should help clear the air. One matter that will undoubtedly come up is Councillor Ted Parker's call for restructuring of the Quinte board. He suggests the board be divided into two committees, one composed of the four municipalities which walked out and perhaps Frankford and the other composed of the remaining members—Belleville and the townships of Sidney and Thurlow.

Whether this is workable within the confines of a board which is supposed to concern itself with the needs of all members is something else. Nevertheless it is worth looking at, along with the other problems that have been vexing the board and which led to the split the government is now trying to patch up.

Exhibition Time

It is Quinte Exhibition time again when Belleville and visitors to the city from afar enjoy all the fun of the fair.

This year there will be four big one-day fairs from August 10 to August 13 inclusive. Press and Kids Day, Producers and Consumers Day, Horse Racing Day and Family Day respectively.

Wednesday will see a variety of events preparatory to the opening of the fair proper on Thursday. Members of the Press from a wide area will be present and the day's activities, from a baby show and agricultural march-past will conclude with the traditional opening ceremony by Dominion Dairy Princess Dianne Gunning. During the evening there will also be pony chariot races.

This year's program promises to be full of the things needed in keeping with the spirit of an expanding and increasingly progressive community.

Detection Difficult

Arthur Bremer, convicted assailant of Alabama Governor George Wallace, heard the prosecution say society must be protected from people like himself, and in reply he said he would like it if it were suggested he should have been protected from himself.

Fair enough, but in the last analysis such people are very difficult to detect. Outwardly they act as normally as the next man, but deep down they are unstable and motivated by dark conflicts that express themselves in extreme acts such as the attempted assassination of Wallace.

Bremer's diary showed him to be coldly calculating. He was not so mentally unsound that he did not know what he was doing in following both Presidents Nixon to Canada, failing to get close enough to him, and Wallace during his election campaign in Maryland.

How many Bremers are at large no one knows, but the authorities, not to mention medical men, psychologists and social workers, should be alert to the signs, in an effort to prevent similar tragedies in the future.

Bremer himself noted the ease with which he was able to bring two guns with him to Canada. Border checkups on this kind of thing should be tightened as a result.

Minimum Wage to Go Up in Ontario

BY DON O'HEARN
From The Intelligencer's Queen's park Bureau

Ontario's minimum wage will be going up.

The present minimum is $1.65 an hour (with certain exceptions for students and agricultural workers).

The federal government's minimum has been $1.75. This applies to federally-chartered industries such as communications.

Ottawa has now announced that its rate will be boosted to $1.90 Oct. 1.

The province will be following, in fact, Labor Minister Fernand Guindon reported during the session both the legislation and the rates of minimum standards were being revised.

It is unlikely, however, that the provincial increase will be put through until late fall or early next year. Actually, the previous minister, Gordon Carton, said there would not be an increase in 1972.

What the new rate will be can only be speculated on. But it is likely to be a shade under the federal minimum.

There are two reasons for thinking this. One is that we have tended to follow a lot behind the national rate. The second is that few personal service industries are affected by the federal minimum. And these industries, particularly resorts and restaurants and the bootstalling field generally, are the tender spot in the provincial field.

They tend to operate close to the minimum, and with labor usually their most significant cost, increases in the rate can or could put borderline operations out of business.

The government has to keep this much in mind when considering rate of standards. And because of this, it tends to keep the standard lower than it otherwise might be.

No matter what the increase in the standard may be it can be taken for certain that labor leadership and the NDP in the legislature won't be happy with it.

To them the minimum could never be high enough.

In this, however, they disregard the fact that this is a "minimum" that is set. Either that, or don't recognize as a fact that some occupations must, for economic reasons alone, pay less than others.

The restaurant and resort industries, for example, are so sensitive that when the last increase was put through in 1970 (from $1.30 to $1.65) it was applied to them in two stages.

It was felt that if this wasn't done, some businesses, and perhaps a good many, might go on the rocks.

The Archbarton-Webster Trophy was signed at Washington 130 years ago today — in 1842 — to settle outstanding difference between Canada and the United States.

The treaty was negotiated by Lord Ashburton and Daniel Webster and settled, among other things, disputes on boundaries between the two neighbors. Although the treaty was not popular in Canada, the U.S. or Britain, it served as a compromise.

Hospital Costs Continue To Climb in Province

Brockville Recorder and Times

Ontario Health Minister Porter is tightening the financial screw on hospitals but he's not doing everything he could to help them out of their financial bind.

The Ontario Hospital Association, told by Dr. Potter his hospitals must limit their budget increases for next year to eight percent, has warned that $75 millions extra will be required to operate the hospitals at their present level. Ontario's hospitals are costing the taxpayers, through hospital insurance, about $900 million this year and the forecast for next year of a need for $975 millions doesn't include any new programs, an increase in admissions or the cost of teaching programs.

The squeeze was started this year when the department of health put a seven percent ceiling on budget increases for hospitals. It's not likely that one hospital was able to meet the ceiling without cutting services. Most sought additional funds and are still negotiating with the province for more money.

It isn't that Dr. Potter isn't aware of the bind the hospitals are in. He has attempts to cure the ill with half measures and a weak-kneed approach to the solution.

Studies have shown that 70 percent of the total operating budget of a hospital is made up of salaries. Nursing costs for next year are expected to go up eight percent and other non-professional salaries are likely to rise 8.5 percent. And some hospitals have a yearly increase of 10 percent coming due as part of a two year contract with their nurses. But these are costs that are cohatant once a contract is settled. What isn't constant is the number of patients a hospital will care for in a year. This depends on the people, their health and their doctors.

Dr. Potter grasped this point when he said too many hospital beds are being used by patients who could be cared for in the city's nursing homes. He also criticized doctors for abusing the health plan by overusing and encouraging patients to take unnecessary tests. He also criticized the public for consulting doctors and hospital clinics unnecessarily.

There is no doubt that millions of dollars could be put to better hospital budgets if doctors could reduce patient stay in hospital by one day. Provincial average is 10.2 days. To our knowledge local hospitals have not been able to reach this average and the reason was touched upon by Dr. Potter. He said many patients in hospitals should be in nursing homes, where the cost is less than $15 a day as compared with $60 a day in hospital. But there isn't the nursing home in Brockville and there's a shortage of beds in Leeds and Grenville.

LOOKING BACKWARD

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FILES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

Thomas J. Flurey of Pine St. has received notification from the Department of Trade and Commerce of his appointment as district inspector of Weights and Measures for the Belleville district. Mr. Flurey has been an inspector of Weights and Measures for the past 25 years and is well known in Belleville and district.

Evidence of the possible existence of a tote road infested with red cedar timber which either followed the present course of Front St. or crossed Front St. near the present site of the Dominion Bank, was made apparent this week as members of the public works department excavated, preparatory to laying a water line.

The man with highest seniority on the local police force celebrated the 22nd anniversary of his arrival in Canada from England on Thursday. It was 22 years ago that William T. Evans, veteran of the First World War, landed at Quebec and later came to Trenton, After remaining in Trenton for 3 months, he came to Belleville and joined the local force.

Stationed at No. 5 Initial Training School here, tanned Canadian youngsters, many of whom had never set foot on a farm before, went out to assist the national agricultural production, and thanks to the voluntary efforts of these 'flyers in the making', literally hundreds of tons of hay have been harvested and placed in barns or stacks at the district.

Women of Belleville district, ever on the alert to lend a hand to the rescue of the Red Cross emergency appeals, rallied, as could these ladies, to a lesson summer and attacked the very great task of fulfilling the quota of 4,000 sheets and 1,000 pillow cases. Both pillow cases have been shipped, and yesterday 1,000 sheets were packed for shipment. Another call after the request came from the Red Cross headquarters.

Investment In People

Editor,
The Intelligencer,

Because I was connected with the Opportunity program this summer and was present when Prime Minister Trudeau greeted over 450 underprivileged youngsters in Ottawa, a recent article by Richard Jackson has come to my attention.

I can certainly endorse Mr. Jackson's remarks about the image harm of Mr. Trudeau — in the simplest terms, the kids loved him. I would like to add some comments, however, on the rest of the article which talks about the "darker side" of the present administration.

What this government is aware of, and what most of the Canadian population is still in the dark about, is that we are no longer living in a lot cabin culture, where a man's success and the welfare of his family is directly related to hard work. In an area like Belleville, indeed most of Ontario, it is almost funny to hear people talk about welfare handouts — when almost every wealthy "established" family owes its riches to "welfare" grants of land, timber rights or manufacturing monopolies granted to their forefathers. Does anyone think it was "hard work" that made 160 acres of farm land on the fringes of Ottawa or Toronto, or indeed Belleville, worth millions in 1972?

In the area of sexual offenders, the majority is made up of pathetic inadequate creatures who have been denied the opportunity to reach sexual maturity, or whose traumatic childhood experiences (read any psychology text book) left a mental cripple. We cree's our society, and if it is full of misfits and people with twisted minds, we must look to the source, not continue to decriminalize the evil product. Do you think it is accidental that recreational and treatment facilities are from non-existent to poor, that most families, that over 50 percent of the population have no recreational

British Victims of Violent Crime to Get Compensation

LONDON (AP) — Seven years ago British officials, welfare societies and the police decided something had to be done for victims of violent crime.

They asked: How about the innocent person, perhaps maimed for life, unable to get a job again or to walk or even see?

Out of the discussions grew a compensation program put to Parliament only as a white paper.

This meant the program would be carried out experimentally until it could prove its worth.

The proof now has been established, says the home office. Therefore experts are drafting legislation to put a full-scale legal umbrella over the scheme, the only national program of its kind.

For seven years office reports 25,000 claims disposed of, with almost $20 million awarded. The average is about $940 but some awards have ben large.

A 28-year-old man beaten by two intruders was given $56,000 because he was destined to spend the rest of his life in a wheel chair.

Anna Korhonen, a Finish girl, was awarded $34,000 because of disfigurement, pain and extended hospital treatment. She and her escort found a package in a movie and started to deliver it to police. It exploded. Police suspected it was dynamite left by a terrorist.

Not everyone who is attacked claims compensation. Rev. John Byrne, 62, struck 25 times by an intruder, said in a sermon, "I forgive this man."

Applications are running about 1,000 a year. The criminal injuries compensation board, made up of legal experts, has 70 employees.

All seven board members donate their time. They handle individual cases with a single decision at times. If there are doubts, three men take over.

David H. Harrison, secretary of the board, says administrative costs average about $55 a case.

Police and inquiries by welfare organizations account for the basic homework. Those who apply and win awards are anonymous except in unusual cases which have attracted publicity.

The board's job is to assess and decide, make sure through the police that someone has been convicted, and that no fraud is involved.

Attempts to defraud are few, Harrison says.

There are growing demands to penalize the culprit in violent crime more than just by trial, conviction and prison. Justice Sir Frederick Lawton of the High Court suggests that young criminals go to work camps, do three months' army basic training, and then be given productive jobs if only to clear industrial debris.

They should be paid the going wage, he says, with most of the money going to crime victims and to help support their own families. In free time, they could go home.

The Society of Conservative Lawyers proposes that criminals be enabled to earn pardons by working to compensate victims.

Some of these ideas may be aired when Parliament receives the proposals for legislation to make the compensation board's work a legally firm thing.

More than one-third of the applicants are injured during their work. Police lead this list, followed by barmen, shopkeepers, watchmen and security guards.

Of the offenders, 70 per cent are convicted and 25 per cent never are traced. The remainder are either acquitted or not charged for lack of evidence.

Brothers Keep Money Up North

YELLOWKNIFE, N.W.T. (CP) — Helicopters are becoming commonplace in Canada's North as the search for resources increases.

Two brothers launched the first northern-based helicopter firm recently and within weeks a second company opened up.

Bob and Frank O'Connor of this territorial capital have been flying in the North since the late 1930s and they say too much money is going south when it should stay where it belongs—in the north country.

Bob, 33, president of the outfit, said in an interview that a "tremendous amount of money is being spent to develop the North, but too many cheques go from one side of Calgary to the other."

Much of the prospecting in the area is done by firms in southern Canada who hire southern companies to fly them around.

However, the brothers decided that they'd do their little bit to stop that despite facing some tough obstacles.

It costs $150 an hour to charter a helicopter while fixed-wing aircraft go for half that amount. Nevertheless, Bob said helicopters have certain advantages that offset the higher cost: They can take off and land in tight spots, land on rock, muskeg, ice, snow and water and travel at slow speeds at low altitudes. That made it ideal for a team of geologists looking over a rock outcrop.

Bob stresses that the firm is not competing against fixed-wing aircraft and is not trying to keep southern companies out.

"We just want some of the business to go to northern companies," he says.

Aero Arctic owns one Bell helicopter worth $50,000 and will concentrate on charters in the Arctic islands and Greenland.

Bob says the ideal operation would see a base camp established and serviced by fixed-wing aircraft and a helicopter would be used to fly prospectors and scientists on exploratory jaunts within a 100-mile radius of the camp.

The helicopter carries a pilot and two passengers and can lift 800 pounds of equipment.

Although business is slow now, Bob says this was expected and he's optimistic things will pick up as exploratory operations open up in the northern islands.

African Insects Studied

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — A Nairobi laboratory plotting warfare against insect pests has some ancient weapons in its arsenal—a flyswitter and a water-filled moat.

The moat is four inches wide. It runs around the building to keep crawling insects outside. The plastic switter perches on a desk inside, waiting for a researcher's hard to wield it in anger.

"We can't use insecticides on the flies and mosquitoes and moths that stray into the laboratory," explains Thomas R. Odhiambo, director of the International Centre of Insect Physiology and Ecology. "We could never be sure that they hadn't affected an experiment."

The experiments could be crucial in the struggle to feed tropical Africa. Crops grow fast but the insects that eat them seem to grow faster. Large populations are subject to insect-borne diseases.

The laboratory houses an entomologist's rogue's gallery—yellow fever mosquitoes, omnivorous army worms, and tsetse flies, which spread a sleeping sickness among humans and livestock. This disease hit herd and dairy cattle from afrird of the African continent.

The centre also plans projects with termites and fever-producing soft ticks.

The centre's barnicks-style headquarters was debated at the University of Nairobi a few months ago.

A non-profit corporation was formed to run the centre and donations came fom foundations.

"It's the only institution in the world set up solely to study ways to control insects," Odhiambo says. "And it represents an international effort by the world scientific community to train African scientists to solve problems crucial to Africa."

Odhiambo, 40, is a Kenyan who has two graduate degrees in insect physiology from Cambridge University.

Goals are clear but ways to reach them are uncertain.

"Insecticides are beyond not to be the complete answer," says Odhiambo. We are interested in the alternatives—using chemicals, hormones or genetic manipulation.

"For example, most termites are blind and depend on their sense of smell, fin we chemically interfere inthat? Or could we apply hormones, perhaps in an aerial spray, to upset insect reproductive cycles?

"Or could, newbreed and re-Kase millions ofinsect mutants that would mat normally but produce sterile rogeny, as the horse and donky produce the mule?"

The centre is building up a stock of the tsetse flies to destroy. Amon tempting research paths, Ohiambo says, are the use of orange rinds of track army worms and the possibility of infusing abortions in tsetse flies.

Ann Landers

Ex-lover Blackmails Her

Dear Ann Landers: Three years ago I wrote to you because my husband was having an affair. I took your advice and let it wear itself out. He came back on his knees. You made a big difference in my life. I am ashamed to tell you what I am writing about this time.

Ten months ago I became involved with my best friend's husband. We had known each other for 12 years and it never entered my head that this men could set me on fire. I don't know to this day how it happened, but it did.

Three weeks ago I decided I didn't want to see him anymore, but he won't let me alone. The idiot wants to marry me. I told him it is out of the question. There are six children involved. He keeps threatening to tell my husband, thinking I'll get thrown out, and then I'll have to marry him. I don't believe my husband would actually do it, but I'm not sure.

I am going crazy, Ann. Tell me what to do. And no lectures, please. I have already called myself every name in the book. Disgusted With Me.

Dear Dis: Your ex-lover is blackmailing you. This leaves only one alternative. Tell your husband about the affair at once. Now it's his turn to forgive. I'm betting he will. Write and let me know if I'm right.

Dear Ann Landers: In a recent column you advised women to guard against sunstruck hair by wearing shoulder stray bags rather than the type that has a handle which they tend to dangle on a couple of fingers. May I caution your readers against the slick purse thief who carries a scissors and snips the shoulder strap, grabs the bag and runs before the lady knows about it. This happened both to me and to a friend of mine within the week. Furious In Fanieria.

Dear Furious: Thanks for the tipoff. The best defence against strap-snippers is to keep your money and credit cards in a small wallet or coin purse in an inside pocket, and pin the pocket shut. If he gets your handkerchief, and halibrush so what?

Dear Ann Landers: I have never read anything anywhere about people who charge merchandise at small, family-owned stores and take their own sweet time paying for it. We own a modest retail establishment. Some of our overdue accounts go as far back as four months. We don't dare refuse credit for fear the customers will stop trading with us and then we'd never get paid.

Why don't people understand that storekeepers must pay for their merchandise and the money had better be on the line by the 10th of the month. If it is late we get slapped with a service fee. Many larger businesses tack on a carrying charge for bills not paid within 30 days. Small merchants must rely on the integrity of their customers. I wish I knew what makes people behave in such an irresponsible manner. Please explain it, when and if you print my letter. - Small Town Merchant.

Dear S.T.M.: It's an old story —beer income and champagne appetite, the basis for status. "Things are in the saddle and they ride mankind."

There are no easy answers for small business. One solution is "cash on the barrelhead. This would undoubtedly mean fewer sales, but whatever was sold would be profit. Another way is to make a connection with one of the basic credit card plans. They pay you cash (for a fee, of course) and take over the problems of collecting from the deadbeats.

Quality Fruit for Flavor

Ontario's garden climate brings consumers a tempting variety of summer fruits. Look for top quality fruits—firm, ripe, well-colored, without bruises or blemishes — for the best mouth-watering flavor. Freshness is the key to their enjoyment. Shop often for small amounts that can be used while freshness lasts. Handle it carefully, and store under optimum conditions to retain its fresh ripe flavor. Any slightly immature fruits can be brought to full ripeness at room temperature out of direct sunlight. Refrigerate the ripened fruit in your crisper. (Muskmelons and apples store well in cool room temperature or cool basements.) Buy fruits at the peak of their season for easy on the budget prices.

As a fresh dessert or snack, fruits fit the summer way of life. Little preparation is needed — just wash, peel, and eat. The cool flavor is always refreshing!

Arrange a combination of Ontario fresh fruits on a platter, serving dish, or tiered cake server. Select a variety with complementary flavors and colors, and cut into interesting, easily distinguished pieces. Choose whole or halved strawberries, watermelon and muskmelon balls, wedges of peaches and pears, sliced or chopped apple, whole cherries with stems, blueberries, raspberries, halved plums, seeded grapes. Prevent darkening of light-colored peaches, pears and apples by dipping the sliced or cubed fruit in lemon juice. It's as good as it looks!

A smooth creamy dressing served in the hollow melon half makes a hit as a dipping sauce. Provide each person with fondue forks or picks for dipping, or serve the fruit platter to each and pass the fruit dressing. For a dressing, try:

SHERRY DRESSING

1 egg, lightly beaten
¼ cup sugar
¼ cup sherry
Dash salt
2 tsps. butter
Juice of ½ orange
Juice of ½ lemon
½ cup whipping cream whipped

Combine all ingredients except whipping cream in the top of a double boiler. Stir over boiling water until thick. Chill. Fold in whipped cream just before serving.

Should Be Tender

Choose spinach with fresh tender leaves, with no signs of wilting or bruising.

Club Activities

ELMBROOK FRIENDSHIP CIRCLE

The August meeting of the Elmbrook Friendship Circle was held at the home of Mrs. Arnold Ackerman with an excellent attendance. President Mrs. Hower Norton presided over the business portion of the meeting. The minutes of the previous meeting were read by the secretary, Mrs. Orval May; and the treasurer's report given by Mrs. Arthur Stone. A thank-you card was read from Walter Snow for a remembrance during a recent illness; get-well cards were sent to people ill in the community, also a fruit basket.

The meeting was then turned over to Mrs. Reg. Moore, who had the Roll Call. The Scripture reading was given; also a reading by Mrs. Howard Norton. Mrs. Orval May gave a reading.

An amusing contest conducted by Mrs. Gerald Norton pertaining to items found in a cupboard drawer was won by Mrs. Howard Norton.

The next meeting will be held on October 4, at the Picton home of Mrs. Reg. Moore, with the hostess having the lunch, Mrs. Howard Norton the devotional, and Mrs. Orval May the contest.

Mirror of Your Mind
by JOHN CONNELL

Does a job make a wife happier?

IT can, if she is fed up with the everyday chores of keeping house, but not with the marriage itself. Sometimes, though, a working wife finds she must continually reassure herself how happy she is not being tied down to "those unrewarding chores." If that is the case, such a wife might merely be shifting the main focus of her trouble. Perhaps she and her husband have lost the will to make their marriage interesting.

Can anybody become a loafer?

NO; and it is a lot more than just not having the temperament for taking it easy all the time. Many individuals have to be doing something attractive. They have the energy and the desire to keep busy. Some people, of course, are the opposite; they love to loaf. Then there are the "in-between" the ones who believe they would like to live the lazy life, but are afraid of feeling guilty if they give in to the urge.

Are teenagers too idealistic?

NO; If anything, young people approaching adulthood may not be idealistic enough. In their strivings for perfection, teenagers don't always realize how wispy are the foundations of their ideals. As full of vigor and eagerness as they are, the young people are tripped up when they run into their first experience with the failings of adults. The teenagers may then belittle themselves for not being able to hold onto their ideals longer.

Moving Needs Scrutiny

Moving is a big expenditure and is a consumer service that needs scrutiny. Seventy per cent of all household moves take place between June 15 and Sept. 15, with peak periods the first and last days of the month. This poses a special problem in apartment buildings where elevators cannot cope with the traffic. So try to plan well ahead and make your arrangements as soon as possible.

There are several different ways of moving. First, there's the inexpensive do-it-yourself type, using a rented truck. You provide the drivers and helpers and do your own packing. This probably is the most cheaper, but when you are inexperienced, you stand a chance of damaging your possessions.

Moving by rail can also be less expensive than using a moving company, but becomes a big headache for you must crate and pack every thing to railroad specifications. A shipment by rail can take over twice as long to reach the destination and goods may be handled as many as three times, which can result in damage to the contents.

Moving van firms may be large or small, independent or affiliated with, or franchised by, the large van line organizations. Movers are classified in two ways — "local — where rates are charged by the hour, or "long distance" where rates are charged on a per hundred pounds weight per distance traveled.

If your move is a long distance one, investigate the destination agent as well as the firm you are considering for your move, because it may be an entirely different company. Also be sure to get the complete name, address and telephone number of both the carrier and destination agent. Be sure the carrier knows how and where you can be reached at all times until the shipment is delivered.

Ensure handling arrangements are such that you will have a certified cheque, money order or travellers cheque at your destination to pay the carrier. Some of the companies are adopting a time payment plan but check to be sure.

On delivery day, you or your authorized agent must be on hand with the house key when the movers arrive. Supervise the unloading and indicate where articles and containers are to be placed. The carrier is only required to do this once. If there is more than one storey, the right decision can save back-wrenching work later. Packing materials must be removed by the carrier.

You will have to sign the inventory sheets at the end of the unloading. When you sign the inventory, write on it, "subject to hidden damage" after having first noted any visible damage or loss on the sheets in writing. Your notations do not constitute a claim but are merely a record of fact. The mover can deny a claim if damage or loss is not noted at the time of delivery. As soon as you have assessed loss or damage in detail, notify the carrier in writing so that the proper forms can be forwarded to you and returned promptly.

If there is a move in your future and you are interested in receiving CAC's complete Buying Guide, "Don't Make a Move!" send 24 cents to the Consumers Association of Canada, 100 Gloucester Street, Ottawa, Ontario, K2P 0A4

Dispute Over Chinese Atlas

MOSOW (AP) — The Soviet Union and China are feuding publicly again over their border in Asia.

Publication in Peking of a new Chinese world atlas opened the latest round in the dispute that has its origins centuries ago, when czars and emperors ruled the two countries.

"The authors of this geographical study," the Soviet government newspaper Izvestia said Monday night, "are trying to justify the territorial claims of the Chinese leadership to 1½ million square kilometres of age-old Soviet territory." This equals 579,000 square miles.

The lengthy article was called Geography, Maoist Style. In 1963, as Chinese-Soviet relations rapidly disintegrated, der which Russia recovered the China alred a vague claim to territory the same amount of land in Siberia and the Soviet Far East.

The Chinese argued that the lands had been taken by treaties imposed unfairly on the weak imperial Chinese government in the 19th century.

The Soviet claim is based on physical possession of the area as well as Russian exploration and settlement of the eastern reaches of Siberia in the early 17th century and their formal annexation in 1689.

Russia ceded the territory back to China in 1600 and 1728. But Moscow contends these treaties were "unequal and unfair," the same charge China raises against the 19th century Aygun and Peking treaties un-

Two Methods Of Preparing Pea Beans

Ontario dry white pea beans are usually sold in 1 and 2 pound packages. One pound of dry beans measures 3¼ to 2 1-3 cups dry, and yields about 5 cups cooked beans. One cup of dry beans yields 2 to 3¼ cups cooked.

Dry beans require soaking and pre-cooking before they are used in recipes. If no other instructions are given in your recipe, use 6 cups of water to soak each 2 cups of dry beans.

Soda should not be used, since it contributes to the loss of valuable B vitamins from beans and tends to cause beans to become too soft and mushy. Proper soaking and precooking eliminates the need for soda.

Whenever possible, use the soaking water as part of the liquid in your recipe, as it contains valuable vitamins and minerals.

Either the quick-soak or the overnight method may be used to soak white beans.

Tests of both soaking methods indicate that the quick-soak method is preferable to the overnight method due to the greatly decreased soaking time, and the fact that it tends to give a more tender finished product in a shorter baking time.

Quick-Soak — Place 2 cups of beans and 6 cups of water in saucepan; cover. Bring to boil; boil 2 minutes. Remove from heat and let stand 1 hour.

Overnight — Place 2 cups of beans and 6 cups of water in a saucepan; cover. Let stand overnight in the refrigerator. PRECOOKING

No matter which soaking method is used, beans require precooking to tenderize them before they are used in a recipe. For recipes that require a lengthy cooking time, such as oven baked beans, simmer soaked beans for 40 minutes.

For recipes that require little or no additional cooking, such as a salad or relish, simmer beans for 1 hour, or until tender. After soaking:

To help avoid foaming when cooking beans, add 1 tablespoon of oil to the cooking water.

Children's Books Shortage Prompts Requests

By DORIS CLARK

To "Dear Doris", has come the following:

I would be most interested in the Children's Story books. I am a school teacher and could make good use of them. Teacher.

Our community is starting up a museum in their country school house and I think the story books would be very fitting. — Mrs. I. Y.

My girls treasure story books and are always reading as we live in the country, and they lost all their toys in a house fire two years ago. — Mrs. C. S.

About the old story books, would you be kind enough to forward this dear person's address. — Mrs. H. L.

I have a young daughter and I'm sure she would cherish the books. — Mrs. L. S.

I have eight grandchildren and read to them a lot. Mrs. S. K.

I have a small collection of old books already. I intend to display these books in some special way as soon as I can get my dad to help me build some shelves. I have just turned 16 and I am most interested in this kind of thing. — B.Z.

Dear Lovers of Children's Books: These requests and many others suggest that there is a lack of children's books, or that they are too expensive, or that we are not making enough use of all the wonderful - public libraries across the country.

Since there was only one set of books to be given away, my best suggestion to you who have written, is that you talk with your public librarian about literature that will make good reading for children. And the next time you write to me, enclose the stamped, self-addressed envelope for a private reply. I cannot always use column space for this.

Dear Doris: Some of your advice to others has helped me see some of my own problems in a different light and if I wasn't always able to solve them, I at least understood them better.

I am enclosing 20 cents for your pamphlet "Facing Forty". If the advice in it is as good as the advice usually is in your column, it should help me during the next eight to 10 years. — Problems, Problems!

Dear Problems: "Facing Forty" was written in consultation with an outstanding medical specialist who has been helping women through difficult years for a good long time.

Fits of depression, irritation over what seems to bejust nothing at all, the lack of energy or just too much restlessness — these things puzzle a woman, worry her husband and make her children tence.

Today there are hormones which can help most women over some of the rough times and I would suggest you ask your doctor about them. My pamphlet is on its way.

* * *

SLICK TRICK

* Make snapshots of wallside observations, especially if they're unusual. Views of treasures in good condition can guide restoration if they are damaged, or prove extent of damage. Snaps also help in a search for lost and stolen valuables.

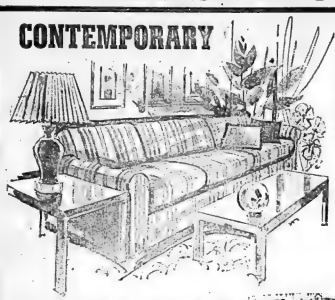
Ontario Bean Bake

6 slices bacon
2 medium onions, chopped
1 medium green pepper, chopped
1 cup cooked ham, chopped
2 cans (10 ounces each) tomato soup
2 cans (19 ounces each) beans with pork
2 tablespoons brown sugar
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
salt and pepper to taste

Fry bacon until crisp; remove from pan, drain and crumble. In bacon drippings, saute onion and pepper until tender. Combine bacon and all remaining ingredients with onion - pepper mixture. Turn into a 2-quart casserole. Bake at 350 degrees, uncovered, for 40 minutes. Makes 6 servings.

Chili Beans

1 cup dry white pea beans
3 cups water
1 pound ground beef
½ cup chopped onion
1 cup tomato juice or canned tomatoes
2 cups (10 ounces each) tomato soup
1 cup chili sauce
1 to 2 tablespoons chili powder (to taste)
1 teaspoon salt
1 small bay leaf
4 whole cloves
1-8 teaspoon pepper



Place beans and water in saucepan; cover. Bring to boil; boil 2 minutes. Remove from heat and let stand, covered, for 1 hour. Return to boil; reduce heat to simmer. Simmer, covered, for 1 hour. Drain beans, reserving liquid.

Brown beef and onion, stirring constantly; add beans. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly for 5 minutes. Add remaining ingredients. Cover. Simmer 15 to 20 minutes. If necessary, add additional tomato juice, canned tomatoes, or reserved bean liquid to give desired consistency. Makes 6 servings.

Consumer's Bulletin Reveals Price Gimmick

OTTAWA (CP) — "Don't be a loser in today's supermarket word game," advises Consumer Contact, consumer affairs department bulletin.

Many a so-called discount prices at supermarkets are just a gimmick to attract new customers, not the special deals they appear to be, says the monthly shopper's guide.

For the last two years, more of the supermarket chains have intensified competition for the family food dollar by switching to discount pricing couched in a new vocabulary of "slick superlatives and super-superlatives," says the guide.

Big bright signs plastered on supermarket windows and walls advertise their "new, low" prices and often claim to be the lowest in town.

"But is it really possible for just about every big grocery store around to have prices that are lower than everyone else's?" asks Consumer Contact.

It says the store that initiated discounting cut prices in hopes of winning over larger numbers of customers from competing outlets, making up for initial profit reductions with higher volumes. But as more and more chains lumped on the discount bandwagon, fewer customers remained to be won over and hoped-for higher sales volumes tended to become spread more thinly among the discounters.

As each store starts discounting it has comparatively lower prices for a short while, says Consumer Contact. But the shopper wishing to save would have a hard time keeping up with the day-to-day changes of where the best overall bargains are.

With 7,000 different products and package sizes on the supermarket shelves, chances are that while soup is cheaper at one store, bread is a better buy at the next.

Consumer Contact suggests the thrifty shopper should compile a list of about 15 favorite brand name packaged food products, taking care to avoid "house brands" sold in only one chain.

Purchase the identical list in three competing "discount" supermarkets on the same day, deleting those items sold at special or temporarily low prices, counsels Consumer Contact.

The survey will indicate which store can be purchased at lower prices at which store, but should be repeated frequently to maintain accuracy as the price war continues.

The guide also warns that "discount" prices are often as high as and sometimes higher than the average supermarket prices.

There are indications that the supermarket chains are suffering from this practice.

U.S. news reports, describe discounting as a losing proposition for stores competing in the battle initiated last year with the A and P's effort to "recover lonely" by converting its 4,000 stores to discount units.

Most of the other leading supermarket chains quickly followed suit and the result has been widespread loss.

Ontario Heads White Pea Production

Commercial production of white pea beans first began in Ontario in 1840. Since that time, white beans have become a major industry in Ontario, and this province now produces about 75 per cent of the nation's crop of white pea beans. This involves some 3,000 growers, located primarily in Southwestern Ontario, who annually produce well over 110 million pounds of beans, with a cash value of $15 million.

About 80 to 85 percent of Ontario's white bean crop is dressed up with a variety of other foods and popped into cans, ready to heat and eat year round. Traditionally, white beans either with or without pork, have been packed in tomato or molasses-based sauces, but new recipes featuring different sauces and spice combinations are constantly appearing on the market. The remaining 15 to 20 percent of the crop is packaged and sold as dry white pea beans, ready to use in any number of favorite recipes.

Ontario has also become a foremost world exporter of white beans. The British Isles the Scandinavian countries, and Australia are just some of the world nations that enjoy white beans from Ontario.

Tasty Summer Beet Recipe

Honeyglow Beets
1 tablespoon minced onion
2 tablespoons butter
1 teaspoon lemon rind
1 cup grapefruit juice
3 tablespoons honey
2 tablespoons lemon juice
salt and pepper to taste
2 cans (14 oz) sliced beets, drained
2 tablespoons water
2 tablespoons cornstarch

Saute onion in butter until golden. Add lemon rind, grapefruit juice, honey, lemon juice and seasonings. Bring to boil, stirring occasionally. Add well-drained beets.

Stir cornstarch into water; add to beets, stirring continuously until liquid comes to a boil and is thick and clear. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Federal Experts Favored Expansion

TORONTO (CP) — Documents released Tuesday by the federal transport department show that Transport Minister Donald Jamieson supported a Toronto planner over his own experts in deciding against a plan to expand the present Toronto International Airport at Malton.

The documents were among a collection of 200 turned over to counsel for the People or Planes Committee, a group opposed to proposals to build a second airport in Pickering Township northeast of Toronto.

The documents were accompanied by an unsigned summary which the federal department said "places many of the documents in their proper perspective."

It criticizes the government planners' report which appears to support the citizens' group. The contention that Malton can serve expected air needs.

The report, by the Toronto airport planning team, contends that Malton can serve the area's air traffic needs to the year 2000 without further land acquisition.

The federal summary of documents indicates that receipt of the report prompted Mr. Jamieson to order an outside report from a Toronto planner.

Hans Blumenfeld, a Toronto planning consultant, said the government planning team had grossly underestimated social costs of expanding Malton.

The summary says that as a result of the Blumenfeld paper, the planning team produced a report omitting all reference to a Malton expansion.

Blighted Potatoes May Cause Defects

BAR HARBOR, Me. (AP) — A British scientist said Tuesday that the curing of blighted potatoes during the first month of pregnancy may be associated with the incidence of two severe birth defects.

However, Dr. J. H. Renwick of the London School of Hygiene and Tropical Medicine said that his theory is based so far on comparisons of blight incidence and the incidence of the defects. He said some laboratory animal evidence may be forthcoming.

He spoke at a course in medical genetics conducted at Johns Hopkins University at the laboratory here.

Dr. Renwick, discussing his theory with reporters, said blighted potatoes contain chemicals that could lead to birth defects known as spina bifida and anencephaly. The potato blight appears as a blackish-brownish blemish seen after peeling, if it is not already visible on the outside.

Infants with anencephaly are born without the top of the head and the defect is always fatal. Those with spina bifida are born with an open spine and while some can be kept alive, they are grossly malformed.

Syndicate Loan Operator Slain

CHICAGO (Reuter) — A gunman was witnessed by at least five persons.

Fidanzi, who served two years in jail for income tax evasion before being paroled last October, was infected by a federal grand jury in February along with 18 other men on mail fraud charges involving $1 million.

The gunman walked to the office, opened the door and opened fire at Fidenzi with a .22-calibre automatic pistol.

Fidanzi staggered into a washroom and attempted to lock the door but the gunman kicked it open, drew another pistol and shot Fidanzi twice more in the head. The killer then left as calmly as he had entered.

Police said they were working on the theory that syndicate leaders wanted to silence Fidanzi, whom they feared might be about to turn "stool pigeon."

Six Persons Are Missing After Catamaran Wrecked

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Six persons, including five members of a Florida family, are missing and feared dead after discovery of the wreckage of a home-made catamaran they planned to sail around the world, the U.S. Coast Guard said Tuesday.

The coast guard said Kim Powell, his wife Jo-Ann, 45, their children, Ann, 20, James, 12, Gina, 8, and a friend Debbie Gorden, 23, all of Titusville, set sail June 1 on a round the world trip they planned would last five years.

Powell, 28, was an ardent sailing enthusiast who twice before gave up jobs to sail to faraway ports. He began building the Tupai Nui four years ago while working at the Kennedy Space Centre as a launch director for Bendix Corp.

In a letter to Today news paper in Cocoa dated June 30, Powell wrote: "Dear old Mother Nature can be rough. Our 50-foot cat was tossed about like a hobby boat, rudder gone, stressed and visible rack ines that had us wondering if she could take it."

A Honduran fishing boat spotted the wreckage of the catamaran July 19 but failed to immediately notify officials, the coast guard said.

"It was not until Aug. 3 when the six were reported overdue in Panama City and we found out about the wreckage that the search began," the coast guard spokesman added.

Protest Leaders Seek Recruits

MIAMI BEACH (AP) — Protest leaders are trying to recruit demonstrators for the Republican national convention with an illustrated guidebook calling for "non-violent civil disobedience" and warning participants to be prepared for mass arrests.

The Manual for the Republican Convention distributed Tuesday by five protest groups said the goal of demonstrations during the Aug. 21-24 convention "is to isolate and defeat Richard Milhous Nixon."

Sold Stock

VANCOUVER (CP) — A man suspected of breaking into a city delicatessen with another man and selling its stock at bargain prices to overjoyed customers has been charged with breaking and entering and attempted theft.

When police arrived, they found the rear door of the delicatessen had been forced open and part of the store's stock missing.

Later, proprietor Karl Grohs, who opened the new store for business Friday, learned that two men had opened his shop about 2:30 a.m. and sold about $300 worth of stock to customers until they "closed" around 8:30 a.m.

Want Man Aided

TORONTO (CP) — The Canadian Civil Liberties Association has asked the provincial government to appoint legal counsel to assist a convicted United States murderer to fight deportation proceedings against him.

Alan Borovoy, general counsel for the association, said in an interview Tuesday the provincial government's legal aid plan refused the original application made by Black Panther member Edwin Brockton Hogan, 31.

Hogan, who was serving a life term in Ohio's state penitentiar for murder, came to Canada last June after escaping custod.

police on the charge because of his community organizing on behalf of the Black Panthers.

Copy Art

TORONTO (CP) — Plaster replicas of Eskimo soapstone carvings are being mass produced by a Toronto firm and sold for a maximum price of $3.98.

David Abbott, president of Abbott of England, a Canadian import firm which has expanded into manufacturing, said Tuesday soapstone molds are carved by the company's sculptors, none of whom are Eskimos.

He said none of the company profits go to the Eskimos.

Jumped Boat

SUTTON, Ont. (CP) — John Kapy, 41, of Toronto was rescued Monday with the assistance of a boat after a motorboat flew over the top of a cruiser in Lake Simcoe, cutting off the cruiser's cabin. Police said the cabin cruiser with four persons aboard was about half a mile from shore near Sutton, 45 miles north of Toronto, when a motorboat approached and went right over the top. One of the passengers suffered minor cuts.

Declines Post

TORONTO (CP) — Peter Hunter, president of McConnell Advertising Ltd. of Toronto, says he will not accept the presidency of the Institute of Canadian Advertising because of his views on maintaining a Canadian advertising industry independent of United States control.

Draw Expected

— Bobby Fischer and Boris Spassky were expected to end the 12th game of their world chess championship match in a draw after resuming the adjourned game this afternoon.

Fischer had two bishops against Spassky's bishop and knight. Each player had an extra pawn his queen, king, one rook and five pawns.

Ease Controls

WASHINGTON (Reuter) — The Senate voted Tuesday to curb United States gun-control legislation by exempting gun dealers from keeping records of sales of .22-calibre ammunition.

The move was immediately attacked by Senator Edward Kennedy (Dem., Mass.), who had two brothers assassinated, including then-Senator Robert Kennedy, with a .22-calibre pistol.

Three Union Officials Can Be Prosecuted

OTTAWA (CP) — The Public Service Staff Relations Board will allow prosecution in the courts of three officials of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers who, the federal government alleges, convinced technicians to leave their jobs illegally.

If found guilty, the union officials are subject to a maximum fine of $500 upon summary conviction.

Mosquitos in Ottawa 'Soccerama'

Soccer may not be the major sports concern in Ottawa with football and hockey taking precedent but come Saturday August 12 soccer balls and soccer shorts will have the run of the city.

In connection with the Provincial Summer Games Program, the nation's capital has developed Soccerama, a day long series of parades, presentations and games honoring the soccer program in the city.

Belleville will be well represented in the actual playing portion of the festivities when an all-star cast of players from the mosquito division of the Belleville Minor Soccer Association will battle the best from Ottawa.

Eric Wilkinson of the Supreme Fence club will coach the Belleville representatives, chosen by the coaches of the mosquito league. Tilton Beaumont will manage the club and Lino's Pizza star John O'Neill will accompany the team as trainer. The local boys play their soccer contest against Ottawa at 12:10 p.m. at Lansdowne Park.

Belleville is only one team from a half dozen centres across Ontario to be invited to the Soccerama. The Etobicoke bantams play the day's matches, with Belleville, Scarborough midgets, Ontario Selects seniors, York peewees, and Oshawa Juniors rounding out the day's play.

A bus will be taking the boys to Ottawa leaving the market square at 7:15 a.m. and there is room for spectators. Further information is available from Fred Jones, league secretary (962-8707).

Commercial League Returns To Old, Familiar Pattern

All is well once again with the Commercial Softball League, Rollins Construction, who lost their first game of the season last week continued to bounce back with a vengeance by trouncing Quinte Hotel 4-0, while the Ellis Juniors winners of their first game of the year in last week's play reverted to more familiar role, losing 11-1 to Howard and Robert Printing.

Ted Waite yielded a first-inning single to Hugh Brennan before blanking Quinte the remainder of the route for a one-hit win. He struck out 11 batters and walked five.

Scott Reid allowed his only earned run of the game on Wayne McTaggart's homer to left in the fourth. The Quinte pitcher gave up five hits and two walks while fanning six.

Carl Boonhower had a pair of singles for Rollins with the other rafters going to Ralph Plane, Paul Goodfellow and McTaggart.

	R	H	E
Rollins	010 102 0	4	5
Quinte	000 000 0	1	1

Howard and Robert blasted a total of 13 hits against three Junior pitchers to move within two points of second place. Four runs in the first inning pinned the loss on Dave Norwood who was succeeded by Glenn Carleton and Ron Hill on the Ellis mound.

Bob Ethier and Bob Swan split the Printers' mound chores. They tabe up four hits and one walk, while striking out five.

Pug Kellar collected four hits for the winners with two apiece going to Dwight Bathwell, John Campbell and Rusty Daniels. Terry Meagher singled twice for the Juniors with the other safeties going to Dale Akey and Brian Garapy.

Lenders, Intell Extend Season

The Intelligencer and Belleville Lenders thought they had finished off their regular Industrial Softball League schedule with wins Tuesday night but after a general meeting of the executive last night, they find their season has been stretched by one more game.

The Intell rapped Canadian Tire 12-8 and the Lenders stapled the Independents 9-4 to finish the 22-game regular schedule with identical records atop the division. A standings. The two teams must now repeat in a sudden death play-off contest tonight at Prince of Wales School to decide the pennant winners.

Gerry Genereaux and John Edwards shared the Intel mound duties combining for a one-hitter. The pair fanned five and walked only one. Bill Cooney smashed a homer and Bob Brooks a triple for the Printers big blasts. Ron Post, Eric Emerson and Terry Hindleston added doubles to the winners seven hit attack.

Andy Pruden took the loss for CTC fanning seven and walking two. His third inning single was the only hit for the losers.

Five runs in the third inning propelled the Lenders to their win over the Independents.

Norm Tellock had a double and three singles, Paul Carne two doubles and single and Fred Smith three singles to lead the Lenders. Wayne Casselman gave up 10 hits and struck out seven for the win.

Ken Bertrand, Bob Cassel man and Wally Fournier had two singles each in a losing effort.

The Post Office wrapped up their 1972 season on a winning note nipping Stewart Warner 11-10.

Norm Lockhart hurled four innings of one hit relief to foil the Warnermen. George Johnson had started for the Postiles. Lockhart, added four singles to his pitching performance while Soup Campbell and Harry Reid had two hits each.

Third Win For Squirts

The Belleville Mead Johnson squirts made it three in a row in their OASA zone four playdowns last night by hammering Peterborough 7-1.

The win gave the local boys a one game to nil lead in the second round best of three series. Belleville had stopped Napanee in two straight games in the first round while Peterborough were edging Campbellford two games to one.

Mead's picked up four runs in the top of the first and never looked back. Bob Hedge drove in two of the winners' runs with a double and single while Andy Brasil had two doubles and John Henry and Tim Soule a single each. Soule fired a three hitter for Belleville fanning 13 and walking two.

R. Hewitt and T. Hill each had a triple in support of a trio of Peterborough pitchers.

Second game of the series will be Thursday night at the Alemite. Game time is 7 p.m.

Change for Juniors ?

The Richard Ellis Juniors are hoping for a "brand new ball game" when OASA play begins tonight.

The Juniors, who have won only one game in 23 starts in the Town & Commercial League schedule will be hoping to change that pattern when they face Cobourg in the first game of the OASA Junior "A" playdowns. They will also be looking to avenge an earlier 7-4 exhibition loss at the hands of Cobourg when tonight's game gets under way at 8 p.m. on the Ascmior Field.

Quinte Hotel get their first taste of playdown action Saturday when Kemptville journeys to the Alemite for an 8.30 p.m. meeting in their best - of - three Intermediate "A" series.

Both Sevens Lucky

Seven proved to be the lucky number for both Plane's Concrete and Read as the teams battled to a 7-7 tie in the opening game of the South Hastings baseball semi-finals.

Larry Adams and Ken Abrams combined to handle Plath's pitching duties. They gave up 10 hits and four walks, striking out six batters. Frank Farrell and Larry Coffey gave up seven hits for Read, walking two and setting down five men on strikes.

Carm Milligan had a double and single for Read followed by Gerald Brennan with two singles and Pete Enright, Steve White, Coffey, Farrell, Pat O'Connor and Paul Hanley with one each. Planes hits, all singles, went to John Tweedy, Bob Robb, Brian Coughlan, Abrams, Adams, Howard Meeks and Bill Clapp.

Supreme Fence's Paul D'Anna (right) and National Billiard's Elvis Leonarduzzi put their heads together for a little extra practice last night in preparation for their trip to Otta wa Saturday. Paul and Elvis are two members of an all-star mosquito team from Belleville which will be participating in Ottawa's "Soccerama." Teams from atom to senior will be playing in the day long series of games.

Novices Set Stage For Lacrosse Finals

The Quinte Mall and Dairy Queen novices wrapped up their semi-final Belleville Minor Lacrosse series Tuesday night and now prepare themselves for next Monday's confrontation in the finals.

Quinte Mall slipped past Rollins Construction 5-1 behind the two goal output of Dan Hounslow. Robert Soule, David Little and Barry Deane netted single goals for the winners while Fred Burkhold er tallied the lone Rollins goal.

Jamie Robertson and Joe Belanger fired the only goals in their Dairy Queen Club's 2-0 blanking of Bob's Sports.

In a bantam semi-final contest BCAP staved off elimination with a 6-4 win over Towers Food City.

Bob Sanders and Brian McMahon had two goals apiece for the Flyers with Gerry Reese and Jamie Kennedy adding singles. Rob Prewer had a pair of tallies for Towers with Sterling Wilson and Jim Scanlon potting a pair each.

Bud Gill Appliances also kept alive in the bantam playoffs by battling Bob's Sport to a 3-3 deadlock.

Jeff Gow, Tim Gauthier and Bob Crawford had markers for Bud Gill while Pete Barrett netted one and Jeff Belanger two for Bob's who won the first game of the best of three series.

Bombers Blast Stamps, Lions Slip Past Ti-Cats

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

From all appearances, a visitor to the sirless cubical occupied by head coach Eagle Keys would think British Columbia Lions had lost their interlocking Canadian Football League game Tuesday night against Hamilton Tiger Cats.

But the Lions had just edged the Ti-cats 19-17 on a last-play field goal by Ted Gerela, sending 36,488 fans away happy.

But Keys muttered profanities and said he was disappointed.

Meanwhile, in Winnipeg, there was joy in the home team's dressing room following a 41-14 win by the Blue Bombers over the defending Grey Cup champion Calgary Stampeders.

The Blue Bombers took a 24-0 first-quarter lead behind the passing of last year's most valuable player in the CFL, quarterback Don Jonas, and then rode roughshod over the Stamps.

Tiny running back Mack Herron scored three touchdowns, while Jones hit Paul Williams with a 50-yard scoring pass and booted five converts and two field goals. Defensive half back Doug Strong got the other touchdown on a pass interception.

Flanker Gerry Shaw got both the touchdowns for the Stampeders on passes from Jerry Keeling.

The win was sweet revenge for the Bombers, who were dropped 31-7 last week by the Stampeders in the opening game of the season.

In Vancouver, the Lions recovered in the last two minutes to salvage the win. But Keys said he was disappointed in the overall performance of his club.

The Ti-cats grabbed an early 3-0 lead on a field goal by rookie Ian Sunter, but the Lions came back on the first play following the three-pointer at Monroe Exley slashed 75 yards around the left end for a touchdown.

The Lions added their other touchdown in the second quarter when quarterback Don Moorhead fired a strike to Jim Young in the end zone.

Before the end of the first half, B.C. added a safety touch when Hamilton centre Doug Mitchell snapped the ball over Sunter's head on a punt attempt. Sunter conceded the single with a pride of Lions chasing him into the end zone.

In the second half, the Ti-cats came back with two touchdowns, one on a four-yard run by Dave Green-Thompson and other on a one-yard dive by rookie quarterback Chuck Ealey.

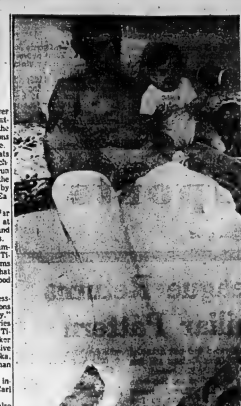
Ealey took over for regular quarterback Wally Gabler at the end of the first half and galvanized the listless Ti-cats.

His scrambling enabled Hamilton to move the ball, and Tiger Cats coach Jerry Williams said following the game that Ealey "is going to be a good one."

Keys agreed with that assessment, and added that the Lions "almost let that one get away."

Both clubs showed injuries following the contest. The Ti-cats had middle linebacker Emory Hicks and offensive linemen Mitchell, Ed Chalupka, Bill Danychuk and Jon Homan all on the limp.

The Lions reported ankle injuries to linebacker Carl Weathers and Mussa.



Tonight, two teams that also are experiencing injury problems, Toronto Argonauts and Saskatchewan Roughriders, meet in an interlocking game in Regina.

The Argonauts are without quarterback Joe Theismann, who broke his leg in last week's loss to Montreal Alouettes, and defensive end Bill Cornish, who may have a chipped bone in his ankle.

Also doubtful is running back Leon McQuay, the Argo's darting runner who has been limping for some weeks.

The Roughriders, who have dropped their first two starts this year, are hurting in the defensive backfield, where Guy Perez, Ted Dushinski and Roy Robinson are injured.

Also injured is tight end Nolan Bailey.

NEW QUARTERBACK?—Joe Theisman, Toronto Argonaut quarterback who broke ankle in opening game of season Thursday, holds son Joe Jr. in hospital bed in Toronto Friday. Theisman is expected to be out of action until at least the end of September. (CP Photo)

Court Returns Flett

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A Boston lawyer warned Tuesday night that the National Hockey League appears to be preparing for a full-scale onslaught to recover players lost to the rival World Hockey Association and the resulting backlash could hurt hockey in general.

Bob Woolf, who includes among his clients three NHL players who jumped to the WHA for next season, said the two leagues "seem to be lining up and preparing for war."

"They appear to be loading up their ammunition and preparing to fire, and that is not good for hockey," said Woolf, commenting on a preliminary injunction issued in Philadelphia last June restraining Bill Flett of the Flyers from joining the WHA's New York Raiders.

It became final Tuesday.

Judge Ned L. Hirsch of Philadelphia's common pleas court ruled that Flett cannot play for any other club than the Flyers. The ruling was academic in that Flett had since returned to Philadelphia club and signed a three-year contract.

Gilbert Stein, a lawyer for the NHL team, said the ruling gave the NHL team grounds to take similar action against five other Philadelphia players who have signed with WHA teams—Dave Schultz, Mike Parizeau, Ed Joyal, Bob Kelly and Brent Hughes.

But WHA president Gary Davidson, in a statement issued from the league headquarters in Santa Anita, Calif., said the ruling had no bearing on the validity of the NHL's reserve clause which binds a player to the team that owns him.

Davidson said that to his knowledge no WHA club or representative was served in the Flett case and the player did not defend the suit.

"Therefore, no defence was presented on behalf of the WHA position that the...NHL reserve clause is invalid." He called the NHL's clause "an invalid and illegal restraint on trade, as well as a violation of the individual rights of hockey players."

Neither Clarence Campbell, NHL president, nor Alan Eagleson, NHL Players' Association executive director could be reached for comment.

But Harold Ballard, president of Toronto Maple Leafs who have lost several players to the WHA, hailed the injunction ruling as "heartening" although it will have no legal status in Canada.

He added, however, that Leafs plan to take legal action—"within 10 days to two weeks"—against four Toronto players who have signed to WHA clubs—defencemen Brad Selwood (subsequently picked up by Montreal Canadiens in the NHL draft) and Rick Ley with New England Whalers, goaltender Bernie Parent with Philadelphia and centre Jim Harrison with Alberta Oilers.

And Boston Bruin lawyers are set to take action Friday against one of Woolf's clients, centre Derek Sanderson who signed a five-year contract estimated to be worth $2.6 million with Philadelphia last week.

New Career For Profit

TORONTO (CP) — Mel Profit, former member of the Toronto Argonauts football club, has accepted a job with CITY-TV as sports director.

The 31-year-old professional athlete said in a recent interview he plans a new type of sports coverage which will not only include professionals.

"Most people think sport is spending $6.50 to see the Leafs (Toronto Maple Leafs) or the Argos," Profit said. "I don't agree. The meaning of the word has been prostituted."

Moses Znaimer, managing director of the New Channel 79 station said Profit will be more than just a "jock announcer."

Profit said sports reporting has "assumed the function of reportage of professional athletes."

"I want to humanize sport more than it is."

Coughlan May Miss Olympic Berth

WINNIPEG (CP) — Angela Coughlan was a depressed and worried 19-year-old Tuesday after she finished eighth and last in the final of the 100-metre freestyle.

Her head bowed, she spoke softly as she wondered what effect a poor showing would have on her chances of making her second Canadian Olympic swimming team.

Mary Beth Rondeau of Vancouver won the event in 1:00.31 while Miss Coughlan finished in 1:03.17. Earlier this year she reached the qualifying standard of 1:01.5 in the metre third best by a Canadian this year.

There were three Canadian records set Tuesday at the National Championship and Olympic Trials. Marion Stuart lowered the 100-metre breaststroke mark to 1:17.6 in the heats; Brian Phillips of Winnipeg won the 100-metre freestyle in 53.51 seconds, and the Canadian Dolphins Swim Club won the men's 800-metre freestyle relay in 8:10.9.

Miss Stuart, of Pointe Claire, Que., also won the 100-metre breaststroke final in 1:18.12; Bill Mahony of Vancouver won the men's 100 - metre breaststroke in 1:08.54; Leslie Cliff of Vancouver was first in the 400-metre individual medley in 5:11.53; David Brumwell of Calgary won the men's 400-metre individual medley in 4:49.85 and the Canadian Dolphins won the 800-metre freestyle relay in 9:14.56.

Miss Coughlan was a bronze medalist in the 1968 Olympics and a gold and silver medal winner in the 100-metre freestyle at the 1970 British Commonwealth games.

But on the eve of the championships from which the Olympic team will be selected, she fell victim to internal gastritis and missed Monday's program completely.

"I still feel weak, but I hope to be stronger by Thursday," she added dejectedly.

The holder of every Canadian freestyle record but one, Miss Coughlan said she will ask to be allowed to swim time trials at the end of the competition.

American League Powers Slowly Losing Grip

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

Managers of the contending teams in the American League East Division are almost as confusing as the race itself.

"This has to be the best for us since 1964," said New York's Ralph Houk after the third-place Yankees beat pace-setting Detroit Tigers 4-3 Tuesday and climbed within three games of the top.

"We'll beat them the next three games and they'll be right back where they belong," snapped Detroit's Billy Martin. "As far as I'm concerned it's between Baltimore, Boston and us—and Baltimore is the one we have to worry about."

RALPH HOUK

"We have the best pitching day in and day out," said Baltimore's Earl Weaver after the Orioles downed Milwaukee Brewers 4-2.

Meanwhile, Oakland Athletics sank slowly in the West, and their lead cheapped to two games over Chicago White Sox following a 4-3 loss to Kansas City Royals.

His club has lost three in a row and six of its last seven starts.

Elsewhere, the White Sox held off California Angels 4-3, Boston Red Sox defeated Cleveland Indians 4-1 and Minnesota Twins nored out Texas Rangers the eighth inning.

Detroit's Mickey Lolich failed for the second time to become baseball's first 19-game winner when the Yankees broke a 2-2 tie with two unearned runs in the eighth inning.

Celerino Sanchez drove in the go-ahead run with a passed ball, loaded sacrifice fly and Watz, who homered in the fourth, scored on Ron Swoboda's pop and run-scoring single.

Boog Powell drove in all Baltimore's runs with a single and a three-run homer off Pat Dobson blanked the Brewers until the eighth when Tommy Harper walked a two-run single, Powell, who has raised his batting average from .199 on June 28 to .233, had a perfect 4-for-4 game.

On his run - scoring bloop single in the first inning, Powell said Jim Colborn "fooled me on the pitch."

"It was a good breaking ball and I just struck my bat out there. A month ago I would have done the same thing and it would have been a little tap to the pitcher."

Oakland manager Dick Williams was in a rear mood after Kansas City's Fred Patek delayed a tie-breaking two-out single in the ninth inning.

"No interviews," he snarled at one writer. "I've got nothing to say. Get out. I saw what you wrote today."

The writer replied: "Do you want to see it again tomorrow?" Williams cooled off long enough to say: "I told the guys the club we come out of it stronger."

The White Sox scored two decisive tallies against California in a wacky seventh inning on double play.

With the bases loaded, Carlos May grounded to second baseman Sandy Alomar, who flipped to Leo Cardenas, The shortstop completed the relay to first baseman Jim Spencer. But umpire Merle Anthony ruled that Cardenas missed second base and Alomar had forfeited scored on the play. Pat Kelly then struck out home to second base when Oliver rolled the ball back to the mound, blanking the side and he retired.

Bob Griffin's tie-breaking single triggered a three-run rally in the eighth inning that carried Boston over Cleveland behind Marty Pattin's five-hit pitching.

Pinch hitter Dan Monzon's bases-loaded two-out single in the 10th lifted the Twins past Texas and to within six games of Oakland in the AL West.

McLain Gives Mathews First Win as Manager

By BRUCE LOWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer

"I had the old at 'em pitch tonight," Denny McLain grinned. And praise of it. Eddie Matthews had his best night as manager of Atlanta Braves.

"That at 'em pitch—it's the best pitch in baseball. All you do is throw it at 'em and let 'em hit it 'cause it's the quickest out."

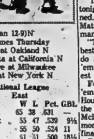
For seven innings, Denny had 'em baffled at the plate, giving Houston one measly hit. Then the Astros caught up with McLain, putting together six more hits for four runs in the final two innings.

But it was much too late. Atlanta had scored five runs in the first inning alone and breezed to an 8-4 triumph that gave Matthews his first victory at the helm—and in his home debut at that.

In other National League games, Cincinnati Reds outlasted Los Angeles Dodgers 2-1 in 19 innings—the longest game in the league this season, Pittsburgh Pirates defeated Philadelphia Phillies 4-2, Chicago Cubs nipped Montreal Expos 6-5, St. Louis Cardinals edged New York Mets 6-5 and San Francisco Giants swept a twin-night doubleheader from San Diego Padres, 15-4 and 7-3.

Tuesday night's triumph for Mathews was quite a switch from Monday night, when the Braves were clobbered 9-1 in Cincinnati only hours after he'd replaced the fired Luman Harris.

"This big difference," Eddie explained, "was that everybody on the team was a little more relaxed and feeling a little better. I know I was."



Los Angeles manager Walter Alston was stoical after his marathon loss to the Reds that

"By simple deduction," he said, "we have to win 10 more than them to tie them and one more than that if we're gonna beat 'em out."

Although the Reds struck out 22 times to tie the league record for an extra-inning game, they got the hits when they needed them in the 19th inning—Denis Menke's double and Joe Hague's pinch-single for the winning run.

Willie Stargell crashed his 27th homer of the season and fifth in four games, a three-run shot that raised his league-leading runs-batted-in to 91 in 89.

Two-run homers by Jim Hickman and Billy Williams led the Cubs' attack against Montreal. Ferguson Jenkins also kicked in with a solo shot as he recorded his 15th victory of the year.

DENNIS McLAIN

dumped the Dodgers, third in the West, a full 19 games back of Cincinnati.

Trevino Skips Westchester

HARRISON, N.Y. (AP) — Lee Trevino went fishing last June and the rest of pro golf's big guns are wheeling into position to challenge defending champion Arnold Palmer in the $250,000 Westchester Classic.

Recently-crowned PGA king Gary Player of South Africa, Jack Nicklaus, Sam Snead and almost a half-dozen $100,000 winners are lit the field of 150 who will test the tight and tidy Westchester Country Club course beginning Thursday.

The quarter-million-dollar purse with $50,000 to the winner—second only in value to the Jackie Gleason—has drawn most of the game's great players to the 6,700-yard, par-72 layout & the Trevino, the British Open champ, decided to pass it up because he wouldn't use his regular tour caddy.

He even declined the services of possibly the highest-priced bag-toter in history.

"After all, I caddied for Francis Ouimet and Walter Hagen, so I do have a little experience," Corcoran said. "I'm no longer in check."

With Trevino—second only to Nicklaus on the money-winning list-out, Nicklaus, Player a nd Palmer had the limelight to themselves, with Nicklaus and Player sharing the favorite's role.

Nicklaus, the dominant figure in the game this year, is the season's leading money winner and is approaching $200,000 for the year. He won the Masters and U.S. Opens, two other titles and lost by a stroke to Trevino in the British.

Player, who has picked up almost $120,000 in an abbreviated American schedule this season, has re-established himself among the game's ultra-elite with his triumph at Oakland Hills Sunday, his first major championship since the 1968 British.

Palmer hasn't won since taking this title a year ago, failed to generate a charge last week and admitted he is weary and frustrated as he heads into his fifth consecutive tournament.

The 60-year-old Snead, winner of more than 80 official events in a 33-year career, put together one of the most amazing performances of the week in the PGA. He finished tied for fourth and had a 69, one of the two sub-par rounds of the day, in the final round.

Sport Briefs

ORILLIA (CP) — Leon Delaire of Buttonville took top money Tuesday in the Vic Tanny golf tournament featuring toward the Hart Tropny for Ontario's top professional of the season. Decaire scorched the back nine with 33 for a record-per 71, while Moe Norman of Gilford and Gary Stiver of Burlington were almost set for a sudden-death playoff with 72s. Garny Moue of Kitchener finished in an eight-way tie for fourth with 73.

MONTREAL (CP) — The Quebec Junior A Hockey League will begin its 1972-73 season Oct. 1, the league announced Tuesday. Nine teams—from Montreal—will participate Sorel Black Hawks, Beauce Remparts, Cornwall Royals, Laval Nationals, Drummondville Rangers, Trois-Riveres Ducs, Shawinigan Bruins, Sherbrooke Beavers and a team in the league this season. On opening night Cornwall, defending league and Memorial Cup champions, visits Drummondville, Montreal travels to Shawinigan, Sherbrooke will play at Quebec and Trois-Rivieres will meet Sorel.

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Barring an upset, the big share of the purse from the 1908 Kentucky Derby will go to Forward Pass, which finished second. An order signed by Judge Henry Meigs redistributes distribution of the money and omits the winner, Dancer's Image. Meigs acted in response to a mandate handed down by Kentucky's Court of Appeals which rejected an appeal by Peter Fuller, Boston owner of the Dancer, which was trained by Lou Cavalaris of Toronto

ATLANTA (AP) — Atlanta's new National Hockey League team, the Flames, has signed six players and named one of them captain, general manager Cliff Fletcher said Tuesday. He appointed veteran left-winger Keith McCreary as captain. McCreary, 32, was obtained from Pittsburgh Penguins during the expansion draft. Also signed to multi-year contracts were forwards Billy MacMillan and Ernie Hicke, and three players obtained in the amateur draft—Jean Lemieux, Don Marticcai and Johnny Martin.

Yardmen Ladies Hold On

The Belleville and District Ladies Softball League pennant landed on CNIBF, had a moment of weakness last night but only, after a show of strength had insured them of another victory.

The league leaders gave up seven runs to the Belleville Broadloom girls in the sixth inning but by that time they were ahead 17-5. The final was 17-12 and gave the Yardmen a little more breathing room atop the standings.

Judy McMillan had a homer and single for the winners with Lynda Empey adding a triple and two singles. Donna Lucas a triple and single and Sheilla Smith four singles. Sue Morton fanned 13 in hurling the victory.

Norma Fuller pounded a homer, double and single in a losing effort for the Broadloom.

Tykes Practice Self-Help

Alhambra 109's pitching staff used a self-help program to lead their tyke team to an 8-5 Belleville Minor Baseball win over Mulroneys Sunoco Tuesday.

Larry Hanlon and Mark Pearson were the Alhambra hurlers. They combined to allow seven hits and three walks while fanning 11. At the plate they were even more effective with Pearson belting a triple and two doubles and Hanlon punching three singles.

Shawn Mulroney and Mark Davey gave up eight hits for the losers while Davey, Darrell Brennan and Lyle Kellener each had doubles.

The Kinsmen tykes blasted Sidney Inn 15-6 in the only other game played. Jeff Hayward and Brad Miller combined to whiff eight batters and walk seven for the winners, while loser Kevin Jeffs recorded seven of each.

Brad Beghy had a double and single for Kinsmen followed by Bill McLinton with three singles. For Sidney Inn it was Shane Butcher with four singles and Jeffs with three.

Billiards Best Linos

The National Billiards mosquitoes were in the mood for pizza in a Belleville Minor Soccer cup game much to the chagrin of Lino's Pizza mosquitoes.

The Billiard - boys blanked Lino's 5-0 last night with a big second half four goal explosion. Elvis Leonardzuzi, George Miletta, Ward Morse, Allen Woodley and Mike Brown each scored for the winners. Mark Crawford earned the shutout.

Midgets Lose

The Belleville Yardmen mid gets find themselves up against the wall in their EOBA midget baseball playdowns with Kingston after dropping the opening game last night 3-2.

Dave Leggart fired a four-hitter for Belleville and struck out eight but still was tagged with the loss. Dale Tummon had two singles for the local nine while Reg Abrams, Randy Pascoe, Rob Robbin and Mc-Taggart adding one-baggers.

Rob Franklin struck out 11 and gave up six hits in taking the win for the Limestone City crew.

Second game in the best of three series will be Sunday afternoon at Park Dale commencing at 4 p.m.

Claytons Turned Out

Lucas Spur gave a purview of what is to come in the final game of the Belleville Girls' Minor softball junior playoffs last night when they doubled the score on Clayton's TV 12-6.

Cathie Gunsolus, Kelly Petkovsky and Patrick Pulik homered for Lucas while Marcia DiCesare and Avid Wood had circuit blasts for Clayton's.

The same two teams meet in the final game of the round-robin series for the championship Thursday night at Parkdale School.

Campers Scarce At Queen's Park

TORONTO (CP) — Union dreams of a tent city on Queen's Park front lawn to protest firings at Toronto's western Hospital fizzled in the damp night air Tuesday.

Despite union predictions of 1,700 protesters, only about 80 people were on the legislature grounds during the late night hours.

The non-medical workers, members of the Canadian Union of General Employees, are protesting against the July 27 firing of 343 of the 725 people in the bargaining unit.

The union went on strike July 12 over wages and other benefits. The strike was later declared unlawful.

Union President Patrick Murphy said the members were prepared to "sit it out until hell freezes over or we go back to work."

He said the all-day protest had elicited no response from the provincial government.

About 16 tents have been erected on the Queen's Park grounds. Provincial police have reinforced their regular detachment at the legislature building but no incidents were reported between protesters and police.

Mr. Murphy said the protesters will stay even if ordered to leave.

Mr. Murphy's methods of handling the dispute with the hospital were criticized by other union heads Tuesday.

Both David Archer, president of the Ontario Federation of Labor, and Thomas Edwards of the Canadian Union of Public Employees said they wanted to help the striking employees but would prefer not to involve Mr. Murphy in the process.

Mr. Edwards said Mr. Murphy's tactics left much to be desired.

"Some locals feel Mr. Murphy is as much to blame for the hospital situation as the hospital itself," he said.

British Soldier Slain By 'Children of Hate'

BELFAST (AP) — Northern Ireland's children of hate killed a British soldier Monday night. They stoned his scout car in Armagh, smashed him on the head with a brick, and cheered as he died when the car crashed.

They bombarded an ambulance that came to rescue another injured crew member in the car. Two policemen went down bleeding under that hail of stones.

The army officer leading the troops who confronted the teen-age rioters was hard put to restrain his men from wading into them.

"I was sickened by the children's actions," he said. "It all seemed like a game to them."

"The incident must surely have horrified all but the most insensitive in this country," William Whitelaw British's administrator in Northern Ireland said in a statement.

"Nothing can more clearly illustrate the enormous responsibility which parents have at the present time to ensure that their children must be restrained and made aware of the frightful consequences of their actions in a situation of gravtion seriousness."

For Northern Ireland's children, the playground has become the battlefield. Often side youngsters of the Protestant and Roman Catholic ghettoes are the front - line troops.

They are sent out to stone and taunt troops and lure them into the sniper's sights. They are experts 'now. When the soldiers sweep in to disperse them, they vanish down side streets at a pre-arranged signal, leaving the troops in the open for the hidden gunmen to pick off.

The children, ranging in age from five to six to teenagers, regularly face the crippling rubber bullets the soldiers fire from riot guns.

Ford Signs Contract For 'Hot-air' Engines

DETROIT (AP) — Ford Motor Co. announced Tuesday it has signed an agreement with N. V. Philips, a giant Dutch manufacturer, to develop "hot-air" engines for automotive, industrial and marine use.
